To meet the critical need of merchant crews, the Maritime Service recently reduced its age requirements to admit men between 17 and 50 years of age for merchant marine training. Accepted candidates are granted 2B draft deferments.

Registration at Michigan State college for the winter quarter at the close of the second day of registration totalled 4,188, including 845 civilian men, 2,649 women, 463 army trainees, and 231 short course students. At a corresponding period last year civilian enrollment was 3,190.

SGT. ROBERT C. HEISE ,27, VETERAN OF 30 MONTHS OVERSEAS, DISCHARGED

Staff Sgt. Robert C. Heise, 27, veteran of 30 months overseas duty, with the Red Arrow Division in New Guinea and Merrill's Mauraders in Burma, has been given a medical discharge from the army and has arrived here from Camp Lee, Va., to make an indefinite stay with his father, Paul Heise.

Sgt. Heise's travels which eventually took him around the world started when he left Charlevoix on April 24, 1941. After training at Camp Livingston, La., and Fort Devens, Mass., he left from the west coast on April 24, 1942, with the 126th Infantry Division for Australia. After serving in the Papaun campaign in New Guinea he was returned to a rest camp in Australia. When volunteers were being sought for a special mission which required men of great stamina and good health he was one of the two men chosen from his company. In September, 1943, he went to India with the group that was to become Merrill's Mauraders. When the Mauraders started their 850 mile trek through Burma to Myitkyina Sgt. Heise served as a platoon sergeant. Later when supplies were dropped daily from planes he was a section leader in charge of dropping supplies.

After the city of Myitkyina fell in August, the Marauders returned to India. The march into Burma had taken nearly eight months but the trip via plane to Miami, Fla., took only four days and Sgt. Heise has circled the globe.

After a furlough here in September he reported at Miami Beach, Fla., for reassignment. He was sent to Camp Lee, Va., from where he received his discharge on January 11.

Another story appears in this issue on more of his experiences with the Marauders.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Tighten Home Front Controls As War Enters Critical Stage; 112,728 Japs Killed on Leyte

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Liberated from work in German factory in Alsace, Ukrainian girls lift Lt. J. B. Keeley of Houston, Tex., to shoulders.

PACIFIC:
Score Again

Two months after U. S. troops stormed ashore on Leyte island in the Philippines, that enemy stronghold fell, with the total of 112,728 Japanese killed and only 493 captured, again indicating the fanaticism of the foe's stand.

Striking at the level eastern side of Leyte, General MacArthur's forces soon rolled the Japanese back to the mountainous western portion, then struck at the heart of their defenses there by driving southward down the Ormoc corridor. The enemy's fate was sealed when the U. S. 77th division landed below Ormoc and then thrust up the corridor to meet the advancing doughboys.

Besides suffering huge casualties, the Leyte campaign cost the enemy 2,748 planes, 27 warships and 41 troop transports. U. S. troop casualties were put at 2,623 dead, 8,422 wounded and 172 missing.

HOME FRONT:
Tighten Controls

With the nation now locked in one of the most critical stages of the war, the government moved on a broad front to assure the effective prosecution of the conflict.

1. In a dramatic step, War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes called upon the country's 80 race tracks employing 40,000 people to suspend future meetings, and also directed draft boards to reexamine the physical status of all professional athletes previously classified 4-F.

Although the turfmen's ready compliance with Byrnes' appeal provided an additional labor pool for the nation's hard pressed war industry, it was indicated that the closure of the tracks was prompted just as much by workers' absenteeism to attend the races from nearby points.

Review of the 4-F standing of professional athletes threatened the wartime future of commercial sport, since numerous younger performers already have been lost to the services and a scattering of 4-Fs and vets are helping hold many such enterprises together.

2. In another move to assure full best utilization of manpower and materials, the War Production board was authorized to withdraw any percentage allocations of materials to WPB-approved war industries which violate War Manpower commission orders on their employment or regulations dealing with the hiring of help.

At the same time the WMC itself was given authority to enforce its regulations pointed toward the most effective distribution of labor for war production.

3. With civilian supplies of many items reported at the lowest point since the war began, OPA restored control over major food products to assure equitable distribution.

In meats, rationing was reestablished on grade D beef, better cuts of veal, bacon, pork, shoulders, spareribs, beef and veal liver and items in fat or glass, but each individual's stamp allocation was boosted from 30 to 50 points in January.

Also placed back on rationing were such canned vegetables as peas, corn, green and wax beans, asparagus and spinach.

In lightening up on sugar allotments, individual quotas of five pounds were stretched from 10 weeks to three months, and all canning certificates, except No. 34, were cancelled. Red point value of butter was boosted from 20 to 24 per pound.

RURAL HOUSING

Possibility of the availability of federal funds for construction of rural low-rent housing as a postwar project was seen in the Federal Public Housing authority's action in calling upon Rural Housing authorities to submit applications for allotments.

Under the prewar low-rent program only a limited amount of rural housing was built, only 515 farm houses being constructed, although nearly 9,000 others were under loan contract at that time.

EUROPE:
Yanks Stiffen

In what Allied headquarters said was a brilliant operation, conceived by Adolf Hitler but worked out by Field Marshal Von Rundstedt, the great German winter offensive ground onward, moving slower after the first surprising rush with the steady organization of the U. S. defense.

As the enemy's attack developed, he threw one arm northwestward toward Namur, in what was described as an effort to cut off all Allied forces in Belgium and Holland, and he flung another arm southwestward toward Sedan, historic gateway to France and scene of the great Nazi break-through of 1940.

Although Von Rundstedt employed two whole armies of about 300,000 men, and was said to have another 100,000 men in reserve, German progress appreciably slowed after the first great push carried them around Stavelot and Bastogne. Reacting to the enemy drive, U. S. forces vigorously counter-attacked the tips of the advancing westward spearheads, and smashed into the sides of the big German bulge in Belgium to the north and little Luxembourg to the south.

While the Germans concentrated on the U. S. First army front, they sent patrol after patrol into British lines to the north in Holland, searching for weaknesses that might invite an attempt to roll Montgomery's forces up against the Americans.

As the German offensive progressed, it was favored by continued bad flying weather, with the murky skies preventing full sustained use of the mighty Allied aerial fleets. Taking advantage of every break in the overcast however, hundreds of U. S. and British heavy bombers hit storied German communication lines behind the front while swarms of fighters, seeping through tough opposition, swooped low to plaster the enemy's moving troop and supply columns.

Russ Advance

While the battle raged in the west, Russian forces continued their drive in Hungary, ringing the once picturesque, now smouldering, capital of Budapest, and biting deeply into Czechoslovakia farther to the north. As the Russian drive developed, they stood about 90 miles from Vienna, before which German labor forces reputedly were hastily erecting fortifications.

In Greece, civil warfare between the Leftist ELAS and Rightist and British troops raged as Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden flew to Athens in a dramatic effort to draw the opposing forces together in a compromise government to restore order.

Churchill's personal flight to Athens underlined Great Britain's interest in stabilizing the situation in a country standing on the threshold of the Suez canal and the Mediterranean sea, lifeline of the British empire.

On Nation's Hero Roll

To Captain Arthur H. Lawson of Marion, Md., went the Silver Star for exceptional bravery. In Normandy, France, he was advancing with his company through a very heavy artillery barrage. Though hit by shrapnel and requiring medical aid, he carried on, determined to do his duty. When the unit was forced to withdraw, he and several other casualties were left in enemy territory. In spite of painful wounds, he made his way back to friendly lines after having first aided others to safety.

MEAT PROSPECTS:
Less Pigs

Originally scheduled to tumble to approximately 128 pounds in 1945, civilian meat production may drop even further if farmers persist in their intentions to cut their spring pig production down 7 per cent, instead of raising it 2 per cent as suggested by the War Food administration.

The department of agriculture's revelation of farmers' intentions as of December 1 came as it was reported that the recent huge grain harvests assured the country of bumper feed supplies through 1945. Of all stocks, only barley may run short, what with the 352,000,000 bushel supply 70,000,000 bushels below the last year, but such a deficit will more than be made up by the record 3,128,000,000 bushels of corn.

Since some of the farmers listed short feed supplies in their areas as one of the reasons for their reduction in spring pig production, efficient, distribution of existing supplies may result in alteration of their plans. Other reasons given for cutting output were marketing difficulties and dissatisfaction with prices.

Postwar Army

Declaring that the U. S. probably would be the first object of aggressors in any new war, the army called for one year of training for youths to prepare them properly for the rigors of conflict.

In advocating a force of trained reserves, the army ruled out the alternative of a standing military organization and national guard big enough to meet the initial attack of any enemy as wholly impracticable and too expensive.

Under the army's program, balanced units of air, ground and service forces would be built up, to assure well-rounded offensive or defensive operations following mobilization.

In calling for one year of strict military training, the army took issue with those advocating supplementary instructions for trainees in other fields.

TIRES:
Cut Output

Because of the necessity of diverting manpower and facilities to the manufacture of military tires, the War Production board ordered the output of passenger tires slashed by 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 during the first quarter of 1945, thus blasting many "A" card holders' hopes of receiving new cords through the year.

As a result of WPB's action, "A" card holders were faced with the prospect of riding on their old tires throughout 1945, or having worn cords recapped.

At the same time, "B" and "C" card holders were warned that their share of supplies also would be cut, and they were told to recap, conserve tires and participate in car pools if they expect to keep their vehicles on the road during 1945.

Except for light and heavy-heavy-off highway truck tires, production of commercial truck cords for 1945 will be increased, WPB said.

POSTWAR BUSINESS:
Transport Orders

Anticipated expenditures of the railroads and intercity bus lines to fill demands laid over from wartime should provide the basis for substantial employment in the postwar period, it is believed.

Of the two, the railroads are expected to make the heaviest expenditures, with prospects that they will not only lay out $1,220,000,000 for normal yearly improvements, but an additional $800,000,000 annually until they catch up with wartime arrearages.

In reviewing needs, industry spokesmen said that orders for freight cars should approximate the 1941 total of 118,000, and over 2,000 passenger cars yearly also may be purchased. With thousands of locomotives over 25 years old in use scheduled for the scrap pile, replacement needs will be great. In addition new rail and other track equipment will have to be installed to supplant material subjected to heavy wartime wear.

In using their large wartime earnings to retire debt and build up cash and other reserves, the railroads have improved their investment position in the postwar period.

Although the intercity bus industry's postwar outlays will not match the railroads', of course, they will be heavy since no less than 6,000 busses costing $90,000,000 will be needed to replace old equipment and less appealing victory models and also meet an anticipated business boost.

At the same time, thousands of workers will be needed to rehabilitate equipment worth keeping, industry spokesmen said.

HOME CANNING

In nearly 25 million households during the past year, home canners were busy, and their efforts resulted in an estimated 3 billion, 400 million quarts of canned food. Estimates from a small survey recently completed by the USDA show the total supply of food canned at home seems to be about equally divided between fruits and vegetables. Similar figures for previous years are not available, but a private poll indicates a 15 per cent decrease from last year.

Milk Standard Can Be Raised by Flavor

Odor, Flavor and Grade Controllable by Farmer

Farmers are improving milk at a rapid rate. Grade A milk meets the standards of the certified milk of 30 years ago. In another 30 years the improvement will be even greater. Further advance will be aided or hindered by flavor of milk.

The producer can exclude abnormal flavors and odors from the milk. While it is generally known that wild garlic flavors the milk to such an extent that it will be objectionable, and usually rejected by receiving stations, there are other factors that should be watched.

A rye posture is capable of imparting to milk very undesirable flavors. Silage and flavor-producing substances should be fed after milking, or not less than five hours before milking. Alfalfa, ladino clover, silage and certain weeds will give flavor to the milk. Common concentrate feeds may be fed before milking. Milk from cows late in lactation or those having mastitis should not be mixed with the regular milk.

Barny milk is one of the most uncommon of all these defects. It is also the easiest to do away. Proper sanitation, good ventilation and clean utensils will eliminate this trouble. If silage can be fed away from the milking barn it will aid in eliminating barny milk. Grains and dry hay in addition to the concentrated foods are safe to be fed in the barn.

Agriculture In the News

Sheep's New Jobs.

Like many other farm animals, sheep are beginning to come into their own. The U. S. army has found that the sheepskin is the warmest of all furs and an up-to-date tannery has been erected in Australia to make leather of sheep pelts, a product formerly wasted.

The intestines of sheep are used to make surgical sutures. An expensive - looking fur is now being made from wool. The synthetic furs are said to be more durable than the genuine article. The chamois skin is made from the skin of sheep. A new wax is a wool product, as is also a vitamin D product.

Wool

New processes have been discovered to make wool shrink-proof, non-irritating wrinkle-proof and sterilized.

Strange as it may seem, wool is not the natural covering for sheep. In the dark ages the wool was a kind of under-fur or down, but was developed by selected breeding.

Storing Potatoes

Cut, skinned or bruised potatoes should be culled out of those intended for winter storage to protect the remainder for long range holding. Vegetable specialists report potatoes dug during hot, sunny weather are likely to rot in storage unless picked up within a half hour.

Skinned or slightly cut potatoes can be "cured" if, immediately after digging, they are placed for 10 days in a very moist atmosphere as close to 60 degrees F. as possible. It has been found. A corky new skin will form that is a good substitute for the original, not only keeping out rots but also preventing undue shriveling during storage. After the curing period, the same temperature should be maintained but only a moderately moist almosphere is needed.

Cottonseed Handling

Cotton farmers and ginners can increase returns from both fiber and seed by preventing field and storage damage of the seed. The cotton should be harvested as soon as possible after the bolls open, should be dry when harvested and should not contain more than 12 per cent moisture when stored or ginned. Weathered and unweathered pickings should not be mixed. Wall-dried seed should be stored in tight bins or metal containers.

Monkey Business

By HELEN THOMPSON
McClure Syndicate—WNU Features

WHAT d'you suppose those guys are up to now?" groaned Hill Simpson, Williams' Wonder Circus's advance agent, as he watched the gang from Dr. Lyle's Miraculous Medicine Show pulling up to our lot.

The first man off Lyle's lead wagon was none other than Dr. Lyle himself. "Well, well, well," he bellowed, striding across the lot fanning himself with his broadbrimmed Stetson. "If it isn't Williams' Wonder Circus, famous in show history as the outfit that manages to get along season after season without any customers!" .

"Sorry I'll have to run out on you, Doc," growled the boss, "but we're just getting ready to start our afternoon parade."

"I know," Doc announced. "And I'm going to follow with my new band. They've got a lot in common with your fellows so I want them to see your people work." Then he looked over at his wagons. "Send the new squad out here!" he bawled.

Eight little monkeys in red suits with gold braid, almost exactly like the uniforms of our band, came scampering across the lot. Each one was carrying a miniature cornet or trombone. And when they started to play, the racket was ear-splitting.

Well, we never had a worse parade in all our history. Doc and his monkeys tore ahead and waited for us on every corner. They sure wrecked our music. And, worst of all, the crowd didn't look twice at our procession. They were only interested in Doc and the monkeys.

"How did Doc ever train those apes, Jim?" Bill was watching Doc's band go through its paces.

"It's easy," said Jim. "Each one of those mouthpieces is pushed out a little bit. Inside there's a thin reed that'll sound on the slightest suction.

"How did Doc ever train those apes."

And right behind that there's a place where you put a piece of hard candy. So, when the monkey sucks the candy he sucks the reed too, and you get this racket."

Just then Doc came alongside the calliope. "Nice of you guys to work for my show, especially when you're not getting paid for it," he gibed.

"Do you think we'd work for an outfit that stooped to put on fake acts like that monkey band?" Bill drawled. "They don't make any noise with those horns. They've got whistles in their mouths or something."

"I'll stake my reputation as a showman on the fact that those brasses are genuine miniature instruments!" Doc raged.

"Can I come over to your lot and examine them?" Bill asked.

"Absolutely!" Doc bellowed.

"What's the matter with you?" Jim said after Doc had gone. "Didn't you hear me tell you those horns are the real thing?"

Bill looked at his watch and straightened his tie. "I got an idea," he said with a wink. "Meet me at Doc's show tonight."

At eight o'clock Doc started his spiel about his Rare Simian Stunted Apes.

Then the curtains parted with a flourish and there stood the eight monkeys, each with his instrument up to his mouth and his tail curled around his feet. The audience applauded wildly. At a signal from Doc, the animals let go. But instead of the usual gala blast there was a series of little squeaks.

The monkeys were amazed. First they shook their instruments and tried to take them apart. Then they looked at one another. Finally, they all threw the horns on the floor and sat down with their heads in their hands. And no amount of cajoling by Doc could make them try again.

In a minute those cries which are a showman's nightmare began coming from the bleachers. "Fake!" "Gimme my money back!"

"What'd you do?" Jim demanded as soon as they were out of the tent.

Bill offered Jim the contents of a small paper bag.

"No, thanks," Jim said. "And stop holding out on me. Give me the low-down."

"So you don't like these things either," Bill said. "Well, I do, because from now on I can say that I made a monkey out of Doc by replacing eight little pieces of striped peppermint candy with eight little slices of very sour pickle."

Money spent here—stays here.

Blake Howard, The Second

By CLARA BRAUTOVICK
McClure Syndicate—WNU Features

KAY hurried along through the misty shipyard, trying to catch up with the launching party ahead that was being guided to the Liberty ship S. S. Blake Howard. She was late because she'd been caught in the melee of tin-helmeted men and kerchiefed women coming off the graveyard shift. Approval lighted the tired eyes of the younger men as they passed her.

Carlene, Blake's sister, must have suggested her name, for the invitation from the shipyard read "Guest of the sponsor." Carlene never resented her as the older Howards had.

It might embarrass the family to have her here. It wouldn't hurt her—for suffering had drained her dry of emotion. She had lived in a vacuum ever since word had come that Blake had lost his life in covering the Pacific war as a foreign correspondent. She didn't even care now who won. There could never be any sort of victory for her.

Ahead, a long sleek car halted. Mr. and Mrs. Howard and Carlene stepped out and led the way. Kay stayed in the rear. As she rounded a corner she saw the shining new stern of a Liberty ship, and on its side the name Blake Howard. She lost some of her numbness and was afraid she would cry. "Not now!" she told herself severely.

Winding steps mounted to a platform built to the keel. The faces of the workmen were expectant and proud. From beneath the great hull came the sound of blocks being removed. The Howards ascended to a smaller, higher platform. The women carried large sprays of red roses. Blake had always brought just such roses to Kay.

Cameras clicked. Of course newspapermen would be at the launching of a ship honoring a reporter who'd been killed covering the biggest story of all!

A shipyard representative showed Carlene how to hold and swing the red, white and blue encased bottle of champagne. Then, trotting to the microphone, he boasted that this ship had been built in twenty-six days and that well over three hundred and fifty had gone down the ways since the war began.

Then a noted editor spoke of Blake Howard, the man. It was hard to hear everything above the roar. But Kay did get the references to "the curly-headed kid with the shining eyes." He told of the great stories Blake had written. But nothing of the woman he'd loved — the most important part of a man's life!

The first speaker explained that the steel plates were all that now held back the ship. He said he'd count as torches burned through them. "Burn number one!" he cried dramatically.

Till now Kay had kept out of sight of the Howards. Interested, she stepped forward. Her name was called and she glanced up. Mrs. Howard, holding out a thin hand, said, "Come quickly!"

Someone prodded Kay from behind. She found herself mounting the steps as the second order came. "Number two!"

Carlene, poising the bottle, yelled, "Take this, Kay. You're the one who should launch this ship!"

"No!"

Mrs. Howard grabbed her hand and pulled her to Carlene's side. "Both of you hold on!" she ordered. Kay's old awe of Mrs. Howard made her obey.

"Number three!"

The ship began to tremble and lurch forward. As it started to slide away Kay swung the bottle. It crashed against the hull and the champagne foamed in a weird design. The second Blake Howard slipped away from her to go on active service. Only this time Kay was glad. Looking at the bottle that she still clutched tensely, she was suddenly aware that it had broken in a perfect deep "V."

Kay thought, I've launched a ship — Blake's ship! For Carlene had taken her fingers off. Suddenly Kay felt alive. Her eyes met the friendly ones of the Howards. "They don't resent me any longer!" she told herself, and watched the ship float away.

Someone said, "Now she goes to the fitting-out dock and in two weeks she'll be ready for service."

Ready for service! Blake had been ready. Was Kay?

Men and women had fallen into their places and were already working. They were building another Liberty ship, started even before the S. S. Blake Howard hit water!

The necessity for speed, the thought that every second counted because the enemy also had that second in which to work, struck Kay all at once.

As the shipyard representative thanked her and presented her with a gift, Mrs. Howard asked Kay to go home with her.

"Thanks, but—"

"We objected to Blake's marriage but now we want to thank you for having made Blake happy."

Kay kissed the leathery cheek. "I'll come soon, but not now. I've something to do." She motioned toward the overalled women, riveting. "I'm ashamed of all the days I've wasted. I'm going to the employment office to ask the name of a school where I can learn to do my part."

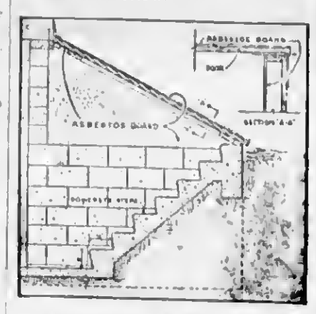
Fixing Up the Farm
by BURTON WILLIAMS

Ratproof Cellarway

ONE of the first steps in keeping the home free of rodents, whether in the city or on the farm, is to keep them out of the cellar.

Rats and mice often enter through cellarways with wooden steps, sills and earth floors. The sills soon rot or the rats burrow under them. A remedy is to construct the cellarway and floors of concrete, and to protect the doors and sidewalls with asbestos cement board, as in the illustration below.

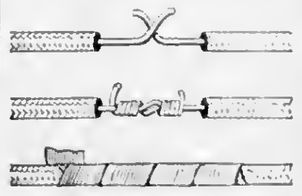


Rat breeding places usually are found in such spots as beneath wooden floors in barns, corn cribs, granaries and poultry houses, and inside double walls of buildings. Wherever possible, floors and walls should be of ratproof materials.

The Farm Electrician

JACK-OF-ALL-TRADES and master of many aptly describes most successful farmers. However, the wise farmer won't tackle a job without learning a few things about it beforehand. This should be particularly true of electrical repairs.

Poor electrical connections may arc and cause a fire. To avoid this danger, when making a splice remove the insulation about three inches from the end of each wire and scrape the wire bright with a knife or sandpaper. Bend the ends at right angles to the wires, hook them together and twist each tightly around the other with pliers.

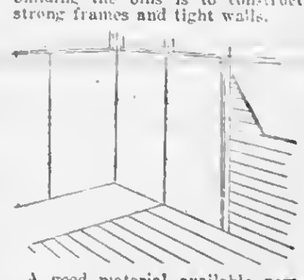


To prevent corrosion and get a firm contact, the joint should be soldered. It should then be wrapped with rubber tape applied while the joint is still hot from soldering so that the rubber will be vulcanized. Finally, cover the rubber with friction tape, compressing it firmly.

Storage Bins for Crops

IF YOU were caught during the harvest season this year without adequate storage for grain and other crops, you should look ahead to next season and take steps to see that it doesn't happen again. You may still be in bad shape for help in the coming year, so you'd better start early.

It's an inexpensive and relatively easy job to convert empty horse-stalls, old oat bins or other unused space into storage space for soybeans, grain and such crops. The important thing to remember when building the bins is to construct strong frames and tight walls.



A good material available now for making bin walls is asbestos cement board. It provides a smooth, tight surface that will keep out rats and will not rot. Made in large, semi-flexible sheets, it is easy to work with and easily cleaned.

Enlarging Buildings

CAUGHT between demands for increased production and war-time building difficulties, many farmers are wondering how they can enlarge their service buildings to take care of bigger herds and flocks and larger crops.

Building additions to existing structures is not difficult and can be done with the materials now available. For added structural members, used lumber will do if new lumber is not available. For the exterior, asbestos cement aidings can be obtained in most localities. They can be applied easily and quickly, and will provide a fireproof, weather-proof surface that will last for years.

Also available for roofing needs are asbestos cement shingles. Made of two minerals, they are extremely durable and excellent for farm construction and repair work. Asbestos aidings and asbestos shingles require no painting for preservation.

Grower-Distributor Teamwork Urged as Key to Farm Future

NEW YORK—With food production fairly well stabilized at the 1944 level, food producers and distributors will be giving increased attention in 1945 to the task of retaining currently expanded markets for farm produce in the postwar period, John A. Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, declared here today.

John A. Hartford

"Civilian food consumption in 1944 was approximately 7 per cent per capita above the 1935-39 average," Mr. Hartford said. "If agriculture is to be maintained on a sound basis in the post-war years, producers and distributors must devise means of retaining these expanded markets."

Short-lived "prosperity" after the last war, according to Mr. Hartford, turned into a collapse of farm prices so disastrous that one out of every 13 farms in America was sold at [illegible] forced sale from 1920 to 1926 alone.

"Will prices collapse again?" Mr. Hartford asked. "Or will we be wiser—will all the agencies of food production and distribution plan and work together now for a sound post-war future?

Mr. Hartford said that [illegible] tion after the war of the expanded agricultural market will depend jointly upon [illegible] buying power coupled with [illegible] well we can satisfy our [illegible] today with the foods they are buying now. Every progressive agriculturist and distributor knows this means that:

"1. Standards of quality, grading and packing must be raised, insofar as wartime standards will allow.

"2. There must be steady, uniform production of the varieties in greatest demand.

"3. Consumer demand must be stimulated through informative advertising, display and other sales promotion activities at the retail store.

"4 Waste and spoilage must be reduced through faster, more direct deliveries, better refrigeration and less handling.

"5. Production and distribution methods must be made more efficient and costs reduced, so that more consumers can afford to buy the better quality products offered, thus expanding the growers' and shippers' markets and giving them greater aggregate returns.

"Obviously," Mr. Hartford said, "no one knows all of the answers to agriculture's post-war problems. But this is crystal clear: Close cooperation between producers and distributors can make a tremendous contribution to a better future for agriculture. The pattern of this future has already been set by [illegible] efficient growers and distributors and [illegible] agricultural leaders [illegible] principle of teamwork [illegible] weekly applied [illegible] producers and [illegible] will be better able [illegible] our [illegible] job of [illegible]," Mr. Hartford

AMERICAN RED CROSS TO OFFER HOME NURSING COURSE IN THE FUTURE

The Charlevoix County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be offering the new accelerated Home Nursing course. There will be 12 hours of instruction with two hours in each session.

This does not replace or displace the standard course but has been developed to meet the need of those who have limited time to attend the classes. The course includes basic fundamental procedures taken from the standard course that are thought to be most frequently used or needed for those who care for the sick at home.

With our hospital facilities overburdened and the critical shortage of nurses, this course should prove helpful to those who find it necessary to care for the sick at home.

Lois Barnard, RN, of East Jordan plans to attend the instructors institute at Traverse City from January 24 through January 28 as a delegate from Charlevoix county chapter. The classes will start as soon as possible after her return.

Our plans cannot be completed until we have an estimate as to how many will be interested. For more details please contact Frances Martin, phone 367.

TUESDAY STUDY CLUB HAS SOCIAL EVENING

On Tuesday evening, January 9 Mrs. Wilbur A. Cline was hostess to the Tuesday Study Club. Her Dixon Avenue home was a perfect setting for the appropriate program of the evening. The Christmas season, with its commemoration of the Birth of Christ, had come and gone. The echo of a Happy New Year wish, had faded and been stilled ,but we were still within the octave of The Epiphany, or Twelfth Night, as it is sametimes called.

Mrs. Linda Campbell and Helen Rose Cline, in charge of the program, worked out a most interesting and instructive evening. The paper prepared by both, and read by Helen Rose Cline, told the meaning of the word Epiphany, as well as the many customs and superstitions which have grown up around it.

Following this very interesting paper, all were invited to participate in some games, correlated very closely with the material in the paper of the evening. Winners of these tests were Mrs. Jennette Abfalter, Mrs. Florine Stelter and Mrs. Mary Cooper.

All were then invited to the dining room. The table was resplendent with Christmas greens, lighted tapers, sparkling crystal and most delicious food, which had been planned and prepared by Mesdames Calla Cline, Emma Smith and Mary Cooper. The finding of the "Queen Doll" in her piece of cake, made Mrs. Linda Campbell, "Queen of the Feast" She chose for her escort, her helper of the evening, Helen Rose Cline.

All then returned to the living room where in the glowing embers of the fireplace was completed one of the ceremonies of Twelfth Night, the burning of the Christmas tree, the misletoe and the holly.

EIGHT BATTLE-WORN GI'S HOLD REUNION AT ARMY SERVICE FORCE CENTER

Camp Lee, Va. — Eight battle-worn GIs had a reunion this week at the Army Service Forces Training Center here, after spending 11 months together in the China-Burma-India theatre of war. Each veteran had served with General Merrill's famous Marauders and had spent three months "doing nothing" but jungle fighting in the Jap-infested jungles of Burma.

The group included Staff Sgt. Robert Heise, of Cherleveix.

Before volunteering for Merrill's Marauders, these men were serving in the South Pacific at Guadacanal, New Guinea and the New Hebredes. They volunteered to serve in the CBI theatre because they wanted to see plenty of action — and plenty of action they got.

They met to form the 5307th Composite Unit. They were assigned to C Battalion — composed entirely of vetorans from the South Pacific. A and B Battaliens were made up of men from Panama Canal Zone, Trinidad, and the United States.

The Marauders went to India, where they took an intensive three-months training in jungle warfare, learning how to become skilled machine gunners and automatic-rifle men. They were taught how to climb mountains, how to ford streams and rivers, and most impertent of all, how to get behind Japanese lines to cut communications and supply lines. The Marauders went on long "forced" marches to get into condition for what lay ahead. Each man carried with him an automatic pistol, a carbine, a knife and various implements necessary for jungle warfare.

After completing their training in India, the Marauders were ready to start out on their long journey to Burma. They set out on the Lido Road, traveling most of the way by foot over the 112-mile route. It was at Walawbum, that they saw their first action in Burma. There they attacked a force of 600 Japs. A desperate struggle took place between the American and Nip forces, but the latter was finally annihilated.

This battle was only one of the many encounters in which the American unit was engaged. Most of the fighting was done by small patrols which went out to "hunt" the Japs. The Americans were constantly harassed by enemy snipers, who shot at them from the trees. One day a group of ten Marauders discovered a lone sniper in a tree across a jungle stream. Five of the Americans kept shooting at the trunk of the tree to prevent the Nip from descending, while the other five men shot at him. Finally one of the Marauders killed him.

Before joining the Marauders, Sgt. Heise served with the 32nd Infantry Division in New Guinea. In Burma, he was section leader, in charge of supplies that were dropped by parachute.

Boardman Robinson, often called the "dean of American painters," joined the art department staff of Michigan State college an January 2 as visiting artist.

Ted Jancha, cox., arrived Friday from Norfolk, Va., to spend a leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Jancha. He has been on active duty in the Pacific for the past eighteen months. He will report at Norfolk for re-assignment on February 13.

Pfc. Frank Novotny, Jr., of Oakland, Calif., is spending a 15-day furlough with his wife, the former Mary Loise Gallagher, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Novotny, Sr.

Robert Summerville, who is stationed at the Jackson Park Coast Guard Station, Chicago, is spending a leave in Charlevoix, with his wife and family.

Sixth Army Group, France — Radio, telephone and cable are three of the most important factors in a war of movement and distance and to the officers and men of the 321th Signal Battalion falls the task of providing these means of communication for headquarters of the Sixth army Group in France.

Hundreds of miles of telephone wire and several huge switchboards are necessary to connect the headquarters with its far-flung units of the American 7th and French 1st Armies on a front of several hundred miles along the German border and the Rhine.

Among the soldiers in this battalion who are contributing so greatly to the approaching victory is Cpl. Keith V. Miles, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Miles, of Charlevoix.

Clarence C. McCalmon, WT2c, who was recently transferred from Washington, D. C., to Oakland, Calif., writes the following letter:

Here I am in sunny California. Who ever said that was crazy for I haven't seen the sun shine but three days since I came here and that was early in the month. When I had over in Los Angeles. It's shining today however and it's warm outside. I'd give most anything tho' to see some snow.

I have been trying to locate Lyle Hefandole and some of the other fellows who are stationed out here but haven't succeeded as yet. I am working three nights a week at a Salvation Army Canteen in San Francisco as assistant recreational director. I held the same job in Washington for nine and a half months and really enjoy the work.

My best wishes to the CSO, the Kiwanis and all my friends back home.

From Chas S. Webster, QM1c, in the Pacific comes the following: Finally stopped in one place long enough for all the Couriers of the past three months to catch up with me. One really appreciates them out here.

I am on an LSM. When they first came out I didn't have too much faith in them. But after hitting numerous beaches and some pretty fair storms I've changed my mind. For an amphib, they're OK.

Would like to take this opportunity to say hello to my cronies in the service, especially Joe Bellinger and Dick Fochtman

Ensign James Gallagher arrived last week to visit his wife and daughter and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter O. Gallagher. He returned to the east coast recently after a trip to Russia. He will return to duty on February 13 and will attend school at New York before resuming his duties aboard ship.

FARMER'S WEEK AT MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE

Attractive program arranged for each day, starting January 30th, to February 1st inclusive.

The Farmer's Week Program is so complete with useful and up-to-date information that many Charlevoix County farmers would find it most profitable to attend. Already several have indicated a desire to enjoy this three-day event but do not want to make the trip alone. Advise this office if you are interested in making this trip and perhaps a full load can be made up.

The entire week has been dedicated to a presentation of the latest information as to all types of farm enterprises. Headlining the program will be addresses by Louis Bromfield, famous author and lecturer on Tuesday afternoon, by Noble Clark, Director of the Experiment Station at the University of Wisconsin on Wednesday afternoon and by Governor Harry Kelly and Albert Goss, Master of the National Grange on Thursday afternoon.

During the three days all of the various State Breeding Associations will hold their annual meetings and discuss their plans for future activity. Also another outstanding talk will be given by Captain Peter Freuchen, who will tell of the activity of the Danish Underground and his experiences in a Nazi Prison Camp. In addition Joe Fisher of Singapore will speak on "Pacific Affairs." Space does not permit a full program but the above is only a sample of what you may enjoy by attending Farmer's Week. Let us know if you are able to take advantage of this wonderful opportunity.

Very truly yours,
R. C. Mellencamp.

MARION CENTER COMMUNITY GROUP SHOWS INCREASE

Interest in our Marion Center Community group is on the increase. Both recent meetings, one at Mr. Meggison's in December and the other at the home of W. K. Straw this past Wednesday evening were very well attended and participation in the discussion was general. Adopted resolutions of the State Farm Bureau were studied in the first meeting and Safeguards for Agriculture in the post war period, was the subject that held our interest this week.

RED CROSS HELPS PRISONERS OF WAR

Many of the Charlevoix county men now reported missing in action may eventually be listed as prisoners of war. Families of these service men may derive some comfort from the knowledge that the American Red Cross has set up an efficient system of supplying food, clothing and other necessities to prisoners in enemy lands.

Food for war prisoners is provided by the army and navy, while Red Cross handles preparation and distribution of the packages. From three packing centers, in St. Louis, Philadelphia and New York, the weekly parcels travel a long and hazardous route to prison camps where they assure a reasonably adequate diet for Americans, supplementing prison rations.

Supplies are carried from America to Lisbon and Marseilles on boats operated by a neutral Swiss company. An International Red Cross Committee delegate receives the packages and supervises their shipment to Geneva, to be distributed to prison camps. Consigned to the "camp leader," a prisoner selected by his fellows, the supplies are never in enemy hands and loss of parcels has been less than two per cent.

The standard eleven-pound weekly food package contains tinned biscuits, cheese, chocolate bars, cigarettes, concentrated coffee, corned beef, dried fruit, liver paste, whole powdered milk, oleomargarine, luncheon meat, salmon, soap, sugar and orange concentrate. Other special parcels are the invalid food package, sent to camps and camp hospitals for hospitalized and convalescent prisoners, a medicine kit, and capture package containing personal effects and clothing for newly captured prisoners who usually have nothing except the clothes they are wearing.

Because the Japanese government would not assure proper delivery of supplies to American prisoners, no regular schedule of distribution has been possible for prisoners in the Far East. Despite this, two shipments have gone to the Orient, and letters from prisoners in Japanese camps indicate that some of them were received.

Sgt. Harry Oldham Writes From France

Sgt. Harry Oldham, stationed somewhere in France with the army, has sent the following extract of a radio broadcast to the U. S. by short wave from Verdun, France on November 29 by H. V. Kaltenborn famed radio announcer.

"Today I went back into Germany. A little more than five years ago, two days before this war began, Adolph Hitler sent me out of Germany because I had told the truth about him. Today I went back in with the Tenth Armored Division of General Patton's Third Army, and Hitler didn't stop me. I get the feel of his artillery fire, but I also get a good idea of the fighting qualities of the men who are defending Hitler's armies.

By spending yesterday as the guest of the Ninth Air Force and today as the guest of the Tenth Armored Division in the front lines, I get an excellent idea of that teamwork between our aviation and ground forces which is such an important factor in helping us in an unbroken succession of victories at the lowest possible cost in men. There is little good flying weather in this front. One day a week is about the average. But the Ninth Air Force has learned how to make that one day count. This afternoon, the boys of the Tenth Armored Division who are holding the front lines in Germany told me how happy they feel when they see the P47's overhead preparing the way for the next advance. "They come close to hitting us sometimes", they say,

Playground News of Field and Stream

After 150,000 miles of patrolling waters of the Great Lakes, Patrol No. 1, the conservation department fishing patrol boat, is in a local shipyard at Holland for a major overhaul.

Since the ship was constructed at Bay City in 1929, it has averaged 20,000 miles a year on all of the Great Lakes except Lake Ontario, carrying on its work of enforcing Michigan's commercial fishing laws.

Captain Charles Allers has been in command of the vessel since it was launched. It has braved some of the worst storms on the lakes without serious damage. Several times it has answered distress calls and has frequently been on mercy errands for ships in distress.

The patrol boat will be ready for use with the opening of navigation next spring. It is normally laid up at Charlevoix for the winter months.

Sensitive over the implied taint of corruption arising from the Lansing one-man grand jury investigation, the state legislature received another shock Friday (Jan. 12) when newspaper headlines blazoned the slaying of State Senator Warren G. Hooper, Albion Republican.

Hooper had previously implicated William Burns, executive secretary of the Michigan State Medical society, with having offered him a trip to California if he (Hooper) would drop opposition to a medical society bill. Hooper was executive secretary of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, Inc.

POINTS TO WATCH IN BLANKET BUYING

Durability of the nap is an important quality that every good blanket should possess, says Hazel B. Strahan, of the textiles and clothing department of Michigan State college. To determine this quality when purchasing blankets, Miss Strahan suggests that the housewife examine them to see if the weave is firm enough and the fiber long enough to be securely locked in the weave structure.

A double weave, she says, has two sets of filling and permits more napping without the danger of "over-napping." A blanket that has been over-napped provides warmth at a sacrifice of strength.

It is desirable to choose a blanket 10 inches longer and 18 inches wider than the mattress. Wartime restrictions now limit blanket length to 84 inches, but this is usually adequate. Rayon bindings ordinarily hold color better in cleaning than do sateen.

Moth-proofed blankets should be checked to determine whether the proofing is effective after repated launderings, or only after dry cleaning.

COAST GUARD RESCUE DEER WHILE MAKING ICE SURVEYS

The 134-foot CHAPPARAL, commanded by Lieut. W. E. Atwood, USCGR, of 10017 Lake avenue, Lakewod, Ohio, was underway to Whitefish Bay, Mich., to make ice surveys when two deer —a doe and a fawn—crossed its bow. The deer were having difficulty traveling from the Canadian to American shore because of soft, mushy ice.

Deer swim easily through the coldest of water but hesitate to swim through floating ice because of the danger of cutting their throats or severing the tendons of their legs. The doe and the fawn consequently would stay on the ice pan and undoubtedly would freeze to death overnight. The men of the CHAPPARAL were determined either to force them to swim or pick them up.

Lieutenant Atwood maneuvered his vessel so that she headed between the deer and the United States shore. The deer at first moved toward the ship but as the men came out to get a closer look at them, they grew panicky and made a break for Canada and home. The fawn plunged right in the path of the CHAPPARAL.

Engines were backed full. The bow lookout saw first, an ear; then, a head; and finally, a very winded fawn. The animal had been under the ship for fully three minutes. The CHAPPARAL maneuvered carefully into position, a lassoo was tossed neatly over the fawn's head and in a moment she was aboard.

While the fawn was still winded, her feet were tied. It was feared that the animal would be panic-stricken and injure herself after regaining strength. Five minutes later, still terribly afraid, she was licking salt from the deck. Her mother had managed to reach the Canadian shore.

The CHAPPARAL radioed for a Michigan Conservation Department Officer to meet the vessel at Sault Ste. Marie. The fawn, still bound, was placed on the Conservation Officer's truck and taken to his home. She spent the night in his cellar. Next day she was set free in a deer-yard 50 miles from the Soo.

The immigrant had become an American citizen.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. MELLENCAMP

BROOD SOWS NEED BALANCED RATIONS

Since the number of strong pigs farrowed and raised this spring will determine the future pork supply, it's essential that brood sows be fed proper rations, says County Agricultural Agent, B. C. Mellencamp.

Gain in weight should be gradual during gestation, and to be in smooth, moderate flesh at farrowing, older sows should be fed grain equivalent to from 1 to 1¼ per cent of their weight daily, and gilts 1½ to 2 per cent.

W. N. McMillen, swine specialist of Michigan State college, recommends ¼ to ½ pound of tankage, or 3 to 5 quarts of skim milk, in addition to the grain needed for protein. At least 10 per cent of green, leafy alfalfa is essential and up to 25 per cent alfalfa can be used to replace most of the protein supplement. A simple mineral mixture should be self fed, or 1½ per cent mineral mixed in the feed. A good mineral mixture consists of equal parts of ground limestone, steamed bonemeal, and iodized salt. If iodized salt is not included in the mixture, one-tenth per cent potassium iodide should be mixed with the mineral.

Sows that don't get sufficient protein, will produce weak litters and may eat their pigs. Lack of vitamins in the alfalfa or clover hay or meal, or lack of mineral may also cause weak litters.

TO DISCUSS NEW CROP PRACTICES

Previews of some of the recent developments in improved practices and varieties for efficient crop production in Michigan will be offered at the farm crops section of the annual Farmers' Week at Michigan State college, January 30 and 31, and February 1.

Sugar beet growers will hear various phases of their biggest problem, shortage of labor, discussed when they meet the first day, Tuesday, January 30. Subjects include reports on trials with mechanical sugar beet combines and use of segmented sugar-beet seed — both having labor-saving aspects — soil management, soil conserving rotations, and a report from Washington on the outlook for sugar beet labor in 1945.

During joint programs with the soil science department, crops raisers will hear about improved oat varieties in Michigan, fertilizers for legumes and small grains, the Illinois system of soil conservation, soil building rotations for potatoes, ring rot of potatoes and problems associated with it, potato dehydration tests, and a report of the program of the Michigan Potato Development association.

The annual meeting of the Michigan Crop Improvement association will be Wednesday afternoon, and the annual association banquet will be Wednesday evening.

Bounties are an old story in Michigan; the ninth law enacted by the first Michigan legislature of 1837 was a wolf bounty law.

Because deer are fond of carrots, an Arenac county grower has suffered an estimated $1,000 loss.

Emory Hutchinson, living northeast of Standish, stored 50 tons of carrots in pits in his field, covering them with a six-inch layer of straw and a foot-thick layer of soil, while he waited for an upturn in the market price.

Selling the carrots for $40 a ton Hutchinson went to remove them from the pits and found that deer had scraped away the earth and straw covering, had eaten a substantial portion of the carrots, and had caused additional damage through freezing of the unprotected vegetables.

About half of his seven-acre yield was destroyed.

Percentage of spike horn bucks killed in the upper peninsula during the November open season may have been the highest on record.

Conservation department district headquarters at Ewen, Crystal Falls and Escanaba checked antlers of bucks shipped through Wisconsin under permit, 14.7 per cent of bucks taken on the west side of the upper peninsula having been spike horns.

Highest percentage of spike horns reported previously was 14.1 in 1931, determined by a check made at St. Ignace of deer crossing the Straits. No check has been made since 1934, until last season.

Despite modern equipment and improved techniques, man cannot compete with nature in scattering seed for new forests.

If the legislature approves the proposal, Michigan bow and arrow hunters who fail to get a deer future archery seasons will be privileged to hunt bucks during the regular gun season that follows. Purchase of a second license would be required.

MILITARY ORDERS calling for pulpwood products are now higher than ever before. This means pulpwood production must be further increased.

If you have never cut pulpwood, now is the time to start. Pulpwood will be in big demand long after the war is over. Write or phone us for full information on specifications and species wanted.

A TELEPHONE CENTRAL OFFICE IS A "HAND-MADE" JOB

★INVEST IN VICTORY—BUY MORE WAR BONDS

EXPANSION of telephone central offices has been halted for over two years because of the war, and many thousands of persons are waiting for telephone service.

When it comes to expanding a central office, mass production methods are "out." Cables, wires and intricate equipment must be connected individually without interrupting present telephone service. Millions of connections must be soldered by hand.

That is one reason why it may be two years after war's end before we will be able to supply telephone service immediately to every one who wants it. To meet demands for service, Michigan Bell is engineering a five-year program of expansion and improvement costing upwards of $120,000,000. That program will start just as soon as war releases manpower, materials and manufacturing facilities.

GROCERY PRICE SURVEY JANUARY 29 THROUGH FEBRUARY 9

The Charlevoix War Price and Rationing Board has added to its Price Panel, seven price panel assistants, Angie Supernaw, chairman, Beth Geneit, Billy Smith, Wilma Smith, Jean Graves Geneit, Marvel Racignol and Virginia Gebeau. These price panel assistants will make a survey of all grocery stores each month thus helping to keep prices at the ceiling.

They will receive their instructions from Edith Olach, Price Clerk of the Local Board on Friday and will be ready to begin their work on Monday morning.

As these assistants have volunteered their services and are lifting a heavy burden from the Price Clerk who in the past has made all these surveys herself, it will be greatly appreciated if the stores will extend the same courtesy to these Price Assistants as they have to the Price Clerk in the past.

NEWSREELS SHOW HISTORIC ICE-BREAKING

Newsreels showing the dramatic work of four Coast Guard cutters in breaking ice to clear channels for three new cargo ships going from Duluth to Chicago will be released in theatres thruout the nation starting January 24.

In this historic action which broke a 10-year record for ships passing through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie late in the season, the Coast Guard cutters worked in assembly-line fashion. At every point where ice would have blocked the progress of the transports bound for salt water, channels were broken through as much as 20 inches of solid ice and windrows which reached 10 feet.

The operation, photographed from the new 10,000 horsepower ice-breaker Mackinaw, was the maiden test for that ship. The motion pictures show how she led the convoy easily through the St. Mary's River into Upper Lake Huron and down through the Straits of Mackinac into Lake Michigan, cutting a 70-foot swath for the procession of ships which followed.

SUMMER RESIDENT TELLS OF ACTION AT SEA, NEAR PHILIPPINES

The following article includes excerpts from a clipping which appeared recently in the Jackson, Michigan, Citizen Patriot:

"It sounds like a lot of heroics now; but at the time it seemed like the only thing to do." That's the way Lt. George E. Bisbee, torpedo bomber pilot, explains the tragic and terrible things that happened before and after his ship the escort carrier, Gambier Bay, was lost off the Philippines in late October.

Lt. Bisbee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bisbee, of Jackson, has been a summer resident at the Belvedere for many years. His wife and two children also reside in Jackson. He is spending a survivor's leave with his family in Jackson.

The "heroics" of which he speaks are the experiences of the actual sinking of his ship and the frightening tedium of 41 hours in the ocean with the Jap bombs falling around him and rescue seeming remote.

"Even on the second day after our ship was sunk, the morale of our group was high. There were 90 of us in one group together in the water. Most of us had only life jackets. A few had rafts. The men on the rafts would alternate with some of those in the water. Our particular group had gotten together soon after the ship sank. We sort of concentrated around a life net — a kind of net with floats to hold it up like a gill net. We put all the wounded men in the net.

"There was no mass praying by all of the group together; but I am sure that every man prayed a lot. We talked it over after we were safely back in San Francisco and we all agreed that God was very near to us there in that lonely Pacific ocean; and He has been closer to us ever since.

"For food we had a cask of malted milk tablets and some condensed food that had floated past. It was distributed in equal shares. There was no scrambling for extra shares, no selfish effort to get advantage. Even after we had been in the water 30 hours and longer the men stuck together and helped each other. We had salvaged a keg of water from the ship and used that for the wounded men. Most of us escaped sunburn despite the terrific tropical sun, for we had salvaged a can of oil and smeared it over us for protection.

"Most of the fliers from the Gambier Bay escaped with their planes when the Jap fleet suddenly opened fire from a mile away. My plane was scheduled to be the last to leave the ship. The plane ahead of me couldn't get off so they flew it without its pilot into the water. Then the elevator went out of commission. Our other planes, except two, landed on Leyte."

The Gambier Bay went down about 80 miles off Samar Island in the same battle in which the carrier Princeton and the escort carrier Saint Lo and three destroyers were lost.

"The destroyers did a magnificent job and deserve a lot of credit for the fact that the Jap fleet, with its five battleships, turned back without reaching the transports in the Leyte gulf. Even our planes which had taken off without bombs made runs on the ships to divert their attention.

When the order came to abandon ship I swam as fast as I could for it looked like the ship would go down instantly and pull us under. When I was about 100 yards away my plane's load of bombs blew up on the hangar deck. The elevator, which had been put out of service making it impossible to bring my plane up, shot into the air.

"Until the ship actually went down the Japs kept firing at it and shells were hitting the water all around us.

"The nights were pretty scary and I will admit I was worried when I was still in the water after they had picked up the rest of our group. I called out but they could not seem to locate me. Finally their searchlight hit me right in the face. I called that I was directly in the beam of the light and they at last found me.

"After being picked up by the LCI after 41 hours in the water, we were taken to Leyte and in no time at all were on a hospital ship enroute to New Guinea. After five days in the hospital there we were sent to Australia and then to San Francisco."

Lt. Bisbee also took part when the landings were made on Saipan, Tinian, Guam and Palau and in the capture of Atoll northeast of Yap. He helped bomb and immobilze Yap, which has been a Jap stronghold since 1919.

SGT. HARRY OLDHAM WRITES FROM FRANCE

"but we sure like to see them."

The Tenth Armored Division of the Third Army was committed to action in France just two months after leaving an Atlantic port. That was only a few weeks ago. Yet today it is a veteran battle division which has won nearly a thousand Purple Hearts in action. It has won every important objective assigned to it and it has fought against some of the best German Divisions at the front. It was the first division of the Third Army to enter Germany. The capture, a few days ago, of the village of Berthingen was described for me by the men who planned the action. It was a small action, intended to give Co. B of the  Armored Infantry its first taste of offensive action under conditions that would make success almost certain. It was a small but highly coordinated operation. There was minute planning for the use of artillery and mortars and smoke to blind the enemy. We had superior observation, our men were carefully trained, they had excellent leaders. What was the result of the action? The capture of one town, the elimination of a dangerous enemy observation post, the taking of 38 prisoners, the infliction of unknown losses on the enemy in killed and wounded, and the whole operation accomplished at the cost of one man killed and two wounded, and Co. B had earned its spurs."

KIWANIS PRESIDENT TO SPEAK AT 30TH ANNIVERSAR Y

voix; and Harry Neteher, Wyandotte.

Frank O. Stniger, of Port Huron, will be reinstalled as secretary treasurer.

Dean, former newspaper editor, who now owns a widely known advertising agency, will discuss the role of Kiwanis in the war and post-war periods as keynoted by the service organization's administrative theme for 1945, Win the War — Build for Peace. A consistent advocate of the rights of free enterprise, Dean in a recent nationwide radio interview with U. S. Senator Homer Furgeson of Michigan, called for an orderly but certain demobilization of economic controls when the war has been won.

Michigan Kiwanians were notified recently that Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada bought and sold war bonds valued at $1,000,000,000 during 1944. Other achievements included the donation of 55,000 pints of blood, the purchase of millions of cigarettes for servicemen overseas, collection of more than 600,000 tons of scrap, and keeping in touch with 2,000,000 servicemen and women, either by letter or by sending hometown newspapers to them.

Nazis Fall Back in Belgium As Yanks Stem Offensive Threat; Living Costs Show Small Gain

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark, commander of all Allied forces in Italy, points out former German positions on Gothic line to delegation of visiting congressmen.

EUROPE:
Bulge Shrinks

With 26 of the U. S.' 44 divisions reported in action against the German bulge in Belgium, Nazi Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's great winter blow appeared blunted, with field dispatches indicating that he was pulling his lines back.

But four miles from the Meuse river and 23 miles from Sedan at the peak of their offensive, the German lines shrank sharply as Lieut. Gen. George Patton's 3rd army swung up from the Saar to attack from the south and Lieut. Gen. Courtney Hodges' 1st army recovered its balance to slash in from the north.

Von Rundstedt's withdrawal movement was favored by the rugged terrain, for, in surprising the 1st army on December 16, he chose the rough and hilly Ardennes countryside.

As Von Rundstedt tried to pull in his forces under the heavy pressure of the 3rd and 1st armies, he sent out swarms of Nazi planes to blast at airdromes behind the lines in an attempt to prevent the superior Allied air arm from raking his moving columns. Even so, zooming U. S. fighter-bombers and bombers ripped up enemy armor and trucks.

With U. S. pressure on the Saar relieved by the switch of Lieut. Gen. Patton's forces, the Germans went on the offensive against Lieut. Gen. Alexander Patch's 7th army on the southwestern end of the front, scoring small gains against stiff Yank resistance.

Ruin of a City

As both sides disregarded a plea from Pope Pius XII to withdraw from the city and spare residents the horror of bombardment, house-to-house fighting reduced the once beautiful Hungarian capital of Budapest to a shambles, with fanatical Axis troops resisting Russ advances.

Budapest's streets reverberated with gunfire, as self-propelled artillery and tanks rumbled down thoroughfares, swung sharply around corners, and opened point-blank fire on opposing units. Sharpshooting from cellars, Axis troops linked themselves up by breaking holes through adjoining walls.

Hitler Talks

Declaring [redacted] in this war the German people cannot be brought to their knees by strength of arms nor will there again be a 9th of November, 1918 [redacted]" a subdued but defiant Adolf Hitler told a suffering Reich on New Year's day that the end of the war will not come before 1946, unless by a Nazi victory.

Said the fuehrer: ". . . Except for the Jews, nobody in the Allied camp knows for what he is fighting. But the aims for which we are fighting are clear to all of us. It is the survival of the German people, it is our fatherland, it is our 2,000 year culture, it is the children and grandchildren of our people [redacted]"

Referring to the attempt on his life last summer, Hitler said: ". . . The 20th of July brought about at the fronts sad military consequences . . Nevertheless the day has become a turning point in Germany's destiny because the attempt to annihilate the German people's social state by a plot hatched at the most bitter struggle has failed [redacted] and I am in a position to assure you that this was the last attempt of its kind . . ."

'Forgotten Front'

With all attention focused on the great battles being fought in western Europe, Italy, it seems, is the "forgotten front" of the present world war.

Despite the overshadowing of the Italian sector, it is still one of the most bitterest of the war, with Allied gains measured in yards and at a heavy cost of men against a fanatical foe cleverly dug into the mountainous terrain, and giving ground only after painful approaches to his position.

FOOD STOCKS:
At Pre-War Levels

Although not as high as in similar periods since 1942, food stocks through the first three months of 1945 should be sufficient to provide civilians with supplies equal to the prewar levels, the U. S. department of agriculture reported.

Potatoes and butter supplies will be below prewar figures, the USDA said, with meat, lard and fresh vegetables about average, while stocks of fluid whole milk, non-fat dairy products, eggs, fish, margarine, cereals, dry peas and citrus fruits should assure high consumption.

Although [redacted] prewar levels, supplies of meat during the first three months of 1945 will be substantially below corresponding wartime periods, USDA said, with low inventories, declining production and military requirements cutting into stocks.

LIVING COSTS:
Small Gain

Effectiveness of the nation's price control in combatting inflation is reflected in the fact that although national income rose to 155 billion dollars in 1944 and there was a sharp reduction in the stocks of consumers goods prices only increased 2 per cent, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins declared.

Frances Perkins

Because of substantial boosts in 1941 and 1942, however, when a rising business activity brought up the general level of depression prices, retail costs have increased 28½ per cent since the outbreak of war, Miss Perkins said.

"Even though the price rise is less than half as great as during the First World war," Miss Perkins stated, "an advance of nearly 30 per cent is dangerous. The rise in cost to families with very low incomes has been greater [redacted] because of the disappearance of low-priced merchandise and because of the rise in food prices. . . ."

PACIFIC:
U. S. Goals

Even as U. S. aerial forces stepped up their attacks on enemy shipping and installations in the Philippine islands preparatory to the pursuit of the American offensive in that last great bastion guarding the Asiatic mainland, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz told a Pearl Harbor press conference that it would be necessary to occupy Japan to win the war.

"I think that the only safe plan is to assume we must invade their homeland and line up our forces accordingly," the admiral said.

With American advances in the Pacific, Admiral Nimitz indicated, Jap war industry was faced with strangulation through increased attack on its supply lines bearing raw materials from southern Asiatic conquests and through bombardment of factory areas.

To step up such bombardments, Admiral Nimitz reported that one of the major U. S. objectives was a landing on the Chinese coast to establish air bases for hitting the enemy's homeland.

MISCELLANY

Again, shipbuilding leads all heavy industry in the earnings of its workers. The prevailing average hourly wage rate in the industry being about $1.33, while weekly earnings in a recent month were $63.68 on an average work week of 47.6 hours. Payrolls for the year in private shipyards will approximate $4,000,000,000 shared by workers in almost every state.

U. S. SPENDING:
At Peak

With the government spending 69 billion dollars on the war alone, total U. S. expenditures reached 97 billion dollars in 1944 to establish an all-time record, preliminary figures showed. This compared with the outlay of less than 10 billion dollars in 1939.

In addition to spending more than at any other time in the nation's history, the government also collected more at 45 billion dollars and borrowed more at 62 billion dollars. For the first time, three war loan drives were held in one year.

Deducting the amount collected from that spent, the government wound up the year with a deficit of 52 billion dollars, to bring the total national debt up to 232 billion dollars. The 1944 figure of 52 billion dollars, however, was about 1½ billion dollars less than the deficit in 1943.

TRAIN WRECK:
48 Killed

Slowed up by a freight train stalled by mechanical trouble, the Southern Pacific railroad's Pacific Limited with 300 persons aboard was creeping through the early morning over the Salt Lake marshes near Ogden, Utah, when a 20-car mail and express train roaring behind crashed into its rear, throwing coaches along the 40-foot causeway like jumbled links in a chain.

Late counts showed 48 persons killed and 81 injured as rescue workers cut through the twisted wreckage to remove the victims, many of whom were service personnel en route to duty after spending holiday furloughs.

Because of the shallow marshlands below the causeway, automobiles could not be driven to the scene, complicating rescue operations, and injured were removed by train for treatment.

NAZI AGENTS:
Seized by FBI

Trained in the use of high explosives, photography and radio operation in Germany and Holland, two Nazi saboteurs were nailed by FBI agents in the New York district before being able to do any damage.

Landed by submarine off the coast of Maine with $60,000 in U. S. currency, forged birth and draft certificates and secret inks, the two saboteurs were making the rounds of New York night spots in an effort to pick up information to radio to Germany at the time they were nabbed.

According to the FBI, one of the saboteurs was a former U. S. navy seaman named William Curtis Colepaugh, alias William C. Caldwell, who was discharged from service early in 1943 because of suspicions he held pro-German sympathies.

Arrest of the two saboteurs brought to ten the number captured by FBI agents after landings from submarines, six having been caught previously after alighting in Florida, with six of them subsequently executed.

MANPOWER BARREL:
To Scrape Bottom

Uncle Sam will have to scrape the bottom of the barrel for manpower to meet production and military requirements in 1945, War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes told a New Year's press conference, declaring that Selective Service "work-or-fight" orders, employment ceilings and restrictions on civilian output may not be sufficient to meet all labor needs.

With the army increasing its call for replacements and thus further draining the manpower pool, Byrnes said the drafting of the nation's 4,000,000 4-F's for industry or non-combat military duty would help maintain war production and release more active servicemen for fighting. Because the largest remaining source of young men is in agriculture, he said, the basis for farm deferments may have to be reviewed.

Terming government seizure inadequate, Byrnes asked for a strengthening of the War Labor board's authority to enforce its decisions on both capital and labor, so as to prevent the loss of production through work disturbances.

Soil Conservation To Maintain Health

Man and Animal Depends Upon Fertility of Soil

Hope for better health for Americans in the postwar period lies in fuller conservation of our soil resources, according to Dr. William A. Albrecht of the University of Missouri.

"It is the fertility of soils that has contributed to our prosperity as we followed through our subscription to the advice of Horace Greely," he said. "It is the fertility equivalent in prairie soils in the different parts of the world as a whole that has determined the places where human population centers of great densities have established themselves.

"Neglect of the soil in terms of fertility content has been at the basis of pessimistic view of future human health. That there is hope ahead, however, is readily recognized when we consider that the soil contributes only 5 per cent of the plant, and only 5 per cent to the human body. When there are only one dozen chemical elements within this small contribution by the soil, it is no great task to replace within the soil this list and this small amount.

"A ton of fresh vegetable growth would call for but 40 pounds of chemical elements to be put into the soil. By placing this list of elements into the soil as fertilizers we can do the equivalent of pushing the soils out of their unfavorable climatic conditions into a situation favorable to the promotion of human health. By putting these essential minerals into Nature's hands, she will fabricate them into organic complexes much more serviceable in the guarantee of human health than if we consume them as drugs and pills.

"Soil conservation has started as a growing national philosophy. It must become an action program for each of us. We are about to enter a new age in which our efforts in soil improvement will not only be a struggle to retain the mass or body of the soil, but also to restore its chemical fertility and active organic matter content."

Farmers Intend to Use 'Jeeps' for Many Purposes

Farmers are planning to use "jeeps" after the war for everything from sawing wood to spraying orchards, according to a nationwide survey conducted by Willys-Overland Motors, the firm which developed the famous blitz-buggy.

Many of the country's rural citizens—particularly those with small farms—want to use a postwar version of the scout car as a four-purpose replacement for the horse, tractor, power unit and light truck, the study showed, while others have earmarked it for such specialty jobs as a snow plow, fire fighter, stump remover and road grader. Among the general utility purposes suggested were plowing, harrowing, seeding, cultivating, harvesting, running silo fillers, buzz saws, threshing machines, hay balers, milking machines and grinders."

Live Stock Disease

Vital statistics on live stock disease would prove of considerable value to farmers. Not only would it enable research men to focus more efficiently on those disease problems which are of major importance but it would make livestock more efficient and profitable.

The first step has been taken. The American Veterinary Medical association has inaugurated a plan for a nationwide vital statistics service for reporting live stock diseases. It has recommended that the service be placed under the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, with the cooperation of state live stock and veterinary associations.

BUSY COTTON BARGE

Cotton, coal, steel and marble have contributed greatly for the past 60 years to the growth and prosperity of Alabama. Busy barges groaned but kept going under heavier cargoes just as they had plied the rivers for decades when life was more colorful and a continual struggle. The real upturn in Alabama's affairs started in 1880 and has continued. It has brought better working and living conditions. The war brought added calls for cotton, added loads for the barges. Men on the fighting fronts need cotton and more War Bonds must be purchased to pay for it. Cotton, barges, War Bonds all needed to win the war.

These two American paratroopers found plenty of horses in the French town where they landed and drove out the Germans. At home on horseback is well as in the skies, they commandeered mounts and started out on patrol to look for German snipers.

Looking Ahead

Costly Dreams

By GEORGE S BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

ABOUT ten years ago a foolish notion grew suddenly, almost mysteriously, popular. The idea was that poor farmers got poor (anyhow didn't get rich) because they never had a chance. Big fat capitalists, it seemed, kept the juice squeezed out of them all the time. So Uncle Sam, with Rexford Guy Tugwell standing on his shoulder and whispering in his ear, dashed to the rescue.

A famous federal project, one of many, to fortify hand-picked relief cases "back on the soil," was the 2271-acre Deshee farm near Vincennes, Ind. It was taken for granted that 42 families could make a living there after the government had paid half a million dollars for the land and one of 20 agricultural lending agencies had helped out with $100,000 more. It was, however, too much to expect. They couldn't make a living.

Save the Farmers!

WITH 50 acres per family, homes clustered in artistic groups like chairs at a lawn fete, the "farmers" were supposed to do specialty production of top-grade produce and truck to yield fancy prices. Unfortunately, somehow, the plan didn't work. Deshee is being sold, as are many of the government's other pipe-dream farms. Among them is the 3453-acre Lake Dick farm near Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

An early discovery at Deshee was that specialty farmers don't often get on government relief rolls. The relief farmers knew little more than the need to plant seed and scratch the ground. By this method of operation Deshee had 20 families too many. Finally the community shrank to eight families. Many of them left because they didn't like the surroundings. People on relief become fastidious.

Misfits Farming

HIGH prices do just about everything of value, an aspect of war-born inflation, is what saves our country from charging off these high-falutin agricultural experiments, almost completely. Losses on Deshee, and others to sell soon, may be small because of well-timed sales, but this fails to prove that the government can farm, least of all with human misfits on the land.

Up to now, the Federal Security Administration has sold quite a few of the government's resettlement projects. The total number disposed of before the end of 1944 cost the taxpayers of America some 71 million dollars. All the government realized from the sales was 27 million dollars. It means that the FSA is, so far, liquidating these costly dreams at less than 40 cents on the dollar.

In farming, government management is showing a loss of 60%. Why expect less loss from government management of manufacturing? If it ran only 50%, it would mean production cut in half, wages lowered accordingly, and prices advanced; perhaps doubled. On a big scale, it would mean living standards for all of us, half as high as we are used to. Let's keep our private enterprise system.

body was left in a burning automobile near Springport, revealed for the first time that Hooper had made a confession and had accepted immunity as a state's witness in a graft conspiracy case involving Frank D. McKay, Grand Rapids; Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor and Rep. William Green, Hillman.

To say the slaying startled the state capital was to understate the fact. Hooper's murder was the most sensational development, up to that time, since the Carr-Sigler inquiry began.

During the early months of the grand jury investigation, indictments fell by chance upon more Democrats than Republicans. They centered, also, on Detroit and Wayne county legislators for the most part. Upstate virtues were unsoiled.

Then came the bribery confession, last December of State Senator Chester M. Howell, Republican from Saginaw, who turned state's witness in a graft conspiracy case involving a bill recognizing naturopathy as a healing art.

Within 12 hours came the news that former State Senator Earl Munshaw, Republican of Grand Rapids, had been the victim of carbon monoxide poisoning in a garage at his country farm.

Next: The indictment of State Senator Carl L. DeLano, Kalamazoo Republican, who has been accused by a former lobbyist for Michigan naturopaths with having accepted, $1,900.

Hooper's slaying, revealing another confession, capped the climax.

That the legislature is certain to continue the one-man grand jury, especially after the murder of a present member, was conceded widely in Lansing last Friday.

An appropriation of $250,000 for the coming biennium 1944-45 is proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Don VanderWerp, Fremont Republican and chairman of the senate finance committee. This measure was reported out by the senate finance committee last week and it was due for consideration this week, following the Republican convention at Grand Rapids.

The slaying of Senator Hooper provided another powerful incentive for immediate legislative approval.

In fairness to the average member of the Michigan state legislature, it seems just to remind newspaper readers at this time that the confessions so far have not disclosed any wholesale or widespread corruption in either the Senate or the House. The Senate has 32 members; the House, approximately 100.

Graft payment is said to have been employed to influence legislators in key legislative positions—usually chairmen of committees or others who convinced lobbyists that they could influence their associates.

Testimony given in one case was that several thousands of dollars were paid to a state senator and that this senator was unable to get the bill out of committee because a majority of the committee members disapproved of it. While the majority of the committee was not corrupted, one member had accepted bribe money, according to the testimony. The crime was not any the less simply because only one of the legislators was involved. Such corruption, if not punished, could threaten the integrity of the entire legislature; like a bad apple, in time it could taint others in the same group.

We do think that the Lansing picture should be viewed in the proper perspective.

Preparation of meat for the table is one of the oldest of the household arts. Methods of meat cookery have been handed down from one generation to another.

Within the past quarter century, however, intensive studies carried on at colleges and the U. S. Department of Agriculture have revealed new information showing how to prepare meat so as to bring out its full goodness and flavor. This information has taken the guesswork out of meat cookery and put it on a scientific basis.

Fundamentally, there are only two principles involved in cooking meat: (1) Dry heat and (2) moist heat. Tender cuts are cooked by dry heat methods—roasting, broiling and pan-broiling. The less-tender cuts are cooked by moist heat methods—braising and simmering (cooking in water). A few cuts also may be cooked by frying.

Meat cookery studies have revealed that no matter what method is used, best results are obtained with a low temperature. Among the advantages of low temperature cookery are a decrease in cooking losses, more servings, and a more tender, juicier and more palatable meat dish.

The cuts of beef, veal, pork and lamb and the variety meats suitable for each method of cooking are listed in the table above.

RATION FREE SHOE SALE COMING UP

Limited quantities of men's and women's shoes may be sold to consumers ration-free at specified price reductions during the two weeks period of February 19 thru March 3, OPA announces. Twofold purpose of the temporary ration holiday, OPA states, is to give consumers the benefit of extra shoe mileage that otherwise might remain unused on dealers' shelves, and to help dealers clear their stocks of the normal accumulation of odds and ends and broken sizes. Before rationing, such shoes were customarily disposed of in seasonal clearance sales. OPA estimates that about 4,500,000 pairs of shoes will be sold in this special ration-free "sale."

WORD RECEIVED FROM SWINTON'S

The first direct word to be received from Prof. and Mrs. Roy S. Swinton and their daughter, Barbara, since they were interned by the Japanaese after the fall of Manila in December, 1941, was received last week by the former's mother, Mrs. George Swinton, and his sister, Mrs. H. A. Craig, in the form of a card containing a 25-word message and signed by Mrs. Swinton. At the same time the Swinton's daughter, Mrs. Vincent Madison, of Birmingham, and Sgt. Stanley Swinton, who is serving in Italy with the army, received similar messages signed by Prof. Swinton and Miss Swinton.

All the messages were dated June 28, 1944, and stated that they were in fair health, had received the letters aent on the exchange ship, the Gripsholm, but had not received the letters and packages aent vis Tokio. Mrs. Swinton ended her message with the words "We need a change of scenery and old friends."

Prof. Swinton of the University of Michigan, had been teaching in the engineering school at the University of Manila since September, 1940, and Mrs. Swinton and their daughter had joined him in April, 1941. Prof. Swinton had planned to finish the school year at the University and return to Ann Arbor. The last letter received from Miss Swintoa, written late in November, 1941, said they had secured passage for April and would be home early in May.

Manila fell soon after the Japs attacked the Philippines and all Americans were interned at the Dominican University of Santo Tomas campus near Manila.

Since then the only word the family had from them were messages sent through friends or acquaintances who were exchanged and the Relief Society for Americans in the Philippines, an organization with headquarters in New York, which has forwarded any information that might come to them from anyone returning from the Philippines in that way Mrs. Swinton, Mrs. Craig and other relatives have had some news of them.

With the American armies so near Manila, the Swintons are anxiously awaiting for news, real news, for which they have waited so long, and which they hope will come in the near future.

Tire Quotas Again Reduced

Charlevoix County Supply Cut to Nearly 30%

Passenger car tire quotas for the month of February have been cut by the Office of Price Administration to 1,600,000, the lowest since last October, and are 200,000 fewer than last month and 400,000 tires below December. Quotas of tires for tractor-implement use, on the other hand, remain unchanged at 50,000. The February reduction, states Brig. Gen. Royal Lord, Deputy Chief of Staff to General Eisenhower, "can be summed up in two words — Military Necessity." He pointed out that tires on war equipment wear out at an "enormous rate" and that the military "simply doesn't have enough tires." And in the words of Max McCullough, Deputy OPA Administrator for rationing, "the reduced passenger car tire quotas again point up the vital importance of prompt recapping and tire repairs."

Charlevoix County quota has been reduced on passenger tires to 77. January quota was 108. Truck tire quota was reduced about 30% according to Fred Bancroft, local chairman.

ANNOUNCEMENT

It is with regret that I announce severance of my affiliation with the Courier, having sold my interest to R. K. Cooper and E. I. Steinhurst of Detroit.

Charlevoix, "The Beautiful" is deserving of a better representative newspaper than I have been able to produce. Not being dependent upon the unstable labor market, those two likeable gentlemen will be able to give us a newspaper of which we can well be proud.

I am certain that hospitable Charlevoixans will not only welcome these capable newspapermen and their families as new citizens in our community but will join me in wishing them every success.

Jorry F. Scudder, Publisher.

Received Wounds in Action Dec. 20 in Germany

Cpl. William E. Chambers, 30, who is serving with an American tank unit attached to the British Second Army in Germany, has been awarded the Purple Heart medal for wounds received in action on December 20. He has notified his sister, Mrs. Emerald LaBlance in a letter received Monday.

In a letter written in December Cpl. Chambers stated that he and his crew had already lost two tanks in action and had been fortunate that no one had been seriously wounded thus far. He was ready to return to duty after recovering from shrapnel wound in the back, he stated in his most recent letter, dated January 17.

Cpl. Chambers entered the service in June, 1941, and after training at Camp Polk, La., Fort Knox, Ky. and Fort Benning, Ga., went overseas in June, 1944. He was in England a month before going to France with an American unit attached to the British Second Army and has participated in many of the major battles encountered by that army.

He has two brothers in the service, Barnaby, AOM1c, stationed at San Diego, Calif., after 18 months overseas duty and Gerald, S2c, with the navy in the Pacific.

High School Grads Enter MSC Feb. 5

Michigan State college will admit on February 5 students who have graduated from high school in mid-year. This policy is being followed because of the drafting of 18-year-old boys, many of whom wish to get as much training as possible before entering the service.

Students who enroll then will be permitted to take nine credits of work between February 5 and March 17, when the regular spring quarter begins. They will meet for double periods for each class. If they continue with a full schedule during the spring and summer terms they should be able to attain sophomore rating by the opening of the fall quarter in September, 1945.

Some girls, as well as boys, are anxious to receive training which will help to equip them for some branch of service, and Michigan State college is experiencing a large demand for its women graduates in all fields.

In high schools where no mid-year graduation is held, students who have earned 15 units can go ahead with their college work, transferring back to the high school six college credits in subjects designated by the principal for each month unit they may lack in order to meet requirements for graduation.

Pvt. Edward Thorp Gets Presidential Unit Citation

A Ninth Air Force Engineer Battalion, France — Pvt. Edward Thorp, of Charlevoix, along with other members of a Ninth Air Force Aviation Engineer Battalion, has been awarded the Presidential Distinguished Unit Citation for constructing an emergency landing strip while under fire on D-Day and an advanced landing ground in the Normandy beachhead.

Landing on the beach at H plus three hours on D-Day, advance elements of the battalion found that the area of the proposed site for the strip was still partially occupied by the enemy. But they preceded on their mission in spite of the obstacles and dangers and worked on the strip while under continuous enemy fire. At one point, the engineering equipment was working within 200 yards of active enemy artillery emplacements.

The strip was completed by sundown on D-Day and on the following day the detachment was pushing forward behind the advancing invading troops and beginning work on a field farther inland. The field was made operational seven days later for use by U. S. Ninth Air Force fighter-bombers who dive-bombed and strafed enemy strongpoint in front of the advancing armies.

Pvt. Thorp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Thorp, live at RFD 1, Box 5, Charlevoix, Michigan.

SCOUT TROOP ORGANIZED; COMMITTEE, LEADERS NAMED

Paul Wall of Eastport Heads Local Group as Scoutmaster

Great Future Ahead for Fine Group of Youngsters from This Area

At a meeting held last Thursday evening in the Charlevoix high school, a local Scout Troop was organized. The week of Thursday, Feb. 8 to Thursday, Feb. 14 marks the 35th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America and the organizing of a local troop comes at a very opportune time, so that it may also celebrate with "Scouts of the World—Brothers Together," which is the national theme this year.

Mike Hamlin and Art Ranger, local assistant scoutmasters, have volunteered their services, and under their direction the troop was organized. Eight boys from Eastport were brought here to be members of the local troop by Scoutmaster Paul Wall.

Those named to assist Scoutmaster Wall include Mike Hamlin and Art Ranger, Ass't. Scoutmasters; Nick Hamilton, Senior Patrol Leader; and Bob Shanahan, Scribe.

Committeemen are Robert Bridge, Dean Davenport, Roy Hamilton, Otto Brueger, Rollie Lewis, Floyd Supp and Mike Hamlin.

Patrol leaders named are Henry Ardema, Tom Hamlin, Dale Matthews, Jerry Hamilton; Assistant Leaders: John Tansey, Bill Barber, Bob Shanahan, George Haggart. Four Patrols were named. They are Wolf, Cobra, Fox and Rattlesnake.

Scouting will make a valuable contribution to preserving the values and advantages of American citizenship here in Charlevoix. The precepts and principles of Scouting as reflected in the Scout Oath and the Scout Law are the basic foundation upon which the Scout program rests. Those responsible for organizing and in whose care the responsibility rests, are to be commended in bringing together such a fine group of boys here.

More than twelve million boys and men have marched under the banner of scouting and have therefore become familiar with the program of the Boy Scouts of America. Their lives have been enriched by this experience. Our boys, too will become better boys, better men and better citizens as a result of the fine efforts of those in charge.

The undertaking is sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club.

Decline in the commercial catch of lake trout and whitefish in Canadian waters of the Great Lakes in recent years may bring protection for these species during their spawning periods. Some commercial fishermen across the border are reported to be backing a demand that tha Canadian government shall declare a closed season on these species in Lake Superior.

Michigan waters of Lake Superior are closed during the spawning period of these species by conservation commission order.

The frequently reported scarcity of cock pheasants in downstate Michigan counties this winter does not alarm conservation department game men.

The male birds keep out of sight, whereas flocks of hens go unconcernedly about their business of finding enough to eat.

Game men say that there is no reason to fear that any hens will lay infertile eggs next spring, declaring that the very fact that pheasants have been increasing in Michigan year after year in spite of the heavy kill each fall indicates that there is no cause for worry.

The government han on conventions has resulted in cancellation of the tenth North American Wildlife Conference, scheduled for February 26-28 in New York City.

Michigan conservation officials usually have important roles at the conferences.

Tha cancellation order also is expected to halt plans for the annual meeting of the National Outdoor Writers Association, usually held at the same time and place.

The ringneck pheasant is a real friend of the hay fever sufferer.

Analyses of pheasants' crops made at the conservation department's Rose Lake wildlife experiment station show that ragweed seeds are an important item in the phensant diet.

One crop contained 5,000 ragweed seeds, another 1,500.

A fierce battle between a mink and a muskrat ended with the drowning of both animals when a trap which pinioned them was submerged.

Fred Hoggard, Flat Rock, found the two animals, caught in the same trap, while tending his trapline. Closely pursued by the mink, the muskrat had stepped into the trap which had caught both. Evidently the battle had been continued until the trap slipped beneath the water, as skins of both animals were badly torn. The animals have been turned over to conservation department officials in Lansing by Ily Dahlka of the Monroe County Rod and Gun Club.

Car Owners Face 'Hardest Period'

Owners of passenger cars, trucks and busses in 1945 will face the hardest period since the war began — with 1,500,000 more passenger cars breaking down during the year; with gasoline and tire supplies remaining critically short; and with the serious shortage of lead necessitating greater public conservation of batteries, OWI states in a report reviewing the supply situation for civilians. Key facts of the passenger care situation: No production of new cars in 1945; a 4,000 car a day disappearance from highways, the dwindling stock of new cars remaining in the ration pool (12,000 on February 1); estimates that it will take from two to three years to fill the pentup postwar demand for 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 new motor cars.

MORE WAR WORKERS OR MORE WAR!

Let's face facts. Not long ago, many people were saying "the war will be over by Christmas." But it isn't over — not by a long shot. It may last many months longer, unless new shortages of military supplies are met now.

Meanwhile, each time the clock ticks, our boys die — in foxholes and twisted wrecks of tanks, in planes plunging earthward like terrible flaming comets, and in choking icy seas . . .

YOU can help cut short the killing, bring victory closer! YOU AND YOUR NEIGHBORS can speed triumph and peace, not just by hours but by months . . . if you will take a war job.

Because our military leaders would rather sacrifice a million rounds of ammunition than a single American life — we have actually used up munitions intended for use in April . . . Shells are now being rationed on some fronts.

THE TYPE OF BOATS WE ARE MAKING ARE DESPERATELY NEEDED. OUR SCHEDULE HAS BEEN ADVANCED AND DELIVERIES MUST BE MADE AS QUICK AS HUMANLY POSSIBLE.

GORGAS HOUSE

Because pioneers in Alabama did not have wives and children with them, education received little attention until statehood was achieved in 1820. Poor and middle-class children attended the public schools while children of planters and other well-to-do families attended private schools up to the War Between the States. The University of Alabama was opened at Tuscaloosa in 1831. Gorgas House, built in 1829 and occupied by the famous Confederate General while he was presidcot of the University, stands as a splendid tribute to edncation's rapid rise In the State. It is worth baying War Bonds to supply U. S. service men who are fighting to protect educational advantages such as Alabama has attained

T-Sgt. Lyle V. Miles With Army Signal Corps In Germany

T-Sgt. Lyle V. Miles, who is in Germany with an Army Signal Corps battalion sends the following letter:

I am now in Germany and what prompted ma to write to you was my thnnkfulness that Charlevoix has never experienced what has happened to the towns and people over here.

The people get out in a hurry when the line gets close and they straggle back later to find a town that is so much fire wood. Very Seldom do they find a place that is really fit to live in.

The Jerries asked for war — wanted war — and are now getting it — in Germany. Perhaps the next time, if there is one, the Jerries will think twice before starting another war. From what I've seen of the country the Germans will have a big rebuilding program when this is over and I just wish it would take them so long that they will forget how to make war.

GIs do not try to make friends over here. We do not speak to the Germans or associate with them. The people keep to themselves, partly because of their dislike for us and partly because they are afraid of us. It is quite a change — this policy — after the friendliness shown everywhere in France and Belgium.

From all appearances the people here must have lived quite well. They seemed to have had plenty of most things. The clothing doesn't look too good but the homes were fairly well furnished. We noticed a shopping memo still hanging on a kitchen door that had a few interesting items on it including butter. You can find canned goods everywhere.

And now — the Germans aren't having it so good!

IN MEMORIAM

Dear gentle hands have stroked my hair and cooled my brow,
Soft hands that pressed me close and seemed to know somehow
Those fleeting moods and erring thoughts that cloud my day,
Which quickly melt between their suffrage and pass away.

No other balm for earthly pain
Is half so sure,
No sweet caress so filled with love
Nor half so pure,
No other soul so close akin that understands,
No touch that brings such perfect peace as mother's hands.

CLARE W. GLEASON WRITES FROM PANAMA

Clare W. Gleason, PhM3c, writes from the Panama: Here in the land of the Panamanian wo are enjoying tropical weather. It is like the month of July at homa. To read of the snow and cold at home seems like a fairy tale when compared withe the sunny clear sky here, but I would welcome some cold weather and it would be good to be home and enter in the winter activities.

Our job at present differs greatly from the one we left, but it's a job that must be done if wa are to enjoy freedom in the future. May your prayers blead with ours that this conflict might soon terminate and that our hearts will hold no malica toward those who are our present enemies, but our future neighbors. May God grant wisdom to tbe powers that control our land that in tha future, we will be ready at a moment's notice to face an enemy, but at the same time always be ready and willing to bo friends.

At present I am working with a fine group of doctors and corpsmen and although many times our duties are not the most desirable, still, when a fellow works with others who nre pleasant the tasks are not so bad. The training wo are receiving is good and will always be useful. If I had the choice to make agin I would still tke tha Navnl Hospital Corps.

National War Fund Over the Top In Michigan

For the second successive year tho National War Fund campaign has gone over the top in Michigan, it was nnnounced today by A. L. Miller of Battle Creek, President of the Michigan United War Fund, Inc., at a meeting of the executive committee of that organization to hear a report on the 1044 campaign. "Michigan has raised to date $5,584,199.00, or 102.2 per cent of quota, to support the work of the USO, War Prisoners Aid, United Seamen's Service and the 19 Allied relief agencies," Mr. Miller ssid. Charlevoix was among the 60 of the 83 counties which met or exceeded their county quota.

"The state actually went past the 100 per cent mark several weeks ago," Miller disclosed, "but announcement was withheld to permit counties which had not completed their canvass to be included on the honor roll. Thanks for the showing of the stata is due to the untiring work of thousands of volunteers who worked in the county organizations."

Four of six states with a quota of five million dollars or more made the quota. They were Michigan, Pennsylvania, Illinois and California.

Michigan Gardener Named Best In U. S.

Coincident with the discovery tbat Michigan had exceeded its 1044 Victory Garden goal by growing more than a million gardens came the announcement that the National Victory Garden Institute, meeting in Chicago, hail selected a Michigan woman as the nation's outstanding gardener. Sha is Mrs. Catherine Benzo, 69, of Norway in the Upper Peninsula, who will receive a $1,000 war bond for winning first place in the Institute's national "Green Thumb" Victory Garden contest.

Mrs. Benzo, also winner of the 1943 State Victory Garden contest, was adjudged winner of the 1944 State "Green Thumb" contest. Her name was then entered in competition for national honors.

Two Michigan students, Euline Stirling, 15, of Sault Ste. Marie, nnd Carl M. Hakes 11, 13, of Hanover, were named runners-up respectively in the high school and grade school divisions of the national contest and are being awarded honorable mention certificates.

Completion of the compilation of a census taken in each county revealed the information thst the Stata had exceeded its Victory Garden goal by planting 866,382 city and 166,500 farm gardens—a total of 1,032,882 producing 22,000,000 bushals of food.

Michigan's record is probably by far the best in tho nation, and every Victory Gardener should take pride in the achievement and resolve now to help repeat it in 1045.

MAURICE J. FOSTER RETURNS FROM PANAMA CANAL ZONE

Maurice J. Foster, Sp (x)1c, who has been stationed in the Panama Canal Zone for the past year has returned to this country and is now stationed at the following address: 2290 National Bank Building, Detroit 26, Mich. He also sends the following letter:

As the above address indicates, I am now in Detroit and, of course, want to lose no time letting you know so the paper will again come to me regularly. Should you happen to have some extra copies of the paper from about Christmas time to date I would appreciate your forwarding them to me, thereby enabling me to "catch up" on local happenings for the past month.

I was fortunate enough to catch Navy Air out of Panama at 7:30 one morning and arrived in Miami just 7 hours later. It was a beautiful trip, but a bit cold up there above the clouds. The following afternoon I was again fortunate enough to get space on a streamliner out of Miami and arrived in Chicago at 11:00 tha following night. In short, I travelled a heck of lot of miles in a very short time and experienced quite a change of temperature. Other than a bad case of tho "shivers" heing a bit tired, it was quite an experience.

It goes without saying that it is damn nice to be back in the States. As any of the many fellows who have been and still are in foreign lands can attest, there is no place like the U. S. Before too long I hope to get a couple of weeks off and come north for a visit. "Thanks" again for sending the paper in the past.

Health Officer Urges Children Be Immunized

Diphtheria Death Rate On Increase In Past Four Years

With the startling news that there has already been four deaths in Michigan this year, as the results of diphtherin, Dr. A. F. Litzenburger, M. D., Director of Health Unit No. 3, representing the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego, is urging all parents to have their children immunized against this dreaded disease.

The present death rate is greater than at any time since 1940. One of these futalities, the Doctor advises, occurred in one of our neighboring counties, and none of the victims ever submitted themselves for immunization before taken ill. This again points to the fact that prevention of fatal diphtheria is possible through toxoid trentment. Doctor Litzenburger emphatically urges all parents to see their physician immedintely and make arrangements for children to be immunized against the disease and in this way keep diphtheria under control.

Hope Lost For Peter Tapovic

Was Machinist Mate First Class Aboard Destroyer Spence

Hope was given up for the safety of Peter Tapovic, 26, machinist's mate first class, U. S. Navy, listed as missing when his ship, the destroyer Spence, was lost in a typhoon in the western Pacific on December 18.

A telegram from the navy department, received Friday by Mrs. Tapovic, stated that a careful review of the facts connected with his disappearance had led to the conclusion that there was no hope for his survival.

Machinist's mate Tapovic, a native of Rogers City, was a commercial fisherman and had made his home in Charlevoix for nine years prior to his enlistment in the Navy in April, 1942. He left Charlevoix in September, 1942, and after training at the USNTC, Great Lakes, Ill., was assigned to sea duty in the Atlantic. In the summer of 1943, his ship was sent to the Pacific.

His wife, the former Rosemnn Partridge, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Partridge. His mother, Mrs. Lena Tapovic and sister, Martha, live in Rogers City and nnother sister, Mrs. Kenneth Myers, resides in Flint.

HERE'S A TIP FOR WINTER GAS USE

With war-time gas, lowered in octane value, farmers may use an old felt hat in the funnel while pouring gas in the truck or tractor tank. Incidentally this might be a good suggestion also to passenger car owners. The felt prevents any water that might be in the gasoline from entering the tank and acts as a strainer for dirt and foreign matter.

Local SPAR Doing Her Duty

Lifejackets and helmets were standard gear for the first group of SPARS to leave this country for duty in Hawaii. Pictured here on shipboard are Billie Smith Gallagher, Yeoman 2c, of Charlevoix, (right) and Elsie M. Lewis, Yeomnn 2c, Duluth, Minn.

Yeomnn Gallagher, who enlisted in the SPARS in New York, on April, 1943, received boot training at Hunter college, New York City, and special training at Stillwater, Okla., before being assigned to a recruiting unit. She had served at recruiting offices in Milwaukee, Wis., and Duluth, Minn., before volunteering for oversens duty. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Smith, reside here.

Less Machinery For Farmers

During the 1945 crop year Amerienn farmers will probably receive considernbly less farm machinery than they did in the previous year, the Office of Wnr Information said in a report on fnrm machinery production and distribution.

While schedules call for approximately the same umount of machinery and attachments, and some $20,000,000 more in repair parts than was produced in the last 12 months, most recent available reports show that production is running some 25 per cent behind schedule, because of severe manpower shortages and difficulty in obtaining maleable and grey iron castings and other critiral component parts.

The supply probably will fall far short of greatly expanded demands, the report added.

Data for the comprehensive report were supplied by the War Food Administration, War Production Board, Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Foreign Economic Administration.

Highlights of the report follow:

1. Approximately 90 per cent of the new farm machines (except tractors) rolling off assembly lines in the United States during the 1945 production year (July 1, 1944, to June 30, 1945) will be available to American farmers.

Approximately 10 per rent will go abroad — approximately 7 per cent in commercial exports, and 3 per cent through Lend-Lease, according to the Foreign Economic Administration.

2. As long as the war continues, farmers will not be able to buy as much new farm machinery as they will need in order to maintain their facilities at greatest efficiency, the War Food Adminlstration reported.

WFA said that in 1945 supplies of new farm machinery, even if manufacturing schedules are met, will not meet essential demands. No more tractors, side delivery rukes, combines or other haying and harvesting machinery will be available during the 1945 crop year than were available during the 1944 crop year.

In 1941, farmers replaced approximately 100,000 tractors. During the war the rate of replacement has been as low as 60,000 a year, the Bureau said.

There were approximately 12 per cent more tractors on Farms on January 1, 1945, than there were on the same date in 1942. Percentage increases in the number of tractor cultivators and tractor row crop planters were greater than for farm tractors. But the production of most machines for preparing and seeding of land increased less rapidly than the output of tractors, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimated.

Production of manure spreaders, either horse or tractor-drawn, has not been sufficient to cover replacements. The number on farms in 1945 will be slightly less than in 1942, the Bureau said.

Warren E. Duplessis, who has spent the past six weeks here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duplessis, following his discharge from the Marine Corps, left Monday for Dearborn. Enroute he will visit relatives in Muskegon, Grand Rapids and Flint.

Farmers to Meet Monday, Feb. 19

Those Desiring Mexican Labor Urged to Attend

A meeting was held Thursday in the Reid-Murdock Canning company at Ellsworth to make preliminary plans for obtaining help for the coming season. The meeting was attended by representatives of all processing plants in the two counties and several growers. A. B. Love, State Supervisor of Emergency Farm Labor attended the meeting and led the discussions.

It was decided, that for the best interests of both processors and growers, a growers' organization be perfected as soon as possible. This organization will be organized on Monday afternoon, February 19 beginning at 1:30, nnd will be held in the Ellsworth Community Building. All farmers desiring Mexican help are urged to nttend.

Since the two counties of Antrim and Charlevoix have the same problems and the five processing plants or companies are localized it was determined that the two counties shall opernte as one. This will save considerable time and avoid confusion und will make a more efficient labor program possible.

Gives Advice on Fuel Savings

Says Local Condition has Been Alleviated by Extra Allotment

A total of $88,449, or enough to purchase 1½ war bonds for every family in the county rould be saved in Charlevoix County this winter through the single expedient of installing storm windows on all residential buildings as a means of conserving fuel.

The figure represents the cost of coal, oil and gas which could be saved in this county as determined by a formuln announced here by Chas. Heise.

"The formula, devised for one fuel-saving measure, the storm window, a homely example familiar to all, shows that, in effect, from Charlevoix county alone 33,750 more gallons of fuel oil and 5,411 extra tons of coal would flow into the war effort — instead of up the chimney — if this one measure were universally adopted, Mr. Heise said.

"Householders could easily make their fuel oil supplies last at least 20 per cent longer or make ten tons of coal do the work of twelve by adopting all of the fuel-saving measures recommended by heating experts and government authorities," Mr. Heise said. "These measures include insulation of walls and ceilings, installation of thermostatic controls to avoid overheating, weather-stripping of doors, reduction of normal temperatures in living quarters and reconditioning of heating plants to assure peak efficiency. Actually, they add considerably to the comfort of the home."

Mr. Heise, who is a member of the Advisory Committee, Area IV of solid fuels of Michigan, says the S.F.A. has issued directives for extra coal for Charlevoix because of the influx of war workers here. No serious emergency is unticipated

County 4-H Clubs Hold Get-Together

The 4-H club program received a boost last week Thursday when Miss Lola Bell Green accompanied by Karl C. Festerling met with several clubs during the day and evening.

In the beginning it had been planned to have a training meeting that afternoon and meet with all 4-H Club leaders in the county, however, due to a conflict the meeting was cancelled and the day spent in making personal visits. The following schools or clubs were visited: Horton Bay, North Bay, Walloon Lake, Bay Shore, Charlevoix and Boyne City. We are pleased with the greater interest shown by club members and the number of projects in handicraft and sewing which have nearly doubled that of last winter.

The greatest need right now is for leaders who will work with the youths and not youths as they are interested but just need the proper leadership to come through with flying colors. It may be announced now that the spring achievement day will be held in Charlevoix on Tuesday, May 8th. Already the young folks are making big plans to show the public what they have accomplished and to enjoy the activity of the day.

Mrs. Allavena Empey, came Sunday afternoon from Toledo, Ohio, to spend several days with her daughter, Mrs. James Marsh.

GET A WAR JOB AND KEEP IT!

"The response last week was wonderful BUT we call upon the people of Charlevoix to go even further than they have in the past week. We are urgently in need of Painters, Carpenters and Mill Machine Operators, BOTH MEN AND WOMEN."

IN ORDER TO COMPLETE OUR SHIFTS.

MORE WAR WORKERS OR MORE WAR!

We Are Depending Upon the People of Charlevoix and Vicinity to Answer This Appeal

Let's face facts. Not long ago, many people were saying "the war will be over by Christmas." But it isn't over — not by a long shot. It may last many months longer, unless new shortages of military supplies are met now.

Meanwhile, each time the clock ticks, our boys die — in foxholes and twisted wrecks of tanks, in planes plunging earthward like terrible flaming comets, and in choking icy seas . . .

YOU can help cut short the killing, bring victory closer! YOU AND YOUR NEIGHBORS can speed triumph and peace, not just by hours but by months . . . if you will take a war job.

Because our military leaders would rather sacrifice a million rounds of ammunition than a single American life — we have actually used up munitions intended for use in April . . . Shells are now being rationed on some fronts.

THE TYPE OF BOATS WE ARE MAKING ARE DESPERATELY NEEDED. OUR SCHEDULE HAS BEEN ADVANCED AND DELIVERIES MUST BE MADE AS QUICK AS HUMANLY POSSIBLE.

We Need YOU--and Now!

IF YOU ARE WORKING IN A WAR PLANT — YOU ARE DOING YOUR SHARE TO HELP THE BOYS MAKE THEIR LANDINGS.

TRAPPING OF BEAVER AGAIN PERMITTED IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

Beaver trapping will be allowed throughout the entire lower peninsula of Michigan during the 1945 open season, March 17 to 31, except in Antrim, Cheboygan and Emmet counties.

Sections of Gladwin, Lake, Missaukee, Montmorency, Oceana, Ogemaw and Roscommon counties also will be closed. Trapping is prohibited in state parks and wildlife sanctuaries.

Detailed regulations, defining boundaries of closed areas, are being distributed by the conservation department's Lansing and district offices.

The season is opened again in downstate counties because beaver are still sufficiently abundant to cause damage to roads, woodlots, and pastures. Beaver habits inevitably cause trouble in predominantly agricultural areas.

The upper peninsula trapping season is April 1 to 15 with the entire peninsula opened to trapping, except for certain designated waters where beaver populations are dangerously low or where it is believed that beaver will benefit trout fishing.

Otter may be trapped during the same seasons. Take limits are eight animals on one license, of which not more than two may be otter.

AAA NEWS

Walter H. Henloy, Chairman
Charlevoix County AAA Committee

The AAA office at Boyne City will make payments on butterfat and milk for the months of January, February and March during the month of April. It is expected that all future payments will be made on a quarterly basis. Payment rates for this period have not as yet been announced.

Our county production goals are being formulated and will be presented to the township committeemen for their consideration at a meeting to be held in March. Immediately afterward, the committeemen will make their farm to farm canvas with the 1945 AAA Farm Plans. Farmers will then be informed of the various crop goals and soil-building practices that qualify for payment.

The Charlevoix County AAA Committee, is making arrangements for lime and marl deliveries to farms. Numerous farms are in need of lime and marl. However, trucking facilities have not been available for the past two years. Every effort is being made so that farmers may receive this material by placing their order with the AAA office. It is estimated that about 3,000 tons of lime and marl are needed annually on Charlevoix county farms.

Farmers are reminded that if they desire to obtain AAA fertilizer for use with spring seedings, they should place their order now at the AAA office. It is expected that shipments of 20 percent superphosphate will arrive soon.

Mrs. Wm. VerMuellen returned last week after a several weeks visit with relatives in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Hoekama and children of Atwood and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hoffman and children of Ellsworth visited last Friday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Potter and family.

Millard Taylor arrived Saturday from Sheppard Field, Texas, to spend his furlough with his wife and daughter here.

Staff Sgt. Pete Sutton who has just returned from 33 months overseas service called on his friend Carlton Smith last week.

Donald Boss of Great Lakes Training Station spent a few days with his parents in Charlevoix.

AT THE MOVIES

The consensus of opinion by preview audiences who've seen Paramount's "Here Come the Waves," arriving Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 17 and 18 at the Palace Theatre, is that Mark Sandrich has scored again! Producer and director of this film, Sandrich won superlative praise for another fine motion picture, "Sir Proudly We Hail."

Starring players of "Here Come the Waves" are Bing Crosby, Betty Hutton and Sonny Tufts — and one particular production number, "Ac-cent-tchu-ate the Positive", featuring the hit song by Johnny Mercer, seems destined to fascinate audiences with its solid rhythm, we are told.

Topping off the broadside of comedy and fun is a gala musical show under Bing's direction. Staged as an attraction to recruit Waves, the show is a howling success. Bing and Sonny do a blackface act, Betty goes into several of her new famous routines and there's a plentiful supply of songs and comedy. Among some of the tunes destined for the big time are "Ac-cent-tchu-ate the Positive", "Let's Take the Long Way Home," "I promise You," the title song, "Here Comes the Waves," and an old favorite, "Black Magic."

HOUSING HELD MAJOR PROSPERITY KEY

The nation's housing goals — a decent home in a good neighborhood for every American family—should be achieved in the post-war era by maximum reliance upon private enterprise and local communities, and a full housing program can make a large contribution to an expanded peacetime economy, are thoughts publicly expressed by John B. Blandford, Jr., Administrator of the National Housing Agency. He said that probably the biggest challenge to a broad housing market after the war is the fact that millions of self-supporting families who want new homes cannot afford them at present or past prices or under existing financial arrangements. He declared that this called for the closest sort of cooperation between labor, private business and government.

To help compensate for production lags in many items of farm machinery, plants that are not running at full capacity and have necessary labor available may apply to the War Production Board for authorization to make more than their approved quotas of farm equipment, WPB announces.

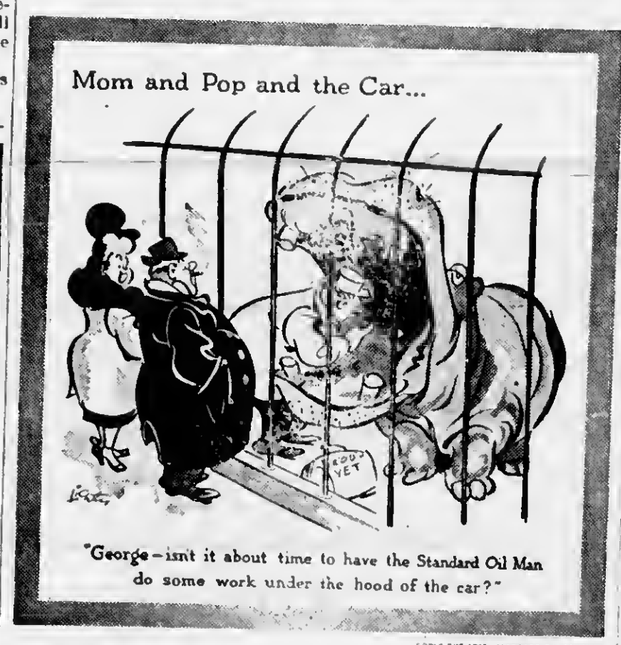
BETTER CAR CARE "PAYING OUT" IN 4TH WAR-WINTER!



COPYRIGHT 1945, STANDARD OIL COMPANY

Sticky sludge is building up in many thousands of cars this winter. It always does in winter—but it's especially bad this year because of rationed, short-trip driving. Sludge tends to clog oil lines and screens and may lead to burned-out bearings and scored cylinders.

Better change oil every 60 days, or at 1000 miles—whichever comes first. Get sludge-resistant, low-in-engine-carbon, easiest-on-the-battery motor oil—Standard's Iso-Vis 10 W. And see your Standard Oil Dealer frequently.

CANNED POULTRY SET ASIDE FOR MILITARY NEEDS

The War Food Administration announces that effective this week (February 14) an order has been issued to set aside 100 percent of the canned poultry (Chickens and turkeys) in a move to supply United States military demands for approximately 70,000,000 pounds of these products in 1945. The poultry meat is needed for hospitals, army field rations and for shipment overseas. Preparation of the total quantity will require the processing of between 200 and 250 million pounds of New York style dressed chicken and turkey and practically the full use of all available poultry eviscerating and canning facilities in the United States.

Reserve Bank Head Flays Payroll Levy

By Jessie George Murray

NEW YORK—Demanding expansion of consumer purchasing power through taxes on incomes, rather than through pay roll or sales taxes, Marriner S. Eccles, head of the Federal Reserve System, startled a conference of employers in this city.

In his address, this banker who kept his own chain of banks solvent at a time when others were cracking up, again showed himself one of America's bankers with vision.

The war, Eccles told the employers, has provided smashing proof that this nation can expand production and living standards to undreamed-of heights. Total output has been boosted to the 200 billion annual level, 75 per cent above figures for 1939. There's no reason why that level cannot be continued after the war.

"Having experienced an output of goods and services of nearly 200 billion dollars during the war, the people of this country will not be satisfied with a peace-time output of 125 to 150 billions," he warned. "Having experienced several years of full employment, they will not tolerate mass unemployment.

"They will not accept the explanation, so often heard in the past, that, "We cannot afford it," or that it is economically unsound for the government to intervene, or that we must wait for 'natural forces' to come to the rescue.

"It is apparent that we must aim high; that we can never go back. If we were to return to 1939 levels of production, from 15 to 20 millions of our postwar labor force would be without jobs, an intolerable situation. Many of those without jobs would be veterans of this war."

To forestall such a tragic situation, consumer purchasing power will have to be raised far above pre-war standards. Eccles declared. This means, he said, higher wages for the nation's workers and vastly increased social security benefits.

Eccles directly tied in the incomes of unemployed workers with those unemployed by virtue of old-age or physical disability. He said this country should guarantee a minimum income below which no worker should fall.

He said that higher social security payments should be financed, not out of increased payroll taxes, but by taxation upon incomes in accord with ability to pay.

Payroll taxes, sales taxes and other such levies reduce buying power and should be eliminated, Eccles argued.

Summing up, he asserted that "this is a 200-billion-dollar-a-year country," with a "demonstrated capacity to provide a standard of living for all the people far higher than anything we have ever known.

"This country can well afford to provide a national minimum of income, education, health and old-age security for all the people. It cannot afford to do less.

"Such a guarantee is not the impractical dream of the social reformer. It is essential for our national economic security and for protection of what we call our free enterprise system."

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mrs. Olive May Atchison.

Dear gentle hands have stroked my hair and cooled my brow,
Soft hands that pressed me close and seemed to know somehow
Those fleeting moods and erring thoughts that cloud my day,
Which quickly melt between their suffrage and pass away.

No other balm for earthly pain
Is half so sure,
No sweet caress so filled with love
Nor half so pure,
No other soul so close akin that understands,
No touch that brings such perfect peace as mother's hands.

Catholic Speaker Says Land Policy Is No. 1

Congratulating Farmers Union people for "attacking essential problems at the root," Monsignor L. G. Ligutti, executive director of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference, declared in a Farmers Union national convention address that "the Number 1 essential in the United States is a national land policy."

"I will say," he added, "that it is just as important as the Constitution of the United States itself."

The Monsignor asserted that "the first fruits of the land belong to the man and his family upon it, and he must have them and our contracts are to be written accordingly."

He recited the present order of claims upon income from the land —taxes, interest, principle, upkeep and then "finally the man, his wife and the children."

"Now, there is something wrong with that and something essentially unChristian about that," the Catholic leader declared.

He told the Farmers Union audience that:

"Human beings, by the fact they are human beings created by God, have certain fundamental rights which are basic, essential, not derived from the State, nor the Church, nor the rich, but from God Himself to man because man is man — a right to have access to natural resources by which he can develop his personality, establish and maintain a family, and be a useful member of society.

"Now, a land policy in the United States must be based upon these fundamental principles of natural law. It must be for the good of the people, human beings, for their social good and economic good, and in a very special way it must be geared to the good of the family because the family is the natural unit of society."

The Monsignor said it has been a pleasure to him to "pull shoulder to shoulder with the Farmers Union in various fights in the legislative halls and before committees and even in building up public opinion in the United States.

"You can be perfectly sure that as long as I am connected with this work, you will find me there; and our organization — yes, and I would pledge even our church and the Protestant churches of America — will be working with us, for we are fighting for a righteous cause that will win."

Lt. Colonel Swinton Heard on Radio From Phillippines

In a radio broadcast from the Phillippines heard early Tuesday morning, Lt. Col. Neil Swinton, of the Army medical corps, told of meeting with his uncle and aunt, Prof. and Mrs. Roy S. Swinton, and their daughter, Barbara, who were liberated from the Santos Tomas University prison camp when the American army entered Manila recently.

Lt. Col. Swinton, who has been serving in the Pacific area for more than two years, entered the city with Gen. Douglas McArthur on Sunday and as a member of the medical corps was one of the first Americans to enter the camp in which 3,700 American civilians have been interned since the fall of Manila more than three years ago.

Although Lt. Col. Swinton could give no details of the meeting, he said that he had found the three in fair health.

The Swinton's daughter, Mrs. Vincent Madison, who resides in Birmingham, and Mr. Swinton's mother, Mrs. George Swinton, and his sister, Mrs. Larry Craig, and other relatives are now awaiting further word from the War Department.

Prof. Swinton, who was a member of the faculty of the engineering department of the University of Michigan until going to the Philippines in September, 1940, to teach at the University of Manila, and his wife and daughter, who had joined him in April, 1941, were planning on returning to this country when the war broke out and they were interned by the Japs. Last week the first direct word came from them via cards mailed in June, 1944.

Their son, Sgt. Stanley Swinton, is in Italy as a member of the staff of the army newspaper, Stars and Stripes.

"Remember When"

Reviewing A Bit of Charlevoix's History Through the Time-Worn Pages of Old Courier Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

February 17, 1915

On the delightful program given by the Charlevoix Historical Society at Dr. Armstrong's last Friday evening, were contributions from several of the young people. Miss Dorothy Armstrong, whose musical responses are always anticipated, opened the entertainment with a beautiful piano solo, "Butterfly" by Edward Greig responding to encore with a second selection.

Robert Bridge, at home from Ann Arbor an a few day's vacation, surprised and delighted the society with his finely rendered selection, "Adornation" by Felix Borowski, encore "Souvenir" Franz Didla. The trio was complete when Miss Nita Mayne responded with a musical monolog, "Not Understood." One of life's sad experiences, most inspiringly given, and very much appreciated. Encore, "A little humorous story."

Last Wednesday, shortly after one o'clock, the farm home of Harlow Sweet, who lives on the Boyne City road, about three mile east of the Ironton ferry, was discovered to be on fire and in a short time was totally destroyed.

Mr. Sweet and his son were on the south arm cutting ice when the fire occurred and could not reach home until the house had burned to the ground. Household goods were also destroyed. No insurance was carried.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Pring, of Herington, Kansas, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Blanche, to Technical Sergeant Clarence H. Smith, of the U. S. Army Air Forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith, of Charlevoix.

Miss Pring, who has made her home in Topeka, Kans., for the past two and a half years, is employed as teletypist in the Telegraph Department of the Santu Fe Railroad company in Topeku.

Sergeant Smith, who returned to this country recently after serving twenty-two months in India as an aerial engineer, is now stationed at Keesler Field, Miss.

The wedding will be an event of early spring.

Seek to Amend Trespass Law

Among bills affecting conservation affairs that have been brought before the current session of the state legislature are the following:

House bill 9 would amend present act to prohibit operation of motor driven water craft within distance of 100 feet of persons fishing, at speed in excess of five miles per hour.

House bill 37 would amend Horton trespass act to include under provisions of act, lands of any nature that are posted against hunting.

Senate bills 44 and 45 would authorize hunting throughout state on Sunday and would repeal all local acts inconsistent therewith. (A referendum provision is included.)

City Hunters Should Share Feed Expense

Thoughtless city hunters are passing up an opportunity to build good will among farmers on whose lands they hunt, according to the conservation department.

Complaints are received from farmers who say that they are feeding corn to pheasants because of the relative severity of the weather this winter but that no sportsmen are coming forward with offers to share the expense.

FARM FIREWOOD SALES UNDER CEILINGS

All firewood sold by farmers from this week on will be subect to price ceilings, the Office of Price Administration states. Ceilings will be set at the highest prices charged by the farmer for the same type of wood in March 1942, or as otherwise otherwise determined by the general maximum price regulation. Where specific area ceiling orders have been issued by OPA field offices, these will apply. Heretofore farm farm sales of firewood when valued at less than $75 in any one month have been exempt from price control. OPA states that his exemption has led to exhorbitant prices in some areas.

Lansing Gets X-Ray Machine

A tough, slender, wax-like little germ—the tubercle bacillus—which kills 64,000 persons a year in the United States, is the target of a new attack being launched by Ingham Sanatorium, of Lansing, in cooperation with Lansing industries.

Dr. C. J. Stringer, medical director of the Ingham Sanatorium which serves patients from ten or more surrounding counties, announced today the arrival in Lansing of a new x-ray laboratory on wheels which will make it possible to broaden the front in Michigan's war against tuberculosis. This laboratory, known to the medical profession as a photoroentgen x-ray unit, is the newest weapon developed by medical science for mass chest surveys.

The same type of x-ray equipment as installed in the Lansing ambulatory unit is used by the army to examine the chests of draftees. The army uses the small films for a permanent record to show the individual's chest condition not only at the time of induction, but also at the time of his discharge from service. Thus, it protects the government against unwarranted claims.

"Bubble" Effect with Paint

Canadian Paint and Varnish magazine says that a "bubble" design for walls of a nursery or a breakfast room is produced by using a stenciled board with circular openings of unequal size. The board is held against the wall which has been painted in a light color, while the painter stipples around the edge of the circular openings with paint of a darker color, blending the paint towards the center of the circle.

The next Training Meeting of the Home Economics Extension Leaders is being held this week on Thursday, February 15, in the Eastern Star Dining Room, East Jordan, starting at ten o'clock. Due to a cancellation it has been necessary to change our plans. Miss Eastman, who was scheduled to lead the discussion has found it impossible to handle this meeting. As a result Miss Emma Fero, Emergency War Food Assistant will give a lesson in Home Furnishings.

In addition, sufficient time will be available to conduct an extended business meeting. According to present plans the cancelled meeting will be held on March 29th. Reports received from the various community groups indicate a larger attendance than last year and increased interest. Comments heard from various individuals indicate that the plan on having the meetings at different cities has met with the approval of all groups.

A most instructive meeting was held last Monday in East Jordan to discuss the growing of asparagus for the canning company. Specialist Perry Bowser, Michigan State college and Orville Walker, Assistant State 4-H club leader were present. A complimentary dinner was given by the East Jordan Canning company to all farmers interested in growing asparagus. A recent study shows that asparagus ranks right at the top insofar as its nutrition value is concerned. From a profit viewpoint, asparagus will make more income than most anything that can be grown in this section.

Specialist Bowser discussed all factors relating to its successful production. Mr. Walker, one of the largest asparagus growers in the state added much useful information from his practical experience in growing, handling and marketing this valuable product. The officials of the canning company would like very much to have a larger acreage grown in Charlevoix county. They will be glad at anytime to give further information on the care and management of asparagus. A new bulletin will be available in a very few days.

Dairymen have been greatly concerned about the control of Bangs Disease and Tuberculosis. Dr. Hendee and Dr. Hayes from the State Department of Agriculture spent last Monday afternoon on one official business call and then to confer with local leaders in regard to the status of animal disease programs. In regard to Tuberculosis, Charlevoix county is fully accredited and everything under control. It may be recalled that only last year the central and eastern portion of the county were tested.

In regard to Bangs Disease the activity is entirely different. Due to inability to hire veterinarians it has been impossible to test herds as often as is necessary to maintain a fully accredited status. Recently two herds have been tested; one that showed up nine reactors and another one with eight. Another factor has been the movement of cattle back and form from farm to farm. Under stress of war production very little thought has been given to the disease problem so as a result we are somewhat suspicious that there is an increase in Bangs Disease.

We have been assured that just as soon as sufficient help can be obtained that a county-wide test will be made in Charlevoix county for Bangs Disease. In the meantime if dairymen feel that they may have this disease as indicated by abortions, high death loss of calves and breeding difficulties, arrangements have been made whereby a permit will be given our local vetreinarian, Dr. H. J. Heaton of Boyne City to do this work. The cost of the test must be paid by the dairyman but if reactors are found the state will pay the indemnity. Now this is not exactly what we would like but it seems to be the best solution of the problem for the present. If you desire to protect your interests and have your herd tested at your own expense contact either Dr. H. J. Heaton direct or your county agent who will obtain the necessary permission from the state.

War Fund Quota Set at $9,050

Mrs. Ted Malpass Heads Campaign; Other Chairmen Named

A goal of $9,050 has been set for the Charlevoix County Red Cross chapter's 1945 War Fund, which will begin March 1. Charlevoix's share in this goal is $2,700.

Mrs. Ted Malpass, of East Jordan, is county chairman of the campaign. E. J. Edwards is chairman for the city of Charlevoix, East Jordan's quota drive will be headed by Mrs. Graco Boswell, while Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Naylor share chairmanship in Boyne City.

The figure set for Charlevoix county includes this chapter's share of the national organization's budget needs, as well as funds for operating the local Red Cross program for the coming year. Because it is somewhat less than the $10,000 quota raised last year, it is hoped that the campaign goal will — as in other years — be exceeded when final returns are tabulated.

Quotas set for other sections of the county are: Boyne City $2,900 East Jordan, $2,200; Beaver Island, $150; Walloon Lake, $100; Boyne Falls, $100; townships, $900.

National goal in the 1945 Red Cross War Fund is $180,000,000 to finance continued Red Cross operations in the 52 nations and islands where American troops are stationed, as well as in the home communities of the entire nation.

This War Fund is in many respects the most important campaign to date, as it will enable the American Red Cross to stay at the side of American fighting men in all of the expanding theatres of war and their families here at home.

Proposed New Air Route

"One Man Army" Visits Family and Friends Here

Staff Sgt. Orin (Pete) Sutton, Red Arrow Division veteran who returned home recently after 34 months overseas duty in New Guinea and the Philippines, left Thursday to report at Miami Beach, Fla., for reassignment. He visited his mother, Mrs. Carrie Sutton, in Central Lake, and with relatives and friends here.

Sgt. Sutton who left Charlevoix in April, 1941, became a member of the 126th Infantry while at Camp Livingston, La. when this country went to war in December, 1941, the 32nd Division, of which the 126th Infantry was a part, went overseas, the first American troops to be sent to Australia.

In the fall of 1942 they went to New Guinea in the first of the campaigns that eventually wrested New Guinea from the Japs. It was while serving with Company L of the 126th that Pete became known as the "one man army", who at the conclusion of the Sananda campaign had more than 40 Japs to his credit. He became an expert jungle fighter, a crack shot, and an able leader.

Robert Heise, who was discharged from the army recently, served with Sutton's company until September, 1943, says that he was a "hero among heroes" and was one of the most respected men in the Southwest Pacific area. Officers and enlisted men alike respected his courage, judgment and knowledge of jungle warfare.

PFC. Stuart B. Simms, of Richmond, Va., told the following story of Sutton in an interview for the Richmond New Leader:

"This fellow (Sutton) never could get used to firearms. All of us were jittery at times up in the front lines, but he had to fight his nerves, as well as the Japs, all the time. Not that he ever dodged danger. In fact, maybe it was to break himself of the fear that he always volunteered for the rough jobs.

"I remember one time in particular. He was acting leader of a rifle squad. The squad was ordered to take a Jap machine gun that had pinned us down. He lead his men forward, found that he couldn't take them any farthee ahead without losing some of them, and then ordered them into cover while he pulled out and went after the gun alone.

"He jumped into that hole where the Japs had the machine gun set up, shot two Japs, clubbed a third to death and took that gun single-handed. I lay in a foxhole with him that night and he couldn't stop trembling, he was so nervous. But for my money there's no better soldier in the Army."

When the 32nd Division moved on to the Philippines in November, Sgt. Sutton went along and, no doubt, added to his laurels there. But until the real story of the Red Arrow can be written after this war, Charlevoix will have to be content with the few facts it now has on it's favorite hero. Sgt. Sutton just isn't talking.

Airport Hearing Is Satisfactory

Michigan Central Airlines, Inc., Will Send a Representative to This Area Soon For Preliminary Work

Word was received today from Michigan Central Airlines representatives in which it was stated that the hearing, held in Washington, Monday, was progressing satisfactorily. No other word was received up to press time tonight.

Air service linking Charlevoix with industrial centers and with the principal cities and tourist areas of Michigan was requested Monday at a Civil Aeronautics Board meeting in Washington, Michigan Central Airlines, Inc., is seeking a certificate of convenience and necessity. David T. Dort, Michigan aviation pioneer and president of Michigan Central Airlines, Inc., today revealed planned routes he will ask the CAB to approve in Monday's hearing. They call for regular flights connecting Charlevoix with Indianapolis with South Bend, Detroit, Flint, Lansing, Grand Rapids, Muskegon and on up through the heart of Michigan's playground and industrial cities as far as Sault Ste. Marie.

Michigan Central Airlines, Inc., successful operator of intrastate service of Michigan, was the first intrastate airline in the nation. Service is now given to Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Midland, Mt. Pleasant, Cadillac and Charlevoix, Michigan. In addition, mail is carried from Charlevoix to St. James, Beaver Island, Michigan. Experience gained in these routes will prove invaluable in the requested expansion of service, Mr. Dort declared.

"Charlevoix is one of the many cities in our two states which has been without adequate air service" Mr. Dort stated. "The importance of Charlevoix's industries demands fast, safe, efficient air transportation to other industrial centers and we are qualified to provide it."

Michigan Central Airlines, Inc., proposed routes would furnish needed service between Charlevoix, Indianapolis and Grand Rapids, besides tieing northern Michigan and the Saginaw Valley in for needed service to Detroit, South Bend, and Sault Ste. Marie.

"Automotive manufacturing and the tourist industry are Michigan's two greatest," Mr. Dort stated. "Indiana is second only to Ohio in sending tourists to Michigan and Indiana is becoming one of Michigan's leading suppliers in products assembled in our automotive plants. These trends will be accentuated in the post-war period and the need for the type of transportation we can provide will be increased."

Michigan Central Airlines, Inc., has placed a delivery order with Lockheed's for purchase of five 14-place twin-engined planes, which would be used in the new routes.

Mr. Dort, one of Flint's outstanding young business executives, is the son of J. Dallas Dort, automotive pioneer who manufactured the Dort car after helping W. C. Durant found General Motors. The senior Mr. Dort and Mr. Durant were partners in a Flint carriage company prior to the advent of the automobile.

Louise Louiselle and Sgt. Wexstaff Speak Vows at Church of God

Miss Louise M. Louiselle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Niley Louiselle, became the bride of Staff Sergeant Charles W. Wexstaff, of the Army Air Forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wexstaff, at a ceremony performed at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the Church of God. The Rev. W. D. Wood read the double ring service before an altar decorated with baskets of calla lilies and lighted with tall tapers in seven branch candleabra.

Miss Ernestine Chew, pianist, played the traditional wedding marches and Dean Feidler sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin and net fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves which came to points over the wrists. The full skirt had an overskirt of white net. Her fingertip length veil was held in place by a small cap of net and flowers. She carried an arm bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Miss Barbara Louiselle was her sister's only attendant. She wore a gown of deep blue silk jersey made with short sleeves, a square neckline and long full skirt. She carried a bouquet of pink snapdragons.

Donald Louiselle, of Ellsworth, cousin of the bride, assisted as best man.

Miss Jacqueline Louiselle, another sister of the bride, and Miss Shirley Balch, were ushers. Miss Louiselle wore a gown of lime green jersey and Miss Balch a gown of pink chiffon made similar to the maid of honor's. Both wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Louiselle chose a fuschia two-piece gabardine suit with navy accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Wexstaff wore a blue print dress with black accessories. Their flowers were corsages of white sweetpeas.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple left Tuesday for Miami Beach, Fla., where the bridegroom will report on February 23.

The bride is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and until her marriage was an operator for the Bell Telephone company in Charlevoix and Birmingham. The bridegroom returned recently from eight months overseas duty as a gunner on a Liberator bomber stationed in Italy with the Fifteenth Air Force. He wears the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf clusters for 49 missions completed and the European Theatre of Operations ribbon with six bronze stars. He will report at Miami Beach for reassignment.

Ring Rot Increasing Menace In Potato Production

Steps should be taken to reduce the threat to the 1945 potato crop by bacterial ring rot. This new disease caused an estimated loss of more than a million dollars to the 1941 potato crop. H. C. Moore and J. H. Muncie, Michigan State College Crops and Plant Pathology Specialists suggest the following program:

1. Sell all infected stock for table use. A grower who is in doubt about his seed stock should place about three hundred pounds of seed in a warm room (temperature about 75 degrees) and determine how much breakdown occurs. If he finds that his stock is infected with ring rot, he should place his seed on the table stock market and replace with new seed.

2. Thoroughly disinfect all tools and equipment used in growing, storage, and handling of potatoes.

3. Use only certified seed or seed that is known to be free from infection. Place your orders at once as the 1945 supply will be limited.

4. Growers using their own seed should place a seed plot kept separate from the other potatoes and every precaution exercised to prevent contamination. All storage bins should be disinfected with copper sulphate using one pound of the chemical to ten gallons of water.

The movement of potatoes from Michigan warehouses is much greater than last year. Our last report was 3,533 carlonds of potatoes have already been moved as compared with 2,497 cars last year as of February 16. With less potatoes grown and heavier shipments it is easy to figure the answer. All potatoes are now selling very near the price ceilings and this condition should continue throughout the season.

Corn Hybrids Highly Recommended

A recent extension publication from Michigan State College gives some important facts on hybrids. Michigan is divided into four districts in regard to adaptability of corn. In our Northern Michigan section four different hybrids are offered for sale by the Michigan Crop Improvement Association. These hybrids have been grown by Michigan farmers and should be more productive for farms in this area.

From the standpoint of yield Michigan 51B in seven trials yielded 49.4 bushels per acre with 51 percent moisture at harvest time; Kingscrost KE1 averaged 48.0 bushels and forty-eigth percent moisture; Michigan 11A with 48.4 bushels and forty-six percent moisture while Kingscrost KE2 yielded 45.7 with forty-six percent moisture. As a general recommendation Michigan 51B for the Central and Western portion of the county is perhaps our best hybrid. Michigan 11A should be excellent in all sections of the county. Kingscrost has about the same adapatability as Michigan 51B while the KE2 is similar to Michigan 11A.

In spite of the fact that hybrid corn is priced over nine dollars per bushel it still is a good buy for the average farmer as it will out-yield our native corn, stands up better under adverse conditions and grows more rank. It is not too early to make your plans for obtaining your seed for this spring. An excellent folder entitled "Corn Hybrid sCompared" is avnilable at your request. Another good bulletin: "Michigan's 1945 Crops Program" conains much useful information on crop varieties and their adaptabilities. If you want to buy certified seed we have a list of all growers having oats, barley, soybeans, field beans, alfalfa and corn for distribution.

Order Egg Cases Now

Egg case users should order their cases immediately. Otherwise, they may not be able to fill their needs for spring and summer use.

The situation this year promised to be identical with that of a year ago, when many poultrymen found that they could not get egg cases simply by asking for them. In some instances eggs did not get to market because there was nothing to put them in — others went in poor containers.

It is suggested that denlers, egg handlers and poultrymen pool orders, possibly in car-load lots. Very few wooden cases will be availalde, but a supply of fibor cases is on hand for those who order early.

BEFORE MILKING DUTIES IMPORTANT

The amount of milk a cow gives often depends upon the noises she henrs and the attention she receives just before being milked.

For this reason we believe it wise to establish routine milking practices that not only will do the milking properly but also prepare the cow for the chore. Feeding, rattling of milking equipment, and washing to the udder are some of the things tha tell the cow that milking is to follow. Her nervous system responds by starting the milk ducts ready for removal. This requires about one mintue and is at its peak for only two or three minutes, so fast milking is necessary to get the most milk.

Excitement, fright, or nervousness creates the opposite effect, and the milk doesn't come down. Gentle treatment pays.

Just prior to milking, brush the cow to remove dirt and loose hair; bring the milking equipment into the barn; wash the udder in water at 115 to 130 degrees F. containing chlorine for better cleaning and sterilization; and force two streams of milk from each teat into a strip-cup to discover abnormal milk. Such a routine, performed before each milking will result in more and cleaner milk.

Looking Ahead

White Bear

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

WHITE BEAR is the nsma of a man who lives at Quapaw, Okla. He is past 70 and not rich but ha is famous for his kindness and generosity for miles farther than you can see the smoke from his "tepee." Some grandparents live in the past but not White Bear. His youngest child, an only son, has kept him young in spirit. The boy was a true Quapaw brave, in fact, a paratrooper.

Finally to White Bear's fireside cama an ominous little yellow envelope . . . a telegram from the War Department. The son had liquidsted his obligation to the country that was verily his own. The tragedy took place in training maneuvers near Des Moines, Ia. White Bear hesitated no minute after the news came. Promptly he drew his savings from the bank, all of them, and boarded a bus.

A Hero's Faneral AT Des Moines a businesslike officer showed White Bear his son's pall. The proud father was ashamed. The casket seemed far too cheap for one so great and noblo as an American paratrooper, e Qaapaw fullblood. White Bear frankly spoke his mind and the officer told him how much the government would pay toward a more pretentious funeral. The old tribesman took the suggestion and accepted the credit.

At home the young brave had been prominent and popular, loved and admired by many. He must now return like a hero. Handsome things the father desired cost s more than the government's fix- amount. White Bear paid without protest. Then tho unhappy father left shipping instructions with the officer and disappeared. Out toward the highway he went without a dollar to thumb rides home in time for the funeral.

Beyond FORGET for a moment Hia Day those jaunty horsemen of the plains whose hatchets retarded the Gold Rush. Forget also the colored tales of modern Osages rolling in wealth. Here is something more nearly true: Specimen of a vanishing race, sore of foot and dim of vision, trudging sadly homeward, quite ignored by hurrying traffic; a stranger in his native West, too proud to beg, too honorable to steal.

South of Kansas City a short way, White Bear's time was more than half gone, his vitality almost depleted and his journey not yet half finished when help came. A suburbanite who had seen Indians before, sparing his tires along the highway's outer lane, saw the old man with perceiving eyes; dismissed him two hours later, strengthened with a $2 steak and humbled with a ticket home.

How ideally American is this elder of the Quapaws From his eyes no gaudy tears, no simpering about economic inequalities, no railing at "the system," no carping about rigid Army rules. With admirable independence he faced what might have been his last crisis, alone, with bitterness forever gone, ready with his last breath to glorify his scion, his race and his race

Candling Eggs on Farm Increases Profit

Their Quality Will Increase Consumption

While candling is not an exact science, it serves to eliminate those eggs which will mark down all eggs marketed. Fourteen out of every hundred eggs are "rejects" on the market. Many of these could be utilized on the farm, for home (the better ones) and as hog or poultry feed for the worse "rejects."

An unusual number of "spotted" eggs means that the flock has inherited this defect. It might be possible for the farmer, who has a large number of spotting in his eggs, to pick out the offenders and cull them out. The spotting rejects alone costs the farmer $45,000,000 annually. If the farmer removes all "rejects" he will secure a better price for the balance of his eggs than he would have for his entire output, good and bad.

Dirty eggs should be cleaned. A lime wash will not show, even when examined by experts. Fresh eggs will show an air-space of not over one-eighth of an inch in depth. When the egg is fresh the yolk will remain about center.

Blemishes, blood spots or damage spots on the yolk show up as dark spots when the egg is candled. Blood spots place the eggs as inedible, but can be utilized for home consumption. Development of germ in fertile eggs also places the egg in undesirable class.

In candling it is rather easy to tell eggs of high and low quality but it does require skill to pick those in the intermediate stage. Persons who are skilled in the art, however, are able to accurately grade the eggs properly.

Agriculture In the News

Peanuts Gain.

The application of chemistry to agriculture has resulted in the ground pea or peanut becoming a real factor in its own name as well as a serious competitor for other farm crops, particularly the soybean.

The peanut furnishes a cork substitute, they yield more oil per acre than cottonseed and they rank high as an energy food. A fiber similar to rayon is now being made from peanut protein. It can furnish artificial butter and a substitute coffee.

Peanuts

Cheap, milder and less stimulating than coffee, it might become a competitor to real article.

The peanut can be used in the manufacture of salad oils, shaving lotions, cosmetics, soaps, dyes, axle grease, massage paste for infantile paralysis, bases in medicine, flour, candy, insulation, explosives, paper board, textile lubricant, glycerine, floor sweeping compounds, fertilizer, stock and poultry feed and as fuel.

Diet Saves Pigs

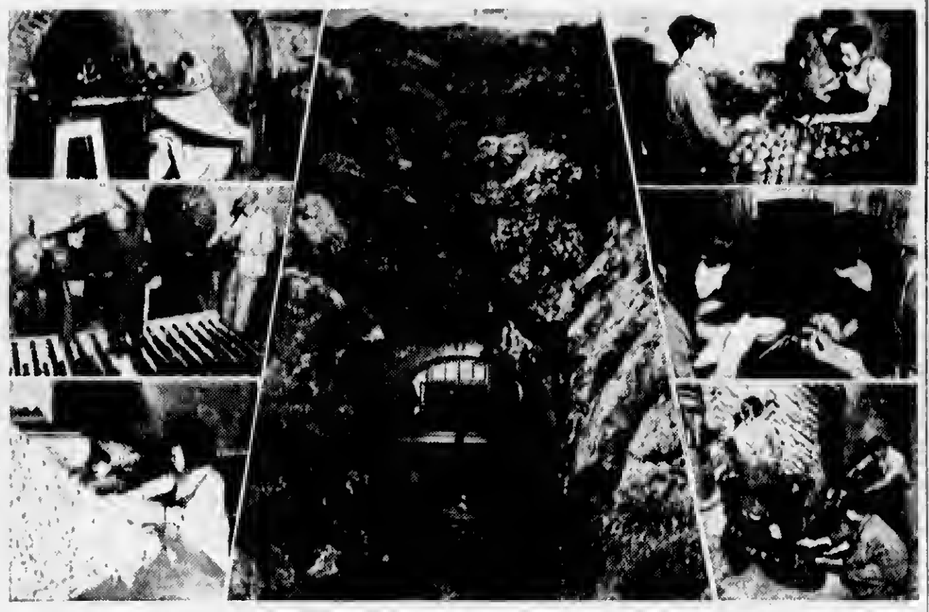
Market savings in weaned pigs as a result of improved diets fed during gestation and lactation periods was found by B. W. Fairbanks of the University of Illinois. Successful weaning was increased from 7.1 to 83 per cent.

Satisfactory results during lactation are dependent in part upon feeding during gestation. The feeding regime during gestation must not be ignored when the question of high mortality among baby pigs is being considered. The addition of 10 per cent alfalfa meal to the ration brought the increased results.

Mastitis of Cows

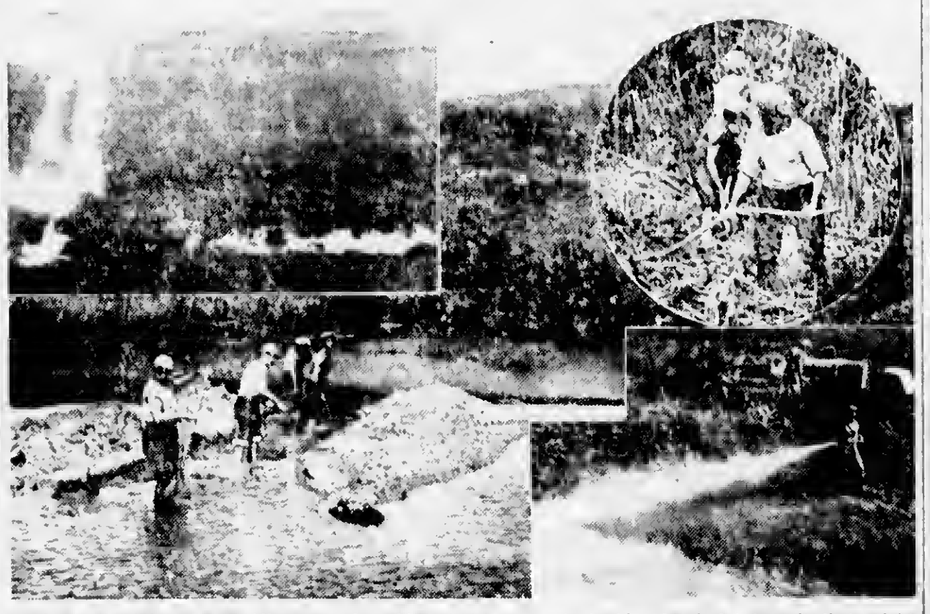
Chronic infectious mastitis is a slowly progressive disease of the udder and in many cows causes partial and sometimes complete destruction of a large proportion of the milk-producing tissue. The quality of milk is often lowered because of increased bacterial contamination and is not desirable for human consumption. There are often no clinical symptoms observed until milk production begins to fall and the cows become an expense.

They Toil Daily Below Ground for Free China



Chinese, forced below the surface of the earth by the incessant bombing raids of Japanese aircraft, are working tirelessly to produce the munitions of war so surely needed by their armies in the field. This enormous underground arsenal has been hewn out of the solid rock foundation of a mountain in southwestern China. Here are electrically lighted rock caverns, connected by arched tunnels lined with cement.

Army Malaria Control Program Proves Effective



Lower left, American soldiers spraying sides of streams and checking for isolated pools that might breed the deadly malaria mosquito in Corsica. Upper left, this A-20 bomber is laying a dust of Paris Green over the swampland territory near 12th air force fields on the island. Upper right, Corsican marshes are cleared by native laborers to eliminate the breeding place of the "Spotted Wing" mosquito.

Regular Diary of the Life of a Girl's Dog

"Beau," the 8-months-old Welsh Terrier playmate of little Mary Frances Matthias of Woodside, L. I., N. Y., starts the day with a kiss. Lower left, Beau is furnished with a babushka. Upper right, time for tea, and Mary does the honors. Lower right, after a hard day at play the two pals retire for the night. Mary does not care for dolls, finds that she has more enjoyment with her faithful pal, Beau.

Home Nursing Courses Offered by Red Cross

Farm families all the way from Ventura, California to Rutland, Vermont, are benefiting from American Red Cross Home Nursing instruction given by professional nurses. Since Pearl Harbor, more than 250,000 rural women have completed home nursing classes. In many places the U. S. Department of Agriculture Extension Service is cooperating in promoting classes, and county health departments are furnishing nurses to teach.

Those wishing to enroll should call their Red Cross chapter. The standard course requires but 24 hours. It teaches how to care for communicable diseases, give bed baths, change the bed with the patient in it, take temperature and pulse, improvise equipment for greater comfort, and give simple treatments and medicine ordered by the doctor. The course further includes care of the mother and her new baby and the prevention of illness. A 6-lesson course of 12 hours on care of the sick only is also available.

Michigan Mirror

The story of the Earle brothers, founders of the 33,000-acre Blaney Park, is typically the history of much of Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

It is the tale of a northland's evolution from a swaggering, lasty exploitation of forests, only 50 to 75 years ago, to a twentieth century era in which the natural resources of fish, far, game and even climate have become overnight attractions for leisure-bent dollars of mid-west cities.

Between these two extremes of the cycle is agriculture, dependent upon soil and climate for its survival and growth, and hence inevitably limited in potential development.

"Tough country." That's the Upper Peninsula which stretches from Ironwood to Sault Ste. Marie and south to Menominee, according to one contemporary writer.

Here is a region long on blue-sky lure, the immodest child of George Bishop's Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, but decidedly short on adequate, modern facilities to accommodate city-wise tourists.

The blue-sky, so-called, has served to keep up the faith and courage of its natives and to attract curious travelers into its domain. Yet good housing and good restaurants are few and far between, as any travel-experienced citizen will concede. In competition with other play areas this country has suffered much. It will continue to suffer until its resort-keepers or perhaps the state government introduce adequate facilities for the traveler's comfort.

In spite of this handicap, the Upper Peninsula has managed to forge ahead. Everyone who visits this "tough country", air-conditioned 52 weeks in the year by winds off the Great Lakes, will readily admit that the region possesses a promising future as well as an enrichened present and a glorious, crimson past.

"If we had known then what we know now, Blaney Park might never have been undertaken," said G. Harold Earle, president of the Wisconsin Land and Lumber company, a Michigan corporation which owns and operates the Blaney Park resort, midway between St. Ignace and Escanaba on U. S. 2.

"In 1927 when my brother (Stewart E.) and I began Blaney Park, we were just ten to twenty years too soon. Consider the history of Blaney for a minute, and you'll get an idea of what I mean.

"In 1878 my grandfather, Charles J. Meyer, induced the Chicago & Northwestern railroad to lay tracks to a sawmill town which he named Hermanville after his younger son. At a cost of $150,000 to $200,000 he created his own timber empire. The IXL brand of flooring, tongued and grooved, became nationally famous.

"In 1888 my father, George Washington Earle, a native of New York state, met the daughter of Meyer and married her. A practicing physician, he came to Hermanville in 1889 for his health. When Meyer's overexpanded holdings became squeezed by financial hard-times, father reorganized the company.

"In 1918 he made a deal whereby this cut-over land, then 22,000 acres, as large as a western ranch, was purchased by cattle operators. This venture failed. Father died in 1923, leaving the entire property to Stewart and me.

"What could we do with it? We didn't know. Father had always said, 'Everything in nature had a use if you could find it.' We decided to try to see if we could discover the secret. We acquired more land to round out our holdings and then embarked on the creation of Blaney Park as a modern tourist resort.

"The lumberjack boarding house was transformed into a lodge for serving meals and for administration offices. We converted small homes into modern tourist cottages; constructed a summer Inn across the highway which old Captain Blaney had sentimentally named Halstreet Street and built a golf course, airplane landing field, outdoor swimming pool and even an artificial lake.

"Open now year-round, both winter and summer, we cater to the better sorts of vacation trade. And still we don't make money, although we about meet our operating expenses."

What is the answer to the Earle brothers' dream for profitable use of northern cut-over land?

Harold Earle isn't sure. He is thinking today about a combination of land use whereby timber would be utilized efficiently to eliminate present costly waste, wild game and fish would be conserved wisely for the use of tourists in recreation and food, furs would be "cropped" annually from beavers and other animals, and the health-giving benefits of an envigorating, stimulating climate would be utilized year-round by city dwellers on organized vacations.

This formula of timber-furs-food-recreation may be the answer.

If it is, then the entire Upper Peninsula will be benefited.

And if any two men can achieve it, the Earle brothers can do it. They have courage and vision, and what is equally important, old-fashioned independence and zeal for work.

These virtues are needed today, as yesterday, in this "tough country" — Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Cpl. Paul White Tells of Belgium

Cpl. Paal H. White writes from Somewhere in Belgium: "What a country over here. Nothing like you would expect. I never thought I'd see the day when I'd be in Europe but here I am. It is a very nice country over here but nothing like the other countries, France, Germany and Luxemboarg, that I've been in.

"It is very cold here and we have 8 inches of snow. The country is more or less like Charlevoix but I haven't seen Lake Michigan in a long time.

"The people all live in little towns and you never see farm houses out in the country. There are about a hundred people or so in the towns and you can't tell the houses from the stores. The people all wear wooden shoes or slippers. It's a sight to see when there'a ice on the street for the shoes are like skis. In the larger towns it is a little different. You never see a car and the people travel on bicycles or with a horse hitched to a two-wheeled cart.

"I read in the paper about Pfc. Harvey Cole wishing for snow. Wish he could be here.

"There is plenty of hunting over here. We have had plenty of deer meat to eat. Every once in a while you can see a fox sliding across a field. Wish I had my fox hounds or Mont Withers' old Lindy here. Would have a little sport in my spare time.

"The Courier has been coming in regularly and only about two months old. Every page of it is read thro' and passed on to someone else from Michigan.

"Keep the lights bright and we will be back as soon as these derries get enough."

FISHERMEN HOPEFUL FOR WEATHER BREAK TO INCREASE CATCH

After more than a month of the most unfavorable weather experienced on the Grand Banks in many years, New England fishermen today were hoping for a let-up in the storms so they can take advantage of the greatest civilian demand for fish the market has ever experienced.

The dwindling meat supply and the Lenten season have created a demand for fish from all parts of the country. Joseph C. O'Brien, head of the A & P fish department, the nation's leading fish retailers, said in Boston recently. While heavier catches were being reported from the Chesapeake Bay and Florida areas, he said, these were still small and the trade continues to look to the Northeast for the bulk of its fresh fish supplies. The spring catch of fresh water fish in the Great Lakes area will not get underway for at least a month.

The fishing industry meanwhile reported that the New England fleet, though half of its pre-war size, has grown in recent months. The Navy has returned to date 20 of the 35 trawlers it had commandeered at the start of the war. Six of these craft have been refitted and returned to service and six more are in repair yards and will be ready for the high seas within a month or six weeks. The remaining eight are being offered for sale. Each of these trawlers has a capacity of 250,000 pounds.

The dragger fleet is today at its pre-war size of 60 and each of these vessels can carry 100,000 pounds of fish. In addition, the fleet also has a sizeable number of small boats that can venture out in favorable weather.

When can I get my telephone?

WE WISH we could tell you. Nearly 100,000 other people want to know the same thing. Even though we're filling some orders every day as present users give up service, the waiting list keeps on growing.

As soon as wartime shortages ease up, we plan to start a five-year expansion program costing $120,000,000. But that won't mean that everyone who wants a telephone will be able to get it as soon as that program gets under way.

After the necessary materials, manpower and manufacturing facilities are available, buildings must be erected or enlarged, and cables and central office apparatus must be manufactured. Then begins the slow, painstaking task of installation with its millions of hand-soldered connections, and the job of tying the new equipment into the present system without interrupting service. All that takes a long time.

So we can't say just when we can install your telephone. But we do promise that your order will be filled in its proper turn, and just as soon as possible.

MANY FOODS ARE MISSING ON TABLES IN MICHIGAN HOMES

At least three important food groups are missing on the tables of a large percentage of Michigan families, including many farm families, a survey reveals.

Of 200 southern Michigan women questioned, more than half said they had not eaten a green, leafy vegetable or any carrot, squash or sweet potato as part of the previous day's meals. In another section of the state, home economics leaders, who queried their neighbors, learned that milk and cheese, green and yellow vegetables, and the high Vitamin C foods, such as tomatoes, raw cabbage and citrus fruits, were seldom on the tables.

Since many of the families had access to these foods raised on their own farms, and the majority had them in cans on their cellar shelves, the reason for their absence at mealtime proved a puzzler. It was reasoned, however, that food favorites become so established in the eating and meal preparation habits that they are used to the exclusion of more valuable foods. Unorganized meal planning and lack of appreciation of foods values also contributes to the situation.

In families where leafy green and yellow vegetables were not used daily were prevalent. Such vegetables, either canned or fresh, aid in protecting the mucous membranes and ward off respiratory infections.

Billy Cramblit and his guest, Miss Margaret Hughson, returned to Muskegon on Sunday afternoon after visiting since Wednesday with the former's mother, Mrs. Lillian Cramblit.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

The children are busy making a flag. We hope all the mothers and fathers will come to our Open House on Thursday and see it. We have learned a song and a poem about the flag, too.

The bird-feeding table has attracted lots of birds. We bring crumbs and crusts from home each day and we've seen as many as 17 birds at a time feeding from the table.

First Grade

The children enjoyed a sleigh ride on St. Valentine's Day, followed by ice cream and cake, thanks to Mrs. Merica. It was also a birthday party for Judy and Jamm Merica, Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Dennis and Mrs. Foster also sent Valentine cookies.

Judging from the play houses our first grade boys are building with our new building blocks, we have some very prospective carpenters.

Second Grade

We are all hoping our parents come to see some of our work Thursday, February 20.

We have learned many things about two great Americans, Geo. Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

Last Wednesday, 26 of our 37 second graders had all spelling words right.

Our Valentine box had very many valentines for everyone. We enjoyed reading them, also the words on the candy hearts.

Third Grade

Clifford Baker and Bard Miles have joined our group. We now have 40 boys and girls.

Group One has finished the basic third reader. They are beginning a new book called "Centerville." It tells about life in a small town. We are going to see how Centerville is like, or unlike, Charlevoix.

We have made attractive covers for our booklets about Lincoln and Washington.

Fourth Grade

We had a lot of fun at our Valentine party. Junior Roberts entertained us with a clever song. Several gave piano selections. We had heart cookies and milk. Then we opened the Valentine box. A big surprise at the bottom of the box was for Mrs. Smith. It was a beautiful heart-shaped box of candy.

We are studying about Norway in geography. We drew pictures of the mountains and farms.

On Lincoln's birthday we enjoyed a short play. Debby Bergeon, James Lewis, Kenneth Burns and Elaine Peters were the characters. We plan to do more plays.

Fifth Grade

The fifth graders have placed two bird feeding trays outside our windows. We are enjoying watching the robins.

Mothers and fathers of the boys and girls of the fifth grade, please come to visit us on February 22. We would like to have you sign our Guest Book.

We have our Library Chart finished, and all the boys and girls reading a good book will be given a star for the chart.

Sixth Grade

We were happy to welcome Billy Stevens back to school after an absence of more than a week. Beverly Cunningham missed her first day of school this year, Monday, February 12.

Joyce Murray, Gleneen Pemberton, Viola Anderson, and Alvia Ranger are at present the only students in the sixth grade room who have a perfect attendance record thus far this year.

We thought our Valentine Party was heaps of fun. There were many valentines for each one — and then tasty cakes, heart-shaped cookies, candy, orange pop, and coca-cola for all.

Overflow 1, 2, 3

The boys and girls in our room enjoyed our Valentine Party, Feb. 14. We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Novotny for the lovely cookies and to Mrs. Balch for the beautiful cake. They were enjoyed by all.

The pupils of the first grade have been reading "Fun at the Farm." They have completed a project "On the Farm". They collected farm pictures and farm books. Some of them made many good free hand drawings.

Study Shop

We had a fine Valentine Party Wednesday afternoon. First we went for a long walk, nearly to the depot and back. Then our Valentines were passed after which we enjoyed a lunch of cup cakes and milk and candy. The few minutes left before dismissal we spent singing the songs we like best.

Billy Goss is absent, having had his tonsils removed Monday. We miss him.

Some of our boys are making airplane models in every spare moment they can find. The sand table has a jungle air base on it just now.

Clothing

Seventh grade Clothing finds all girls sewing. Some girls have third garments almost complete. Even though cloth is hard to find these days, some girls seem to know just where to find the right requirements.

Eight grade Clothing finds almost all girls sewing. At least all have plans formulated for the garments-to-be. One group—who made slips—has had group criticism. There will be criticism of pajamas completed this week.

Advanced Clothing class is experiencing the making of wool garments. Most of them are proud of accomplishments. Regrets are scarcity of desired woolen fabric.

Most first year 4-H members have towels completed, and are practicing making darns if they have not the goods for their garment. Second year 4-H members are still making slips, but are beginning to get worried for fear of not being completed for Achievement Day.

Junior High

The eighth grade are beginning a study of Civics, in which they will develop an understanding of our land and its outstanding features. As future voters, they will need this understanding of all phases of American life, so that when asked to decide an issue they may have the ability to choose wisely.

At present, they are studying the individual parts of American life, taken for granted by most, to show that changes suggested by the government and others are not just "pipe dreams." This means a survey of housing conditions; health practices, with possibilities of health insurance; aid to the handicapped; and an insight into the meaning of Social Security.

In seventh grade geograhy, the students are concerned with the place of the United States in world trade. They have found that United States has become the greatest exporter and ye imports a great deal.

American History

We are in the midst of that period of American progress when Grover Cleveland was trying to convince Congress that tariff reform was necessary. On the whole, tariff rates had been raised during most administrations. Cleveland was certain that lowering tariff rates would mean lower prices for most of the population. His opponents were sure that any tampering with the rates would result in chaos. Although Cleveland's efforts gained many supporters, there were never enough in Congress to approach a downward revision of tariff rates of any appreciable importance.

World History

Our recent examination of the history of Russia reveals many interesting phases of that giant population and land. For generations Russia was governed by the most absolute of autocratic governments. As the result of this repression, the common classes were eventually led into a period of violent revolt which brought in the communistic form of government which, to date, has been led by a form of people's autocrat. Russia has plans which, if they are permitted to develop, will mean more participation in the government by more people.

Industrial Arts

The boys in Senior High Drawing are now working on spur gears. They recently completed several drawings on cams and cam motion.

Two boys are completing scale models of airplanes. Several interesting projects have been made from salvaged lumber donated by th Foster Boat company.

The Junior High boys have completed a nice crumb tray and scraper set made of bright tin and mahogany wood.

Pep Sessions

Prior to each baskethall game, the high school cheer leaders, consisting of Anne Campbell, Virginia Ranger, Shirley Bradley, Donna Rose, and two others recently chosen, Audrey Byers and Joan Ward, organize a program to instill enthusiasm for the student body. Short skits, song fests, band numbers, talks by student body and faculty members, all of which are accompanied by school yells and the school song, encourage interest in clean sports.

Guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. F. McMillan are Wilfred Brudy and Patricia Brudy, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who were called here by the illness of their mother, Mrs. Fred Brudy, of Wolverine, who is a patient at the Charlevoix hospital.

RADAR TECHNICIANS NEEDED IN NAVY

Because of the Navy's acute need for Radar Technicians, these men enjoy especially good opportunities for rapid advancement.

Lieut.-Comdr. Byron E. Flechtner, Officer in Charge of Navy recruiting and induction in this area, points out that Radar trainees are sworn into the Naval Reserve as Seaman, First Class, two steps above the minimum rating of Apprentice Seamen.

After successful completion of 10 months' training, they are rated Petty Officers, Second or First Class. Their chances are excellent for rapid advancement thereafter.

Men holding the above ratings receive the following monthly base pay: Seaman, First Class, $66; Petty Officer, Second Class, $96, and Petty Officer, First Class, $114. This base pay does not include extra cash allowances for dependents, overseas duty, uniforms and clothing, etc.

Age limits for Navy Radar trainees are 17 through 50 years old. The Navy particularly wants younger men. Further information may be obtained at any of the lower Michigan's Navy Recruiting Stations, located in Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing and Saginaw.

Mr. and Mrs. John Norton and son arrived Friday from Chicago to spend a week with Mrs. Norton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ikens. Mr. Norton is stationed in Chicago with the Coast Guard.

SAVE GRAIN IN HORSE FEEDING

One way to save badly needed grain on the farm is to raise colts and work horses on good hay and pasture. Little or no grain is needed if the hay and pasture are of good quality.

This method has been particularly successful on the farm. Since 1939 from 20 to 30 colts and work horses of all ages have been pastured on brome and alfalfa in summer and turned to field hay [illegible] cutting of brome-alfalfa hacked in the field with a hooster buck rake. The balance is left uncut for grazing when the horses are turned into the field in early December.

This has not only saved labor at haying time but has also reduced the chores in winter. Manure hauling is eliminated and the horses thrive on the diet and exercise. Horses like the freedom of with the shelter of hay stacks, even when sheds or other buildings are available.

Some grain, in addition to the hay, may be needed when the animals are taken up for spring work.

Trophies of a Happy Marriage

The Cuppers are about the happiest married couple in our town. Comfortable off, too, after Dee's fifty years of honest work. But their two most prized possessions are an old beer mug and an 1890 Floradora hat.

When they were first married, Dee allows he couldn't stand the hat; while Jane turned her nose up (privately) at Dee's fondness for a friendly glass of brew from time to time. But each figured it was the other's right ... so they lived and let live.

And as time went by, they realized that the hat and mug had become important symbols in their marriage—symbols of respect for each other's rights and differences of opinion.

From where I sit, a lot of marriages would be happier if there were more funny-looking hats and old beer mugs in the background. Tolerance is a mighty good foundation for living happily together.

Who's News?

By Earle Ferris

Ethel Barrymore, shown here, star of "Miss Hattie" on the Blue Network, has closed her Broadway season in "Embezzled Heaven." When she reappears on a New York stage it will be in either a new play or a revival of a classic. But there's also talk of a spring tour for her in "Embezzled Heaven."

Hey, Abbott; hey, Costello! Don't look now, but you two clowns have been named as having one of the five top comedy programs on the air, according to a recent comprehensive poll. And that ain't "ba-a-a-d," boy!

Earl Wilson, shown here, whose book, "I'm Gazing Into My 8-Ball," will be published this month, will bring his B. W. (Mrs. Wilson) to Mary Margaret McBride's program for a pre-review on Wednesday, February 21, over NBC at 1 p. m., e. w. t.

Lynn Gardner, glamor girl singer on Bob Hawk's "Thanks to the Yanks" CBS comedy quiz program, heard Mondays, has conquered the night club field as she has radio. Miss Gardner is currently stopping shows twice nightly in "The Glass Hat" room of New York's Belmont Plaza Hotel.

The Andrews Sisters Show, starring Patty, shown here, Maxene and La Verne, on Sundays over the Blue Network, is making plans to go on the air from military hospitals and rest centers in Southern California beginning this month.

SENDS POEM TO PARENTS

The folyhowing poem was received by Mr. and Mrs. Orval McGinnis from their son, Pvt. Marvin, somewhere in the South Pacific.

Somewhere in the south Pacific
Where the sun is like a course
Where each stretching day is followed by another even worse

Somewhere in the South Pacific, where the sand is thick and deep,
Where they give you pills to dope you, lest the climate maks you sick
Where mighty air-raid bombings are a nuisance and a pest
Although they do not damage, it still keeps you from your rest.

Somewhere in the south Pacific, where the nights ore made for love,
Where the moon looks down from the starlight from above
Where the Southern cross hrams brightly like a jewel in the night,
'Tis a shameless waste of beauty with not a girl in sight.

Somewhere in the south Pacific, where the mail is always late,
And Christmas and Thanksgiving arr considered out-of-date,
Where the air is always heavy and the grass is always green, and our throats are always dry, and no bar is ever seen.

Somewhere in the south Pacific, where the snakes and lizzards five,
And mosquitoes make you donate blood, you do not wish to give,
Where you share with rats your fox hole, and your meals with ants, and coconuts that hit you will put you in a trance.

Somewhere in the suth Pacific, so far away from you,
Where a breeze is never heard of and our sweat sticks like glue,
Where the men look wild and bearded, and their talk is rough and loud, and they will get you sonny if you don't watch out.

Somewhere in the south Pacific, where the devil used to roam,
But he couldn't stand the climate, so he made hell his home,
That's the kind of place we live, and that's where we spend our youth,
Although the Japs get hell, we get a darn good substitute.

When the war is won and over, and you plan a trip, and want to see new places, come out here if you are a drip, travel to the south Pacific, you'll find it like the poem,
It's romance, you can have it,
I'll take "Home Sweet Home."

Prepare Surface

Proper preparation of the surface should be the foundation of every paint job. Sandpaper all rusty nailheads or rust spots until they are bright. Then paint nail holes with one coat of paint, and when the paint is tacky, fill the holes with high-grade putty and smooth off with a putty knife.

Curfew Rings In Charlevoix County

Local Taverns, Restaurants Pledge Full Cooperation on Closing Hour

Opposing the stand taken by owners of taverns and restaurants, in larger cities, where beer and liquor are dispensed, local tavern keepers and restaurateurs expressed the desire to cooperate fully with the new Government order, issued by War Mobilizer Byrnes, to close at midnight.

"Full prosecution of the war comes first," one tavern-keeper stated, "and we are prepared to go all-out for the war effort in line with the new ruling."

Others expressed the hope that all those affected throughout the country would cooperate in an effort to conserve fuel and manpower, so that an early end of the war may be reached, and consequently bring our boys home sooner.

Mayor LaGuardia of New York is among the more prominent "big city" men, who fear the return of Speakeasies. Other big-time cafe owners expressed the belief that a closing of one night each week for all cafes and places of entertainment, night clubs, etc., would accomplish more than the midnight curfew.

The WMC has asked the cooperation of city, county and state policing authorities in enforcing the new order.

Mayor Robert Bridge said, regarding the new regulation, "I do not believe the city council or police action will be necessary to enforce a patriotic necessity in Charlevoix, but such cooperation will be given if it is."

Meanwhile all businesses affected by the new ruling throughout the county are closing when the curfew rings at midnight.

Couple United in Church Wedding

Before a setting of palms, candelabra and baskets of calla lilies, white gladioli, snapdragons and stock, Margery Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Edwards became the bride of Robert E. Wexstaff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff, Saturday, Feb. 24, at 4 o'clock in the Charlevoix Congregational church. The Rev. Leigh H. Hagle read the double ring service.

Mrs. Albert Stelter played a program of wedding music and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a pale blue crepe dress with matching flower hat and veil, and carried a white prayer book topped with gardenias.

Margaret-Ane Gusler of Detroit was bridesmaid and wore a dress of sheer rose jersey with a hat of white violets and carried a colonial bouquet of Briarcliffe roses, white carnations and blue iris.

Robert Craig of Buffalo attended the groom as best man and ushers were Ralph Price, Archie L. Livingston, Don Swinton and Max Smith of Petoskey, former Band Director in Charlevoix schools. Mr. and Mrs. Rollie L. Lewis were Master and Mistress of ceremonies.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Edwards chose an aqua crepe dress with brown accessories and corsage of Briarcliffe roses. The groom's mother wore a blue and white print suit with navy accessories and a corsage of blue iris.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony, and later Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff were hosts at a wedding dinner for the bridal party and families and Rev. and Mrs. Hagle.

The young couple left for Detroit for a short wedding trip before the groom returns to the University of Michigan to resume his studies and the bride returns temporarily to Henry Ford Hospital where she is an Assistant Head Nurse. For traveling Mrs. Wexstaff wore a navy blue suit and hat and wore gardenias.

Out of town guests were Mrs. M. L. Gusler of Detroit, Mrs. V. Y. Tuttle of Grand Rapids, Mrs. A. L. Fitch of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Chet Naylor and Miss Rosemary Cooper of Boyne City and Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Petoskey.

The annual American Red Cross War Fund campaign will start throughout the United States on March 1. Along the lines of economy in the department, Mr. Ziegler pointed out that the sharp axe he carried with him when he entered the department as commissioner, has already lopped off $1,000,000 in payroll reduction, besides reducing tolls on telephone and telegraph service. Travel by state-owned automobiles has been cut by one million miles.

"One and one-half million tons of gravel has been spread on Michigan roads," the commissioner stated. And added that "more than 175 miles of old and worn out concrete had been replaced or resurfaced."

Hope Renewed For Missing Soldier

Sgt. Fay Bradley Believed Prisoner of War In Germany

An unofficial report received Friday by the family of Sgt. Fay A. Bradley, who has been missing in action since December 21, in Germany, has renewed the hope that he may be a prisoner of war. The word came in a Prisoner of War form card, sent by Sgt. John Patrick McNamara, a close friend of Sgt. Bradley's, to his father, J. P. McNamara, of New York City. The message stated in part, "Bradley and I are prisoners of war . . . we are alright . . . contact the Red Cross for information on how to write to us.

A telephone call from the east brought the news to Sgt. Bradley's daughters, Barbara, a cadet nurse at the Mercy Central school of nursing, Grand Rapids, and Shirley, of Charlevoix, who are hoping for a similar message from their father or an official notification from the War Department.

Sgt. Bradley was a member of the 106th Division which was surrounded by the Germans in the early days of the Ardennes break through in December. Two other Charlevoix men, Pfc. Archie Wesgeshik and Pvt. Martin Elzinga, who were serving in the same division, were reported missing in action at the same time.

STORES REOPEN MARCH 8

Local businessmen will reopen their stores here beginning Thursday, March 8, according to the Charlevoix Board of Commerce.

Although the coal situation is not considered critical now, the people of Charlevoix are urged to conserve as much as possible, so that all may have enough.

Mr. Supp is to be highly commended for his efforts in bringing about the economy measure.

ON THE ROOF

Flyer Steps Out of Cockpit, But Can't Locate His Plane . . .

Flight Officer Ronald (Ronnie) Tegerdine, 23, formerly of Charlevoix, probably is the only RCAF fighter pilot who ever crash-landed a Spitfire on the roof of a house and stepped out of the cock-pit unaided, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Belgium, which was relayed to the Courier.

The sister of Mrs. Lloyd Arnold, 106 Green Ave., Charlevoix, did just that. Not much except the cockpit of his plane was left after the engine quit on a take-off and Ronnie was unable to clear the roofs of a village. Dazed by the impact but otherwise unhurt, he climbed out of the wreckage uninjured.

Tegerdine was born in Canada and enlisted in the RCAF when lack of American citizenship prevented his entering the U. S. Army Air Forces. He went into the service in July, 1942, and has been overseas since November, 1943.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

We enjoyed having our mothers and fathers come to school to visit on last Thursday. It was George Washington's birthday and after we finished with our work-books, we made hatchets to take home.

Our flag is finished and the first thing we are going to do everyday is say the Pledge to the Flag.

First Grade

The first grade was at the head of the list last week for the purchase of war stamps. We are going to try to stay at the head.

Thirty-three parents visited our room during Open House last last Thursday.

Second Grade

We hade 34 fathers and mothers visit our room on the Open Hnuse day. We made pictures of George Washington and wrote a short story about him.

Last week we had a review in spelling of all the words we had had since Chirstmas vacation. Some of us had perfect papers for five days.

Third Grade

We enjoyed having our parents visit us last week. We hope they will come again.

James Elzinga has returned after a few days' illness. Clifford Baker and Cynthia Smith are out now.

We are enjoying the story of Bambi which Henry Pontius brought. Group three has begun a new book — Story Hour Reader. They know what happens when people wish for too many things.

We are having subtraction problems with borrowing and addition problems with carrying.

Fourth Grade

We were all happy to have so many parents come to visit last Thursday. Thirty-six parents came and four of theme were fathers. The fourth grade hopes the parents will feel free to come any time.

Reading Group 1 is working on a little play which is a dramatization of the story "The Princess Who Would Not Cry." The other members of the class are anxious to see just how good the actors and actresses will be.

Two new pupils were welcomed to our group on Monday — Gerald Niemetalo of Kent county, and Louise Bowerman of Munising.

Fifth Grade

We had 34 mothers and fathers visit us during Open House, and we were very happy that they could come out.

Marilyn Bulow had a birthday February 23. She brought cup cakes to school for us. Yum-yum!

Shirley Cramblit made an Abraham Lincoln picture on our blackboard with chalk, and Dorothy Allers made one of George Washington.

We get one star for every book report we give.

Miss Milner gave us a pair of Dutch wooden shoes, and we have lots of fun walking around in them.

We have a play almost every week.

In geography we are studying the Western States.

We have two bird feeding tables outside, and some of the boys and girls bring food for the birds at school.

Some of us children are going to the tournament. Dorothy Allers is out because of sickness. We are learning to use dictionaries.

Sixth Grade

We were very happy to have 33 friends accept our invitation to be present at our Open House last Thursday. And most happy were we to have some of the fathers interested enough to leave their daily tasks and come also. May we invite those who came Thursday to return some day. And those who were unable to be with us, to make a special effort to visit us in the very near future.

Overflow 1 ,2, 3

The third grade are enjoying the Ranch Book. They are making a ranch picture for us.

Thursday was "Open House." We enjoyed having the mothers and fathers at school. Thirty-one parents visited our room.

Richard Boulton is back at school again, after being absent for several days.

Study Shop

We have made a display of airplane models in the showcase. We plan to change the planes as we make new ones.

Louise Dixon bought a bond this week. We hope we can raise our rating.

Many visitors came to our room on Open House Day. We wish our mothers and fathers would come often.

Physics

The physics class will spend the week in the study of reflection of light plane, concave, and convex mirrors. Our fine new equipment is going to add interest to our work.

Biology

In biology, we shall deal with the nervous system as related to the laws of learning, habit formation, and instincts.

Mathematics

The general math class is getting some introduction to simple algebraic equations, the geometry group is starting similar figures and proportion, and the algebra students are making the acquaintance of polynomials.

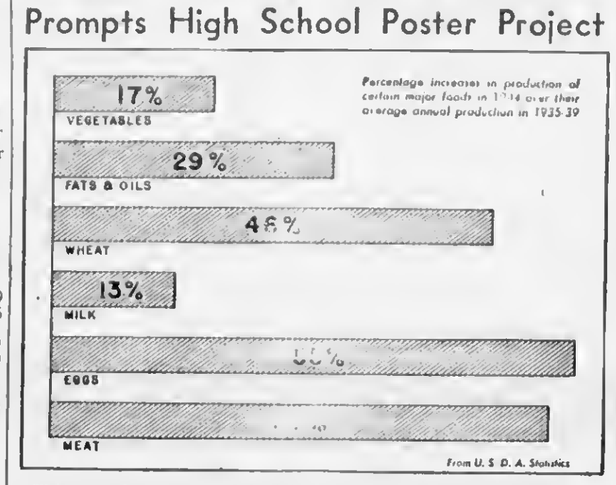
Record Wartime Food Production Prompts High School Poster Project



The great importance of food in the war effort and in the postwar days ahead has suggested the theme for a poster contest for high school students, according to the contest announcement just received by art and home economics teachers of the city. Awards will be in the form of war bonds.

The vital part being played by food in these critical times is reflected in the unprecedented demands and record-breaking production, it is pointed out by the national poster contest committee of Chicago. In 1944, production of six major foods showed increases ranging from 13 to 55 per cent over the average for the prewar period — 1935-39.

Although billions of pounds of food are required annually for our armed forces and our Allies, civilians consumed 7 per cent more food in 1944 than in an average year immediately preceding the war.

Since the production of livestock products has reached phenomenal figures, the theme selected for this high school contest is "Building For Peace With Meat," according to the committee. The project is being sponsored by the National Live Stock and Meat Board, a research and educational organization which works closely with high schools, colleges, universities and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

S 2-C Eugene Stinson Trains In Virginia

Eugene A. Stinson, Seaman Second Class, USNR, a former resident of Charlevoix, and the second member of his family serving with the armed forces, is now stationed at the Amphibious Training Base in Little Creek, Virginia, where he is training for duty aboard a new LSM (Landing Ship, Medium).

LSMs are powerful, 208-foot tank carriers which can speed through the vast stretches of the Pacific and roll their war machines directly onto the enemy's shores.

Known as 'the speed carriers of attack,' the LSMs made their invasion debut at Leyte and are now disgarging their tanks and supplies on the Philippine beachheads to support General MacArthur's offensive drive.

Experts in the science of invasion, LSM crews are leaving the Little Creek base in a steady flow to swell the might of the amphibians forces. Stinson and his mates will soon take over one of the new landing ships and sail to join the Pacific onslaught.

Son of Mrs. Sylvia Stinson, who resides in Petoskey on Lockwood Avenue, Stinson was employed at a boad manufacturing concern before he joined the Navy last September. He is a former student of Charlevoix high school.

His brother, Edward, is a Staff Sergeant in the U. S. Army and is now on duty overseas.

ALLIS-CHALMERS AUTHORIZED SALES AND SERVICE

CHARLEVOIX OIL CO.
At the Bridge -- Charlevoix, Mich.

Michigan Mirror

As we intimated in this column two weeks ago ("state needs are due to get the right-of-way in 1945)," Governor Harry F. Kelly has turned thumbs down on the plea of large cities for a slice of the state's anticipated 1945 surplus from the state sales tax, estimated to be between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000.

The governor's zeal for a postwar program which would meet the growing needs of the State of Michigan has become almost a passion with him. A disabled veteran of World War I, Kelly knows what Michigan's new veterans will be up against. In a "progress report" which was distributed among state representatives and senators simultaneously with his message rejecting a division of the state sales tax for municipalities, Kelly placed needs of war veterans first on the state's postwar list.

Other state needs, as recognized by this printed report, were adult education, youth guidance, health, mental hospitals, planning for public work construction, conservation and tourist and resort. Each one of these particular programs has become, to the governor, a personal dream. In his mind they outweighed by far the needs of municipalities. The result was a courageous and possible adversely political decision by Governor Kelly: State needs must have the right-of-way.

Economic factors in the governor's decision included the following:

1. War-time inflation threatens to increase the cost of running the state government by $27,000,000 to $30,000,000 for the coming year, starting July 1. Hence, the state must economize now if it is to avert a deficit. [This fact was mentioned in this column two weeks ago.)

2. The postwar building program of the State of Michigan totals $59,000,000 by estimates made one year ago. Twelve months later, due to inflated war-time costs, state planners declare that these projects will require $90,000,000 instead of $59,000,000. Every dollar of their sum — 50 or 90 millions — must come out of the anticipated surplus of the state sales tax or out of a bond issue with its long-time additional expense of interest payments.

3. The state present $50,000,000 postwar reserve fund has been tagged for veterans' needs and unforeseen contingencies. Among the latter might be the actual bread-and-butter needs of the unemployed, such as occurred during Governor Murphy's administration leading to a treasury deficit. If so, certainly a lot of folks in large cities would be recipients of state aid.

Governor Kelly's solution for the financial problem of municipalities, as announced in his special message last week, consists of the following:

1. Issue $50,000,000 in state bonds, to be liquidated from proceeds of a 4 per cent state gasoline tax (one-third higher than it is today). Proceeds would be apportioned among governments — 40 per cent to the state for trunk line highways, 35 per cent to county and township for primary roads, and 25 per cent to city and village for streets.

2. Increase the state's mark-up on packaged liquor from 46 to 55 per cent. "The retail per bottle cost in these four states (Illinois, New York, Indiana and Wisconsin) is $4.54. In Michigan it is $3.87, or 67 cents below the four state's average.") Kelly said the state of Pennsylvania had added a war-time tax of 10 per cent on liquor, netting $11,000,000 of additional revenue. Even with a higher mark-up in Michigan, consumers would still pay less than the consumer in Pennsylvania, he said.

3. Increase the state beer tax from $1.25 to $1.50 per barrel.

4. Impose a state tax on the sale and distribution of cigarettes. Twenty-one states now tax this commodity, including Illinois, Massachusetts, New York and Ohio. Kelly estimates such a levy would raise $8,000,000 annually in Michigan.

It is the governor's belief that war-time levies on so-called luxuries — liquor, beer and cigarettes — would net "a possible $16,000,000 of additional revenue" and that cities would realize about $14,100,000 through an apportionment to governments made according to population.

Another avenue for financial relief would be for the voters of municipalities to repeal the 15-mill tax limitation which they placed upon themselves. The legislature has acted to permit these cities to place a repeal ballot before the voters at the April election.

The governor also approved the tax study commission's recommendation for revision of the state intangible tax, an admittedly difficult job.

Whether the legislator will favor imposition of new and additional taxes upon all citizens, in order to afford financial relief for municipalities, is a matter of some speculation at Lansing. Such prospects are not any too bright, we might say. And yet there is considerable logic to the principle of increasing taxes when taxes are most easily paid — years when wages are inflated and everyone is flush with prosperity. An ideal government would do just that — raise taxes in boom years to create a reserve fund; lower taxes in depression years when the reserve fund would be used. One resistence to higher taxes lurks in the suspicion that once taxes are up, they will never come down. The taxpayer's experience prompts this belief, for government never catches up with the parade of social needs, each fervently and sincerly sponsored by a pressure group. There is always another pressing social problem around the corner to be solved through state money.

The legislature must make the decision. It is not an easy one.

POMONA GRANGE MEETS

Pomona Grange met with Rock Elm Grange Thursday evening with our 40 members attending.

A class of ten, all of Rock Elm were initiated in the fifth degree. An enjoyable program of songs and reading was conducted by the lecturer, Lula Clark.

Wm. Brake of Bellaire was present to talk over our grange problems and gave the members much food for thought. He cited the danger of further consolidation of schools that is being planned by some of our lawmakers and warned that if it is done with the schools it will be followed by less township and county government, which he thinks will be very bad for the interests of agriculture.

Among other things be mentioned the need for close cooperation between the Grange and Farm Bureau. They are striving for the same ends and both are represented in Lansing by Stanley Powell.

The next meeting will be in April and will be announced later.

Comdr. Flechner Clarifies Ruling On 17-Year-Olds

Apparent widespread misunderstanding over regulations governing enlistment of 17-year-olds in the Navy prompts a statement of clarification from Lieut.-Comdr. Byron E. Flechtner, Officer in Charge of lower Michigan Navy recruiting.

Following, he said, are some of the rulings governing 17-year-old enlistments most frequently misunderstood.

Youths should make application at a Navy Recruiting Station at least 10 days before their 18th birthdny.

At the time of initial application, 17-year-olds must bring their father, or legal guardian, to the recruiting station to sign parental consent papers in the presence of a recruiting officer.

Applicants must bring their birth certificate or baptismal record, showing date and place of birth.

Commander Flechtner said despite its fast-growing size, the Navy still offers many opportunities for specialty training. Notable among these is the Radar branch for which men qualify by passing the Eddy Test, given in all Navy Recruiting Stations.

Lower Michigan stations are located in Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing and Saginaw.

4-H Forestry School Programs Scheduled for Wednesday, Mar. 7

In preparation for next spring's Forestry program a series of four meetings have been arranged for Wednesday, March 7. K. C. Festerling, District 4-H Club Leader and Marvin Norton, Conservation Department, are planning to show movies and to discuss forestry projects at the following locations: Walloon Lake, 9:00 a. m.; Boyne Falls, 10:30 a. m.; East Jordan, 1:30 p. m.; and Charlevoix, 3:15 p. m.

An excellent picture has been obtained to show the interested youth. Order blanks for trees will be left at each school and it is expected that these schools will set out at least ten thousand trees next spring as one of our requirements. In addition, an opportunity will be given to all rural schools to participate in this tree-planting program. Many teachers have already indicated a desire to set out a few trees on the school property as windbreakers and to beautify the surroundings.

The film has already been shown in the Boyne City school. It is highly gratifying to visit these school forests and to see the development that has taken place. The mortality rate is not too high, running from ten to forty percent at the different locations.

Veterans Can Get Gasoline Allowance

Local War Price and Rationing Boards are now issuing gasoline rations to aid in the reemployment of discharged War Veterans and displaced civilian workers.

These rations are being allowed to war veterans and civilian employees who must use a passenger automobile to travel to a job interview arranged for them by the U. S. Employment Service, the Railroad Retirement Board Employment Service, a County Agricultural agent, Agricultural Extension Labor Office, or by a union designated by the War Manpower Commission to recruit labor. The amount of mileage is limited in any thirty-day period, and must be shown that there are no adequate alternative means of transportation.

Mrs. Merrill Richardson
RD 1
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Richardson:

It is with the deepest regret that I write to offer my sympathy in the death of your son Pfc. Delta J. Richardson.

Delta was killed in action June 15, 1944, in Normandy, France. He was buried in a U. S. Military Cemetery in Normandy, France; services being conducted by an appropriate Chaplain of the United States Army. These places of burial are being made into permanent Memorial Cemeteries, are kept by the Government, and are made as beautiful as possible.

I fully realize how futile words are in lifting so heavy a burden from your heart. I do hope, however, that it will be of some consolation to know that while with us, by his helpfulness and good cheer, Delta made the lot of so many less difficult.

We, who by Providence are left to carry on with the work at hand, wish to extend to you our heartfelt sympathy in the great loss of your son.

JOHN F. McKENNA,
9t1pd. Chaplain.

Bill Supernaw Writes Home From Belgium

Will Supernaw received the following letter from, son Bill, somewhere in Luxembourg.

Dear Dad:

Being as I have a little slack time - and also as I just finished reading your letter I will make myself a comfortable seat and write you a line or two — I sure did get a bundle of mail yesterday — about thirty letters — pretty good eh? — I sure do like it.

While we are hearing over the radio of the tough winter you are having over there — the coal shortage and so on—we over here in the old country are suffering the first pangs of spring—things are beginning to get u little green and the birds art starting to sing —and the weather is now very similar to the kind of weather that you hardy pioneers get along in about April—it is really quite warm and I guess it will stay that way according to the natives—we may still have one or two cold nights—this month also a little rain but sarting next month the days and nights will be nice and continue to get better right along.

This is sure a nice little country, there dosen't seem to be any extensive farming around and the rural districts are divided up into about twenty-five acre farms — they raise a few vegetables which they sell around to the stores und stuff for their own use but I believe that most of the stuff is imported—as there doesn't seem to be enough land under cultivation to feed the three hundred thousand souls that inhabit this little Duchy—but the places ure sure nice and neat and you can see that they get the most ont of what they have—there is also quite a bit wooded land around—all in all it is just a nice peaceful spot inhabited by a beaceful people — pretty and clean.

The cost of living is also very cheap here—one reason being that taxes nre very low—this is because the government owns and controls most all big business—such as telephone—telegraph—also a few steel mills too, I guess anyway it keeps the country prosperous and the people content—und most everyone has a pretty nice home—the population is largely made up of retired business men — seems possible to live on about one dollar a day over here and pretty good too — so one doesn't need much of an income to settle back and take things easy the rest of his life. I know that men's clothing is pretty cheap— Isee a lot in the stores and suits only run around $16 to $20—and they say that is expensive, they look like good stuff too—

And to his wife he writes:

You ask in your letter if General Bradley was my commanding general and you are right he is—and we see him around quite a bit —in fact not so long ago we saw the whole bunch of them—Eisenhower, Bradley, Hodges, Patton, just the whole bunch of them, along with a few lesser lights—they had a meeting in the building right along side of our billets—so we had a good look at them all —and I must say that Gen. Patton was by far the most impressive of course he is the showman of the outfit—Of course all the rest arrived in their nice big closed cars—that is all but Omar and he lives there but at that he did have his Packard and chauffer out in the parking lot—"Ike" drives or rides in a Cadillac—Hodges a big Buick—and so down the line to a little one star feller who was riding in a Chevvy—any way and to get back to my story—when Gen. Patton drives up be is riding in a jeep—and is sitting in the back behind a fifty caliber machine gun which is stripped and ready for action—wearing a white leather fur lined jacket and also his two pearl handled forty-fives —to make it a little more on the showman side, he was followed by another jeep just like his carrying an officer in the machine gun slot —and incidentally right after that meeting the armies began to take the "B" out of the bulge the Germans had made in their drive—we were not allowed to write about this for quite some time, but I guess it is all right now.

I think that maybe it will be all right now for me to tell you how I spent New Years Eve—I well remember it as that was the night we had eleven air raids or nt least alerts, some of them I think were false alarms but we took for the cellar just the same, I didn't lose much sleep however as I worked that night from midnight to eight—also didn't have to go to the cellar only a few times as after I went to work I was one of the gnys who had to stay in the signal center and I can say that the year was brought in with a bang—the raid was primarily to drop guns and ammunition to the prisoners which they did but the PWS didn't want any ns they threw them all out of their cage—smart too for we were all prepared for a break—we had about three weeks of that right after the break-through—and it wasn't just spasmodic it was every night—lots of fireworks, but no damage done —however that is all over and done with now for we have since got Germany's three planes.

Tell Mom and Gene that thia time for sure I will get around to answering their letters and very soon, there really isn't too much to write about, but I will do the best I can with whut there is, that is with what I am allowed to tell.

How are you all getting along with my lads, I sure hope they are not giving you any trouble, that is, they may be a little wild or something, break up the furniture, a few windows or something, I really know that they wouldn't really bother you, any more than you would admit it, if they did, guess thy are pretty nice lads, eh?

We now have a teletype machine in our installation so I am about to become an operator—it is kinda fun too, they are really quite a machine, almost like talking back and forth on a telephone —'cept you just set and read it —it is quick communications too —of course I am not very fast on the thing, but Iam learning. You can send out messages as fast as you can type—and what I mean some of these lads can really bat them through—but not me—guess I never will be much of a typist as I don't seem to have much control of my fingers on my right hand—but I can do all right with my left —just one of those things I guess —however, I don't care much for it, as a civilian I don't have to do much typing.

Ili Mom, Hi Gene, Ili Sara, hope this finds you all as well and healtby as I am, for I am really right in tbe plnk and growing every day, a rip roaring fighting man, only, I don't want to figbt.

My best to you all, toodle-oo, cheerio and pip pip, have fun and I'll be seeiag you.

As ever and all my love,
BILL.

4-H Cooks to Use Home Grown Foods To Limit In Meals

A great number of 4-H girl cooks throughout the nation will have the 1945 wnr-time objective of making the greatest possible use of home-produced foods in preparing and serving wholesome, balanced meals to their families.

This is reflected in the enrollment of roundly 170,000 club members in the current Servel 4-H Food Preparation Activity, in which they will also acquire knowledge of nutritional needs of various age groups, as well as in the wise selection of purchased foods through a study of costs and rationing.

Outstanding records of achievement in thise activity are rewarded with silver medals to county winners, an all-expense trip to the 24th National 4-H Club congress in Chicago next December to each state's champion, and a $200 college scholarship to the highest rating participant from each of the four extension sections, and two at large.

Some idea of the participants' achievements may be gained from the estimate that during the war years of 1942-45 the 4-H cooks prepared 40 million family meals, in addition to innumerablu special dishes and school lunches.

The activity is being conducted for the 11th consecutive year by the Extension Service of the Stute Agricultural College and USDA cooperating. County extension agents will furnish full detnils.

Last year's stute winner in Michigan was Alice E. Brinkman of Ann Arbor.

County winners were named in Alger, Allegan, Antrim, Baraga, Berrien, Branch, Cass, Clinton, Delta, Dickinson, Gogebic, Hillsdale, Huron, Ingham, Ionia, Iron, Lapeer, Leelenau, Lennwee, Livingstun, Luce, Mackinac, Macomb, Marquette, Menominee, Muskegon, Ogemaw, Presque Islo, St. Joseph, Schoolcraft, Iosco, Kalamazoo, Otsego, St. Clair, Tuscola and Van Buren.

"Mackinaw" Escorts U. S. Minesweeper

Fulfilling her assigned mission of clearing the way for new Navy construction that must move thru the lakes during the winter, the United States Coast Guard icebreaker Mackinaw made an historic passage into the lower lakes last Thursday to escort the USS Elusive from Lorain, Ohio, to open water in Lake Michigan.

The 180-foot all steel minesweeper, built by the American Shipbuilding Co., is headed for Chicago and eventual passage to salt water via the Mississippi River.

The 500-ton Mackinaw, which has been active in moving Navy construction through the ice-jammed lakes since she was commissioned, Dec. 20, will travel from Chicago to Lorain to perform the operation.

Despite the severity of the winter the husky Mackinaw has not been extended in early operations. The unique bow screw, which can rotate to advantage in either direction, and plating which measures 1 5-8 inches at the ice bolt has enabled the powerful icebreaker to crack through heavy windrowed ice in the Straits of Mackinac several times without using full power.

Due to the thickness of the plate on the new Navy ship, officials stated it might be necessary to tow the vessel to open water in northern Lake Michigan. The Mackinaw has a notched stern permitting entry of the minesweeper's bow. The towing engine has automatic tension control which pays out a two inch wire cable when excessive surges occur, automatically recovering the cable when the pull drops below the value at which tbo control is set.

The icebreaker — minesweeper operation marks the first time the Navy has been able to move out a completed warship during midwinter. Captain Edward S. Ellsberg, USNR, Supervisor of Shipbuilding, said it will be possible for the ship to join the fighting fleets months earlier than would ordinarily be the case.

Mayor Robert Bridgo was the guest recently of Comdr. Roland aboard the Mackinaw.

America Has its Portrait Painted

Dan Mascon's cousin, an honest-to-goodness artist, came to our town. And when he heard we were having a weenie roast, he asked could he come and bring his paints.

After he got through working on his canvas ... he had as nice a picture of us enjoying ourselves as you could ask for ... complete to the last little detail ... from Molly Burtle's dimples to the foam on Ed Carey's glass of beer.

"I'm calling it a portrait of America," Dan's cousin says.

And from where I sit, he couldn't have a better title. Whether it's a weenie roast in our town or a square dance on a Wisconsin farm, it's all a part of America—a part of our neighborliness, our love of fun and pleasant living.

Because our right to enjoy a temperate beverage like beer is a part of our American heritage of personal freedom.

Farmer's Friend

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Looking Ahead

TWO Southerners sat near me in a crowded day-coach recently and carried on a heated and revealing conversation. Both men were farmers, but their similarity ended there. They were not at all alike. One seemed to be about 70 years old. He spoke with a soft "Deep South" inflection. He had attended college, was well dressed and had lived in several big cities.

The other man was nearer 30, spoke with the accent of the delta country and was obviously a dirt - farmer with limited schooling. The conversation was about rice. The older man insisted that rice was not grown in Arkansas. "It would be so foolish," he said scornfully, "So long as Asiatic labor is cheap there will be no money in raising rice in this country."

Priced to Sell

WORKERS in the Arkansas rice fields are relatively well paid, as farm wages go. They earn more than cotton choppers and pickers; draw wages more like a California orange grove worker. Just the same, Arkansas rice is priced right. Our grocers could ship it to Japan in normal times and sell it there at a profit in competition to Chinese rice, Coolie raised.

It sounded quite familiar when the cultured gentleman - farmer explained, "The biggest part of the cost of anything is labor." The statement was made often a quarter of a century ago, and used to be almost true. But America's volume production by machinery has disputed the idea with success for years; longer than the younger man could remember. Rice in Arkansas, a new industry, is tooled up well.

Better Wages

THAT is exactly why our rice workers are well paid. They produce a lot of rice per man. With modern tools, an American can produce 50 times as much rice as a China boy with a heavy hoe. Allowing liberally for machinery expense, he can earn 30 times as much as the Chinese, and does. But the rice costs less per bushel and can profitably sell for less. That's America.

Shorter hours and higher wages for people who work, lower prices and better merchandise for people who buy, universally are popular ideas. The same people want all four, because working people buy the biggest part of everything that's sold. Strange, but all four of these benefits come from the same source (investment) which is not a popular idea.

Good equipment costs something; investment. With good equipment, workers increase production per man and get their pay raised, also increase production per day — or per acre. It shows the investor a profit. Good equipment also increases the available supply and thus lowers prices. What America needs, not to mention China, is to encourage investment.

Ways to Prepare Point-Free Meats

With most of the civilian meat supply on the current ration list, housewives, who find their ration books stripped of points are getting better acquainted with some of the less familiar point-free cuts on the butcher's counter. These less expensive meats rate high in nutritive value, say Michigan State college extension nutrition specialists.

As with all meats, proper cooking brings out their best flavors. Here are a few pointers on cooking some of the no-point items.

Beef heart: Remove blood vessels, fill with a soft breadcrumb stuffing, sew or skewer, and brown the heart. Place in a baking dish, add a small amount of water, cover and cook until tender in a very moderate oven (300 degrees F.) for about 4 hours.

Pork heart: Prepare same as for beef heart; or, slice, flour the slices, brown, add a little water, cover and simmer until tender.

Breast of lamb: Have the butcher remove foreshank and crack the breastbone so it can be carved between ribs. Cut a pocket in breast by slipping knife between flesh and ribs. Stuff with bread crumbs mixed with ground meat from foreshank, and sew or skewer. Roast in an uncovered pan in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 1½ hours.

Flank, neck, or shank of lamb or veal: Stew meat comes from these cuts. Flour the meat cubes, brown, add water, cover and simmer until tender (about 2 hours). Add cubes of vegetables, seasoning, and additional liquid the last half hour. Thicken the sauce. Or, have the butcher grind these cuts, then shape into patties and broil.

Liver sausage: Serve liver sausage cold; or, slice, brown and serve piping hot.

Palace Theatre

Twenty Century-Fox, the studio responsible for more exciting film innovations than you could blink a delighted eye at, has done it again!

This time it's "Laura", starring Gene Tierney, Dana Andrews and Clifton Webb that has Hollywood preview audiences shouting "bravos!" and marking it as the most thrilling, unusual and absorbing screen entertainment to come out of the movie capital in years.

Because of the unique brilliance and startling off-the-beaten-path technique used in telling its suspenseful and powerfully moving story, "Laura" defies ordinary motion picture classification. While it most often is referred to as a sophisticated psychological mystery-drama, it does, at the same time, revolve about the strongest romance ever screened.

For the film, which opens Wednesday and Thursday at the Palace Theatre, is the story of a strange and dangerous experiment in love—and murder; the story of the love of a man for a woman he has never seen, and how that love became the most fearful thing that ever happened to any woman on earth. Set against the dazzling background of sophisticated pre-Pearl Harbor New York cafe society, it provides a brilliant vehicle for Gene Tierney's triumphant return to the screen after a full year's absence; for Dana Andrews most important portrayal to date; and for the film debut of Clinton Webb, celebrated actor of the New York stage.

Gene Tierney, more glamorous than ever, is the "Laura" of the picture, a chic advertising executive whose nocturnal activities make cafe society headlines. It is, by far, her top role, one that gives her a long overdue opportunity to do some real acting. Advance notices make it clear that she has come into her own as one of the screen's finest dramatic actresses.

In an altogether unusual role for him, Dana Andrews appears in a surprise characterization of a sharp New York detective and insurable romantic, and turns in an outstanding performance. Vincent Price as a weak but charming Southern philanderer, and Judith Anderson in the role of a dressy Park Avenue specialite, round out the brilliant featured cast.

God Said "Bail Out"

When Flight Lieut. Arthur S. Ross, Jr., was downed over Germanheld territory during the Normandy invasion, and a voice he believes to be that of God told him to bail out, his chances of survival were so infinitesimal that the happy reunion with his wife and child, shown above, must be considered miraculous. In one of the most dramatic documents of the war, Ross describes in the February issue of Cosmopolitan magazine German atrocities which he witnessed, and urges that a stern peace be imposed on a defeated Germany.

Struthers Hosts to Adult Bible Class

The Adult Bible class of the Church of God enjoyed a potluck supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Struthers, 102 E. Upright, Friday, Feb. 23. Mrs. Ruth Struthers and Mrs. Ruth Berg assisted the hostess in decorating and serving.

Thirty guests were seated around one long table. The white covers were gaily decorated in patriotic fashion. Tall red, white and blue tapers were lighted. Groups of 13 stars lay around the candle holders. Red streamers and name cards trimmed in red were used. Large red hatchets hung in the doorway.

The teacher, Mrs. Robert Dickie presented Mrs. Henry Isaksen, who was married 30 years ago. Mr. Isaksen is a chief engineer on the Great Lakes. Mrs. Jane Fiedler read the following impromptu greeting:

"Thirty years ago today
Henry and Anna had a wedding day,
In the far distant land of Norway
Near a beautiful shimmering bay.

"But for most of the 30 years
They've made their home over here.
They've had their joys, shed many a tear—
Yet happily lived, year after year.

"Four children came their lives to bless,
Each in turn had a fond caress.
Henry, a sea-faring man in dress
Seldom is home for happiness.

"Even tho' they're far apart
They still remain one in heart.

"To this couple greetings we bring,
As sure as winter is followed by spring
We wish them happy years to come
With the sea-faring husband staying home.
"Congratulations! again we say
To Mr. and Mrs. Isaksen today".

Mrs. Ruth Struthers directed games which continued the George Washington theme. "Independence Day" and "Cherry Cubes" were played, with a prize of cherry jello going to Mrs. Saar Peters.

Thirty-eight guests were present, including Rev. and Mrs. Wilford Wood and Rev. and Mrs. Henry Hammond.

Mrs. Jane Fiedler, was chairman of the affair.

Local Basketeers Drop Title In Overtime Play

Bow to Pellston After Eliminating Both East Jordan and Boyne City

In the most exciting and most colorful basketball game of the tournament, Charlevoix was nosed out of the district championship after a five-minute overtime play, with Pellston emérging the winner. The score was 24-19.

Thn tournament held here last week Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was very successful otherwise. Huge crowds turned out for all five sessions and for the three evening games, the SRO sign was hung out early.

Approximately 1,100 spectators witnessed the final game in which Mackinnw City defeated Alanson, 21-16, to win the Class D crown. Pellston defeated Charlevoix for the Class C championship only after a hectic battle which saw the score see-saw back and forth several times during the game. The local quintet tied the score with only 22 seconds left to play, but lost in the first five-minute overtime period.

A pair of electric hair clippers, AC current is sorely needed by a local boy fighting on Guam, according to a letter received here by the CSO Chairman, Ralph Hamilton.

The young soldier feels he could give the boys a little better looking hair cut if he had the clippers.

Ralph says the CSO will be glad to pay for the clippers and anyone having a pair is urged to get in touch with him at once.

Both teams played brilliant ball throughout. Much credit is due the coach of the local squad. Every member fought to the very finish.

Prof. Swinton Writes Mother

Tells of Starvation Diet and Treatment Received from the Japs

News of Prof. and Mrs. Roy S. Swinton and their daughter, Barbara, who have been interned by the Japs at the Santos Tomas camp at Manila since the fall of the city in January, 1942, was received here last Friday in a letter from Prof. Swinton to his 93-year-old mother, Mrs. George H. Swinton, and his sister, Mrs. H. A. Craig.

The letter, written three days after the liberation of the American internees on February 3 by MrArthur's trops, told of the liberation and of their own personal safety. Prof. Swinton stnted that hr now weighed 115 pounds. He is six feet tall and ordinarily weighs 165. Mrs. Swinton weighs only 80 pounds compared to her normal weight of 115. Barbara has stood the hardships of the internment better than the others and is in better physical condition.

The food at no time was good but in the last two months it had been cut to starvation level and consisted of ground corn and beans and a small amount of lettuce, he stated.

In telling of their rescue by the Americans he said that by 6:30 on February 3 everyone in the camp had returned to his assigned quarters for the night and everywhere the people were gathered in small groups discussing the sounds of war heard in the distance and wondering how long before the Americans would be there. Suddenly above the sounds of artillery, the rumble of tanks and guns came the cry from girls quartered on a lnwer floor "They are here." With that, everyone who could went to meet the Americans and what happened after that everyone by now has read in newspapers and magazines.

He said it was only the suddenness and boldness with which the American troops attacked that saved the internees from further harsh treatment by the Japs.

They plan to return to the United States as soon as transportation can be arranged.

Prof. Swinton had gone from the University of Michigan, to the Philippines to teach in the engineer's school of the University of Manila in 1940. In the spring of 1941 he was joined by Mrs. Swinton and Barbara. They were to return home in the spring of 1942 but were interned there in January, 1942, after the city fell to the Japs.

As wounded American boys come back from the battle fronts they find American Red Cross workers in all military and naval hospitals ready to help them. This year there will be more need than ever before for Red Cross service in domestic hospitals.

Red Cross Drive Under Way Here

Fioe Results Are Obtained to Date: No Figures Available

Charlevoix people are responding well to the Red Cross 1945 War Fund campaign, reports E. J. Edwards, chairman for the city. While no figures are available as yet, workers have reported that the drive is progressing satisfactorily.

In asking the whole-hearted cooperation of local citizens in making this drive a success, Mr. Edwards emphasizes that if the war should terminate tomorrow on all fronts, it would not lessen to any great degree the responsibilities of the Red Cross civilian army of mercy. The aftermath of battles and of wars leaves a wake of suffering, and this mighty army'a battle is against suffering, wherever it may be.

Wars, floods, fires, tornadoes and their companions, hunger, homelessness, disease and heartache, comprise the history of the Red Cross. Wherever humnn beings need help, after devastation of wars or sudden disasters, the Red Cross is ready with emergency relief.

Every person in Charlevoix can hecome a part of the Red Cross army of mercy by a simple act—that of putting his hand into bis pocketbook. Charlevoix has never failed to meet the Red Cross plea, and must not fail this time. Let's go over the top!

Memorial Is Begun For Brothers

Friends of Foster Boys Contribute Choice Volumes to Library

The extraordinary valor and generous sacrifice of our fighting men on all the battle fronts has prompted much discussion about monuments to perpetuate the sacred memory of our heroes. In communities all over the country, plans are being formulated for suitable means of hnnoring these deeds of valor and of keeping alive the memory of those who laid down their lives for their country.

Not to be outdone, Charlevoix friends of Lt. William J. Foster, U.S.M.C. and of Sgt. Bernard J. Foster, U.S.A. have started a memorial, unique in its originality, useful in its purpose and fitting in its symbolization of a well-known trait of these fighting men.

Lt. and Sgt. Foster both attended St. Mary's school. After their own grade school days were finished, they always showed a great attachment to children, particularly to those who followed in their footsteps at St. Mary's. Remembering this lovable trait in their character, their friends hit upon the idea of helping these children in a way that these men would have liked. Through their generosity, these friends contributed sixty-five choice volumes to the Children's Library nt St. Mary's school, knowing thnt such a remembrance would be lasting, fitting and useful, helping to hold the character of many future generations of young Americans thru the influence of good hooks. The spirit of love for children shown by Lt. and Sgt. Foster will be kept alive by this generosity of their loyal friends.

Those who contributed to the beginning of the Foster Memorial Section of the Children's Library at St. Mary's school are: Lillian and Don Swinton, Dorothy and Glenn See, Polly and George Haggard, Viola and Arthur Ranger, Margaret and Carl Erber, Katherine Fitch, Owen J. Structure Laid to Ruins In Early Afternoon Blaze

PROJECTORS AND SOUND EQUIPMENT UNDAMAGED; PLANS FOR REBUILDING TO BE DRAWN UP IN NEAR FUTURE

The 500-seat New Palace Theatre today is completely destroyed as the result of a fire Monday afternoon which, for a time, threatened adjoining buildings. The theatre is owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Moon of Petoskey.

The fire, which started in the hoiler room, at the roar of the building, went unnoticed for sometimio as passersby noticed smoke seeping through the openings, but mistook it for fog. Wm, (Billy) Smith, however, became suspicious and called the attention to Mrs. Fox, who turned in the alarm at 1:15 o'clock.

Fire Chief Charles Marshall and his crew were on the scene in record time and only the alertness of the firemen and the speed with which the apparatus was brought into use, saved adjoining buildings from damage. Only the walls remain of the theatre structure.

The Sugar Bowl, operated by Mr. and Mrs. George Glados was only slightly damaged by smoke.

Two windows were broken. No damage was done to interior of the Young Realtor building adjoining the theatre to the south. However, the roof was damaged slightly.

A spokesman for Mrs. Moon, said this morning that it was possible the projector machine and sound equipment which was housed in the booth at the front of the building, could be salvaged to some extent.

Backstage speakers, screenings as well as all seats were totally destroyed.

Hope was expressed by L. H. Taylor that the building could be rebuilt and that Charlevoix theatre-goers again could be served with the best pictures possible.

Not since 1925 has this city experienced a fire of this proportion. Old timers will recall the fire 20 years ago which destroyed stores of F. J. Fessenden, H. B. Jacobs and J. E. Redpath. The buildings involved were the Odd Fellow building and the See building, lying between the Charlevoix Hardwure Co. and Park avenue on Bridge street.

The New Palace Theatre was constructed 25 years ago and for many years was owned and operated by Mrs. Elizabeth Moon. In recent years, Mrs. Moon became less active in the operating of the theatre. L. H. Taylor, mgr. of the Palace and Temple theatres in Petoskey was active in booking and caring for Mrs. Moon's interests here.

L. H. Taylor, manager of the Palace Theatres in Petoskey in behalf of Mrs. Elizabeth Moon, owner of the New Palace, wishes to thank the Charlevoix Fire Department members for their speedy response and to the local citizens here who have volunteered their services during the fire. Also to all theatergoers, a genuine thank you for their loyal patronage in the past.

Polio Fund Is Success

"March of Dimes" Total Not Yet Known, Other Donations Total $130.71

Robert Bridge, treasurer of the Infantile Paralysis fund, reports a totnl of $130.71 collected in the county. This represents moneys received from President's Birthday party and other donations, but does not contain donntions from the "March of Dimes," which was sent to National Foundation, and as yet no figures are avnilable.

Donald Thurher, Michigan representative of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, met last Thursday at the Charlevoix County State Bank with county chapter members.

In attendance were Thomas St. Charles, who was chairman of the Birthday Party; Miss Caroline Geiken, of Boyne City, county chairman; Gilbert Lindsay, also of Boyne City, secretary; and Robert Bridge, treasurer. Mrs. Clark of Boyne City, who is active in American Legion work, was also in attendance.

Results of the campaign were discussed with Mr. Thurher, who stated that 50 per cent of the money received, stays in the county for relief of county sufferers. He said the other 50 per cent goes to the Natioul Fund for medicines, research, cause and prevention and cure of the dreaded disease in 52 medical centers throughout the country.

The Beaver Island campaign, headed by Vernon LaFreniere made a splendid contribution tn bolster the county fund.

Admission will be 17c and 28c, tax paid. Only nne showing will be held each evening, to which the public is cordially invited. Proceeds will go to the high school band uniform fund.

It is planned to have a double showing of a feature picture, two evenings each week in the future, according to E. D. Wagner, Supt. of schools.

Our Soldiers and the Red Cross

There are many things the American Red Cross does for our soldiers on the fighting fronts. As the Red Cross drive gets under way again in Charlevoix County, we wonder what the soldier boy from our town is thinking and what kind of Hell his duties will take him through.

Five hundred fifty service men from Charlevoix proper and Beaver Island are receiving the news of our accomplishments through the columns of the Courier. As we review this list, we wonder what we can do to alleviate the suffering even in a small measure of GI Joes on the firing lines.

THE ANSWER TODAY IS IN THE RED CROSS WAR FUND.

We often wonder, too, what these home-town lads are thinking about when the big battle comes up. It is remarked that many of them, perhaps the majority, fear the experience of battle. One would imagine that their fears are more likely to be felt in quiet moments before and after battle, and that when they really get in the thick of it,they have so many things to do and the necessity of constant watchfulness is so urgent, that they have no time to worry about what is going to happen to them.

It is a healthful and wholesome attitude to expect to come through the hell of battle safely. It gives men control over their mental and physical powers, and they are able to do the things that need to be done in such a time of peril and emergency.

It is a different attitude from that of many Nazi or Jap soldiers who fight with fanatical fury, and who have been told it is glorious to die for their country and for their leaders. Many of them do not care whether they die or not. Our boys, like all American boys are keen to live, and faith in their destiny is apt to carry them safely through the terror of battle.

The Courier receives many letters from soldiers, and whatever their fears or hopes they have, we never hear about their showing any lack of courage. They take a lot of pride in doing their duty, they do not want to appear remiss. The people back home here have profound reason for thankfulness for these men and women who take risks for their home and country.

CAN WE DO LESS THAN SUPPORT THEM BY GIVING TO THE RED CROSS WAR FUND?

Pretty Cherie Gist, popular Northwestern University coed, never forgets that in wartime fuel conservation is everybody's business. She's clipped the family fuel bill to her window shades to remind herself to save vital fuel by drawing the window shades. Actually, Dad's fuel bill will be smaller by 10% if the family remembers to keep the shades drawn halfway during the day and to the sills at night.

Cherie has also found that an old fashioned woolen nightie and an extra blanket help beat the fuel shortage during cold winter nights.

WHEATON CORNERS

WILL H. SUPERNAW
Reporter

Thanks Mr. Walter Wright, for the latter, I am glad that you enjoy reading Wheaton Cornera Item.

Had a nice visit with Orton Van Dusen, Friday, met him on the street in Charlevoix. Mr. Van Dussen is one of Norwood Townships old-timers like myself, we always talk about old times and things that happened long ago.

Referring to the first settlers that came to Norwood in 1866, Ed Stafford was there when we came in 1881, he was a stone mason and after Gullds & Nash, he was their woodsman, built several camps for them and looked after their lumbering, in 1884 he branched out, built a grist mill, a Mr. John was his miller, always plenty of feed around a grist mill and one day Park McIntyre who always had a lot of live stock said to Ed, I have a nice porker that will weigh about 300 pounds how would you like to have me bring it down to your place, you have a lot of feed practically going to waste, you feed him 'till he is fat enough to kill and I will give you half, bring him down, which Mr. McIntyre did, Ed had a sty all fixed up, after giving the pig a good look over he couldn't see much use spending much time feeding it, so the next day he sent one of the boys up to McIntyre with a note telling that the pig was plenty fat enough for him and that he could come down and get his half, I don't think that he ever did come after his half, Ed said that McIntyre put it over him on a horse deal some time before that and for a long time afterward he would give him the horse laugh every time he met him and he thought it was a good time to get even with him.

Getting back to Orton Van Dusen, his father's farm is five miles north of Norwood on the old Charlevoix road, it is still called the Alfred VanDusen farm, I think it is owned by one of the boys, In 1883 I remember several of the boys went out in the farm to see a black bear that they caught in a trap out of logs fixed with a dead fall, they had a couple of log chains around his neck and him fastened so there wasn't any danger of him getting away, they kept him for a few days so that people from Charlevoix and Norwood could come and give him a once over.

Tinker Carman, has been pretty busy cutting firewood, Tinker believes in keeping warm, is just a little worried lately, he lost possession of his horse, but he keeps on cutting and piling it up, he said there will be another horse some time, stick to it Tinker, it all comes to those who wait.

The first Post Office in Norwood was established April 1, 1868, William Harris was the Postmaster, mail was brought in by an Indian with his Indian pony. By that time there was several families living here and the mill was doing a big business and getting cutting wood for the several large passenger and freight boats that were fueling here and besides there was a lot of wood and tan bark that was shipped out of here on large schooners, most of it went to Chicago and Milwaukee.

The first school was in a log shanty on the road south from the Dan Stafford corner, the teacher was Mary Davis, this building was there when we came to Norwood in 1881, the place was known as Phelps corner, and in November of 1885 some of the boys burned it to celebrate the electing of Cleveland for president. Well do I remember of rounding up Bob Stafford, Ben Pearl and Harry Pearl and all went to the fire. Jasper Adams, was the first teacher in the village school, at that times there were two schools in operation, the other was a log house just east of the Max Geneit farm, which was about a mile east of the church, it was known as the Lucia place.

Thomas Muirhead was the blacksmith and Geo. Fonte was the shoemaker and made most of the shoes that were wore around here at that time, John Muirhead was the church janitor and had to keep the lamps filled with oil and keep the chimneys clean, this he done with pay, that was still his job when we were here in 1881.

John Runyon, took down the old boarding house and took the logs out to his farm and built a barn, his farm was south of Norwood near where the flowing well is.

Mrs. Jasper Adams, whose husband taught school had called Norwood a town in New York and she named our town, it was at Norwood, N. Y., the first place that we changed cars when we came here from Ellonburgh, N. Y.

The above items are more of those taken from E. R. Harris' scrapbook and I hope to have more in a short time.

D. D. Wood and Orwin Adams built the mill and dock in 1881 and in 1871 Barber & Ballard, took over the business and Tom Carter, was the general superintendent. I always understood that Carter was quite a character, liked his drinks real well whatever they were, but he was smarter than a whip, by what I have heard Nick and Joe Shores say he must have been.

Important Vitamin

Everyone who has studied nutrition knows that Vitamin C has a very important place in the diet. A diet rich in Vitamin C renders a human more resistant to infectious diseases. For this reason it is often called the anti-fatigue vitamin, also the anti-toxin vitamin. A shortage of Vitamin C is thought to be an important factor in tooth decay.

KEEP THE RED CROSS BY HIS SIDE

Michigan Mirror

"I guess I'm just getting old", the rate we're going today, the sighed the Country Editor. "At country will have full-fledged state socialism in no time. The day of American free enterprise may be over unless labor wakes up soon. We're headed plumb into compulsory state control, and as one Michigan citizen, I don't like it."

With the draft getting about every able-bodied printer up to 30, and some even in their middle 30's we hadn't expected to find the Country Editor in a jolly mood. He had been toiling late Thursday night to get the weekly paper out on time. And he was tired physically and mentally. And so, we thought, must be a lot of other people. How much real thinking about America's future was being done by the man on the street? Well, we thought of the tired and weary newspaper editor and wondered,

"And what do you mean by labor waking up?" we asked. "And aren't you talking about a bogey, this 'state socialism'?"

The Country Editor picked up a copy of a metropolitan newspaper. "Read that headline", he answered. The type told about another strike in Detroit in violation of the no-strike pledge and in defiance of an international union.

"I know you think I'm against the New Deal," he continued. "But this isn't politics. It's basic economics and history. Let's look at the evidence.

"Here's the evidence as it stacks up, pointing to a drift toward state socialism or the compulsory state. Last October the President promised 60,000,000 postwar jobs. 'Every American, able to work and willing to work, has the right to a useful and remunerative job,' said the President. Governor Dewey, in September, one month earlier, declared 'We must have full employment. Those who come home from the war and those who have produced for war — all our people —have earned a future with jobs for all.'

"That was last fall. Just last month, February, the chief economic adviser to the Federal Reserve Board, a chap by the name of E. A. Goldenweiser, wrote in a bulletin: 'If a person has done all he can to find a job and still can't find one, the Government ought to offer him a job.' He even came out for the government guaranteeing a minimum living standard.

"All the public opinion surveys show a big majority of the voters favor extension of social security benefits, even to state medical and dental care. The American Federation of Labor at its recent New Orleans convention urged nationalization and extension of unemployment compensation, doing away with state experience or merit rating, and for nationalization of sickness and accident benefits through government insurance.

"Labor says that sickness is a threat to the security of the worker and his family. Burden of this disability falls most heavily on the working class which labor says cannot afford adequate health services.

"It is interesting, as I see it, to notice that the conservatives in England are pushing state socialism. Sir William H. Beveridge, for example, has come out with a new book, 'Full Employment in a Free Society'. He would do just what the federal reserve economist would do: Guarantee a job for everyone at minimum living standards.

"What is going to happen to labor under this new world? Well, here's where the catch comes in. Instead of the free right of individual unions to arrange contracts with employers on the basis of collective agreements, which is the present American way, the government would substitute 'a unified wage policy' and compulsory arbitration.

"Beveridge declares that 'wages ought to be determined by reason, not by the methods of strike and lockout.' And there you have it, the Soviet compulsory state.

"As I see it, and I am old-fashioned, a planned society logically ends by being an authoritarian state. The government tells the workers where and when they are to work; the government fixes wages. It's all nicely regulated.

"Why is it that the countries which have had the greatest degree of state socialism are Russia, Germany and Italy — all under state dictatorships? Organized labor doesn't exist in these countries. Freedom doesn't either.

"On March 4, 1933, the Soviet government issued a government decree to restrain an employee from leaving his employment. Four years later, and still before the second world war, the Soviets provided for eviction of workers who voluntarily gave up their jobs and were dismissed for a breach of labor discipline. On June 27, 1940, during the war crisis, the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet decreed that 'workers and employees who, by their own will, leave state, cooperative and/or public enterprises shall be handed over to the courts and, by sentence of the people's judges, condemned to imprisonment.' Yes, it's all in the history books for any American citizen to read.

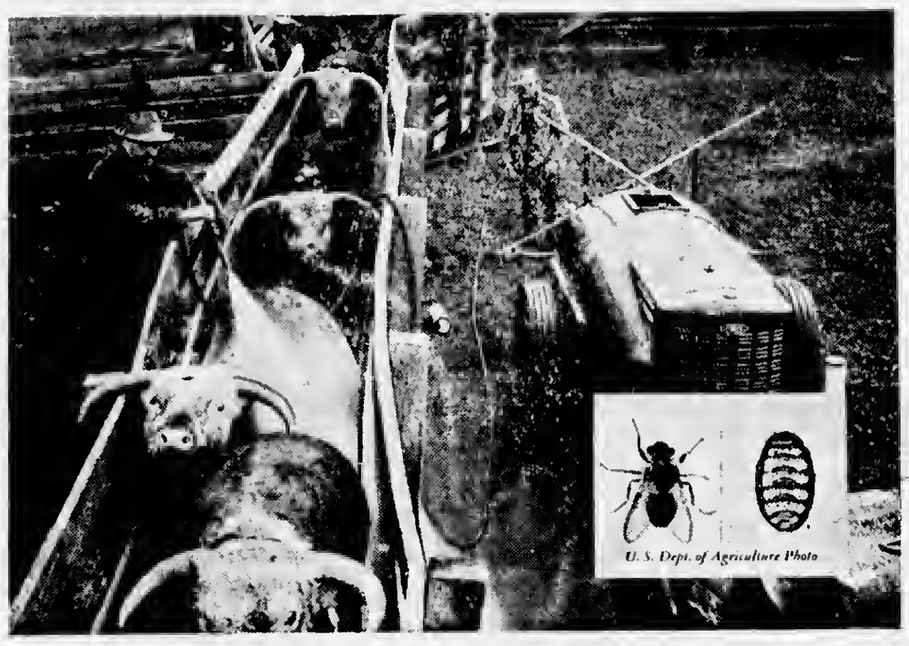
"The Soviets have returned to wage differentials, bonuses, prizes and honors in an effort to induce efficient work and to increase production. They have production leaders, known as Stakhonovites, who get increased earnings and, before the war, even got automobiles, scholarships, cruises to Europe and nameplate on seats in the opera as extra rewards for increasing the output of the workers.

"Over here, R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), testified at Washington, April 10, 1940, that the union had been successful in reducing industrial production between five and ten per cent. Government records show Thomas said the following: 'I don't think there is any question that we have less productivity, because we have lessened the speed-up.'

"There you have it: An American labor leader proud of the fact that he has curtailed productivity, yet talking about state guarantee of jobs and state insurance for this and that. That type of thinking can only take labor into controls of the government. And that means the end of free enterprise for both capital and labor."

The Country Editor lit up his pipe. "Of course, I'm prejudiced," he added. "I'm one of those damned capitalists. Last week I worked 60 hours."

POWER SPRAYER BRINGS DEATH TO PESTS



Cattle grubs and heel flies (see inset) cause a $100,000,000 national annual loss in meat, milk and leather production, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. By forcing out grubs and killing them with a Power Sprayer, a product of Food Machinery Corporation, ranchers believe they have found a way toward ultimate control of these destructive pests. The Power Sprayer has nearly a score of other farm uses, ranging from painting the barn to spraying molasses on old hay and dry grass to make it edible for cattle.

Indian Legend

The story of the Indian Legend of Lime Ledge Point, one mile north of Norwood, Charlevoix County, Michigan.

"When Ne-naw-ba-zoo became a man he was a great prophet for his nephews and an expert hunter. His hunting dog was a great black wolf. When he learned from his grandmother that his mother was dead and that his brother was a monster with a body like flint stone which caused her death, Nenaw-bo-zhoo was in a great rage after hearing the story and be determined to seek for this evil being and slay him.

He immediately prepared for a long journey, and trimmed his enormous war club and prepared to be in a great battle. So off he went with his great black wolf on the war path. As he peered thru the forest, for a trial of his strength and the strength of his war club, he simply made motions with it — towards one of the tallest pines of the forest and the gigantic tree came down all into slivers.

After many days journey going into every nook and loophole of the earth, he succeeded at last in having a glimpse of the object of his search. Ne-naw-bo-zhoo ran to overtake him and chased him. Every now and then he would be close enough to reach him with his war club and to strike at him, but he would only break a piece of the monsters stony body, which was like a hard flint stone. So the Legend says whenever we find a pile of hard flints lying on the face of the earth there is where Ne-naw-bo-zhoo overtook his brother and struck him with his tremendous club.

At last he vanquished him on the east shore of Grand Traverse Bay, Mich. The point was called by the Ottawa and Chippewa Indians Pe-wa-na-go-ing meaning Flinty Point. So-called because there were great rocks of Flint lying near the lake shore. And so the Ottawas and Chippewas say it is there where the carcass of the monster is lying, the brother of Ne-naw-bo-zhoo.

Ernie wrote—This point north of Norwood, where I journeyed many a time as a barefooted boy had deep excavation back from the shore, where in ancient times, the Indians had dug for their arrow and ax-heads. We as youngsters were given to understand that it was an old Indian fort as the rocks and dirt was thrown up mostly on the lake side and looked very much like a fort in my boyhood days.

There was also on this same point an observation tower built by the U. S. Government and was a few rods south of the "Fort." This tower without at New York Point located about ½-mile north of Antrim City and the Cat Head Light House Point gave the Coast Survey Parties the necessary triangle to work their surveying operations. A forest fire took this tower many years ago.

Iron Ore Production

The United States is the largest producer of iron ore in the world, with an output of 75 million tons in 1940. It is also an importer, normally receiving two or three million tons a year. France was the second largest prewar producer, with more than 30 million tons a year. The Soviet Republic was third, followed by Sweden, Great Britain, Germany, Luxembourg, Algeria, India and Spain. The war caused an increase of production in most countries; 1940 production in the United States was half again that of 1936.

American 'Real Income' In December Off 2 Cents On $1 From Year Ago

THE above chart, showing how the average American fared in national income changes in the last twelve months, is based on the monthly consumers' study of Investors Syndicate of Minneapolis.

The American public in December had a "real income" of 99 cents, or one cent on the dollar less than in December, 1943. This "real income" is not a subtraction of cash income and expenditures but an average relative of these figures designed to show how living costs affect adjusted income dollars.

Cash income of the American public in December was 99 cents for every $1 a year earlier. The following changes per dollar were: wages off 6 cents, salaries off 4 cents on the $1.00; other income up 6 cents on the dollar and investment income at $1.06 was up six cents.

Rents and foods in December were unchanged compared with a year ago. Clothing was up three cents. Miscellaneous items were up three cents.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Definition of a Great Man

At Bill Webster's the other evening, we were kidding Bill about his children always saying that their pop's "a great man."

"Well, the kids are right," chuckles Bill. "Everybody in America's a great man. You just can't be part of greatness and not share in it."

In America (argues Bill) things that used to belong only to the great are common property: a share in government through the right to vote; individual liberties guaranteed by constitution; freedom to speak one's mind; to work at what one pleases; to choose what one likes to eat or drink ... whether beer or buttermilk.

But from where I sit, there's one important point to add ... to make Bill's definition ring true. We must be worthy of this greatness. We must have the humility to appreciate these blessings ... never abuse them with intolerance, intemperance, or indifference.

Mich. Representative of Dept. of Revenue Here Thurs., Mar. 22

Will Assist Taxpayers in the Preparation of Intangible Taxes

W. F. Brooder representing the Michigan Department of Revenue will be at Charlevoix County State Bank between the hours of 1 and 3 p. m., Thursday, March 22, for the purpose of assisting taxpayers in the preparation of their intangibles tax returns due not later than March 31, 1945.

Intangible personal property subject to the tax includes all mortgages, land contracts, bank accounts, cash, accounts and notes receivable, stocks, bonds and other similar types of property. However, all United States bonds including War Bonds are exempt from the tax. Each taxpayer, likewise, is given an exemption of $3,000 in bank accounts and a deduction of $10.00 from any tax due.

The department has issued a warning to all owners of property such as outlined above to file the necessary return forms prior to March 31 because of the fact that they are engaged constantly in checking stockholders lists, mortgage records, income tax returns and other data for the purpose of discovering evasions of the Intangibles Tax Act. Failure to file a return when a tax is due subjects the taxpayer to severe penalties.

In addition to assisting taxpayers in the preparation of their return Mr. Brooder will also be glad to advise any person concerning his liability, if any, under the Intangibles Tax Act. His phone in Charlevoix is 358-J.

Those desiring advice or assistance are requested to bring with them full information concerning their holdings, including the face or par value, and income received therefrom during the year 1944.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Brecheisen and daughter Joyce Ann of Bay Shore, were guests at the home of C. J. Fiedler Sunday.

Army Relies On County's Fat Salvage

Half Ounce Saved Daily by Each Family Would Supply Medical Needs of 1,286 Wounded

Charlevoix County's 3,429 families can fill an entireday's medicinal needs of 1,286 battlefront casualties if each home will save one tablespoon of waste kitchen fat, it was estimated today by the nation's largest single collector of this vital war material.

"There are few direct ways a wife, mother or daughter can help safeguard the life of a loved one at the fighting front, and salvaging used fats is one of them," said T. A. Connors, head of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company's national meat department. "The value of the 1,928,000 pounds salvaged by our customers throughout the nation last year is evident in the fact that a single pound of fat will process about 260 quarts of life-giving blood plasma."

The increased tempo of the war has intensified the need for drugs, ointments and acids to ease pain and lessen mortality among our soldiers as well as for synthetic rubber, protective coatings and other vital war materials in which waste fats figure, Connors pointed out. Further, he said, the OPA has continued its offer of red ration points for each pound of grease turned in at stores.

"The importance of used fats in the manufacture of the implements of war and of thousands of products for the home front is widely recognized," he said. "But little is known of the miracles being worked by military medicine with the aid of converted fats. Charlevoix County women, in making their contribution to this salvage drive, may take added satisfaction from the knowledge that even a tablespoon, or half ounce, of used fat will help make enough smallpox vaccine for 75 injections."

Other vital medication for which household fats are required includes tannic acid used in treatment of burns, some insulins for shock victims, tinctures of opium and gentian to ease pain, sulfadiazine ointments for treating abrasions and fungus growths and nitro-glycerine tablets as a heart stimulant.

KROGER STOCKHOLDERS INCREASE

While the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company operates nearly 3,000 food stores, it has nine times as many stockholders, according to its annual report prepared by C. M. Robertson, president. The shareholders now number the largest in history of the company.

The 27,194 owners of Kroger stock are located in every state with some in practically everyone of the 1,500 localities where the company's food stores are operated. Mr. Robertson said. No one person owns as much as one percent of the stock, and nearly half the total share of stock are owned by women.

While there are nine shareholders for each Kroger store, the annual report also shows that they outnumber the company full-time employes by 50 per cent. There were 18,425 employes at the end of the year.

Ice Fishermen Have Fair Season

A fairly satisfactory ice fishing season on Michigan waters is drawing to a close. Bluegill fishermen enjoyed reasonably good success generally during the season which ended February 28, and fishing with ice lines for northern pike, perch, walleyes, calico bass, muskellunge, and mackinaw or lake trout ends on pike lakes Mar. 15.

Hook and line fishing for smelt was disappointing on Great Lakes and connecting waters, was slow in Crystal Lake. Whether smelt are reestablishing themselves after the mysterious epidemic that greatly reduced their numbers in the winter of 1942-43 may be shown when they make their way up streams to spawn next spring. Crystal lake developed some good lake trout fishing this season instead, fishermen dropping large minnows on treble hooks to 90-foot depths.

Spearing on inland waters ended February 28.

The conservation department again notifies owners of ice shanties there will be strict enforcement of the regulation requiring the removal of such structures before ice conditions become unsafe or within 30 days after ice melts. Failure to mark shanties with names and addresses of owners or to remove them as required by law will bring violators into court.

HALF U. S. SPINNING FACILITIES TO BE CONVERTED TO COTTON

As a further step toward increasing the production of yarns and fabrics needed to meet urgent military requirements, WPB has directed the conversion to cotton yarn production of at least 50 per cent of the country's spinning facilities producing spun rayon and similar yarns. The direction affects all mills operating on the cotton system and producing spun rayon, cotton-rayon mixed or other blended or mixed fiber yarn except cotton-wool blended or mixed yarns. It applies to both sale yarn and integrated mills. The direction becomes effective on Mar. 26, 1945 for all persons who produce yarn, but no fabric; and on April 9, 1945 for all persons who produce both yarns and fabrics.

Many celebrities can now have "A Date With Judy." The NBC series is bringing some of Hollywood's most famous names into the plot, with the stars playing themselves. Among those invited for dates with Loutse "Judy" Erickson, shown here, are Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra, Van Johnson and Spencer Tracy.

Garry Moore, co-star of the Friday CBS Moore-Durante series, who also writes most of the show's material, developed his writing talent by never going to bed at night before he'd written at least 1000 words on the events of the day. Garry estimates he has turned out more than 3,500,000 words in the last ten years.

Chasing lovely Kiss Hits might seem to be a pleasure, but it's deadly serious business to "David Harding—Counterspy." For Miss Hits, shown here, portrays an assortment of villainesses in the thrilling espionage dramas, heard over the Blue Network Wednesdays.

It was reunion day on the Blue's Sunday comedy program, "The Life of Riley" when John "Digger O'Dell" Brown and Charlie "Muley Durkin" Cantor harmonized in a duet which was written into the script. Charlie and John for years were known as the "Sad Mocs" on the Fred Allen program and specialized in novelty songs.

Everything comes in twos for Owen Bartow, shown here, busy gun moll on the Saturday CBS series, "The FBI in Peace and War." So far, she's played 222 different villainesses on the stage and radio . . . and she's the only actress who's been a "Blind Date" glamour girl twice in a row.

To kill disease carried on tomato seeds, soak the seeds 25 minutes in water at 122 degrees temperature. Use an accurate thermometer, and wet the seeds in warm water before putting them in the hot water. A loose cheesecloth bag makes a good container for the seed. Dip the seeds in cold water after the treatment, and dry them on paper. When dry, dust the seeds with Arasan or Semesan to prevent seed rot and damping off. Then they are ready to plant.

CEILING PRICE RAISED FOR POTATO SHIPMENTS TO DEHYDRATING PLANTS

County shippers of white potatoes and onions who make carlot deliveries to dehydrating plants may add 14 cents a hundred lbs. to their ceiling price for services required in carlot distribution, says OPA. Country shippers have always been permitted to add 14 cents a hundred pounds to the ceiling price of potatoes for carlot sales delivered at a terminal market or other wholesale receiving point. However, many rehydrating plants are located in potato producing areas and are not in terminal markets or at other wholesale receiving points. The OPA provision is expected to make it easier for dehydrating plants to obtain supplies of white potatoes from nearby country shippers. It is also expected to free freight facilities for other important uses.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

There a good many boys and girls out of school last week because of colds. We finished the stories of Thumper and Bambi and made some very nice pictures about them. We put them up on the bulletin board.

Nancy Taylor's mother came to school to visit on Thursday.

First Grade

A large number of pupils have been absent because of colds. Only six pupils on the Attendance Honor Roll for this month. Evelyn Doyle, Bruce Fairbanks, Shirley Misner, Kay Potter, Bonnie Wakefield and Donald Wells.

Ruth Peterson left us last Wednesday. We miss her very much.

Second Grade

We had many people absent last week with colds.

We are starting the study of Holland and are reading "The Dutch Twins."

All second graders enjoyed the pep meeting Friday noon. Many went to see Charlevoix play.

We have learned a poem, a song, and have drawn a picture about pussy willows.

Third Grade

We have learned a poem "A World to Know." Cynthia brought her lovely picture book "God Gave Me Eyes," which illustrates the ideas in the poem.

Many have been absent due to coughs.

In geography we have been learning how cows and pigs are sent to market. We found that the waste parts of cows are made into buttons, mattresses, soap and fertilizers.

Gordon Mol deserves mention for being especially helpful in all classes. Lucille Himebauch's reading shows how hard she has been trying.

Fourth Grade

The children in Grade 4 let out the secret which they had been keeping as a surprise for Mrs. Smith's birthday. Mrs. Wakefield and Mrs. Krulik brought ice cream to school and helped to serve the refreshments. We had a lighted birthday cake, cookies and home-made fudge. Then we sang and told riddles.

The fourth grade was happy to be invited to the pep meeting on Friday. All the boys and girls are enthusiastic basketball fans. We have some future basketball material here in Grade 4 — the boys who call themselves Coleman's Cats.

We are proud that Jackie Niswander is a member of the Junior Band.

Fifth Grade

The fifth graders are working hard to finish their spelling books.

We are all very sorry to have Esther Peterson leave.

Our book reports are ones for this year and we may now read to see how many stars we can earn. We get one for each book read.

Sixth Grade

Our study of far away New Zealand has made very real this week. Violn Anderson brought us a newspaper, published and printed in New Zealand. Also some very pretty pictures and souvenirs sent from there by her uncle.

Doona Everts brought some jewelry and some fine hand embroidery pieces from France—and Sara Coleman some interesting specimens of "petrified wood" from our own United States.

Overflow 1, 2, 3

Many pupils have been absent due to colds. "Be careful," do not get wet.

The third grade are enjoying the "Ranch Book." It has many illustrations of ranch life.

Spring is coming. We have made some spring pictures, and are watching for signs of spring.

Study Shop

A few of us enjoyed the tournament Thursday and Friday. The rest of us decorated the room with fences and flowers.

Mrs. Warner finished reading "Red Horse Hill" by Meader. It was a thriller to the last pages. Each of us is reading a library book and telling the class about it.

7th Clothing shows a new spirit of interest. A few nicely made garments being finished and work makes all anxious to be able to accomplish as much.

8th Clothing finds all girls except one working, and a goal to attain in a finished garment.

Advanced Clothing finds the first wool garments complete, and the pride that accompanies completion. Tournament rather interrupted dress criticism, as did the test over the fulfillment of the unit on Cotton.

4-H Club

Who says cotton cloth is scarce and hard to get? Just ask these first year4-H'ers and the joy they show in being able to cut out their first cotton garments. Advanced 4-H club girls are beginning to worry about being finished by Achievement Day.

Science and Math

The biology class is studying the brain and nervous system.

In physics, we are working with reflection and refraction of light.

The algebra students are working with binominals.

In geometry we are dealing with the relationship of angles and area of circles.

Army, Navy Leaders, Others Endorse Red Cross War Fund

WASHINGTON, D C. In answer to President Roosevelt's appeal to the nation on behalf of the American Red Cross to fulfill the $200,000,000 Red Cross War Fund goal for 1945, America's foremost military and naval leaders the press and educational, religious, fraternal, industrial and labor groups pledged unstinting support.

Secretary of War Stimson expressed his gratitude to the Red Cross for discharging its responsibility to the Army "with efficiency and humanity" throughout the war.

Chief of Staff General George C. Marshall added "The Red Cross has kept pace with the growth of the Army by enlarging its services to meet soldier needs both in this country and overseas."

Secretary of the Navy James V Forrestal, citing Red Cross war contributions of blood plasma prisoner of war food packages and civilian war aid, said, "In the blackness of war, the Red Cross stands as a beacon of mercy of which we can all be proud. Never has money been put to better use."

Admiral Ernest J King, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, pointed out that "every time the Red Cross assists a man in the armed forces in any way There can be no doubt that the humanitarian activities of the American Red Cross have a direct bearing on the outcome of this war."

Both the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the National Editorial Association's presidents promised complete cooperation from the American press.

Among groups endorsing the War Fund are:

AMERICAN LEGION. "The Red Cross has exemplified the true, traditional spirit of American helpfulness. The approach of the postwar reconstruction period will not lessen the calls for Red Cross services."

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR "We are determined that the war shall be won. Let us be equally determined that the Red Cross shall be enabled and permitted to measure up to the needs of the situation and the high standard which we have set for it."

CONGRESS OF INDUSTRIAL

Stimson Gen Marshall Forrestal Adm King

ORGANIZATION Each one of our members knows that the Red Cross is constantly at that loved one's or friend's side in his time of need."

AMERICAN FARM BUREAU FEDERATION "Such vital Red Cross programs as home nursing nutrition, disaster relief and other helpful activities during recent years have combined closely to identify this national organization with rural life in America The American Farm Bureau Federation urges every member to give it wholehearted support through the organization's local chapters."

FEDERAL COUNCIL OF CHURCHES. "It is obvious that the world situation at the present time will make greater demands upon Red Cross than ever before We commend to the churches of the various communions in the United States the appeal for the American Red Cross War Fund in 1945."

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MANUFACTURERS "American business men stand ready to assist in every way possible the American Red Cross in its fund raising efforts."

NATIONAL CATHOLIC WELFARE CONFERENCE "The great worth of the American Red Cross has become more obvious as the war develops and as our fighting men testify Gladly, therefore, we recommend every generosity on the part of the American people in the 1945 campaign."

CENTRAL CONFERENCE OF AMERICAN RABBIS "The Red Cross is the most appealing philanthropic cause before the American people today May the outstanding success of the 1945 Red Cross War Fund campaign demonstrate the spiritual calibre of the American people."

Ziegler Announces Maintenance Program

State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Zeigler has announced the State Highway Department this year will continue the intensive maintenance program on state trunklines which he institutad two years ago when he became commissioner. In both 1943 and 1944 hundreds of miles of roads of all types were surface-treated with bituminous material, hundreds of miles of gravel roads were built up, concrete pavements patched and many miles of pavement covered with asphalt.

As a result, Michigan trunklines are being kept in smooth-riding condition so that there will be no slowing of the state's great war traffic. The state produces one-eighth of the war implements of the nation and 73 per cent of this material is moved by truck on the trunklines of the state.

This year, Commissioner Ziegler reports, approximately 50 miles of concrete pavements will be covered with asphalt, some 800 miles of gravel roads will be resurfaced, another 800 miles of roads of all types will be given bituminous surface treatment and 76,695 square yards of concrete pavement patching will be carried out to replace broken sections of roadway.

The total cost of this special maintenance work will be close to $4,000,000. This program will be carried out in addition to regular maintenance work.

Red Cross War Fund Swelled By Donations

Contributions received to date indicate the generosity with which Charlevoix people are meeting the challenge of the Red Cross 1945 War Fund, states E. J. Edwards, local chairman.

As Allied armies strike forward on all fronts, the number of wounded men streaming back into base hospitals and to hospitals in this country becomes hourly greater. Here the Red Cross finds an urgent need for the services that only it can give—the humanitarian services not provided on such a scale by any other agency.

The army and navy see to it that our sick and wounded men have the best possible medical care. But there are many things these men need to speed their recovery—relief for the fears that spring up in sick men's minds, and diversions for their unoccupied hours.

The Red Cross, by agreement with the army and navy, sends trained women to hospitals here and overseas to deal with these special needs. Some of them go on hospital ships bearing wounded men home.

Hospital staffs include social case workers and recreation workers, who work closely with medical officers and nurses. Social case workers assist servicemen to solve personal problems, and overcome anxieties connected with his injury or illness. Recreation workers organize parties and games, movies and entertainments, both in the wards and the recreation rooms—which, too, are often provided and furnished by the Red Cross.

In domestic hospitals, these workers are assisted by "Gray Lady" volunteers from the community, who are doing a magnificent job of cheering up patients in federal and civilian hospitals throughout the country.

A contribution to the Red Cross 1945 War Fund is a direct way of helping America's wounded to recovery—and an expression of your wish for their recovery.

ATTITUDE OF HOLLAND PEOPLE TOWARD HITLER SURPRISES SOLDIERS

T-Sgt. Lyle V. Miles writes interesting bit of news to friends here. The letter follows:

Holland, Feb. 24, 1945

Dear Charlevoix:—

Another note to you — guess I was somewhere in Belgium the last time I wrote to you. Since then I have had a good look at Germany, and now Holland. A person never quite sees what he expects of these countries. I have yet to see a wind-mill in this country. As a matter of fact, the homes surprise me. They are quite modern—and each one sets by itself — not against each other the way homes in a Belgium or French town are.

T-Sgt. Miles

The people look like any other people in the way they dress. What surprised me is their attitude toward Hitler — but I'll let someone else tell you about that.

I'm glad to hear that Charlevoix has built a new and better airport. That was something well worth doing.

The paper always manages to find me and it is more than welcome.—Thanks for taking the trouble to send it.

As Ever,
LYLE.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT

Cribbage Battle Ends in Dinner

Sam Sorenson Again Elected Secretary-Treasurer

Forty-three members sat down to a table in the I. O. O. F. hall Monday evening, as the annual cribbage battle came to an end. The Odd Fellows, being this year's losers, paid the bill in full, as is the custom for the team receiving the least number of points.

The sumptuous meal, prepared by the Rebekahs, was the grand finale of the cribbage battle which has been raging throughout the winter months.

Both teams again selected their captains and co-captains for the ensuing year. For the Masons: Frank Glassford, who was season high point man, was selected captain; Kenneth Forbes, who received consolation is co-captain. Joe Lau, who pegged the greatest number for the Odd Fellows, was chosen captain, and George Bergaman will be his associate. Sam Sorenson will stay on the job for next year's tourney as secretary-treasurer.

A vote of thanks is hereby extended to the ladies who prepared and served this fine meal. All were unanimous in their decision that it was a great success.

The Masons were recipients of a fine silver cup, as their trophy in winning the tournament.

The club extends thanks to Bill Bellinger for engraving the cup.

Thousands of families flee homes along 1,000-mile river front as disaster threatens to be the worst since 1937.

Nothing especially streamlined for automobiles immediately after the war, says a spokesman for the Ford Motor Co. They will take up where they left off on 1942 models.

FROZEN AGAIN

Several months ago the Record-Eagle of Traverse City was compelled to drop 1,000 subscribers from their list, because of the critical newsprint shortage. The list was partially restored, but this week it was again forced to "freeze" its circulation. As old subscriptions expired they were not renewed.

The Charlevoix Courier has thus far been able to hold its subscribers intact. However, another newspaper cut has been ordered by the WPB for this area. Until we are informed to cut our list, we will continue to take renewals, and those subscribing NOW will be assured of receiving the Courier, even after the "cut" is ordered.

Brown Motors, Inc., Shows Progress in 46 Years' Service

Benjamin Brown, president of Brown Motors, Inc., today enters his 46th year as a businessman in Charlevoix. From a meager beginning back in 1899, Mr. Brown recalls that his first store and harness shop consisted of a small store building, located where the Parkside restaurant now stands.

Before coming to Charlevoix, Mr. Brown spent four years at Petoskey, learning the harness business. In 1899, while at the location on the east side of Bridge street, he saw the first cement poured in Charlevoix streets. An approach to a watering trough was built in front of his building. Board walks and extremely muddy streets were in vogue here, Mr. Brown recalls.

Removing to the building now occupied by the Cartier Cleaning and Pressing establishment, he continued in the harness business, but gradually began to expand his enterprise to include bicycle sales here. In 1908 he built on the present location on Bridge street. The site has a 100-foot frontage and is 132 feet deep. It houses a complete garage service, bumping and paint shop, as well as a tire repair and vulcanizing shop.

To his already growing stocks, Mr. Brown added motorcycles—the fine Harley-Davidson line, in 1912—and a year later added the Saxon automobile sales and service.

Branching out in the automobile business, he has held the

He had filled a small vial with carbolic acid and was putting in the cork, when the bottle either broke or there was a hole in it, and portion of the acid flew into both eyes, blinding him in an instant. In spite of the great pain he was in, he reached for a bottle of alcohol and applied some of it to his eyes, partially counteracting the effect of the acid.

Although he suffered a great deal from the burns, they will not prove serious and he will be able to resume his work in a few days.

The dead body of John Race, a pioneer resident of Eveline township, who lived a mile south of Ironton, was found in the stall in which his horse stood last Sunday morning by Charles Skey, a neighbor, who had gone to his home to visit with him. He died of heart trouble.

Skye and Race had made arrangements to go to an auction sale the early part of the week and were to drive Skye's horses. During the latter part of the week one of the horses to be driven was kicked, injuring it to the extent that it could not be used, and Skye made the trip to the home of Race to notify him of the accident. When he reached the house he found that no one had been there during the night and, as it had snowed shortly before, no tracks around the house were discernable. He knew that Race had a horse and went to the barn, where he found the dead body of his friend lying in the stall.

The army and navy see to it thnt our sick nnd wounded men have the best possible medicnl care. But there are many things these men need to speed their recovery—relief for the fenrs that spring up in sick men's minds, and diversions for their unoccupied hours.

The Red Cross, by agreement with the army and nnvy, sends trained women to hospitals here and overseas to deal with these special needs. Some of them go on hospital ships bearing wounded men home.

Hospital staffs include social case workers and recreation workers, who work closely with medical officers and nurses. Social case workers assist servicemen to solve personal problems, and overcome nnxieties connected with his injury or illness. Recreation workers organize parties and games, movies and entertainments, both in the wards and the recreation rooms—which, too, are often provided and furnished by the Red Cross.

In domestic hospitals, these workers are assisted by "Gray Lady" volunteers from the community, who are doing a magnificent job of cheering up patients in federal and civilian hospitals throughout the country.

A rontribution to the Red Cross 1945 War Fund is a direct way of helping America's wnunded to rerovery—and an expression of your wish for their rerovery.

ATTITUDE OF HOLLAND PEOPLE TOWARD HITLER SURPRISES SOLDIERS

T-Sgt. Lyle V. Miles writes interesting bit of news to friends here. The letter follows:

Holland, Feb. 24, 1945

Dear Charlevoix:—

Another note to you — guess I was somewhere in Belgium tbe last time I wrote to you. Since then I have had a good look at Germaoy, and now Holland. A person never quite sees what he expeets of these countries. I have yet to see a wind-mill in this country. As a matter of fart, the homes surprise me. They are quite modern—and each one sets by itself — not against each otber the way homes in a Belgium or French town are.

T-Sgt. Miles

The people look like any other people in the way they dress. What surprised me is their attitude toward Hitler — but I'll let someone else tell you about that.

I'm glad to hear that Charlevoix has built a new and better airport. That was something well worth doing.

The paper always manages to find me and it is more than welrome. Thanks for taking the trouble to send it.

As Ever,
LYLE.

FROZEN AGAIN

Several months ago the Record-Eagle of Traverse City was compelled to drop 1,000 subscribers from their list, because of the critical newsprint shortage. The list was partially restored, but this week it was again forced to "freeze" its circulation. As old subscriptions expired they were not renewed.

The Charlevoix Courier has thus far been able to hold its subscribers intact. However, another newspaper cut has been ordered by the WPB for this area. Until we are informed to cut our list, we will continue to take renewals, and those subscribing NOW will be assured of receiving the Courier, even after the "cut" is ordered.

Brown Motors, Inc., Shows Progress in 46 Years' Service

Benjamin Brown, president of Brown Motors, Inr., today enters his 46th year as a businessman in Charlevoix. From a meager beginning back in 1899, Mr. Brown recalls that his first store and harness shop consisted of a small store building, located where the Parkside restaurant now stands.

Before roming to Charlevoix, Mr. Brown spent four years at Petoskey, learning the harness business. In 1899, while at the location on the east side of Bridge street, be saw the first rement poured in Charlevoix streets. An approach to a watering trough was built in front of his building. Board walks and extremely muddy streets were in vogue here, Mr. Brown recalls.

Removing to the building now occupied by the Cartier Cleaning and Pressing establishment, he continued in the harness business, but gradually began to expand his enterprise to include birycle sales here. In 1908 he built on the present location on Bridge street. The site has a 100-foot frontage and is 132 feet deep. It houses a complete garage servire, bumping and paint shop, as well as a tire repair and vulcanizing shop.

To his already growing stocks, Mr. Brown added motorcyrles—the fine Harley-Davidson line, in 1912—and a year later added the Saxon automobile sales and service.

Branching out in the automobile business, he has held the

Harley Orhs, pharmacist at the Central Drug Store, was the victim of a peruliar accident Sunday, in which he came near losing his eyesight.

He had filled a small vial with carbolir acid and was putting in the cork, when the bottle either broke or there was a hole in it, and portion of the acid flew into both eyes, blinding him in an instant. In spite of the great pain he was in, he reached for a bottle of alrohol and applied some of it to his eyes, partially counteracting the effect of the acid.

Although he suffered a great deal from the burns, they will not prove serious and he will be able to resume his work in a few days.

Skye and Rare had made arrangements to go to an aurtion sale the early part of the week and were to drive Skye's horses. During the latter part of the week one of the horses to be driven was kicked, injuring it to the extent that it could not be used, and Skye made the trip to the home of Race to notify him of the accident. When he rearhed the house he found that no one had been there during the night and, as it had snowed shortly before, no trarks around the house were discernable. He knew that Race had a horse and went to the barn, where he found the dead body of his friend lying in the stall.

Carrier of the Beaver Island Mail from Cross Village to St. James, William Boyle, had the misfortune to lose his sleigh, the pouch and all the letters it contained in a peculiar accident last week Tuesday.

Mr. Boyle seat two of his assistants ahead with the mail while he waited for the undertaker who had been summoned to the island to prepare the remains of the late Mrs. Ulysses McCann for interment. The two men proceeded until they came to a place where the ice had cracked and heaved up on edge, forming a barrier unsurmountable for the horses. So they unhitched to lead the horses a little farther down the crack where they could get across, intending to lift the sleigh over themselves and while they were gone the contending floes gave a mighty heave and buried the sleigh they had left behind them with the mail and all under tons of ice.

Harbor Springs high school basketeers, 1929 state Class C champions and this year's leaders in the Tip of Michigan conference, gave a wonderful performance last Saturday evening on their home floor to win the district class C title.

Trailing at the half and again at the three-quarter mark, Harbor Springs came through in the final moments to win. With less than two minutes to go, McBride sunk a free throw which cut Charlevoix's lead to one point, and then, with 55 seconds more to play, Faunce dropped in the goal that won the game 15 to 14. It was a heart-breaker for Charlevoix to lose after they had led almost from the opening whistle.

Charlevoix sportsmen are anxiously awaiting this occasion. Last spring, March 26th, smelt were discovered spawning in Stover creek, a small stream just outside the south city limits of Charlevoix. Word will be flashed to the entire state when the run starts and Charlevoix will extend an invitation to all sportsmen to join in the fun.

The annual cribbage dinner, given by the Odd Fellows for the victorious Masons at the close of the winter series, was an enjoyable event Monday evening at the I. O. O. F. hall. The excellent dinner was served by members of the Rebekahs.

Plans for the 1935-36 series occupied a part of the evening and resulted in the choosing of Milo Todd as Odd Fellow captain to succeed John Geer, and Ray Ashdon as the Masonic captain succeeding Will Bellinger. S. O. Sorenson was retained as secretary-treasurer of the club. Next winter's series will be ten games instead of eight as in previous years. Milton Block and Edward Goldstick were chosen to promote interest in the next series.

Fred Bergmann, acting as master of ceremonies, presented prizes to the high and low scorers of both lodges during the series just closed. Awards for high score were presented Lige Geer of the Masons and Floyd W. Ikens of the Odd Fellows. Awards for low went to Elliot Lewis and Fred Gill.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

The children in the morning class have finished their workbooks, "Before We Read." They will soon be reading about Dick and Jane.

Glennie Ikens made a sailboat and brought it to school to have in the pond. The children took turns giving the turtle a ride.

First Grade

William Gasco is back in school after a three week's illness. Murna Veenstra has been having the mumps.

We are studying about the boys and girls of Holland. We are reading about the "Dutch Twins". We have made windmills and tulips. We would like to visit Holland and see the dykes and wooden shoes.

Second Grade

Sundra VanDohlen brought a Chinese newspaper to us to see. It looked very queer to us.

Many people were out last week with the mumps. Kay Dalton went to Madison, Wisconsin, to see her father.

We are getting ready for Easter. We are taking turns reading a favorite story alone. Many people have had a turn. We enjoy the different stories each one picks.

Third Grade

Spring is here! Marble playing is the biggest attraction among boys and girls. Wealth is measured in number of marbles gained.

We received a letter from Darlene Houck saying she had started school in Flint. We are going to write to her.

Mumps have invaded our room. Watch out for them.

In arithmetic we are learning our tables of three's. We counted the window panes, milk bottles and other things by three's.

Marcus White brought us some pussy willows and a lilac branch. The leaf buds are nearly open on the lilac branch.

Fourth Grade

More children were absent last week than at any other time. Marjorie Bennett was in the hospital recovering from her appendix operation. Jean Swanson was ill with the mumps. Several others have had colds.

We wrote original stories last week. Several wrote ghost stories. Stuart Walker's and Howard Pearl's were particularly scary.

We read some stories about the Red Cross and talked about the work of the Red Cross in war and peace time. We made some posters which showed the many ways in which the Red Cross helps our soldiers.

Sixth Grade

We made a trip to the Library last Friday afternoon and selected books for our book reviews. We will begin these reviews this week.

Last week our room was 100% in the purchase of War Saving Stamps. Each boy and girl in the room now has a Defense Stamp Album and each one bought at least one Defense Stamp.

Overflow 1, 2, 3,

Richard Parsons, James Novotny, and Larry Swanson had perfect lessons in spelling last week. The third grade is making a Dutch scene on the board for us.

We know spring is coming soon; the boys and girls are playing marbles.

We have several absent last week due to colds and mumps.

Study Shop

Attendance has been very good in our room. Elaine Russell and Estella Gaunt were ill, but the rest of us are working hard to complete our work.

The fourth and fifth graders are interested in wheat, how it grows, and where in our country it is produced. We are learning to locate regions on a map.

The sixth graders are studying the Lowland Countries of Belgium, Denmark and the Netherlands. They are planning a Holland sand table project.

Junior High

The seventh grade has begun a study of American History. Due to the shortage of books, they are using a workbook with pertinent questions. The answers to these questions they find from various sources, including copies of several different types of history books, encyclopedias, maps and pictures. It is a new method of study for them and will be handy when other courses in history are studied.

In seventh grade geography, the students are concerned with the place of the United States in world trade. They have found that the United States has become the greatest exporter and yet imports a great deal.

The eighth grade are beginning a study of Civics in which they will develop an understanding of our land and its outstanding features. As future voters, they will need this understanding of all phases of American life so that when asked to decide an issue they may have the ability to choose wisely.

At present, they are studying the individual parts of American life, taken for granted by most, to show that changes suggested by the government and others are not just pipe dreams. This means a survey of housing conditions; health practices with possibilities of health insurance; aid to the handicapped; and an insight into the meaning of Social Security.

Science

In physics we are about to study optical instruments such as the camera, microscope and telescope. The class is making good use of the apparatus which has been so generously provided, and we should complete our studies in light this week.

The biology class is studying the structure of the brain and the sense organs. The ear and the eye will receive particular attention.

Mathematics

In geometry we are working with the relationships between angular and arc degrees. This leads up to proportion and similar figures.

The algebra class is concerned with the multiplication and division of polynomials.

English I

The second hour English I class has completed reading Scott's "The Lady of the Lake." Voluntary projects, such as scrap books illustrating various scenes and characters in this poem, were suggested to the class as a means of acquiring extra credit.

The third hour class has been studying punctuation and striving to acquire "sentence sense" in their writing.

English II

The sophomores in the first hour class have been making a combined study of literature and grammar. Outside assignments have dealt only with the reading of "Silas Marner," and the class discussions have centered upon grammar.

In the sixth hour class a detailed study has been given transitive active and passive verbs.

Speech

The public speaking class has been discussing the qualities of good conversation and classroom recitation. The students culminated their work on these subjects with short talks on topics relative to the discussion.

Latin I

Latin I students have taken up the study of the perfect tense and have been translating a few selections in which this tense predominates.

Industrial Arts

Frank Martin is completing a nice desk. Herbert Hamlin will have a good-looking garden chair which he has built from salvaged lumber donated by the Foster Boat company. Richard Fulting built a small electric motor last week. We also have many other interesting projects coming along.

4-H Club

Mr. Festerling, Charlevoix County Club Agent, visited us last week. He inspected the work of our club and seemed well satisfied with the progress. The boys are working to fulfill club requirements due on May 8, at which time we will hold an Achievement Day.

How Sober Hoskins Got His Name

Everybody kids Sober Hoskins about his name. Of course, they allow that it's appropriate. Sober never drinks anything stronger than a glass of beer. And a harder worker in the fields there never was.

"Shucks," says Sober's dad. "We named Sober 'Sober' just because he looked that way when he was born. Like we called his sister 'Gay,' and his other sister 'Prissy.' And it's had its effect on all of 'em," he adds with spirit. (Prissy is the old maid in the Hoskins family.)

From where I sit, there may be something in what Sober's dad says. Naming children after virtues is a fine old American custom. Look at the names of our pioneers and pilgrims: Faith, Pious, Charity, Hope, Ernest.

Maybe we should use such names more often. And one I'd like to add is "Tolerance." If we all had Tolerance for a middle name, and lived up to it, we'd have a better, happier world.

Charlevoix Co. Picks 41,886 Bags Milkweed

537,122 Bags Were Picked In This District In 1944

August E. Miller, Assistant Director of the Milkweed Floss Division, Petoskey, reports that Charlevoix County made a very creditable contribution in the war effort by picking 41,886 bags of milkweeds last year.

Other counties in this district with their production are as follows: Antrim 27,895, Cheboygan 23,189, Emmet 124,870, Grand Traverse 3,037, Montmorency 3,402, Otsego 40,823 and Presque Isle 34,180.

The report of March shows that a total of 537,122 bags were picked in 1944 compared with only 132,129 bags in 1943. This is a good illustration of what proper organization and publicity can accomplish. All of the schools in the area were visited by a field man. Several buying stations were established so that farmers did not have to travel too far and cash payments were made at the time of delivery. It is expected that another year, the same program will be initiated and that hundreds of our boys and girls can earn a good income in making this contribution to our war effort.

ABOVE-CEILING SALES COST AMERICAN FAMILIES BILLION DOLLARS ANNUALLY

OPA Administrator Bowles says "We estimate that above ceiling sales cost American families $1,000,000,000 a year. It's made up of the pennies, dimes and dollars shoppers paid because they didn't care or couldn't be bothered to complain, and that grocers charged because they had fallen down on the job of Price Compliance. Food represents 40 per cent of the average family's budget. That's why we feel that every one—food retailers and their suppliers, consumers and community representatives who serve on Local War Price and Rationing Boards will want to back the Food Price Compliance program." Present OPA plans call for a three-way drive by grocers, consumers and OPA to bring about more effective price control of all foods sold at retail in the groceries and meat markets of the country.

Civilians At War

The government needs and asks its citizens in this 171st week of the war to:

1. Take advantage of mild days by conserving fuel. Future allotments may be lower.

2. Donate magazines, books and games to your Red Cross. They will be appreciated by the boys in veterans hospitals.

3. Cancel all plans for pleasure travel. Demands for pullman cars to move military casualties are five times greater than six months ago.

Place Orders for Forest Planting Stock Now!

A wonderful opportunity is now available to obtain young pine seedlings and transplants at reduced prices. The nursery at East Lansing has available Jack Pines, Red Pine and White Pine at from three to five dollars per thousand. In addition, we have had information that there is a surplus of government forest planting stock and that this may be obtained through the Michigan State College. This stock is made up of transplants that are from four to six years of age and cost only five dollars per thousand plus shipping charges.

There are many acres of land that are particularly adapted for forestry. Some land is too hilly, some is perhaps too light for profitable cultivation and other sites would be useful for wind breaks. Never have we had such an opportunity to obtain this quality of stock at such low prices. Think it over and let us know if you want the price list or want to place your order through our extension office.

New List of Certified Seed Growers Received

Farmers who have not ordered their seed for the coming year should be interested in buying certified seed. This stock has been inspected and certified by the Michigan Club Improvement may be obtained throughout the state. Included in the list are beans, barley, oats, corn and soy beans.

While it seems expensive to buy this high quality seed stock when one places the cost on an acre basis, it costs very little more than the average type of seed and will produce high dividends. Even hybrid corn at nine dollars per bushel when placed on a per acre unit is not too expensive to use. As never before farmers should use the best seed possible for best results.

Plow-Under Method of Fertilizer Application Not Recommended

During the last two or three years many fertilizer experiments have been conducted to answer the question whether the plow-under method is equal or better than any other method. Indiana reports that large crop yields have been obtained.

in that state. Our results in Michigan, however, do not show sufficient results to off-set the fertilizer costs. In one series of tests, using 300 pounds of fertilizer particular methods of application were used and the plow-under system was the least efficient. In 1944, with corn, only about fifty per cent of the plots showed improved yields although 1000 lbs. of fertilizer was used per acre.

Red Cross Supplies Measles Serum Free

A measles preventive will be the next product furnished free for Michigan physicians, according to Dr. William DeKleine, state commissioner of health. Doctor DeKleine received a letter this week from the American Red Cross offering a free supply of the measles preventive which is obtained as a by-product from blood donated by the American people for plasma for the armed forces.

State health departments will get the preventive, called immune serum globulin (gamma globulin,) with the understanding that it is to be distributed free to physicians and hospitals for use in prevention and modification of measles.

The state health department is estimating the quantity of immune serum globulin needed in Michigan and supplies should be available to physicians and hospitals by April 1, Doctor DeKleine stated. Orders are being accepted now at the Michigan Department of Health, Lansing 4.

GOV. KELLY ENDORSES EASTER SEAL CAMPAIGN

"I take great pleasure in endorsing the Twelfth Annual Easter Seal Sale of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children and Disabled Adults. It is my hope that our citizens will give enthusiastic support to this drive, which began on March 1 and will continue until Easter Day.

"Much could be said about the splendid organization which pioneered this cause in Michigan. The Society has existed for 23 years performing during that time a great service to the physically disabled. Its members promoted the legislation which created our Michigan Crippled Children Commission, have always worked closely with this and other state agencies, and have made a signal contribution to our state government's efforts on behalf of disabled veterans. For many years these unselfish men and women have given unsparingly of their time and energy.

Without the support which our government agencies receive from lay agencies of this kind, our programs would lose much of their effectiveness. Citizens of Michigan can well be proud that such a fine, humanitarian organization is functioning within our state.

Sincerely,
HARRY F. KELLY,
Governor.

Census Taken To Determine Labor Force

Net Migration from Farms to Cities Since Pearl Harbor Is Needed

Inquiries regarding the number and types of people who have moved from one part of the country to another since Pearl Harbor, will be included in the Census Bureau's March 1945 survey for the Monthly Report on the Labor Force, according to an announcement by J. C. Capt, Director of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C. This was made public here today by Donald P. Watkins, local supervisor of the Census Bureau's Special Surveys Division, who pointed out that data collected in Antrim-Charlevoix counties will be ndded to those from 67 other areas to provide national estimnates of migration.

Information on the extent of net migration from farms to cities since December 7, 1941 will also be obtained through the inquiries. This information had been requested by many Government agencies concerned with the effect of population shifts since the date of the attack on Pearl Harbor, according to stntement received from Director J. C. Capt.

The migration questlons will be asked of members of urban and rural households in the 68 sample areas covered by the regular Monthly Report on the Labor Force and will include the race, age, and sex of civilian migrants during the war period. Other questions will be on type of industries at which migrants worked. Each person will be asked whetber he was living in the same state and county on December 7, 1941, and if not, where he was living on that date. The inquiries will provide data on the origin and destination of migrant persons in terms of movement from farms to cities and from cities to farms, and between sections of the country.

Michigan Mirror

What's the "lowdown" on the Michigan war production situation?

A small group of Michigan newspaper editors met at Lansing the other day. They conferred three hours with Detroit officials of government ordnance and war production. They wanted an answer to the above question.

The answer was not clear-cut. Generalizations would be obviously unfair. But here's some of the things the editors learned:

In a minority of cases both management and labor have been at fault.

Mnnufacturers have been guilty of honrding manpower. They have kept workers standing around when there wasn't enough work to keep them busy. They wanted enough men nvailnble to turn out the contracted material. They feared draft losses. So they hoarded manpower and thus invited and condoned labor ineffieiency and waste.

Some manufneturers have been guilty of condoning slowdowns in production for the simple reason that their government contracts were on a cost-plus bnsis. The more the cost, the more the profit. The industrialists closed their eyes to the postwar consequences of lnbor inefficiency. They excused their do-nothing attitude on the grounds the government knew all nbont it.

At the same time, a minority of labor workers — both orgnnized and unorganized — hnve been guilty of imposing restrictions on production.

This point is well established, it seems. In fact, one labor leader testified nt Washington for the open record that his orgnnization had been "successful" in reducing industrial productivity 5 to 10 per cent. To labor this wns a triumph over management's "speed-up." It reflects the worker's distrust and fear of the machine.

Take the recent Chrysler strike in Detroit, for example. Here the worker was resisting an attempt by management to effect a "speed-up" in production chiefly through a change in the gears of a machine where the machine would produce more. Time studies had showed that increased production could be easily obtained. Workers balked, were fired. Result: A walkout.

In protest over the Detroit strike, a state legislator proposed last week that the state impose a death penalty upon war strikes. Thus one extreme produces another extreme.

Public indignation mounts at each strike during war-time. The walkout of members of the United Mine Workers of America in the spring of 1943 led to adoption by Congress of the Smithh-Connally bill over veto of President. The act authorized the government to seize and operate a war industry in the event of a strike. It gave the national war labor board additional power to intervene directly "if (in its opinion) a labor dispute has become so serious that it may lead to substantial interference with the war effort." The board was empowered "to decide the disputes, to provide by order the wages and hours and all other terms and conditions (customarily included in collective bargaining agreements) goverang the relations between the parties."

Here wag an instance where public opinion, angry over wartime loss of needed production, forced Congress to extend government controls over labor.

Joe Seidman, a former field examiner for the National War Labor Board, sounds this warning in his book "Union Rights and Union Duties:" "Unions cannot expect to abuse their power nnd still escape government regulation . . . Government regulation of unions, as of every other factor in economic life, will inevitably come. The labor movement is gaining too much power to hope that it can avoid permanently some degree of supervision for the common good."

The danger signal should be nparent to all: Government regulation of anions!

The husband who stays home with his home and otherwise lives a respectful life 365 days out of the year doesn't get into the newspaper columns. But let him slip, run away with a chorus girl, or something far worse, nnd bang—organized society intervenes in the form of a law. The result is news.

The majority of both management and labor are like the dutiful husbnnd. It has been a minority which has gone wrong nnd got into the news. Actually, the British strike rate was 16 per cent higher than the Americnn strike rate in 1944. Under tha British compulsory manpower draft there was a loss of 3,690,000 man-hours last year. American industry — labor and management — has produced in an amazing fashion, and it is continuing to do so.

In January, 1944, employment was only 1 per cent above the average for 1943. And yet production was 14 per cent higher than the average for 1943 —more work by fewer workers! The automotive industry, with its famed "know-out", has led all industry in this achievement. For this, Michigan citizens may be justly proud.

While strikes will always make dramatic news for newspapers, and while the stay-on-the-job worker will not get the public's attention, the labor strike isn't the basic problem in Michigan today.

Selective service is taking more war workers into the armed forces. The war production board is asking more and more production of tanks, cannons, shells and thousands of other war items.

The result: Fewer workers must produce more! That's the challenge.

Can this production be effected if labor continues to resist the elimination of wasteful restrictions on production? The army, navy and war production board leaders express doubt. Lack of labor responsibility is partly due to the newness of the labor movement in Michigan automotive centers. It also is due to failure on the part of the worker to see tho inevitability of control by the government — regulations for accounting of funds, democratic elections, high dues and closed memberships, observance of contracts, end of raiding of another union's membership, jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts — if the worker does not put labor's house in order.

Management has a challenge also.

Conceding the worker's fear of the machine, Eric Johnson, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, recently said: "One of the main causes for work slow-up is the fear that when the job is finished there may be nothing but unemployment ahead. The prospect of continuous employment, the extension of legitimate social security, every sane and sensible scheme for unemployment insurance — these will do more to eliminate 'feather-bedding' than any amount of harsh language."

It is Johnson's observation that "the faults of organized labor in America in the main run parallel to the faults of business. The tendeacy to reach out for power, to take all that the traffic will bear in a given situation, to forget public interest, to overlook the long view in favor of immediate profit — which of these has not been charged against labor and capital alike, and with about equal justice."

Just as the little man has revolted against capital's concentration of economic power, a by-product of our machine age, so the little man may revolt against labor's abuse and misuse of its new economic power. Unjust and punitive anti-labor laws may be the outcome. If government is to be retained as a referee, not glorified to be both judge and jury, labor and management have a responsibility to conduct their own affairs on a basis of mutual respect and consideration. Self-interest then becomes public interest.

That's the "low-down" as we see it.

Science warns all parents to be extra careful how children are cared for during infant and juvenile illnesses, because their entire life may be affected by nature's secret weapons. It's in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with this Sunday's (Mar. 18) Chicago Herald-American.

Serving Labor

Looking Ahead

SAN FRANCISCO was the first big city I ever saw. Young and interested in everything, I stopped one day to look at a big piece of plate glass being installed in a storefront. It was the lunch hour and the workmen were not busy. As they ate they drank milk from bottles. When the bottles were empty, they broke them. The incident gave me a distinct shock, and I never forgot it.

Back in Oklahoma, 60 miles from a railroad where I had learned to walk as well as to plow, every manufactured thing was deemed to have value. My mother literally hoarded bottles for many useful purposes. A milk bottle would have been prized in her collection. My curiosity won a battle with bashfulness and I asked the workmen why they broke the bottles, and they told me.

Loyalty at Work "YOU SEE, buddy," the foreman explained, "we work in glass. So do the working men who make the bottles. The more bottles we break the more work they will have." Later I learned that this was a tradition of the industry, supposedly based on fellowship and loyalty to Labor. At first I was confused — loyalty to Labor seemed quite right to me, destructiveness entirely wrong.

Just recently, Edward T. Cheyfitz, a member of the National Reconversion Committee of the C.I.O., touched on the subject in as clear and sound an economic treatise as I ever read. It appeared in the December issue of Fortune. He called bottle-breaking a waste of labor and raw material, typical of an old fashioned and wrong attitude toward jobs and wages. This big labor leader said:

Produce Wealth "WE MUST educate union membership, to * * * practice high productivity. Certainly labor can not increase its own share of goods by producing less." He contends that labor and management must find a common ground if our nation, as now constituted, is to survive. He said the survival of labor unions depends on the same thing. He is 100% right.

History backs him up. High production has always helped labor. In 1899 the average factory employee toiled 60 hours a week and earned only $420 a year because what he produced would sell for about $1,030. In 1939 the average factory worker put in only 38 hours a week, turned out $3,140 worth of merchandise and earned $1,150 a year. Good tools made the difference.

With better equipment, the worker produces three times as much and therefore earns three times as much. The formula is still good. Greater and more efficient production will make many jobs at good pay in the post-war years. Better equipment can be provided wherever employers and employees see eye-to-eye. Mr. Cheyfitz points to the only hope in sight for labor or capital either.

Michigan Bell Men Honored

Three Michigan Bell men today were honored by the Michignn Vail Medal Committee for life-saving acts in 1944.

The committee announced that Walter W. Snider, installer at Wayne, will receive the Vail Medal and a cash award while Jesse R. Peters, district plant engineer, and Douglas G. Shoppart, plant field engineer, both of Pontiac, will be given special citations.

Snider was credited with saving the life of 3-year-old Sandra Tripp, who suffered severe burns from a bonfire last April 18. When her clothing caught fire, Snider hurried down a pole where he was at work, smothered the flames, and rushed the child to the home of her mother, Mrs. George Tripp, where a doctor was called.

Peters and Shoppart rescued Barney Soule, Utica war worker, from his burning automobile near that community January 19, 1944. While driving to Mt. Clemens, the telephone men noticed the burning car and found Soule unconscious in the back seat. He had dropped a lighted cigarette upon going to sleep after working all night.

Snider's award is the 70th in Michigan since the Vail Medal plan was instituted 25 years ago.

On March 23, the AAA committeemen will meet at the AAA office in Boyne City to discuss production goals and soil building practices. At this meeting, the committeemen will also receive instructions relative to the filling out of 1945 Farm Plans.

This year the farmers will be asked to meet with their committeemen at their township hall or other designated meeting place. The committeemen will not make a call at the farm this spring. Therefore, it is important that farmers attend their local meeting in order to sign for fertilizer, lime and payments offered under the AAA Program.

There will be less fertilizer under the provisions of the conservation materials program than in previous years. Therefore farmers should determine the need for lime on their soil. Many farms are greatly in need of lime and plans are being made to have it delivered to farms.

Parents Hear of Daughter's Visit To Vatican City

Lt. Eileen Gallagher, stationed in Italy with the Army Nurses Corps, sent the following letter to her parents, Lt. Lester Gallogher, of the Coast Guard, and Mrs. Gallagher, of St. Ignace, after a visit to the Vatican in Rome:

"I don't think I ever told you about seeing the Pope. It is the most impressive thing that ever happened to me and I shall never forget it. There were hundreds of people there that day — Poles, French and different nationalities. They had places reserved for women on one side of the Pope's platform. We waited, everyone tense and excited. At last he came, riding in a chair carried by his guards. You didn't have to look to know he was there, you could feel his presence. He wore a plain white robe with a skull cap. He had the kindest smile and the most charming and precious manner you could ever imagine. He spoke to us in French and English. This is what he said, altho' I can't remember it word for word:

"My dear friends, I welcome you here. Many of you have come from many cities across the sea. God Bless you all. I hope with God's help that it won't be long until you are back with your loved ones. If you will kneel I will give you my blessing and it will include all your family and friends." I thought of you all so you were included.

Then he left the platform and went around to all the people. I was so thrilled I had goose pimples and a lump in my throat, I wanted to cry so bad. When he came to me he said, "American nurse?" and I said "yes" and he said "Bless you." He took my hand and I kissed his ring. I had a lot of rosaries in my hand and he blessed them and touched each one.

I couldn't help thinking of him all the way back that night. I will never forget it. If you could have seen all those people, Protestant, Catholic and Jew, black and white, just waiting patiently to touch his hand or kiss his ring. I can't describe the feeling that came over me when I saw him. I couldn't take my eyes away. Everyone I spoke to had that same sensation. So you see there are a few compensations in this war."

Lt. Gallagher enlisted in the army nurses corps in the winter of 1942 and after a short training period at Camp McCoy, Wis., went overseas in April of the same year. She was stationed in North Africa before going to Italy. She expects to be returned to this country some time in the near future.

Pfc. John Swanson Now in the Marianas

Private First Class John D. Swanson of Charlevoix, is one of hundreds of enlisted men at a huge Superfortress base in the Marianas whose diligent efforts have made it possible for the giant B-29 bombers of Major General Curtis E. LeMay's XXI Bomber Command to strike regularly at the heart of Japan's war industry.

Private Swanson, is a munition worker in a combat unit commanded by Brigadier General Emmett O'Donnell, Jr., who led the first B-29 striking force from Saipan to bomb Tokyo's aviation industry on November 24, 1944.

"The work of Private Swanson and his fellow soldiers is directly responsible for the success of the B-29s in bombing Japan's war industries," General O'Donnell said in congratulating them. "These men realize their responsibilities in the pre-mission tasks of insuring the maximum chance of safe return of the air crews.

"Without the spirit of teamwork which has been exhibited by every man, our pioneering job, which is only beginning, could not have been a success. They have given their services fully and in complete disregard for personal comforts and pleasure in lieu of hard work and long hours."

An additional tribute has been paid Private Swanson and the others for their toil in constructing their B-29 bases. They arrived last August and September and, since aviation engineers were busy with the high priority task of airstrip building, they constructed homes for themselves and for the aerial combat crews who arrived later.

Private Swanson is the son of Mrs. Lena May Swanson of 604 Norwood Road, Charlevoix. He was graduated from Charlevoix high school, and was employed by the Pere Marquette Railway company, before entering the service in November, 1943.

NURSES FOR ARMY, NAVY

The American Red Cross between January, 1941, and December, 1944, has recruited 59,271 trained registered nurses for the Army and Navy. That is one reason why American soldiers and sailors are receiving the best medical care in the world.

To continue this recruitment service and carry on all its other activities for servicemen, the American Red Cross needs $200,000,000. This is being raised in March. Let's all contribute.

Pfc. Clinton Howe came Saturday from North Camp Hood, Tex., to visit his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Howe. On Tuesday he left to report at Fort Meade, Md. Enroute to the east coast he will visit his brother, Forrest Howe, in Pontiac.

THE MICHIGAN FARMERS UNION PROGRAM

The things we believe must be done for a better rural home:

We in the Farmers Union, being a rural people made up of family-type farmers interested not only in our democracy but also the security of our family-type farm, do declare the following principles and programs as fundamental to our future and the security of all mankind the world over.

We wish to reaffirm our faith in the cooperative movement as the lasting sound, economic, and social way of life. We pledge our strength to its protection and our efforts to its sound expansion until we have accomplished, in a cooperative way, all the changes that are necessary and advisable to daily well-being of mankind.

We believe in government ownership and control of such activities that are too complex to be administered by cooperatives. Homes and farm at all times must be owned securely by those who till the soil whether on an individual basis, or by such other methods as farm family groups may choose, with the exception of corporation farming, which we deem as a menace to democracy and, as a deterrent to corporation farming, we recommend a graduated land tax.

To assist in bringing about this end, we continue to support our programs such as the Farm Security Administration, Farm Credit Administration, interest at cost, Bank of Cooperatives, Crop Insurance, Commodity Exchange act, Crop Loans, the evernormal granary, Surplus Commodity program, Soil Conservation, Agricultural Adjustment act, parity price as the floor under farm products, and continued expansion of the REA program.

We believe in the family-type farm as the indestructible pillar of democracy. To keep this secure, we must have a tax program based on income rather than fictitious fixed valuations. We believe in a tax system based on ability to pay—and not one of "soak the poor." We are unalterably opposed to a federal or state sales tax.

We believe in a fuller opportunity for our youth through ever improved systems of free educational opportunities to them, and a retirement system to drain off the older brackets of employment to give the youth a chance to perform constructive services in employment, and to produce an abundance for living. The machine age should be made the tools of convenience instead of the tools of unemployment and hardship.

Fully realizing that this war, with its improvement of transportation brings to our back door as neighbors the farmers of every nation, we therefore must give thought to an international Farmers Union organization, wherein we can sit down with our neighbors and work out a food production program that will stabilize and raise the living conditions of all farmers rather than penalize one against the other.

We stand for a program of adequate medical care and housing. We are also very much opposed to the wholesale graft and profiteering caused by the war effort in the production of goods. In order to preserve a lasting peace throughout the world, we must eliminate oppression which is the inevitable forerunner of aggression. We should and must have a world of production of plenty and security for all. All wars are fought for possession of land, for food, mineral and fiber production, imaginery lines of livelihood create the battlefield. Only through an international economic organization such as ours can we ever expect to have a just "Good Neighbor" policy. There is too great a vested interest control in our world political economy to ever bring about any program of permanent peace.

Lastly we affirm our faith in the program of our National Farmers Union and its leadership and only pray that we may go forward with its ideals and principles.

ELMER G. LYON,

a fine organization of bandsmen.

Mr. Gray states that "these young musicinns show a subtle and refined appraisement of music which is usually beyond the adolescent ability. Charlevoix may well be proud of the talent in the band and will soon recognize that from the grades up through high school, we have a reservoir of talent that will contribute to our high school band material for years."

The personnel of the forty-piece band is versatile and the instrumentation is ample for the present. The program has been chosen to satisfy a critical and appreciative audience and the modern novelty numbers will delight everyone.

Public is Warned 1945 Will Remain "Tough Coal Year"

Pointing out that the present stringent fuel situation will continue through 1945, C. J. Potter, Deputy Solid Fuels Administrator, has informed Capt. Donald S. Leonard, State Fuel Conservation Director, that "Any community that burns its coal in reckless disregard of the future is likely to suffer much more than if it took every possible step to burn its fuel more carefully."

Even the end of the war in Europe will not alleviate the coal shortage Potter said, as "talk of substantial cutbacks in war production during the 12 months following V-E Day has gone by the board."

"Everything points to the fact that, in respect to coal production, 1945 is going to be a very tough year," Potter stated. "The manpower situation will unquestionably get worse. New machinery for mines will be harder than ever to get. The truck and tire situation will further deteriorate.

"While we must expect a substantial drop in coal production, we can look for no decrease in our over-all requirements. According to present estimates, bituminous coal requirements for 1945 will be approximately 620 million tons, but maximum production that we can hope for is 580 million tons."

OLSON'S CAR HOME AGAIN AFTER DUNKING

The car that John Olson "dunked" a month or so ago is home again. Through the united efforts of the Ironton neighbors headed by Pete Bennett and Bud Gill with Mike Paquette manning the rigging and Bill Sanderson's sailor knots (he must have at one time been an "old salt") the car was lifted out of the water.

Despite all this kindness, John nevertheless maintains that the world's meanest person has been discovered, because the spare tire, left as a marker, where the car went down, was stolen. John says, "Never again! First experience is enough even though the mermaids did paint the pick up a pretty marl grey."—Boyne Citizen.

162 Attend Banquet; Officers Are Elected

The Board of Commerce banquet and election of officers was held last Wednesday evening at the I. O. O. F. hall. One hundred sixty-two people attended the affair, which included representation from East Jordan, Boyne City, Petoskey, Harbor Springs and other nearby cities.

After a delicious meal, served by the Blue Star Mothers, Stewart Coleman, master of ceremonies, called upon President Charles Hamlin, who gave the address of welcome. Mayor Robert Bridge spoke briefly on "the value of cooperation and fellowship for community welfare." He stressed the need for full cooperation between the city council and board of commerce, and lauded members and officials for their tireless efforts in putting Charlevoix on the map.

After introduction of the new Courier publishers and wives, Ted Foster gave an interesting illustrated talk on "Industry." Mr. Foster described the success of the Foster Boat company here and promised a fine line of boats for civilians after the war. "Storm boats for winning the war is our business now," he said, "and when the war is over, our program calls for a streamlined line of pleasure craft, within the price range of everyone." Several very beautiful drawings of post-war craft were displayed.

Rollin T. White, of Grand Rapids, popular representative of the West Michigan Tourist Ass'n, was the main speaker of the evening. He gave his audience a colorful word picture of post-war travel and vacation business. He presented facts and figures proving that all local business and industry would benefit from the vacationer. He urged the advertising of Charlevoix's natural resources and

Robert Livingston Awarded Medals

Veteran of 3 Major Invasions, He Is a Member of First Army

Private first class Robert B. Livingston, 26, veteran of three major invasions as a member of the First Army, has received the bronze star award and the purple Heart medal.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie L. Livingston, do not know the circumstances of the action by which he won the bronze star, awarded for bravery, nor the extent of his wounds for which he was awarded the Purple Heart. In a recent letter in which he told of his awards he wrote, "The wound was only a scratch on the face."

Pfc. Livingston enlisted in the army in January, 1942, and after receiving training at Fort Benning, Ga., and Camp Blanding, Fla., went overseas in August of the same year.

As a member of the First Division of the First Army, the army's oldest and one of the fightin'est divisions, he participated in the initial assaults of the North African, Sicilian and Normandy invasions. He is now serving on the First Army front in Germany.

He has one brother in the service, Archie L. Livingston, S 2-c, who is with the Navy in the Pacific.

Draft Tightens as Military Demands Grow Larger

Greatly increased replacement needs of the armed forces, combined with a dwindling reservoir of manpower, are reasons for stepped-up classifications and the calling of more men.

The local draft board will be called upon to deliver for actual induction a total of approximately 75 men during April, May and June. This means that 225 men must be placed in 1A by April 1. The board must reclassify at least three men into 1A in order to have one man available for induction, the state director stated.

To meet this call, local boards must drastically reduce current deferments in all classes and age groups.

SHIPS CARLOAD OF SCRAP PAPER

The Charlevoix Service Organization desires to thank the citizens of Charlevoix for their splendid cooperation in the recent Scrap Paper Drive, also the City Trucks and Boy Scouts under the leadership of Louis Hamlin and Arthur Ranger who were responsible for the loading of the car.

Statistics prove that the average family can obtain approximately 30 lbs. or more of scrap paper per month. Charlevoix can ship a carload every two months if everyone will do his bit. Another drive will be conducted in May, so save your paper until the date is announced. Tie newspapers in tight bundles and magazines should be bound in stacks not more than 18 inches high, loose scraps should be boxed and paper cartons which cannot be used for this purpose should be flattened out and tied together, according to Ralph Hamilton, chairman.

Proclamation

Whereas, the week of Mar. 19 has been designated as Victory Garden week in Michigan,

And Whereas, the stringent national food siuation makes it more imperative than ever before that every family have a Victory Garden so that they will not lack for the right kinds of goods and health will be maintained,

And Whereas, Michigan has set a goal of more than one million Victory Gardens in 1945,

Now therefore I, Robert Bridge, Mayor of the City of Charlevoix, do hereby call upon all of our citizens to take part in the observance of Victory Garden week by planning now to have a Victory Garden, growing suffieient foods in these gardens so that there will be not only fresh produce for the table, but a sufficient quantity to preserve and store for winter use, and by providing our own foods help to achieve Michigan's goal and do our full share in the war effort.

ROBT. BRIDGE, Mayor

Charlevoix Lagging In Red Cross Drive

East Jordan Goes Over the Top, Boyne City Collects $2,000

An additional push is needed to meet Charlevoix's quota for the Red Cross 1945 War Fund, according to E. J. Edwards, local chairman. Contributions to date total $1,800, two-thirds of the goal of $2,700.

East Jordan has raised $2,500, exceeding its quota by $200; Boyne City has more than $2,000, while Charlevoix is lagging behind.

Although many people have given generously to the fund, almost the entire city has been canvassed and still the amount falls short of the goal. In order to make the quota, it may be necessary to ask for additional donations.

Many local people have given as much as they can afford to give, but there are also a great many to whom a Red Cross donation means only the dollar membership which formerly was all that anyone was asked to give.

But as the services of the Red Cross in time of war are doubled and trebled, so is the need for contributions greater, to help carry on these services.

We in Charlevoix have given up so little of our comforts, and almost none of our necessities; our homes have not been destroyed nor broken up by war; our children are not starving nor cold because there is no food, clothing, or shelter for them. We're not sleeping in foxholes or pushing our way through German mud in the face of German guns. We're not fighting Japs and tropical diseases in steamy jungle-covered islands.

Out of humble gratitude for all the things in our lives that we have not had to sacrifice, and out of our desire to share some of our comforts with American servicemen and the pitiful victims of war, let us give as much as we can to the one great civilian organization that is able to be with our men on every war front and with their families at home—the American Red Cross.

Red Cross solicitation in the townships of Charlevoix county will be made during the next ten days. Any person living in a rural district who has not been contacted by a Red Cross canvasser and who wishes to make a donation, may leave it with E. J. Edwards, Charlevoix chairman, or with Miss Anne Higman in the city clerk's office, city hall.

Scouts Join Paper Drive

Gen. Eisenhower Medal Will Be Given Each Scout Collecting 1000-lbs.

Boy Scouts of Charlevoix will join with other Scouts and Leaders throughout the United States in an effort to collect 150,000 tons of waste paper during March and April.

Recognizing that waste paper continues to be one of the nation's critical shortages, the War Production Board, through its chairman, J. A. King, called upon the Boy Scouts of America to collect wastebasket scraps, brown bags, wrapping paper, corrugated and cardboard boxes and cartons, magazines, books and newspapers.

The campaign is sponsored by General Dwight Eisenhower because he knows personally of the great need for waste paper in the war effort.

A General Eisenhower Boy Scout Waste Paper Campaign Medal will be given to each Cub Scout who collects 1,000 pounds of waste paper during the two months. The medal, suspended from a red and white ribbon, bears a likeness of General Eisenhower with the inscription "War Service 1945" and "Boy Scout — General Eisenhower Waste Paper Campaign." On the reverse of the medal is the inscription, "Awarded for extraordinary patriotic achievement in the Boy Scout Gen. Eisenhower Campaign, March - April, 1945."

A genuine shell case that carried a 75mm. shell or larger and that has been returned from a European battlefied after use will be awarded to each Cub Pack, Boy Scout Troop or Senior Scout Unit which has collected waste paper equivalent to 1,000 pounds per boy member. Each will bear a printed citation by General Eisenhower. As the paper in these shell containers has been specially processed it cannot be used again.

St. Mary's Opens Center Tonight

Free Entertainment Is Provided for the Youngsters

Ralph Hamilton, chairman of St. Mary's recreation, today released plans for activities for the coming season. The center will begin its regular Wednesday night benefit parties tonight.

Inaugurated four years ago, under the leadership of Fr. John W. Collins, now serving as chaplain in the Pacific theatre of war, the center has continuously operated during the school season for the use of the young people of Charlevoix.

St. Mary's Wednesday night benefit parties are held for the express purpose of obtaining funds for the operation of the center. Those desiring to contribute otherwise, may leave their contribution at the Charlevoix County bank.

St. Mary's center gives the young people of Charlevoix a respectable place to congregate and recreate themselves. A considerable amount of money has been spent to give our youth a variety of recreational facilities. Use of the equipment is free and there is no admission charge.

Young people are invited to the center Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings and on Sunday afternoons. Children and young people need entertainment and exercise. There is dancing, pool, ping pong and cards. Any further suggestions will be kindly

March 17, 1915

A valuable team of horses belonging to Robt. Withers broke through the ice on Pine Lake off the coal sheds Saturday morning and were drowned before they could be gotten out.

The team was being driven by Clarence Withers, his son, and were on the way to the Charlevoix Lumber company's holding in Eveline township, across the arm, for a load of wood. The team went through the ice and were followed by the front bobs, which greatly hindered getting them out. The horses were valued at $100. A short time before another team driven by Mont Withers broke through the ice a short distance from where the drowning occurred.

The old school bell on the Central building passed its days of usefulness last week, by cracking when performing its daily duties in notifying the boys and girls that the hour had arrived for the school duties of the day. The sound of the bell, which has been used for many years, will be greatly missed by hundreds of people who have heard it, especially those who have been called to school by its ringing in the days gone by. The fire bell is being used until a new bell can be purchased.

No cake for Mary?

Governor Harry F. Kelly, at his desk in the executive offices of the State Capitol, turned to photographs on the wall of his six children.

"Can you imagine what would happen if those six children of mine were permitted to cut up a cake, each one taking as much as he or she would like?"

The governor paused to chuckle. And so did Rep. John Espie, chairman of the house ways and means committee, and Senator Don VanderWerp, chairman of the senate finance committee. They had been discussing the pressing problem of state finances with the governor. His simple parable illustrated the situation in easy-to-understand words.

"Well, Brian and Harey, the twins, are 13, Joan is 11. And then there are Larry, 10, and Roger 8. These youngsters like cake, of course. They're healthy and usually hungry. I have a good hunch what would happen if these five kids of mine each cut a slice of the cake and left Mary, the youngest, who is a mere 3-year-old, to take care of herself. There wouldn't be much cake left for Mary!"

It is the governor's observation that the problem of state finances is pretty much the same as the citizen's problem of household finances.

In a way, the State of Michigan can is a "family." It has a problem of stretching its income to meet its needs. Sometimes it goes into debt. Sometimes it saves money for rainy days, such as those everyone expects after the war.

Here's the state financial problem, simplified in terms of a family:

Income for the present fiscal year (ending July 1) is expected to total 162.4 millions. Expenditures will total 138.6 millions. Thus the "family" may expect to have between 20 and 25 millions left over by July 1 — a tidy sum to help pay for some of the postponed improvements which totaled 60 millions by last year's conservative estimate and are now figured, under present inflated prices, to run a good 80 millions. (Chairman Espie says 150 millions are needed to fill the state's needs.)

By previous savings the "family" had accumulated 50 millions in savings. This sum has been earmarked (by the legislature) to help cure for Michigan's 500,000 sons and daughters, now in the armed services, during the post-war adjustment period.

What about that 20 to 25 million surplus in the family's treasury by July 1?

One year ago the state decided, figuratively, that the roof of the house needed replacing, another bedroom was needed, and other improvements should be made. These projected improvements would cost between 60 and 80 millions.

Recognizing these needs, the state (by the legislature) set aside 12 millions last year as one year's payment out of war-time savings. The idea of pay-as-you-go appealed to legislators, for the alternative would be to issue bonds with interest. In 20 years the cost of these bonds, PLUS interest, would be $2 for every $1 used — just 100 percent more than the thrift way of saving before spending.

For the next year (beginning July 1), the state's budget calls for 162.4 millions in revenue and 145.9 millions in operating expenditures, leaving a possible surplus of 16.5 millions. If the state were to make another payment on its post-war program, the net surplus would be reduced to a 4.5 millions — not a particularly large amount of money for a family that requires 145 millions in a year.

Pending in the legislature, or about to be introduced, are bills in behalf of other worthy needs, calling for a total additional expenditure of 41.6 millions. If these were to be added to the budgeted expenditures of 145.9 millions, the state would incur a deficit of approximately 25 millions in the coming year. It sounds a bit impossible, but the figures don't lie.

How is the family of Michigan to finance its post-war program—saving money today or issuing bonds tomorrow with 100 percent extra cost?

If any of the non-budgeted needs are recognized by the legislature, how are these needs to be financed — by using current savings or by imposing new taxes such as war-time levies on liquor, beer, cigarettes and gasoline and possibly local excise taxes?

The answers must be forthcoming in the next four to six weeks before the legislature adjourns.

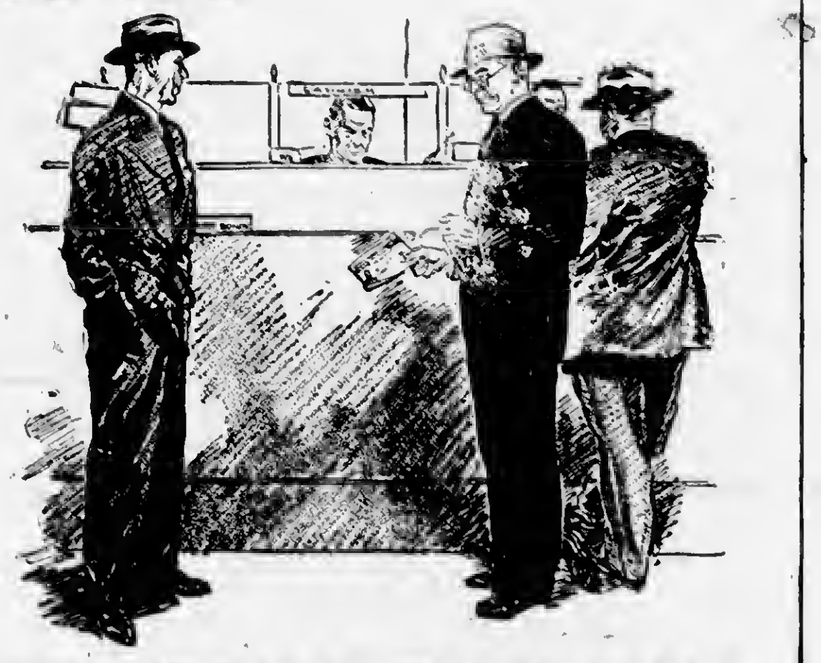
THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...



"Adding another War Bond to your collection, eh, Judge?"

"Yes, Josh, I've always looked upon buying Bonds as one of the best ways older folks like me here at home can help our fighting men overseas. For the past couple of years I've put every extra cent I had into them . . . not only during the War Bond drives . . . but on a regular basis. Of course, when there's a drive on I always try to buy an extra one or two."

"We've done the same in our family, too, Judge. We figure the more we buy . . . the better we equip our men . . . the quicker they'll finish their big job and come marching home again."

"That's the spirit, Josh. And let's be sure of one more thing. Let's be sure that they come back to the same kind of place they left. While they are away and can't express their opinions, let's not make any decisions on things that are going to concern them in years to come."

Food Growers Get More Gasoline

The nation's food growers will get extra gasoline for non-highway use during the second quarter of 1945, says PAW. Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes, has announced the allocation of 1,276,000 barrels of automotive gasoline a day for U. S. Civilian consumption in the second quarter of 1945, comprising the months of April, May and June. Compare with the quantity of gasoline made available to civilians in the corresponding quarter of 1944, the new allocation is 10,000 barrels a day greater, the additional fuel being assigned to the War Food Administration for farm use.

Comenting on this, Deputy Administator Davies said: "The quantity of gasoline required for non-highwny farm use always rises sharply in the second quarter to provide fuel for spring plowing, cultivating and planting, and we have provided for that increase as usual. This year we were asked for an unusually large quantity, with the explanation that it was hoped to enlarge the productive farm acreage of our country by about 10,000 acres.

There has been an increase in the number of tractors added to the nation's farm equipment, and we are informed that plans have been worked out to run all tractors 20 per cent more hours per day."

Housewives Must Apply For Sugar

The Office of Price Administration says there will be enough sugar to preserve as much fruit as was actually "put up" in our homes last year. The same amount of sugar (700,000 tons) has been set aside this year for home canning as was set aside last year. Last year, however, 300,000 tons more sugar than the total amount allocated for home canning was bought by housewives. A large part of this sugar was bought with stamp 40. The home canning stamp, and much of it was used for ordinary household purposes.

This year's total sugar supply is smaller than it was in 1944. If any over-issuance of canning sugar were allowed, it would have to come out of the amount allowed for other home use.

In 1945 no stamps will be validated for canning sugar. Housewives will be given sugar coupons for home canning by the local boards. Each housewife's home canning sugar allotment will be based on the amount of canning she did last year and the amount she plans to do this year. She will be allowed up to a maximum of 20 pounds per person, or 160 pounds to a single family, even though the family may contain more than eight persons.

The annual Good Friday Union services will be held at the Church of God this year. The program will last from one o'clock until three. All of the churches of the city will participate in the program and members of all churches are cordially invited.

Butter Is Increased For April

The War Food Administration has fixed the butter set-aside quota (amount of butter put aside for government purchase) for April at 40 per cent of production, and for May at 55 per cent of production. Previously, during February and March, the set-aside percentages were 20 and 25 percent respectively. Efforts are being made to maintain butter production and to keep the available civilian supplies flowing into trade channels on a fairly even monthly basis. During April and May, quantities of creamery butter for civilians will be about 80,000,000 pounds as compared with an average of about 82,000,000 pounds during February and March.

received.

A new juke box is being purchased for the center and dances will be held every Friday evening, excepting Good Friday. Boy Scouts will reserve the center exclusively two Thursdays per month and will maintain a Scout room at the center for their use at all times.

Stress should be placed on the fact that St. Mary's center is a respectable place for our young folks. Our rules are posted conspicuously. A man is in charge at all times to strictly enforce them. But to obtain the high standard that has been set, cooperation of both the children and parents is needed.

Parents are invited to go up to the center and observe the goings on. Insisting that your child observes the rules will be very helpful, and your suggestions are always welcome.

St. Mary's Recreation center aims to render a civic service. The center is strictly a non-profit venture, planned and brought to completion for the benefit of the young people. These future citizens of our community will be better fitted for their future civic and other duties if their moral and physical well-being has been taken care of during recreation hours. Those in charge of this organization are glad to perform this service for Charlevoix young people and ask only in return for it, your whole-hearted cooperation and interest.

Mr. Reimann states that the enrollment is nearly complete and that many more applications will be received than can possibly accepted.

Pfc. Gerald Nanegos In Combat Engineers

Saw Action In Bitter Fighting With "Cyclone" Division Troops

Demolition squads of combat engineer troops joined with infantry assault troops to crack the maze of Jap fortifications in torturous Zigzag Pass of northern Bataan.

Private First Class Gerald J. Nanegos of Charlevoix, saw action in the bitter fighting with a demolition squad of the 112th Engineer Combat Battalion, engineer unit of the 38th "Cyclone" Division troops, who are closing the trap on Jap forces over the same battlefields which saw the determined stand of Filipino and American troops in the early months of 1942.

Back packing their deadly bangalore torpedoes and satchel charges of TNT over the rugged mountain trails, the engineers methodically blasted caves and strongpoints from which the Jap was pouring fire onto our attacking forces.

Pfc. Nanegos has been overseas since January 1944, and staged in New Guinea for the Philippines campaign now nearing its conclusion. He was inducted at Detroit, July 1942, and received further training at Camp Roberts, Calif., Fort Meade, Md., and Camp Livingston, La.

His mother Mrs. John Seetin resides in Charlevoix.

Lives Soil

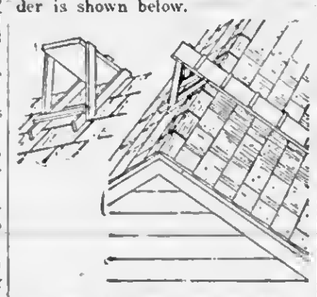
Application of well-rotted manure increases the organic material in the soil which means better physical condition, better moisture holding capacity and better aeration. Manure also adds some plant food to the soil. The presence of organic material in the soil speeds up chemical and bacterial activity and results in faster growing vegetables of better quality.

Fixing Up the Farm
by BURTON WILLIAMS

Keep Roofs Repaired

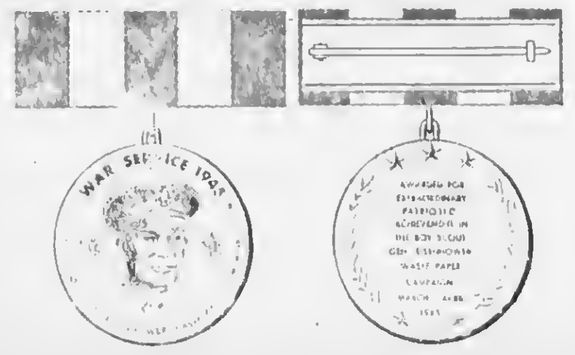
NO PART of a farm structure is more important than the roof. It is sound business practice to keep it water-tight at all times. Leaking roofs may destroy a year's harvest, or be a contributing factor to spontaneously ignited fires which may destroy stock, equipment and buildings as well as crops.

Small defects can be easily repaired if done properly. Periodic inspection will disclose these flaws and are well worth the effort. In making these inspections, however, always play safe. Use a ladder or chicken-ladder firmly secured over the ridge, for both personal safety and protection to the roofing material. An easily built chicken ladder is shown below.



When the time comes that a roof should be replaced, it is advisable to use a fireproof material, such as asbestos cement shingles. Roof communicated fires account for a higb perceatage of all farm fire losses.

Gen. Eisenhower Medal for Boy Scouts



As waste paper continues to be one of the nation's critical shortages, the War Production Board, through its chairman, J. A. Krug, has called upon the nation's 1,866,356 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and their leaders to collect 150,000 tons of waste paper during March and April. Last year when asked to collect 100,000 tons, the Boy Scouts of America collected 117,000 tons.

Every member who collects 1,000 pounds of waste paper (wastebasket scraps, brown bags, wrapping paper, corrugated and cardboard boxes and cartons, magazines, books and newspapers) will receive the Boy Scout-General Eisenhower Waste Paper Campaign Medal shown above. The medal, in bronze, is suspended from a red and white ribbon.

Every Cub Pack, Boy Scout Troop or Senior Scout Unit which collects waste paper equivalent to 1,000 pounds per boy member, will receive a genuine shell case returned from a European battlefield after use which will contain a printed citation by Gen. Eisenhower. The paper used in the 75-mm. shell containers or larger, has been specially processed and cannot be used again.

Muskrat Markets

Muskrats are sold extensively in some of the markets of the East. In Washington, Baltimore, St. Louis, Wilmington, and Philadelphia, they are sold as "marsh rabbits," but no attempt is made to conceal the fact that they are muskrats. They can be purchased cheaply as they are trapped for their fur and the additional labor of preparing the meat for market is slight.

Grafting Apple Trees

The best time to graft apple trees is as the sap begins to rise in the spring, when the bark slips easily from the wood and growth starts shortly

Dusting Seed

In North Carolina in 1935 less than one per cent of the cotton growers, representing only about 7,000 acres, dusted their seed. Six years later, 87 per cent of the state's growers used seed that had been dusted, with a profit from treatment estimated at an average of nearly $10 an acre. Last year approximately a million acres of North Carolina's cotton was grown from treated seed.

S-Sgt. James Feres Returns Safely to Base After Forced Landing

Heavily Peppered With Flak, His Fortress Is Forced Down Behind Russian Lines

15TH AAF IN ITALY—Christmas wasn't a particularly pleasant experience for most of the GI's stationed overseas, but for Staff Sgt. James Feres, Jr., Rt. 1, Charlevoix, tail gunner on a 15th AAF Flying Fortress, it turned out to be a real holiday—even though he had to be shot down to enjoy it.

On Dec. 11, while participating on a mission over enemy installations at Moos bierbaum, Austria, Feres' Fortress was heavily peppered by flak. By the time his ship had run the gauntlet of enemy ack-ack guns protecting the target area, all but one of the Fort's four engines had been partially or completely disabled.

The remaining power-plant was unable to maintain the ship's altitude alone, and it was impossible to transfer the fuel from the extra wing tanks because of flak-damage to the system—but by a display of extraordinary airmanship the pilot, 1st Lt. Cliff Morris, Jr., of Wilmington, N. C., managed to limp the crippled ship, unescorted, over a few hundred miles of enemy territory and land (censored) behind the Russian Lines (censored) Hungary.

"After enjoying the best of everything the Russians had—which wasn't exceptional according to American standards, but they were eager to do all they could for us—for nine days," said Feres, "we were transported by truck to (censored) Rumania, where we rested a few days before taking off for Bucharest in a Russian-manned transport plane."

At the Rumanian capital Feres and his crew were feted, wined and dined with everything a freshly-liberated, well-stocked, modern city could give them. Their Christmas dinner was all that anyone could ask for—including real steaks—two inches thick.

By the time they reached their base on Dec. 27, they had a crop of stories to tell their mud-bound compatriots in Italy that made many of them wish they too had been "missing in action" with Feres' crew. But the groundmen responsible for putting flak-bitten Forts back into the "blue" were a little dubious. As one of them put it, "Flak is still flak, and you can have it!"

The 20-year-old graduate of Charlevoix high school has been in the army since Aug. 3, 1943, winning his wings at Las Vegas, Nev., on Jan. 17, 1944. After leaving the United States on July 10, he flew his first mission on Sept. 15, over Salonika, Greece; to date he has flown 32 missions over enemy territory, and wears the Air Medal.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Feres, Sr., reside here.

Who's News?

By Earle Ferris

Harriet O'Rourke, shown here, may be a star on Sunday nights when she sings on MBS' "Steel Horizons," but she is a school girl the rest of the week, with five lessons, each an hour long, every day—two in voice, one in diction, one in Italian and one in French.

"The Hasty Heart," John Patrick's play in which Fred MacMurray recently starred on CBS' "This Is My Best," will be made into a picture by a major film company, that plans to have Robert Montgomery in the lead.

An eastern publisher is tempting Arthur "Dagwood" Lake, shown here, co-star on the CBS Sunday "Blondie" program, to write a humorous book about married life, using as a theme the marital adventures of a family similar to radio's "Bumsteads."

When the film, "Here Come the Co-eds," is released, theatre-goers will see a galaxy of radio stars. The music spotlight is on Phil Spitalny and his all-girl "Hour of Charm" orchestra, who are heard over NBC Sundays. Also headlined are the NBC comics Abbott and Costello, and Bill Stern is cast as a sports announcer.

The Andrews Sisters—Patty, shown here, LaVerne and Maxene—heard from Hollywood on the Blue Network Sunday afternoons, are scheduled to come East before the year is over. They are due for a stage appearance at the New York Paramount Theatre.

Thank you very much for your nice letter Chas. Lamphere, of Detroit, glad you like our new managers of the Charlevoix Courier. I can agree with you on the improvement of the paper.

Had a very nice visit with Joe Holechek, at Norwood, he is another of Norwood old settlers who came there in 1883, the first two years he was there just during the winter months worked in the woods for the lumber company, in the spring he went back to Wisconsin to help his father, who owned a farm near Green Bay. He is one of the four Norwood Band members still living, he married a Wheaton Corners girl whose name was Wheaton.

Ed Jones was helping Tinker Carman, get up wood Tuesday. Tink is quite a guy to have plenty of wood on hand, which is a fine idea.

Carl Bogart of Charlevoix is wiring the Superman farm house which will be hooked up to the REA.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boss, attended the funeral of Mrs. Ross's sister, Mrs. Guant, at East Jordan, last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. McKay, drove to Cadillac Saturday, for the week-end.

William Alward, has his sugar bush taped and we all know where to go to buy good maple syrup, if you get there in time.

L. L. Dice, seems to be very busy getting out wood, with everybody advising a coal shortage a good pile of wood looks darn good.

Bobby Jones, called on L. L. Dice, Saturday.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

There are five children who have been absent for sometime, and the boys and girls will be glad when they come back to school. They are Deanna Left, Marilyn Neff, Deanna Derenzy, Barry Pischaer and Donna Ann Hurrance.

On Friday, the children talked about St. Patrcik's Day. They made pigs and shamrocks to take home.

First Grade

We still have nine children out of school with the mumps.

Shirley Misner and Ivan Parsons brought us some pussy willows. Glennie See brought us a new kind of bulb. We are watching for it to turn into a plant with flowers.

Second Grade

Our attendance is much better. Boys and girls are back after having the mumps.

We are dramatizing some Easter stories.

We are all trying to be extra careful of our books. Some people in our room forget to have clean hands, and some are careless with their books on the way home. Being careful of our books is one small way to help win the war.

Third Grade

In geography we have been studying about fishermen and their work. Marcus' father, Mr. White, came to tell us about commercial fishing in Lake Michigan. He told us many interesting things and answered all our questions about fishing with nets.

Gary Curtis and Mary Gaunt are still absent. All others are back in school again. We hope to keep well.

Cynthia Smith made a fine radio from a shoebox. Jimmy Emans turned on the radio and out came the grandest program by "The Stupendous Radio Theater." No actors were visible but if you had looked closely you might have seen three pair of feet under Mrs. Abtalter's desk. They belonged to Cynthia Smith, Joyce Hardy and Bonnie Brown. They found that talking into a pail changed their voices a lot and we enjoyed their show.

Fourth Grade

Everyone has been enjoying the nice weather by playing outside at recess. Both the girls and boys are having lots of fun winning marbles from one another.

This week we talked and wrote about our hobbies. Many of the boys enjoy making model airplanes. The favorite hobby of the girls seems to be collecting movie star pictures. Leola Scott and Joyce Dutcher both have uncles in the army. They have been saving things which their uncles sent them from different places. Fred Jolliffe wrote about his pet rabbits.

We are glad to have more of the children back in school. Jean Swanson and Patsy Shores are back. We welcomed a new pupil to our room last week. She is Virginia McDagin and formerly tended the Bay Shore school.

Fifth Grade

For St. Patrick's Day we made pigs and a hat with shamrocks on them. Our forsythia is blossoming. They are yellow flowers. Barbara Rice brought some interesting pictures from New Guinea to school for us to look at. We also made some history posters.

Sixth Grade

During our recent War Saving Stamp drive, four people in our room bought bonds. They are Jim Bowman, Tommy Donaldson, Alvin Ranger and Dwight Smith.

Two excellent book reviews were given last week—Billy Wallace reported on "The Return of Silver Chief" by Jack O'Brien and Jim Bowman reviewed "On the Plains with Custer" by Edwin L. Sabin. Both were excellent.

1, 2, 3 Overflow

Harry Misner brought us some pussy willows for our room. The boys and girls have been enjoying "The Dutch Twins" by Lucy Fitch Perkins. They made some attractive pictures of Kit and Kat.

Tommy Goss, David Rickerd, Bobby Hilton and Clayton Walker were room helpers last week.

Betty Kay McDermott, Dick Elziaga and Purl Lenzier went to Traverse City to have their eyes tested for glasses.

Study Shop

We have our new sixth grade basic readers. We enjoyed the first story, "Ronnie and the Mystery Horse" by Belle Coates. We are finding the words we don't know in our dictionaries.

Spring is here. We again play marbles and jacks. We have pussy willows in a vase. The geranium we have cared for all winter has a bud on it.

Louise Dixon has made remarkable progress in arithmetic and is leading her class in achievement.

Clothing

The Clothing Classes all enjoyed the educational film, "Facts About Fabrics". It helped by giving details for choice of fabrics, materials from which fabric is made, especially rayon. It helped us recognize different weaves in fabrics by showing how various yarns are woven into cloth, and how different kinds of cloth are treated and handled.

Eighth Grade Clothing has many finished garments, especially pajamas. For most of these girls, it was their second garment finished, and pride and accomplishment rank high in the girls thus far along.

English I

These classes are working with commas in punctuation of sentences, and the function of ing and ed participal phrases.

English II

These classes are studying transitive and intransitive verbs and learning to recognize and use them in sentences.

Speech

The students in the Speech Class have been studying various phases of the topic "We speak Informally," such as correct forms for introductions salesmanship, and class recitation.

Latin I

Latin I students have now begun to study the imperfect tense.

Mathematics

The geometry class will spend the week on problems of construction, and practice will be had in proving these.

In algebra we are working with exponents and are making some beginnings in factoring.

Physical Science

The biology group is studying the control and prevention of communicable diseases.

The physics class is considering color and polarized light.

Wilson Farm At Ironton Shows Fine Production

Perhaps one of the outstanding examples of record-keeping is reflected in the progress of the pure-bred Holstein herd owned by Robert S. Wilson at Ironton. Within the short period of approximately three years, the herd averaged 323 pounds of butterfat per cow last year. Ernest Brown, the manager, has had monthly tests for butterfat made by the Jordan Valley Creamery. With this information supplemented by monthly weights of milk, it has been possible to get the production per cow.

Then to head the herd, an excellent young pure-bred sire has been purchased, backed by rich-breeding and from high-productive ancestry. To our knowledge, this is the only herd in the county that is being tested purely from the desire of the owner to know what each cow is doing. Right now the biggest need in the county is to organize a cow-test-association made up of twenty-five dairymen to obtain knowledge of the dairy progress. An effort is being made at the present time to sign up members. It is hoped that it will be possible to get some returning veteran to do this work. If anyone can suggest a good person capable of this work, let us know. If as a dairyman, you would be interested to have your herd tested, your cooperation would be appreciated.

4-H Club News in East Jordan Encouraging

Recently our county 4-H Club Program received a boost when East Jordan organized their 4-H club projects. For the first time boys and girls have joined together and formed a grooming club project. In this activity they study how to make proper introductions, improve personality, and all types of social etiquette. In addition, four senior club members are acting as leaders to 12 first-year clothing members. All of the club projects are under the direction of Mrs. Leatha Larson and Lester Walcutt who have been two of the outstanding club leaders for many years.

Not content with this record, they are now making plans to set out 5,000 young pine trees on their school sites. These trees will be planted late in April. East Jordan has been setting out trees for some seven or eight years and have a high rate of livability. In the last five years, they have set out 20,000 trees. Interest remains high in other schools in the county in reforestation. The Melrose Township unit has set out 11,000 trees in seven years. Some of their early-planted trees are now nine feet high. The Boyne Falls school has set out 21,500 during the last seven years. This is wunderful experience for the youth and gives them greater appreciation of the value of the conservation practices.

We are very proud to announce that a Tractor Maintenance Project has also recently started among boys in the East Jordan community. This club consists of 11 members and is led by Rayner Olstrom and they study how tractors should be operated and maintained. Last week a sound film in color relating to tractor-care on the farm front was shown to this club. The boys expect to learn much about the project through the use of films.

How to Greet a Wounded Soldier

Charlie Jenkins got back from overseas the other day, discharged for wounds... and he was pretty well banged up.

Naturally, our town felt mighty bad about it. We wanted to sympathize with him and help him. But Doc Walters set us straight about that.

He said that what Charlie wanted most was to be accepted as one of the gang again... as if nothing had happened. So we asked him over to pitch horseshoes with his good hand, and enjoy a friendly glass of beer and chew the fat like old times.

And you should have seen him pick up! From being scared of meeting people, Charlie got his confidence back and soon became his own self again.

From where I sit, Doc Walters gave us the right steer. The wounded men coming home don't want our sympathy or our overenthusiastic help. They want to be treated like the rest of us... with a chance to work and lead a normal life. And that's the least we can offer them.

HIS RECORD GAINS NATIONAL ACCLAIM

Otto E. Eckert, General Manager of Lansing's municipal power system since 1927, has received national recognition because of the development and growth of the Capitol City's utility properties. When Mr. Eckert became General Manager in 1927, the system had a property investment of $11,000,000, with $300,000 in cash and a bonded debt of $5,000,000. The annual report of last June shows this utility with a property valued at $25,000,000, with cash and government bonds of $6,900,000 and a bonded debt of $451,000, which is offset by a sinking fund. This record of efficient management was found to be recognized, and it is significant that the Republican candidate for regent of the University of Michigan at the April 2nd election, is now Executive Vice-President of the American Public Power Association.

The Republican candidate is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and a past president of the Michigan Engineering Society. He has been a member of the Lansing Planning Commission since 1920, and is Vice-President of the Capitol City's University of Michigan Club.

The acreer of Charles V. Bob a fantastic and glamorous promoter in finance, who rose from a pick and shovel beginning to association with the great in sports, aviation, exploration and religion, only to topple into obscurity in the end, is given a graphic presentation in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with this Sunday's (April 1) Chicago Herald American.

To All Organizations Now Engaged in Waste Paper Collection:

HOW WASTE PAPER FUNDS CAN AID WOUNDED VETERANS

... or Worthy Local Projects

All over the country, schools, churches and other patriotic organizations are collecting waste paper to make or wrap the 700,000 items constantly being supplied to our Armed Forces.

Often these organizations choose some worth-while community project to which they donate the money derived from the sale of waste paper. But many have already decided to channel a little or all of their waste paper funds into a new cause . . . added comforts for our returning wounded.

THE NEED IS GROWING

For the casualty lists are lengthening. Daily more of the boys who fell in our defense are coming back home for the tender care they so richly deserve. While the Government provides all the essentials required for treatment and convalescence, there are many little "extras" and luxuries which can do a lot to help the boys face the future with the confidence that comes from their knowing that they are being appreciated.

The use to be made of waste paper funds is always up to the local organizations concerned. But while the need for waste paper grows, so too another need . . . a very human need . . . is growing as the casualty lists lengthen.

A LITTLE WILL HELP

If you can apportion a little or all of your waste paper funds for wounded veterans, do it now. Send those wounded boys more of those "home comforts" they deserve. If your organization can't do this today, we are sure you will add this great cause to your list later.

Save waste paper more than ever . . . you'll help to speed victory and to aid those who have borne the brunt of battle. Those are aims which are paramount with every American.

EXTRA COMFORTS THAT WASTE PAPER MONEY CAN BUY FOR WOUNDED VETERANS

Radio-phonograph combinations, records, sound movie projectors, settees, lounge chairs, sun porch equipment, cigarettes, long distance home phone calls, billiard and ping pong tables, cards, books, games, sketching and painting supplies, etc.

For further information about the Double V Waste Paper Program in your community, get in touch with your local Salvage Committee Chairman or this newspaper.

Aged-In Sealed-In Flavor

The Altes Way Is Nature's Way

Nature puts a shell around a cocoanut to keep flavor in . . . air and everything harmful out. For the same reason Altes uses closed, instead of the ordinary open vats. Marine Wounded in Iwo Jima Invasion

Pfc. Frederick VanWieren Convalescing in Hospital

The first Charlevoix Marine to be reported wounded in action in the recent invasion of Iwo Jima is private first class Frederick W. Van Wieren, 19, of the Fifth Marine Division, who was wounded on February 21, the fourth day of the campaign. In a letter written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Van Wieren, on March 1, Pfc. Van Wieren told of his wounds.

In the letter written for him by a Red Cross worker he wrote: "I am having a little letter written to you right away so you won't worry if you receive the Navy department notice that I was wounded in combat. I have my right arm wounded and in a splint. That is why I can't write myself. I am in an army hospital in the Mariana Islands but expect to be taken to Hawaii soon."

On March 1, Pfc. Van Wieren wrote a letter himself from the Naval Hospital in Hawaii and stated: "I'm not very bad off. I got a slug through my arm. I haven't had any pain except when it hit me it burned a little. I got hit the fourth day of the fighting and ten minutes after I was hit I was taken aboard ship and fixed up. They have fast medical service there.

I hope that casualty list didn't scare you. Most of us weren't too bad off."

Pfc. Van Wieren, who came to Charlevoix with his parents from Holland in August, 1943, enlisted in the Marine Corps in November, 1943, and after receiving training at the Marine Corps Base at San Diego and at Camp Pendleton, Calif., went overseas in August, 1944, without being granted a leave to come home.

After going overseas he was assigned to the Fifth Marine Division, which saw action for the first time at Iwo Jima.

He has one brother, Pfc. Louis Van Wieren, who is stationed at Camp Pendleton with the Marines.

GARDEN THERAPY FOR BETTER HEALTH

Local Victory Gardeners Can Grow Enough Food To Feed Family A Month

Garden clubs everywhere are promoting interest in Victory Gardens for health. Nothing is more nourishing than freshly grown vegetables from your garden.

"That home gardening contributes to public health can hardly be questioned. In periods of great stress, such as wartime, there is probably no other avocation that will provide such complete relief as growing a garden, watching it develop throughout the season, working in the soil, complaining about the weather, mastering bugs and beetles and getting acquainted with your family and neighbors," says Mrs. E. J. Edwards, president of the Charlevoix Garden club.

And mentally gardening is good for you and it's fun, but it's good for you physically too.

The Michigan Victory Garden hour on gardening can be heard over WKAR, East Lansing, at 5 p. m. (EWT), Mondays.

Anyone desiring further information may contact Mrs. Edwards or members of the executive committee.

Coal Quota Will Be Cut After April 1

Coal Dealers Facing Another 20% Cut For 1945-46 Season

Retail coal merchants are facing another cut in coal tonnage for the coming season, according to Charles Heise, member of the advisory committee of the Solid Fuel Administration.

New declaration forms for consumer use are expected to be issued through the local OPA War Price and Rationing Boards by April 1. "The use of consumer declarations is mandatory," Mr. Heise said, and no deliveries may be made to a domestic consumer who customarily receives solid fuel in quarter-ton or larger quantities, unless he has filed a consumer declaration.

All deliveries must be recorded by the dealer on the reverse side of consumer declarations and kept on file for two years subject to inspection by the Solid Fuels Administration.

For summer deliveries, the retailer MUST deliver to its regular or new customers, whose consumer declaration he has accepted, at least 30% of normal annual requirements, prior to August 31, but MAY deliveries in the same period a maximum of 50% of such normal annual requirements.

Consumers are urged to get their season's quota during summer months, so that dealers will have more space available for storage facilities.

D. L. Dort, of Flint, president of Michigan Central Airlines, today notified the Courier that a regular flight schedule will be maintained throughout the summer months. The spring schedule opened last Thursday.

"Michigan cities included for air service, are Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Midland, Mt. Pleasant, Cadillac and Charlevoix," Mr. Dort said, and added: "Our lines will offer the very best of service for air travelers between these cities.

Convention Ban Hits Mich. Tourist Council

Personal Service Offices Operated on Usual Schedule

Lest there be any misunderstanding among the members about the new "shorts" in the travel picture arising out of the closing of the out-of-town exhibits at the Sportsmen's Show in Chicago a few words of explanation may be helpful.

The management of the Sportsmen's Show did not have full clearance with the Office of Defense Transportation on the show due to some question as to whether a show of that character actually came under the ODT convention ban. The facts are that such shows do come under the convention ban along with livestock shows, horticultural fairs, etc., when the exhibitors are not actually located in the cities where such shows are held. The Michigan Tourist Council exhibit was accordingly cancelled.

Through the courtesy of Dave Caesar of the Chicago Herald-American a number of the panels of the Michigan exhibit were used in their exhibit at the show. The management of the show cooperated in this arrangement, as well as the Chicago ODT office.

The Michigan Tourist Council exhibit will not be shown at the Cleveland, Detroit and Milwaukee shows this year as it would seem to come under the convention ban.

The personal service offices in Chicago, Detroit, Lansing and Cleveland will be operated on their usual schedule.

SPRING WEATHER PREVAILS HERE

Mercury Stays Up As Residents Discard Top Coats, Winter Gear

Charlevoix-the-Beautiful in all its splendor, emerges from a winter marked with excessive snowfall and huge snowdrifts.

Letters from long-time summer residents received this week, indicate that vacationers will soon be trekking in from nearby states as well as Detroit, Flint and other cities in Michigan.

While the season seems to have been advanced several weeks by the fine weather, old-time residents here are rather pessimistic and some prognostrators maintain cold weather and snow will appear before the vacation period begins in earnest.

Father Gets Decoration

Son Is Missing In Action Since April '44

The next of kin of Michigan Army Air Force heroes received decorations for feats of their fighting men at Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, on Saturday, March 17. Col. Bradford A. Shaw presented the decoration to the relatives of the officers and enlisted men who are prisoners of war, killed or missing in action.

Awards and their recipient included An Medal with two oak leaf clusters to Alex S. Kerr, of this city, father of Staff Sergeant Keith S. Kerr, who is missing in action.

S-Sgt. Kerr, ball turret gunner on a Flying Fortress based in England, has been reported missing since April 27, 1944, following a mission over France.

S-Sgt. Kerr enlisted in the air force in November, 1942, and after training at Las Vegas, Nev., and air fields in Texas and Colorado, went overseas early in 1944. He had been wounded on his second and thirteenth missions. The plane was forced down after being hit by anti-aircraft fire, according to reports given by other members of the crew who were able to make their way to friendly territory.

S-Sgt. Kerr has two brothers in the service, Pfc. Forrest is in Europe with the army and Lynn, radioman, is on active duty with the Navy.

FORMER RESIDENT LAUDS REPORTERS

Likes Interesting Tales of Pioneer History of Charlevoix

Mrs. Peter E. Vandenmade, former resident now living in Detroit, sends the following communication.

"We have been subscribers for many years and my father was one of the early readers of the old Democrat and the paper before it. I believe he moved to Charlevoix in 1882 or 83. For that reason I am particularly interested in the "Remember When" column and more recently, in the items written by Will Sherman. I have given my Courier to the daughter of Elsie Harris whom he mentions so often in his articles.

I wonder if there are not some early residents of Charlevoix who have equally interesting tales of the development of the town. The youngsters of today should not be allowed to grow up without a knowledge of their heritage in pioneer history."

Foster Boat Co. Gets Recognition

Press and Radio Laud Charlevoix Concern for Its Contribution To the War Effort

STORM BOATS MANUFACTURED HERE LESS THAN MONTH AGO ARE USED IN CROSSING MOSELLE AND RHINE RIVERS

By press, radio and official letter, recognition has been given Charlevoix's outstanding contribution to the war effort in the production of military equipment which has just played a vital role in the sensational Moselle and Rhine river crossings.

A United Press dispatch, aired by WJR, Detroit, in its midnight newscast Saturday, stated "Hundreds of the small boats which carried United States troops across the Rhine were still in production in Michigan less than a month ago. The boats were manufactured under rush conditions by the Foster Boat company, of Charlevoix, Michigan, and the Century Boat company, of Manistee, Michigan. Some of the boats were flown to Europe, the War Department said."

An Associated Press Wirephoto, appearing in Sunday's Detroit Free Press, showed troops of Patton's Third Army crossing the Moselle River in Storm Boats in their Saar Basin and Palatinate drive which placed them firmly across the Rhine. Motion pictures of the training of assault troops at West Point in the use of these boats have lately been shown in theaters in this locality.

Plans for the crossing of the Rhine and final thrusts into the heart of the Reich had been worked out in detail months ago —even to the locale of the crossing.

Red Cross Still Short of Goal

Special Donations May Be Requested to Reach Quota, States Mr. Edwards

After last week's plea for an additional push to the Red Cross 1945 War Fund, more contributions were received but the city may still fall short of its goal, announces E. J. Edwards, local chairman.

Charlevoix has always made a splendid record in any drive for funds, especially during these years of war. Are we to fall behind in this campaign?

Special donations may be needed in order to make the quota, says Mr. Edwards. There must be many local citizens who feel that they could easily give another dollar or two, and a number of small extra donations like this would help to put the drive over the top.

Township residents will be solicited, but those who wish to make donations this week may leave their money with Mr. Edwards, or with Miss Anne Bigman at the city clerk's office, city hall.

OLD TIMERS CLUB PLANNING PARTY

"The Charlevoix-Detroit Old Timers Club" is planning another one of their rollicking get-together parties to be held in the latter part of April at the Y. W. C. Look for further details regarding this party in about two weeks, but make your plans now and mark the date on your calendars so that you will not forget it.

ATTEND MEETING

A District Red Cross meeting was held in Traverse City on Tuesday for the purpose of instructing home service workers in the interpretation of the laws concerning veterans and the procedure in assisting veterans or their dependents in filing claims for insurance, death benefits, education and hospitalization facilities and laws.

The lectures were given by the Field Director of the American Red Cross of the Veterans Hospital, Dearborn. Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff and Mrs. Edward K. Shanahan, home service directors in Charlevoix, attended the meeting.

Sgt. Fay Bradley Is Prisoner of War

Notifies Daughter That He Is Safe and O. K.

Sergeant Fay A. Bradley, who has been missing in action since December 21, while serving in Germany with the 106th Division of the First Army, is a prisoner of war in Germany, his daughter, Miss Barbara Bradley, cadet nurse at the Mercy Central school of nursing, Grand Rapids, was notified on Tuesday. The news came in a letter from her father written January 4 stating that he was a prisoner of war and that he was alright. A short personal message and instructions for writing to him was the only other news in the letter.

An official notification from the War Department has not been received to date.

Sgt. Bradley had been overseas since October and was with an infantry division which was surrounded by the Germans in the early days of the December break-through.

Another daughter, Miss Shirley Bradley, resides here.

Monday night about 9 o'clock fire was discovered in an unused room at the home of Jesse Feather on the McSauba road just off Michigan avenue, which, before being extinguished, almost destroyed the entire structure. Practically everything on the second floor was burned, and considerable damage on the first floor by water and moving out the furniture. The house and contents were covered by insurance.

In the absence of the president (Mrs. Armstrong) at the appointed hour the vice president (Mrs. Priest) called the meeting to order. The Secretary (Mrs. Baker) called the roll to which the members responded with quotations from "The Merry Wives of Windsor," a review of this play having been assigned as the lesson, with Mrs. Armstrong as leader.

To be efficient one must not only do the required work from day to day, but must understand some of the great problems of the educational world. This gives purpose to their work and, understanding the aims of these respective subjects, they are able to pursue them with greater enthusiasm.

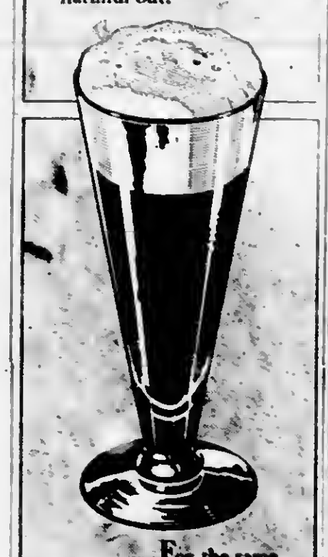
Nature puts a peel around an apple to keep flavor in . . . air and everything harmful out.



For the same reason Altes uses closed, instead of the ordinary open vats. Under this protective seal Altes Lager, like the apple, ages in flavor and ripens to the full perfection of its exclusive Aged-in Sealed-in Flavor. No other beer can offer you so much.

A TELEPHONE CAN'T WORK BY ITSELF

Like others, the Bell System will have to convert its telephone factories to civilian production after the war. But when post-war automobiles, refrigerators and washing machines leave the manufacturers, they'll be ready to use. With telephones, it's different.

After we get new instruments and equipment, there is the long, painstaking job of installing and joining them to the present system.

Many new buildings must be erected; others enlarged. Billions of hand-soldered switchboard connections will have to be made. It's time-consuming — even a small section of central office equipment contains thousands of those connections, and space allows only a few men to work on it at one time. Then, too, thousands of miles of wire and cable must be constructed to connect telephones to central offices.

So that we can provide service for the 100,000 orders on our growing waiting list and again install telephones promptly wherever wanted, Michigan Bell plans a five-year post-war construction program costing $120,000,000. But even working at that rapid rate, it will take at least two years before telephones generally can be installed without delay.

If you are waiting, we appreciate your patience and understanding. We will supply you with service just as quickly as we possibly can.

Housewives Supply Data For OPA

Give Census Taker Information on Kinds, Amounts of Food Bought

A new group of housewives in Charlevoix county is being asked by the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., to supply data for the Office of Price Administration on the amounts and kinds of food purchased for their families, Donald P. Watkins, local Census representative announced today.

The housewives are the fifth group of volunteers being selected in this and 67 other areas in 42 states to participate for about a four-month period in the War-time Food Diary conducted by the Census Bureau for OPA.

The survey is designed to provide OPA with accurate up-to-the-minute facts on food consumption by typical American families. This information is used by OPA, with reports of processors and wholesalers, as a basis for calculating the food consumption of the entire nation and for maintaining the fairest possible distribution of available food.

The fourth group of housewives, now being replaced after four months of patriotic cooperation, soon will receive from the Census Bureau "War Service Awards" in the form of certificates bearing the seal of the United States. The new group also will receive this recognition.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

The boys and girls have been watching for signs of spring everyday on the way to school. This week we are going for a walk in the woods and to the lake if the weather is pleasant.

Edwin Belfy's mother and his sister, Carol Ann, visited school last Tuesday.

First Grade

Spring is in the air. We have been coloring robins, pussy willows and spring flowers.

Bruce Fairbanks and Murna Veenstra had birthday parties at school Thursday. Everyone had a good time. Thanks to Mrs. Fairbanks and Mrs. Veenstra. Mrs. Trimble was not here Thursday, and Mrs. Bowman substituted for her.

Second Grade

The Yellow Class has started a new reading book "The Water Babies Circus."

Phyllis Williams and Kay Dalton brought us pretty spring flowers.

We are working hard to improve our spelling and writing.

We had a new girl in our room last week, Barbara Dana, from Royal Oak.

We all enjoyed the movies in the gym Wednesday morning. We decided to try to eat the foods that would make strong healthy bodies.

Third Grade

All boys and girls are back now; we hope spring illnesses are over.

We have nearly finished our Bambi mural. Most of the children worked on it.

Learning to make telephone calls correctly has been interesting. Most boys and girls are familiar with the use of the telephone but we found there are a few courtesies which we often forget, like "please" and "thank you."

Group Three has a new reading book, "Mickey Never Fails." Yes, it's about Mickey Mouse, with those cute Walt Disney pictures. We like them very much.

Fourth Grade

We said good-bye to Louise Bowerman, who returned to her home in Munising. Louise made many friends while she was here.

Catherine Sands and Patsy Shores had birthdays last week.

We all enjoyed the movies in the gym Wednesday. We had been talking about forest fires just last week.

The recess sports are now centered around the baseball games for the boys and jumping rope for the girls.

Fifth Grade

Sanda Helms visited us last week. She has been going to school in Detroit.

We had a test on the United States last Thursday. We are putting some of our best History posters and wooden covered wagons in the case upstairs. The best wooden homemade covered wagon was made by Dickie Niswander. It has four wooden horses to pull it. We have many very good artists in our room.

Overflow 1, 2, 3

The boys and girls in our room have made Easter bunnies.

Margie Kay Lauderman is back in school again after several weeks' illness.

Jimmy Novotny, Larry Swanson and Robert Hilton had perfect lessons in spelling last week.

Study Shop

We have learned some Dutch dances and songs last week. We enjoyed a demonstration lesson on magnets given to us by Mr. Trumpour last Friday. We think the physics laboratory is an exciting place.

Mrs. Bowman taught in our room Wednesday afternoon. She began reading a new book "Jet Plane Mystery," by Snell. It is a story about the war in the Pacific. It certainly is a "thriller."

Mathematics

In General Math, we introduce the keeping of receipts and expenditures with relation to the family budget.

In Algebra we are undertaking the division of polynomials.

Geometry continues to stress constructions. This is in preparation for the project in original design which each pupil is expected to complete.

Science

We continue with study of the health of the community as related to prevention of the spread of communicable diseases. We shall have special reports on the life and work of Pasteur and Koch.

In Physics, we begin work in magnetism.

Mrs. H. Bedford, 82, Dies in Hospital

Was Only Known Living Survivor of Passenger Vessel

Mrs. Harrison Bedford, 82, one of northern Michigan's oldest native residents, died at the Charlevoix hospital on Saturday following several years of failing health.

Minnie Cooper was born on December 4, 1862, in the settlement of Little Traverse, now known as Harbor Springs. At the age of two she came to Charlevoix, then called Pine River, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cooper, making the trip through the forest by foot.

On March 14, 1882, she married Harrison Bedford and for many years they operated the Bedford shoe store. In 1905 they purchased the Fountain City House from Mrs. Bedford's father who had built the hotel a few years after coming to Charlevoix. It is still considered northern Michigan's oldest hotel and the longest in possession of one family.

While continuing to operate the Fountain City House, Mr. and Mrs. Bedford managed the Charlevoix Hotel in Grand Rapids, from 1914 to 1921. This building was later razed and the Rowe Hotel built on the site.

Mrs. Bedford was the only known living survivor of the burning of the passenger propellor vessel, the Champlain, which occurred in Lake Michigan five miles south of Charlevoix on June 16, 1887, and in which 22 persons perished, among them Mrs. Bedford's sister.

Mrs. Bedford retired from the hotel business two years ago when she sold the Fountain City House to her son, Harold, who now manages it as a resort hotel.

Mr. Bedford preceeded her in death on October 9, 1940.

She was a member of the Episcopal church and was a life member of the Eastern Star.

Surviving are a son, Harold, of Charlevoix, a daughter, Mrs. W. R. Barney, of Ionia, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the See Funeral Home at 3 p. m., Monday afternoon with the Rev. G. R. Parker, of Northport, former pastor of the Charlevoix Congregational church, officiating. Interment was at the Brookside cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Cummings and their daughter, Louise, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cummings and family, of Royal Oak, spent the week-end in Charlevoix.

The Mary Margaret, in charge of Capt. Leroy Allers, made a trial run into Lake Michigan this week. After a final check-up at the Wisconsin Shipyards, she will be ready for the Beaver Island run early in April.

Minnows by the mill - - -, or at least a lot of them are seen in Round Lake now, indicating perhaps that perch fishing is near. Many local anglers are preparing for the event, which we hope isn't too far distant.

Foster Boat

ing—it has now been revealed. Allied timetables, however, were upset by Germany's December advance in the Ardennes sector and the swift collapse that followed. With the erosnre of the "Belgian Bulge" Germnn plans for an orderly withdrawal to Rhine defenses fell apart and Allied advances were swifter than nnticipated. If tho momentum of the Allied drive was to carry them across the Rhine before the Germans could strengthen their east-bank defenses, plenty of boats were needed—and quickly.

War Department officials called upon builders of Storm Boats to scrap their planned productien schedules and to deliver the greatest possible number of boats in February. Red tape was slashed to shreds. Required delivery dates on materials, difficult enough to obtain under the original schedule, were advanced to a "must have yesterday" basis. Carlead shipments of plywood, ready to move to the Foster Boat company from the west coast by ordinary freight were reloaded into express cars and highballed to Charlevoix. Several plone loads of plywood were flown from the east coast in Air Transport Cemmand cargo planes to Traverse City, when the rail-freight snarl in the eastern states threalened te hold up delivery. Castings and other badly needed parts were shipped Air Express te meet the stepped-up schedule.

Reporting on the Rhine crossing, Station WTMJ, Milwaukee, said in its Sunday morning newscast, "The two companies in this area praised today by the Engineers for their feat in meeting urgent Army demands are the Foster Boat company, of Charlevoix, Michigan, and the Century Boat company, of Manistee, Michigan."

Official commendation from the War Department, Office of the Chief of Engineers, Washington, D. C., came in this letter:

Foster Boat Company
Charlevoix, Michigan
Gentlemen:

I wish to commend you and your employees for yoor magnificent accomplishment ef producing plywood storm boats for the U. S. Army during the month of February.

A request was made on Feb. 3, 1945, upon the Corps of Engineers by a Theater of War to supply a large quantity ef these boats. The deadline for delivery to the Port was Feb. 28. Your firm was requested to provide as large a quantity as possible. The quantity which was produced by your firm could not normally be expected in the small number of working days which yeu had available. It was only possible because of the outstanding demonstration of loyalty to duty and country by your employees—all real Americans. Only through your untiring effort and the efforts of all of us can we expect our forces to achieve an early victory.

Very truly yours,
E. REYBOLD,
Major Geoeral
Chief of Engineers

Commenting on the recognition given the Foster Boat company for its contribution to the war effort, H. G. Foster, President of the company, remarked, "We have been building war materials exclusively for a long time, but never before has it been brought home to us so clearly how important it is that each of us continue to do his particular job as quickly and as well as he possibly can to provide the needed materials of war—in adequate quantities, and on time. I wish to thank all those whose efforts have made it possible for us to meet the emergency, and, in doing so, hasten the day of victory."

Among My Souvenirs

How dear to my heart are tho scenes of my babyhood,
The picturesque home in the midst of the wildwood,
The mansion of logs so creatively built
And over that threshold no form of guilt
Ever passed to grieve one another,
That home, that mansion, of my Father and Mother.

My first recollection, I that t'was a bird,
The sweetest of voices I ever have heard—
"Rock-a-bye baby on the tree top"
Seemed to keep time to our old mantel clock.

I have heard of angels their songs to rejoice,
Hut no angel music could compare with that voice—
That voice of my mother, my guardian, my love,
To whom I was sent by our dear Lord above.

Thank you, dear God for the beautiful gem,
A gem shedding radiance wherever and when
The least cloud of sorrow or heart-ache was seen,
Casting its brillance like rain on the green.

Inspired by her music, no sleep for me now,
A hurry of feet and a low sweeping bow—
T'was a Prince so gay with a laughing blue eye
No King, No Sovereign, could, with him vie.

T'was my Father, I knew it, so kind, so alluring,
Each wish of my Mother so kindly pursuing,
So—Another mansion grew, of his own free will—
A mansion of blue, high upon a hill,
"My blue heaven"—he called it so proudly
And we all agreed in voices loudly.

Heaven it was with the spirit they lent,
But to higher purpose they ardently bent.
So—in few short years in success they grew,
They grew and grew till the wide world knew
The peak of the pedestal would be their goal
Their winning post, with pureness of soul.
To a higher Power they laid their success,
So—were they my angels?
I still answer yes
— and hear —
"Rock-a-bye baby"
Thanks — seven times seven,
And I long for that home,
"My blue heaven".

News of Our Servicemen

In a letter received recently by Mr. and Mrs. Orval McGinnis, their son, Pvt. Harold D. McGinnis, informed them he had arrived safely in Belgium. Following is an excerpt from the letter: "I am in Belgium now and I like it over here. The people here speak French and have been very nice to us. The towns are nice but many of them have been pretty well wrecked. I had a nice shower today and some good Belgian cake so you see it isn't as bad as you think.

"The weather here is cold but there isn't any snow.

"I am sending you a couple frane notes for souviners of the place.

"The Red Cross is outside with coffee and donuts, so I'll close now. I don't want to miss out on it."

Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis have two other sons in the service. Pfc. Marvin is stationed in the Netherlands, East Indies with the army and Pfc. Vernon is in Italy with the army. Pvt. Harold McGinnis, who has been in the service since April, 1944, trained at Camp Hood, Texas, Camp Chaffee, Ark., and Camp Gruber, Okla., before going overseas.

Harry E. Zeitler, S1c, who is stationed in the Marianas with the Navy SeaBees writes of his meeting with Harold Holm, also of Charlevoix:

Harold came over to see me not so long ago. It's the first time I've seen him in three years. We had quite a time talking over Charlevoix and our friends there.

It is still hot here but it rains quite often so that helps. We have quite a few B-29s here and are really giving Tokio what it deserves. The SeaBees have this place in pretty shape now. They did more here in a month than the Japs did in all the time they were here.

Cpl. Claude Mitchell, who is stationed at a General Hospital in France with the medical corps writes the following: I received the Courier yesterday for the first time since I left Camp Ellis and it sure seemed good to get it again. I never knew how much the news meant until I got over here. I'm somewhere in France and like all the boys, wish I were someplace in the good old U.S.A., preferably Charlevoix.

From T5 Lyle Ross who was wounded in action in Germany recently and who is recuperating in a General Hospital in England comes the following: I have quite a bit of time to lay around so thought I would write to you again. The last time I wrote was when I first came to England about a year ago. Six months ago I was transferred to a Replacement Depot and last December was sent to France. After some infantry training I was sent to the front.

You don't know how lucky we are that this fighting is over here and not in the States. When you see these places you wender where the people will live when the war is over.

I was with an infantry outfit in the Third Army and they were a swell bunch of boys. I guess I wasn't moving fast enough in that lost push I went on or else that shell had my number on it for when it bursted I was the only one to get hit. It felt as tho' I'd walked into a stone wall. I broke my left arm and shoulder and I'm now tied up in bed after a trip from the front. Since coming here I have found that the nurse in charge of my ward was one I'd worked with while with the medics at Fort Sill.

Lt. Jane L. Stelter, who is stationed at Redistribution Station No. 4, Santa Ana Air Base, Calif., and who was promted to a first lieutenant early in March, writes:

For more than two years I have been meaning to write and thank you and the CSO for the Courier. It is really helpful to have that contact with home. It is enjoyed not only by me but my cooks and WACs from other states.

After spending 21 months in the desert at Deming, N. M., it is really wonderful to be stationed at a field like this one where I've been the past 8 months.

As for being busy, we really are with returnees passing through here consantly. Their average stay is two weeks for processing before re-assignment to another field unless they are sent to the convalescent hospital here. Everything possible is done for them in the way of entertainment while they are here and we spare nothing in our attempt to give them anything and everything in the line of food. The food is as good as they dream it could be while overseas. Entertainment includes bus trips to Los Angeles for plays, dinners, radio shows and three nights a week they have an orchestra here for dancing. Wednesday night is nurses' night. Friday night the local girls come in and on week-ends Hollywood girls come down.

I thought some of the boys would like to hear what a Re-distribution station does for them besides re-assigning them.

S/SGT. JAMES KERR MEMBER OF 84TH

What the "safely dressed" man wore on the U. S. Seventh Army winter line — northern sector of Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers' 6th Army Group front — was the product of the 84th Engineer Battalion's camoflcurs, turned fashion designers.

"This battalion gives technical advice on concealment measures for all Seventh Army troops and installations," explained Lt. Col. Winold T. Reiss of New York, N. Y., battalion commander. "Platoons operate with corps and divisions, sometimes aiding in the camouflage of a gun position while the gun is firing on German positions beyond." Supply of camouflage materials is also facilitated by the battalion, he added.

The 84th sailed for North Africa on April 1, 1943, and operated in Algeria, Tunisia, Italy and Corsica, before hitting the Riviera beach head of Southern France.

Members of the battalion include: Staff Sgt. James A. Kerr, of Ironton.

EDUCATION IS HIS BUSINESS

Eugene B. Elliott, Republican candidate for re-election as Michigan's Superintendent of Public Instruction, April 2, is making a real business of public education. As administrative head of Michigan's public school system he has reached the top of Michigan's educational ladder from a governmental administrative standpoint, after having climbed that ladder step by step from his early beginnings as a studious lad in the public schools of Pontiac. It is a high tribute to his leadership as head of the Department of Public Instruction since 1935, that during the past year some twenty-five states have sent representatives to study programs sponsored by Elliott's Department.

As a member of the State Administrative Board, Doctor Elliott, in addition to his interest and activities in the field of education, keeps in close touch with general governmental affairs of the state. In these capacities he has the confidence of Governor Kelly, and is working with him on a number of Commissions which the governor has appointed to meet such war-created needs as juvenile delinquency and child welfare.

One of Doctor Elliott's greatest interests aside from the field of education is the returning veteran and his postwar problems. This is a natural inclination on the part of Michigan's Superintendent of Public Instruction, since he served overseas in World War I and is a member of both the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Sgt. Smith Takes Kansas Bride

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Pring, of Herington, Kans., announce the marriage of their daughter, Edith Blanche, to Technical Sergeant Clarence H. Smith, U. S. Army Air Forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Smith, of Charlevoix.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, March 1, at the parsonage of the First Baptist church of Biloxi, Miss. The Rev. G. C. Hodge read the marriage vows in the presence of a few friends.

Technical Sergeant Richard W. Mercer Jr. was their only attendant.

The bride wore an afternoon dress of light green taffeta fashioned with small ruffles and pleats which formed a bustle-back effect. Her accessories were white and her corsage was of pastel sweet peas. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Runfalo, in Biloxi, following the ceremony.

Mrs. Smith is a graduate of the Herington, Kans., high school class of 1939. She has made her home in Topeka, Kans., for the past two and a half years where she is employed as a teletypist in the telegraph dpartmnt of the Santa Fe Railway Co. She will return to her position there.

The bridegroom returned to the United States last October after serving 22 months in India with the Army Air Forces, as a member of the famous Seventh Bombardment Group, a tenth air force unit operating in the strategic air force, Eastern Air Command. As an engineer gunner on a B-24 Liberator bomber, he has completed 52 combat missions and wears the Distinguished Flying Cross with with one bronze oak leaf cluster, the Air Medal with one oak leaf cluster and a Presidential Unit Citation. T-Sgt. Smith is now an aviation cadet and is stationed at San Antonio, Texas.

Charlevoix have organized a teachers club that has for its object the study of educational problems.

The first meeting was held in the high school music room Wednesday, March 17th. After a most pleasing duet had been rendered by Miss B. Allen and Mrs. Pierce, Capt. H. A. Craig gave a very interesting subject, "School and Society." Mrs. A. Coulter sang in her usual style a song entitled "Thro' All Eternity."

Some time ago the Campbell Boot Shop of this city made a very unique offer which involved one of the cleverest advertising schemes pulled off in Charlevoix for some time.

Mr. Campbell's offer was to present to each baby born in Charlevoix and vicinity during the year of 1920, a pair of shoes. Thus far in the season he has presented new arrivals with twenty-one pairs of shoes.

The latest arrivals in the Swartout family near Norwood was rather more than Mr. Campbell anticipated. Instead of one pair, he had to hand out two pair to a couple of mighty husky youngsters that just arrived last week. Needless to say the twins got their shoes, as will all twins, triplets, etc., for the remainder of the year.

The Association of Commerce at its last regular session, in addition to regular routine business, passed a resolution offering a reward of $25 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone violating the game laws as respects fishing in the waters of Pine Lake or tributary waters.

This action was felt to be necessary, inasmuch as violations of this character have been going on for a number of years and, while appeals have been made to local commercial fishermen to cooperate in putting a stop to these violations, but little has been accomplished.

Both Pine and Round Lakes have been striped of their fish this year by pirates who have used their nets without regard to the interests of the community or the ethics of good sportsmanship.

Last Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Charles Novak, the women of the Congregational church celebrated the 27th anniversary of the organization of their missionary society.

There was a large attendance and an interesting program which consisted largely of letters from some of our missionaries at home and abroad. The crowning number was a story entitled, "What doest thou here?" told by Mrs. Grover Geneit in her usual charming manner.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by a committee.

Through the efforts of Postmaster George W. Weaver, a temporary contract for air mail service between Charlevoix and Beaver Island has been granted for the period until navigation opens. Crossings by Carl Legt and Chas. Martin, winter carriers, were discontinued between Cross Village and St. James on March 17th.

George Austgen, Michigan Air Express pilot, made the first trip to St. James last Saturday. A second trip was to have been made on Tuesday of this week with a 6-passenger cabin plane, but storm conditions have held up the flight. The temporary contract calls for two trips weekly.

Smelt dipping in Boyne river and other streams running into Lake Charlevoix continues to be the favorite pasttime of local sportsmen as well as those of the entire state and many out-staters.

Since Michigan produces about one-eighth of the nation's war materials and moves seventy-three per cent of this vital material by truck over state trunklines, it is obvious that the problem of maintaining Michigan's highways in proper condition to handle war traffic without delay is a most vital one, requiring the highest type of engineering skill and administrative ability. That Charles M. Ziegler, Michigan's State Highway Commissioner and Republican candidate for re-election to that office on April 2nd is doing that job with high efficiency, is best evidenced by the fact that the state's trunkline highways are recognized as the best in the nation. And it is particularly to the credit of Commissioner Ziegler that this huge war-time job is being accomplished successfully despite a decrease of some $13,000,000 in department revenue in 1943 and 1944 as compared to 1941, the last pre-war year, and at a saving of over $1,500,000 per year in operating expenses.

When "Charlie" Ziegler, as he is familiarly known to thousands of Michigan citizens, was elected Highway Commissioner in 1943, he became administrative head of the department where he had served for fifteen years prior to 1933 as Deputy Commissioner and in other engineering capacities. Commissioner Ziegler is bringing sound administration to Michigan's trunkline highway system in these vital times.

The run started in Boyne river a week ago last Monday and is still going strong. Big catches were made throughout last week. The run diminished somewhat last Thursday and Friday because of cold weather, but started again Saturday night full blast. During the past week, tons of smelt have been dipped.

Making its initial trip on the earliest date in recent years, the Charlevoix-Beaver Island mail boat Marold II took over the route to St. James on Monday, supplanting airplane service which has served the islanders since late in December.

Lack of the usual heavy Lake Michigan ice floes and early spring break-up have accounted for resumption of boat service at this unusual date. The Marold II was not the first boat to make the crossing, as the freighter Rambler completed a round trip last week.

Trolling for Mackinaw trout off Nine Mile Point and other favorite fishing grounds was started Sunday, according to reports of several Michigan fishermen. For this sport a small motor boat is used, and the equipment is a special heavy pole, large reel, and copper line. Special hooks are also used and often some very large fish are landed. One of the largest reported last season was a mackinaw trout weighing 28 pounds.

Michigan Bell Sends Pamphlets To 1500 Farmers

When the Michigan Bell Telephone company launches its post-war rural expansion and improvement program, it will have the benefit of expert advice — from the farmer himself.

The company has sent a 23-page questionnaire relating to farmline service to 1,500 rural users in 36 exchanges and 24 counties of its territory, which embraces 35 per cent of the state's total area. That number is presumed to represent a cross section of some 31,000 telphone users in the 24 counties.

Theodore H. Dawson, director of the company's farm service program, said the purpose of the survey is to "obtain information which will aid the Michigan Bell in its plans of extending and improving telephone service, thereby increasing its usefulness to all telephone users."

The questionnaire contains 77 questions relating to quality and use of the service, rates, and farmline construction. The party-line comes in for attention. Farmers also are asked where they obtain information on weather, market and road conditions, and time of day.

KATE SMITH asked to write this message on Saving Used Fats!

"The help of every woman is needed in saving used fats for hundreds of battlefield and home-front essentials. But some of us don't know all the ways we can do it. Here are a few points I've found helpful."—Kate Smith

MANY WOMEN SAY: "But I never have fats left over." Certainly it's good economy to re-use your fats...but there's always some left over even after that...and that little is more important than you can imagine. Only one tablespoonful of used fat will help make 5 machine-gun bullets. So there just can't ever be too little to save! Come on, everybody, scrape your broiling pan, your roaster, skillet. Save meat trimmings and scraps of fat left on plates.

OTHERS TELL ME: "But my fats are often too dark to turn in." It doesn't make a mite of difference how dark or blackened ...or what smelly things like onion or fish you've cooked in your fat. Every drop of it will help make parachutes, synthetic rubber, soaps for the fighting and war fronts. Don't feel ashamed to hand it in to your butcher. If you save every bit of fat you possibly can, you're doing a job to be proud of!

THEN YOU HEAR: "But what sort of container will I use?" Any kind of tin can will do. The next time you open a can of fruit or juice or soup or vegetables, save it. But please don't use glass ...it almost always breaks and makes the fat difficult to salvage. When the can is full, take it to your butcher. For every pound, you'll get 2 red points. If you have any difficulty disposing of your fats, call your Home Demonstration or County Agent.

Bert Loses the War Single-Handed

Bert Childer's house burned down last week, and the only good thing that came out of it was it cured him of swearing. Bert just couldn't think of words to fit the occasion, so he just gave up.

Bert admits it was his own fault. Started with a field fire which he thought he had under control, and when he turned his back a minute for a breathing spell, the fire sprung up twice as fierce. By the time the firemen arrived, there wasn't much that they could do.

From where I sit, there's a moral in Bert's experience. A lot of us feel we've got the fires of this war under control... that we can relax a little, maybe let up on buying bonds, donating blood, or fighting inflation.

Just like Bert lost his fight against the fire, we can lose this fight against our enemy if we let down now. Because war, like fire, is never over till the last spark is extinguished.

FARM TOPICS

By B. C. Mallencamp
Agricultural Agent for Charlevoix County

Agricultural Engineering Meetings, Wednesday, April 4

Mechanical equipment has made possible for twenty percent of the people to produce better food than ninety percent of the people did in 1800. More acute labor shortages are expected on Michigan farms than last year. Two-thirds of a farmer's time is spent doing chores. Electrical equipment lends itself to saving time in doing the chores. This is especially true on dairy farms. The following two meetings have been scheduled on Wednesday, April 4 with Richard Witz, Specialist for Michigan State College present to lead the discussion. Wednesday, 1:30 p. m., Marion Center Grange all. Wednesday night, 8 o'clock p. m., Boyne City Library. In addition to the discussions of dairy equipment, discussions will take place on many other labor-saving equipment such as buck rakes, manure loaders, post-hole diggers and water systems. Every farmer in the county should be interested in attending the nearest meeting as we are more dependant on labor-saving devices than ever before. If you have any problems on any engineering subject, bring them with you and toss them in the ring.

Early Spring May Bring Problems

Fruit growers are particularly worrying about this early spring which is so unusual it is the main topic of conservation. Last Tuesday, three tree-fruit meetings were held in the county with a very good attendance of our leading growers. The fruit buds are beginning to show life and development. We are all worried about this damage that can take place if a cold spell hits us. In southern Michigan, the temperatures, night and day, have been so high, that growth has taken place. At the East Jordan meeting, Specialist Merrill of the horticultural Department gave a fine discussion on spraying, fertilization and cover crops. He particularly recommended that fertilizer be applied in a narrow band around the outside circle of the tree rather than the broadcast as has been the custom. The result is the small root of the tree obtains a much greater percent of the fertilizer. In the old system, the sod secured move good from the fertilizer than the small roots immediately beneath. He also recommended the use of Fescue as a cover crop as it is not hard on the soil, does not use as much moisture in its growth and does not need to be clipped or cut. Further particulars will be gladly given upon request.

Need for Fat Salvage Acute

To help meet the acute need for salvaged fat used for war purposes, a statewide campaign is being launched in rural areas. The quantity of household fats collected from more accessible urban sources is declining. This is due partly to the small supplies of meat and edible fats available to civilians. Farm and small-town families must be depended upon to increase the quantity of household fats collected for salvage. In spite of the past campaigns, the need is more urgent now than ever before.

Even a teaspoonful is important when multiplied by twelve million farm and small town families. Fats are used in the manufacture of many strategic war materials — synthetic rubber, protective coatings, pharmaceuticals, and many others. Let us all save all the waste fat possible and turn it in to your store so that it can be used for war purposes.

Sgt. Charles Cellner Spends Furlough Here

Is Veteran of 45 Month Overseas Duty

Sgt. Charles Cellner, veteran of 45 months overseas duty in Hawaii and Guam with an army Anti-aircraft battery, has been spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Cellner. He left Friday to visit in Detroit for a few days before reporting at Miami Beach, Fla., for re-assignment.

Sgt. Cellner, who left in Selective service in April, 1941, and expected to be home on furlough in a few months, received three months training at Fort Custer, Va., and was sent to Hawaii without coming home.

Early on Sunday morning, December 7, 1941, as Sgt. Cellner was leaving his barracks for the chapel, the Japs attacked and with it all hope of a trip home in the near future. Their anti-aircraft guns were soon in action in spite of the surprise attack and they stayed at them for hours. He felt lucky that he had come out of the attack without an injury.

After time was taken he was transferred there in August, 1944, and came from there on his furlough.

Sgt. Cellner, who wears the Pacific theatre ribbon with campaign stars, the Good Conduct medal and the Pre-Pearl Harbor ribbon, has one brother in the army in New Guinea, S-Sgt. Kenneth, and another brother, Franklin, who will be inducted into the service at Detroit on April 3.

SAVE THOSE TIRES

The passenger tire problem is getting tighter. To keep riding on rubber, give those tires on your car daily personal inspection. If they need repair or recaps, have the work done promptly. There will be less and less new civilian tires as the intensity of war increases in both the European and Pacific fronts. Quotas for April will be only 55% of the March quota.

Applications for canning sugar will not be available until May 1.

Church Wedding Unites Couple

Crites-Heise Nuptials Performed Last Saturday

Miss Madlyn Jean Crites, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Crites, of Detroit, became the bride of Robert C. Heise, son of Paul Heise, of this city, at a ceremony performed in the Wesley Chapel of the Metropolitan Methodist church, Detroit, at 8 o'clock Saturday evening. The Rev. W. H. Hubbard read the service in the presence of a few relatives and friends. Miss Geraldine Spare, cousin of the bride, and Kenneth Heise, brother of the bridegroom, were their only attendants.

The bride chose an afternoon dress of brown net, embroidered with blue flowers. Her accessories were brown and white and her flowers a corsage of white roses. Miss Spare wore a rose and white print gown, black accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Crites wore a navy ensemble with matching accessories, an old gold coat and a corsage of pink roses for her daughter's wedding.

A reception for the bridal party and forty guests was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony. The refreshment table was centered with a large wedding cake which was topped by a miniature bridal couple which had been used by many other members of the bride's family. Bowls of spring flowers and lighted white tapers decorated the table.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will make their home in Detroit.

The bride is a graduate of Northern high school, Detroit, and for the past two years has been a toll operator at the Detroit office of the Michigan Bell telephone company. The bridegroom, who received a discharge from the service in January, is a veteran of two and a half years' overseas duty with the Red Arrow Division in New Guinea and with Merrill's Marauders in the China-Burma-India theater. He is now employed at the Vickers Corporation in Detroit.

Fun Promised for All at St. Mary's Rec.

25 to 35 Prizes Are Awarded Each Week

Ralph Hamilton, in charge of St. Mary's recreation center, disclosed today that more than $400 has been sent to boys and girls in service, as a result of prizes from Wednesday evening parties held at the center.

"Each Wednesday evening," Mr. Hamilton said, "we have from 25 to 35 prizes in all. A special contest for boys and girls in service helps those winners both in a financial way and also in keeping their morale high, knowing that the folks back home are thinking of them."

Besides helping those in service, it is clean, wholesome entertainment for all who attend. Names of former winners appear in an advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

Because of lost records, Mr. Hamilton stated, names of early winners may not be listed. Anyone having knowledge of these names is urged to contact Mr. Hamilton so that the list may be brought up to date.

An invitation to attend these Wednesday evening parties is extended to all.

Each member is asked to bring her own table service and a dish to pass.

Telegraph Service Further Extended For Servicemen

Provides for Fixed-Text Messages to Relatives

The "Homeward Bound" telegraph service now in use at many military establishments was further extended, effective March 19, to naval hospitals and redistribution and receiving stations in all parts of the United States, it was announced today by Mr. Wakefield local manager of the Western Union Telegraph company.

This service provides returning army, navy, marine and coast guard personnel with their choice of sixteen fixed-text messages for use in notifying relatives and friends of their arrival in this country. The "Homeward Bound" messages may be sent at a special 25c rate from the designated points to any Western Union destination in the United States.

Mr. Wakefield stated that the "Homeward Bound" service has been well received since its inauguration January 1 and predicted that the service will grow in popularity among all branches of the armed forces. A typical message reads: "Arrived here safely. Getting good care and felling fine. Will write. Love."

Passenger Tires Again Reduced

Only 1,000,000 passenger tires for cars and motorcycles will be available to civilians during April, as compared with the 1,600,000 available in March, OPA announced. This sharply reduced civilian tire supply is due to a decline in production caused by a serious shortage of carbon black, an ingredient used to harden synthetic rubber.

Battleship Model Is Unique

More Than Four Years Was Required to Complete Miniature Ship

Besides being in the heating and plumbing business Frank J. Novotny is a master at building battleship models as his finished product above attests. In early life Frank was an adept art student, and modeling battleships was his hobby.

The model is 32 inches in height and 32 inches in length, consisting of 3,483 pieces of material which took a total of 2,468 hours of labor to fashion and complete. It was begun in January 1929 and completed May 31, 1933. Every piece was hand turned. The entire model is built of copper and brass, including all ropes and masts.

When Mr. Novotny finally completed the faithful duplicate of the French Battleship "La Couronne" he was prevailed upon by friends to exhibit it at the World's Fair, at Chicago. Planning a visit to his friend, John Pletka, who lived in Chicago, Mr. Novotny thought it a novel idea to exhibit his masterpiece at the Fair, and while in the city, he did. Needless to say it created much interest as it was one of the most unusual exhibits ever to be shown there.

The minature ship is replete with carved emblems of land and sea figures, angels and cupids, symbols of navigation, as well as other details which have been faithfully reproduced.

Mr. Novotny came here from Detroit 29 years ago and has worked at plumbing and heating for many years. He has owned his own establishment for the past eight years.

Mr. and Mrs. Novotny have seven children. James, eldest son, is in the U. S. Army, stationed somewhere in the East Indies; Frank, Jr., is also in the Army, and is at present located in California; a daughter, Helen, is a member of the WACs, located in Texas; Lillian is employed at the Charlevoix hospital, and Edna, who is employed by the Kroger company, resides here.

Two other daughters, Mrs. Rose Mann of Bay Shore, and Mrs. Mary Hardy, of California, are also admirers of their father's artistic and creative ability.

Home Economics Meeting Held At Boyne City

"The Wonders of a Coat of Paint" Was An Interesting Discussion

The fifth meeting of the Home Economics Extension Leaders was held in East Jordan last Thursday with Mrs. Alice Bartlett in charge. A most instructive discussion took place on the subject of "The Wonders of a Coat of Paint." The leaders brought samples of wood and other types of materials. Interest in painting was manifested by those present and this lesson was particularly timely as everyone is now engaged in redecorating.

The various groups in the county, at their next meeting, will discuss plans for the annual Achievement Day, and selected a committee of three to act as an executive committee as follows: Mrs. Fred Willis, Charlevoix; Mrs. Ida Kinsey, East Jordan and Mrs. Dorothy Sage, Boyne City.

The last lesson will be held on April 29 on the topic, "Time Savers in Sewing," with Miss Eastman, Clothing Specialist in charge.

Red Cross Drive Goes 'Over Top'

Last Minute Donations Help Swell Local Fund

Contributions to Charlevoix's Red Cross 1945 War Fund campaign have reached $2,860, well past the quota of $2,700 set for this city, according to E. J. Edwards, city chairman.

Many extra donations were received from local citizens and summer residents in the late hours of the drive, when it was thought the goal could not be reached. One check for $100 was sent in a Park avenue summer resident in memory of William Thorp.

Mr. Edwards wishes to express his thanks to the district chairmen who canvassed the city. A complete list of workers will be published next week.

Donations will still be received by Mr. Edwards from anyone who was not contacted by a regular canvasser, or who feels they would like to give still more.

BEAVER ISLAND DID IT AGAIN!

The Beaver Island Red Cross drive went over the top. They collected $155.00.

With all due credit to Charlevoix people who gave so freely and generously to put the drive over the top, it must be pointed out that in this campaign, as in many others during these past three years, the quota would not have been made without the help of summer people who sent sizeable checks to swell the fund.

Because of heavy demand for eggs and a relatively short supply, steps have been taken to permit the sale of "current receipt" (ungraded) eggs, f.o.b. the seller's farm, place of business or other location, OPA has announced. OPA also said that on sales to a government agency, one and one-half cents a dozen may be added to the ceiling price for eggs that have been treated for preservation by immersion in hot water and given a coat of mineral oil.

Coal Consumers Urged to Act

Coal consumers are urged by Capt. Donald S. Leonard, State Fuel Conservation Director, to lose no time in filing declarations of need with their dealers in order to obtain ther supply of fuel for the next heating season.

"Under a new government regulation effective April 1, no coal can be delivered by a dealer unless the purchaser has filed a declaration of need," Capt. Leonard said. "In addition, for the coal year of April 1, 1945, to April 1, 1946, no consumer will be allowed to receive more than 80 per cent of his normal supply. However, a consumer who files a declaration of need and an order with his dealer by May 15 will be assured of Delivery of 30 per cent of his normal supply by October 1. So it is to everyone's advantage to get the declarations filed at once."

The consumer must state in the declaration the amount of coal he normally uses in a year, and severe penalties are provided for false statements. Consumers who use less than 25 tons a year will not be required to account for coal remaining in their bins April 1, but can carry this over into the next heating season as a "bonus". Declaration forms can be obtained from dealers.

At the fine farm residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cunningham in Marion township, occurred the wedding of their daughter, Miss Winnie M., to George A. Dennis, on Wednesday, March 31.

The bride was attended by Miss Lela Nowland, while Mr. Clyde Dennis acted as best man. The home was tastily decorated, and as the bridal party took their places under the floral bower, Rev. Quinton Walker read the ring service of the Methodist Episcopal church.

A bountiful supper was served to the assembled guests. The many presents spoke of the esteem and love of a host of friends. The bride is a graduate of the county normal and is generally admired by all. The groom is a hustling young farmer well liked by a large circle of friends.

The young couple are now at home to their friends at the Cunningham farm.

The Charlevoix Ice Cream Co. is now open for the coming season. Mr. Lamphear has his new building carefully arranged to afford quick service to all and is ready to receive your orders.

Air mail service was resumed between Charlevoix and Beaver Island again this week. A Michigan Air Express plane made a trip Monday and another Tuesday forenoon. A trip last Saturday was unsuccessful when the pilot was unable to land at the island.

Mail continues to pile up at the local postoffice and the carriers have so far been unable to clean up the accumulation. It is understood that Postmaster Weaver will attempt to have the postal department authorize additional trips above the two a week called for in the present temporary contract.

Smelt have returned to creeks flowing into Lake Charlevoix near this city, according to reports of local sportsmen.

Good dips have heen made since last week in Loeb, Barber and Stover creeks, the latter site of the first northern Michigan smelt "run" several years ago. Tuesday night's catches in all these streams were good, it is reported.

The "runs" this year came somewhat as a surprise, for in the past couple years only negligible catches were made.

Dirtectors of Antrim-Charlevoix County Growers Association Hold Meeting

The second meeting of the Board of Directors of the Antrim-Charlevoix County Growers Association was held at Ellsworth last week, Monday with fall attendance. More definite plans are being developed for the seasonal crops such as cherries, string beans, cucumbers and potatues. It was decided by the directors that each employer of Mexicans must make a five-dullar deposit charge for each Mexican employed.

It is most generous of the six processing plants in the two counties to contribate fifty dollars each to create a fand to meet the necessary expenses. Present indications show that there will be approximately three handred and fifty Mexicans engaged to help pick cherries and the uther crops. Any farmer interested in using Mexican labor, should contact their processing company or one of the directors: Walter Kemp, East Jordan, George Klooster, East Jordan and Walter Goehels, Jr., of East Jordan. With the acute labor shortage, large growers of seasonal crops are becoming greatly interested in using Mexican help. This will make it possible for the smaller growers to use our young boys and girls who have so nicely cooperated in harvesting the contract crops.

BLOOD BY AIR

The inauguration of air shipment of whole blood to the Pacific, now being made through the Navy, brings to seven the number of Red Cross Blood Donor Centers which are providing Type "O" whole blood in addition to blood for plasma. Similar whole blood shipments tu Europe by the Army began last August.

America and her "Underground"

We were sitting around after chores the other night talking about the progress of the war. Chad Davis was saying how, in spite of Germany's defeat, there was still the German underground to cope with.

"I don't worry about them," says Sober Hoskins. "So long as we got our own underground in working order."

"What do you mean—our underground?" says Chad. And Sober points out to the fields. "There it is," he says, "under that soil lies the most important weapon that we've got. American crops—from American fields—strengthening our position overseas in a way no other underground can shake."

From where I sit, Chad's absolutely right. Whether it's for the glass of beer that cheers a tired soldier's spirits, or the bread that feeds our armies and our allies, every bit of grain that American farmers harvest is a part of America's great strength.

WHEATON CORNERS
WILL H. SUPERNAW
Reporter

Mrs. Vandermarde, letter from Detroit to the Courier last week reminds me of the time about 25 years ago I was riding from Ellsworth to Central Lake with Peter her husband and about half way over we noticed a lot of smoke over the hill west of us so we drove to see what it was all about, it was a large barn on the Roberts farm, Mr. Roberts was mowing hay and hadn't noticed it, so we stopped and called his attention to it and hurried on, we were the first ones there and we done some pretty good work pulling what machinery we could handle from the building, it wasn't long before several neighbors were on the job and most of the tools were saved, the barn burned to the ground.

Lawyer Cruikshank, I will never forget when I was working for the Pine Lake Iron Co., at Ellsworth, a jewelry salesman came in the store and wanted to sell me a line of jewelry, this was in 1893, at that time there wasn't many people in and around Ellsworth to buy jewelry so I wasn't interested, just then in walked Tom Fulton, he wanted to buy a watch chain so he picked out one and went out, still I wasn't interested further than the chain Fulton had chosen, finally the salesman said that he would leave a piece of his jewelry with me on consignment and pay as I sold it, we had a nice little showcase so he put in a very nice line that figured nearly $500. In 30 days he came in and checked over the case and I paid him what was coming to him and everything was fine, the next time he came I had sold very little so I told him I wanted he should pack up his goods and take them with him, well he said you bought them and I demand the money, I told him to try and get it, a few days later I had papers served on me by the sheriff, I was to appear before a Justice in Bellaire, to show cause why I should not pay the amount he claimed, well I called Mr. Cruikshank, told him where he had to go, well he said we will have to go on the afternoon train the day before and stay all night, the time come and when we went into the Judges office there he was and he had a lawyer from Mancelona, think he was the biggest and tallest man I ever see.

The judge declared the court open and asked the Jew to state his case which he did. I forgot to mention that we had taken Tom Fulton with us as a witness, he knew what my deal was with this man and Mr. Cruikshank had coached him as to what to say, as he was going to call him before I had anything to say, after Mr. Freeman had stated his case and our witness had been questioned, Mr. Cruikshank, looked at this big lawyer and said business must be dam poor for you in Mancelona, that you should have to take a case like this but I presume that you should have to take a case like this but I presume that he has given you enough, rings for all your fingers and toes, and Mr. Judge, I ask that this case be called no cause for action and if this man wants his jewelry, he had better get right over to Ellsworth and get it, that is what the Judge did and we walked out and came home, I don't know whatever became of him but I never seen him after that, Mr. Cruikshank, was Mrs. Vandermade's father.

Frank Carman, has another horse, so he will be very busy getting the wood hauled in that he has cut and piled up in the woods. He said that he was going to grow a nice lot of good sweet corn this season, so we will see that he sends the editor a good mess out of the first pick.

Mrs. W. J. McKay went to Detroit Thursday, where she will visit her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Vernon Willet, also her brother and family for a couple of weeks.

I. L. Dice received word last week from his sisters, Mrs. Rilla Strickler and Mrs. J. O. Hess both of South Bend, Ind. visiting sister-in-law and brother James B. Dice at Newport, Washington, their brother, whome they haven't seen for 38 years owns and operates a 420-acre Ranch and caters to raising cattle and horses.

The Misses Beatrice and Grace Baumbach who are engaged in defense work in Detroit, spent Easter with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Baumbach.

Mrs. Wm. Alward entertained the Norwood Ladies Aid Society at her home last Wednesday afternoon. After the meeting adjourned Mrs. Alward served refreshments of their own product, very nice maple syrup and hot buns.

W. H. Supernaw attended the turkey meeting at the Barnard Grange hall last Wednesday.

A truck load of oats was delivered to the Supernaw farm for the Wheaton Corner Turkey Ranch.

The threshing machine was in this territory last week threshing clover seed for Mr. Totten and others.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

Last Wednesday, the children brought hard-boiled eggs to school and dyed them bright colors. They made little baskets to carry them home in.

On Thursday afternoon the Second Grade boys and girls came in our room to have an Easter party with us. We sang songs and heard some stories. We had cup cakes decorated with green sugar.

First Grade

The Sixth Grade beat us last week on defense stamps and bonds. Congratulations, Sixth Grade, and keep going. We'll catch you again.

We visited Mrs. Warner's room last Thursday afternoon. We saw a "little Holland" in the sand table, and watched the boys and girls do a Dutch dance.

Our boys and girls are getting over the mumps. Pupils of Class A have finished their workbooks.

Second Grade

Donna Ikens and Thomas Erber told us many interesting things about their Easter vacations. Donna went to Chicago and Thomas to Lansing.

The Second Grade enjoyed an Easter Party with the Kindergarten last Thursday.

We all enjoyed our Easter vacation because the weather was so nice.

Third Grade

Lucy Himebauch has the mumps.

We colored eggs for Easter and made little baskets for them. They looked very pretty.

We heard the Easter story about Jesus. It made some of us very sad to think people could be so cruel to Him. Gay Ann Donner knew the story very well. Dan Farmer reminded us that Jesus knows all the things we say and do.

Fourth Grade

The warm spring days have given many boys and girls have spring fever. A few thought it might be fun to take our books and recite outdoors. The boys were glad that Mr. Wagner brought us a new baseball. Some were afraid our old one would not last until school is out.

We miss Stuart Walker now that he is sick with the mumps.

The Fourth Grade is going to sell as many Easter seals as possible. We are all fortunate in being able to run and play.

Many of the children have brought souvenirs from friends in foreign countries. Beverly Rickerd brought an Easter card from France. Deborah Bergron brought a French comic book and a picture of her uncle standing beside his jeep.

Sixth Grade

We of the Sixth Grade are trying to show our patriotism in a practical way. When the report reached our room on January 15, for the number of Defense Stamp sales in our school, we were at the very bottom of the list. The following week we were in fourth place from the bottom. By February 5, we were fourth from the top. But by Monday, March 26, we had reached the very top of the list. We feel this is because each pupil in the room has a Defense Stamp Book, and each one tries to buy at least one stamp each week, or as many as possible. We are trying very hard to be a 100 per cent room this week.

Overflow 1, 2, 3

We had fun making Easter baskets.

Larry Swanson has been absent with the mumps.

Harry Misner is leaving us. He is moving to East Jordan.

Study Shop

We have a new indoor ball and are enjoying our recess periods playing ball and dancing the old folk dances. Many of us are becoming expert rope jumpers.

Our science activities center around plant growth, especially wild flowers, where they grow, how they protect themselves, and how we can protect them.

Howard Campbell, Robert Francisco, Richard Gennett, Harold Hamlin, Edward James, Charles Rose, Alton Louiselle, Muriel Nauman, Ray Naoman, Nancy Poole, Billy Reed, Howard Rickerd, Elaine Russell, Timmy Shores Billy Goss, Lestan Brown, and Shirley Brown were present and on time every day during March.

Industrial Arts

Jesse Cramblit is finishing a coffee table. The legs of this table are salvaged bent stems. Oliver Johnson is building a model steam locomotive. Several small electric motors have been built. Bernie Ward is making a gasoline model airplane.

4-H Club

The boys are working on a test block which is a squared piece of wood. This block must be exhibited with the four other projects which each boy must complete before May 8.

Mathematics

In General Math, we are undertaking a study of budgets and the simpler books kept by retail merchants.

In Algebra we make some beginnings in factoring.

The work in Geometry this week is review.

Science

Physics is concerned with static electricity, and Biology with "How Science Combats Disease."

Mrs. Katie Keiller returned home recently after spending two weeks in Chicago with relatives.

Even the Easter Bunny had trouble supplying enough of the popular variegated colored eggs to the many homes in Charlevoix this Easter, but Mrs. P. R. Ross of Nettleton street assisted greatly in supplying several dozen of the raw material for the Bunny!

In a radio broadcast the other evening a private was asked if he was happy in the army, and he replied yes. "What were you before you entered the service," asked the announcer.. "Hopper," replied the private.

—o—

The opinion that all dictators should be sent to Hades is becoming quite general.

—o—

Stories in the papers say spring is here officially, etc., etc. Maybe it did arrive at 8:38 p.m. CST, on March 20, but we believe the weather man was "scooped" on that particular bit of news by a cardinal we heard when we went for a walk in the woods the Sunday before. He was up in the top of a tree, where as a self-appointed town-crier (or to be more up-to-date, as a newscaster) he was broadcasting, both literally and figuratively, that news nearly 24 hours in advance of the official announcement.

We noticed that a meadow lark off across the fields didn't wait to verify the bulletin before he began repeating it, and the same thing was true of a song sparrow lurking among the willows on the edge of town and of a bluebird perched on a fence post along the road back to town, and of a robin that was hopping across the lawn of our home when we returned. So we're not surprised at official announcements that spring is here.

Yes, Spring is here, so what?

Well, it should serve as a reminder to a good many publishers that they really ought to do something about that varied assortment of junk that has been collecting in corners and other obscure places around the composing room and the press room. It wouldn't hurt, either, to straighten up that cabinet where advertising cuts, mats and the like are supposed to be filed — but haven't been for several months. And as for the editor's desk — how can he consistently write an editorial, urging the citizenry of his town to get busy on a "clean-up, fix-up" campaign when he has to dig it at a desk piled high with exchanges, unopened mail, unfiled correspondence, and all the other miscellanea which clings so precariously yet tenaciously, to this kind of office furniture?

P.S.—Yes, we cleaned off our own desk before we wrote this.

Ensign Stanley E. Shupton writes from somewhere in the Pacific: I want to thank you for sending me the Courier in the past and give you my change of address so I will receive it again. It certainly has helped a lot to find out just where the boys from home are.

I am now on an LSM in the Pacific and getting along pretty good. We have a flagship, therefore it is pretty crowded but we seem to manage without too much difficulty.

Hi Charlevoix, I think the last time I wrote to you I was in France. Since then I've been around a bit. I hear my brothers are getting home. I'm glad Big (Sgt. Richard Hergmann) finally got home from India, as it had been almost three years since he'd left home.

I've been over here a little more than a year. By the look of things it won't las much longer. I hear the snow was bad this year. We had from 6 to 8 inches in Belgium and in Luxembourg, and about 12 to 14 inches in Germany and about the same in Holland. You see I've been around a bit. I hope to see Berlin before I come home.

The papers are just beginning to catch up with me again. Thanks so much for sending it. Good luck for now Cpl. Eugene Bergmann.

Must Make New Filing of Prices

Eating and Drinking Places Have Until April 16 to Comply

All eating or drinking establishments that serve beer and other malt beverages and alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises are required to make new filing of prices with their local War Price and Rationing Boards, on or before April 16, 1945, the Grand Rapids District Office of Price Administration announced today.

Dealers are required to make four copies of the new filing. Three copies are turned in to the Rationing Board and one copy remains with the dealer.

War Price and Rationing Boards on receipt of the new filings will mail or deliver to the dealer the new posters which must be filled in and be on display by April 16. The new posters will be available to dealer ONLY after the filing of their prices have been made with the Board in triplicate.

Two posters will be required, if both beer and alcoholic beverages are sold, one for beer, ale, porter, or stout sold by the bottle or by the glass and the other for 14 types of alcoholic beverages, commonly known as "bar liquors." Each establishment is required to post as ceiling prices for as many of these items as it sells.

If more information is required dealers are requested to contact their local War Price and Rationing Boards.

SEVENTH WAR LOAN DRIVE OPENS, MAY 14

The Treasury will open the Seventh War Loan Drive on May 14, with a goal of 14 billion dollars, the Treasury Department announces. One objective of this drive will be the sale of $7,000,000,000 worth of Government Securities to individuals.

This is the largest quota ever set for individuals in a war loan drive. As a part of the campaign to raise this amount, an intensive program for the sale of Series E bonds in plants and factories will begin April 9. "It is clear," Secretary Morgenthau said, "That federal expenditures are going to remain at a high level for some time to come. It is also apparent that funds in the hands of non-bank investors will continue to increase sharply under present conditions. It is highly desirable to channel as much of these funds as possible into Government security investment, and to put them to work in the prosecution of the war."

Food, Supplies Sent American Prisoners of War

Mrs. John Porter, East Jordan, Should Be Contacted for Information

The American Red Cross reports that a POW supply train left Switzerland recently carrying 50 carloads of food, medicines and bandages to a distribution point in Moosburg, Germany.

Moosburg, north of Munich is the city nearest Stalag VII A. Some Charlevoix county prisoners are at Stalag VII A. It is a large camp with numerous divisions for various nationalities. Approximately 10,000 Americans are believed to be held there.

Also a truck cargo comprised of trucks supplied to International Red Cross by our American Red Cross left the following day. The truck convoy carried food and medicines to the Lubeck and Karlsbad and Marienbad areas where concentration of prisoners was on the march. The trucks are driven by Swiss (neutral) drivers and are accompanied by German guards.

In August 1944, American Red Cross had pack stocks in all Prison Camps in Germany sufficient, for their strength at that time, for anywhere from two to four months. The German authorities feared trouble from their many allied prisoners and thought camp reserves might facilitate escape. So a German order was given to reduce shipments until reserves were reduced. Shipments on a more normal scale were then gradually revived, and supplies were kept in advance for one or two months. These depots are under double lock, one controlled by the German Commander and the other by the American Camp Spokesman.

Anyone wishing information about location and equipment of Red Cross POW camps either in Germany or Japan, phone Mrs. John Porter, POW chairman, telephone 60, East Jordan. Mrs. Porter has blanks and forms for letters and cables, also cartons for shipping boxes to prisoners of war.

Michigan Mirror

Despite any rumors to the contrary, Michigan farmers aren't getting rich as a result of wartime prices.

Here's the evidence, straight from the Michigan State Farm Bureau:

A survey of the bureau membership has disclosed that the gross income of farmers in 1943 averaged $4,005 with an average net income of only $1,422. Nationally, the net farm income of 1942 was $1,320. Half of the farm-operator families in 1941 received less than $760 net cash income from all sources, including net receipts from operation of the farm, earnings from employment off the farm, rents, pensions and other income.

In fact, only in recent war-time years has the income of the American farmer approached pre-war (1919-14) parity with other workers. For years the farmer has been using up accumulated reserves; now he must replace these at inflated war-time prices—a source of further irritation to a man who has never known an eight-hour day, time-and-a-half additional compensation beyond 40 hours, or double pay for Sundays.

Because the farmer owns both the land and the tools with which he produces, he is a capitalist and hence on the other side of the fence from the industrial laborer.

The Michigan survey disclosed that the average Michigan farmer worked 13.3 hours every weekday during the summer season, and 9.8 hours on weekdays during the winter. Nearly 90 per cent of all Michigan bureau farmers own their own homes; the average farm is 150 acres; the average family has lived on their own farm for 41.5 years.

Here is a population group in Michigan, outnumbered by city dwellers nearly two to one, which is working long hours, under extreme handicaps due to lack of labor and limited machinery, and still receiving only a modest earning.

We wonder how high food prices would rise in cities if the farmer adopted the same pressure techniques of organized labor and went out on a strike for increased earnings, overtime compensation after 40 hours, and other industrial benefits.

The farmer, owning his own machinery of production, doesn't do this.

More and more, he is studying his problems through farm organizations and is joining farmer-directed producer cooperatives as one effective way to raise his income and his standards of living.

Is the present $50 million fund adequate to meet postwar needs of the State of Michigan? New York state legislature adjourned last week after tagging $80 more millions for the state's postwar building projects. Funds previously saved totaled approximately $150 millions, making a new total of more than $230 millions.

The population of Michigan in 1940 was 5,256,106, of which 3,454,867 people lived in urban areas. New York state's population was 13,479,142, of which 11,165,893 were in cities. These figures are significant.

On the basis of New York's post war fund and comparative populations, Michigan should increase its state post-war fund from $50 to $100 millions.

The Michigan state legislature, entering its final weeks of deliberations at Lansing, is due to make a decision soon on state aid for cities. Pending are bills to raise an additional $2,000,000 by an increased levy on beer; $10,000,000 more by upping the state's profit from sale of packaged liquor, and an extra $8,000,000 by a new tax on cigarettes. The alternative is a direct cut of the state sales tax, estimated currently at $100,000,000 for the coming fiscal year. Mayor George Welsh of Grand Rapids has effected a bi-partisan alignment in the House of Representatives, drawing lines between urban and rural legislators for a showdown.

The senate shelved a bill to lift the ceiling on the state corporation tax, now set at $50,000, and to lower the tax from $2.50 to $1.75 per $1,000 of capitalization. The measure would have reduced taxes of small corporations, but would have added $4,500,000 to the operating cost of 18 large corporations.

Gov. Kelly is continuing a "hands-off" policy in dealing with the state legislature, believing the executive office should not interfere with lawmakers' prerogatives. The result: Some legislators grumble that the "administration" is weak in its leadership and has no legislative program!

Resistance by some members of the house of representatives to a proposed constitutional amendment to bar from public office forever any governmental official or employee convicted of a felony involving his work has prompted this interpretation: The Carr-Sigler grand jury has some "unfinished business" ahead.

The lack of pasteurization facilities in some parts of northern Michigan is currently the center of attention from the state department of health at Lansing. Dr. William DeKleine, state health commissioner, asserts that the state department of agriculture is trying to hamper efforts to improve milk sanitation. A DeKleine quotation: "Not only does the department of agriculture ignore recommendations of health officers but actually it is interfering with local progressive milk sanitation programs in a number of cities." Dr. Paul deKruif, consultant to the state department, says he intends to publish nationally a warning to tourists to stay away from Michigan unless the state provided better safeguards for its milk supply.

Michigan's forest products research project, sponsored by the state planning commission, has almost an unexplored field to conquer and develop. Only 30 per cent of forest resources are being utilized today. The remaining 70 per cent waste consists of sawdust, slabs, edgings, trimmings, and the limbs, tops and cull logs left in the forest. From every ton of this wasted timber, between 50 and 60 gallons of ethyl alcohol can be manufactured; a ton of waste will furnish 450 pounds of high-protein feeding; every ton of sawdust contains cellulose which could be manufactured into rayon and other fabrics. Project these possibilities into North Michigan, and you become impressed with the potentions of our forest resources.

HOW WE DID IN '44

MICHIGAN BELL REPORTS MORE BUSINESS—LESS PROFIT

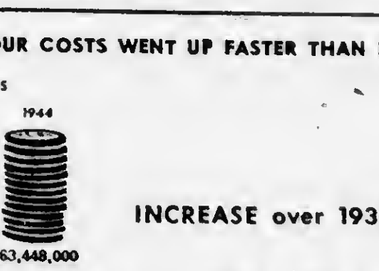
With Michigan's mines and farms, factories and shipyards, delivering more and more war goods, the use of our services in 1944 was greater than ever. All essential telephone needs were met. We served more people than ever; and generally we served them well.

However, despite our best efforts, an increasing number of applicants waited for telephones to be installed. And some long distance calls were delayed. On the financial side, earnings continued to be lower than before the war. Our primary aim was, and is, to do everything possible to hasten Victory.

(COMPARISONS BELOW ARE FOR 1939, EUROPE'S FIRST WAR YEAR, AND 1944, OUR THIRD WAR YEAR)

WE THE PEOPLE OF MICHIGAN BELL

NUMBER OF EMPLOYEES



Before the war, nearly half of our employees were men

Now, about 3 out of every 4 employees are women

At the end of 1944 we had more than 7 men in uniform for every 10 still on company jobs. In 1941, there were 278 Michigan Bell men in uniform, in 1942—1,757, in 1943—2,595 and in 1944—2,715. And 97 women were in the Services at the end of 1944.

WE HAD QUITE A YEAR

Investment in buildings, wires, central office and other plant equipment was $192,731,000 at the end of 1939. At the end of 1944 it was $243,383,000—an increase of 26%. But the record-breaking volume of business loaded the system to capacity.

—AND WE TOOK IN A LOT OF MONEY

INCREASE over 1939 68%

Local service revenue increased from $33,601,000 in 1939 to $52,576,000 in 1944. Toll service, from $7,612,000 to $16,831,000, and rents, miscellaneous and directory advertising, from $2,168,000 to $3,306,000.

—BUT OUR COSTS WENT UP FASTER THAN INCOME

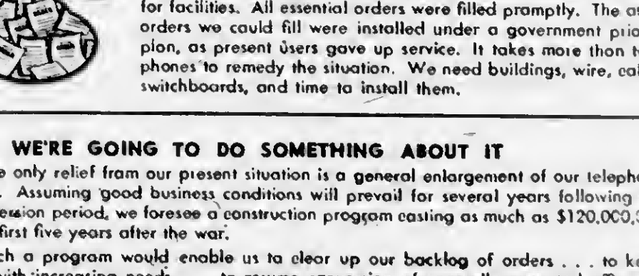
INCREASE over 1939 90%

Operating payrolls increased from $13,527,000 in 1939 to $29,851,000 in 1944. Operating taxes went up from $6,088,000 to $15,647,000, and all other costs increased from $13,747,000 to $17,950,000.

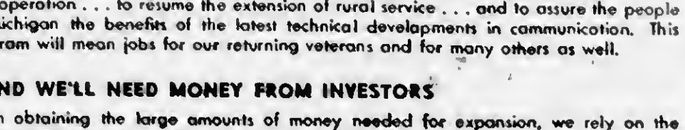
—SO WE HAD LESS LEFT FOR THE OWNERS

DECREASE under 1939 8%

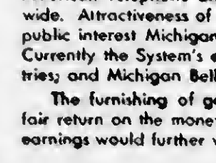
OUT OF NET INCOME CAME



—SO WE PAID LOWER DIVIDENDS TO STOCKHOLDERS



Money available for dividends had to be divided among 350,000 more shares of stock, sold since 1939 to pay for plant expansion.

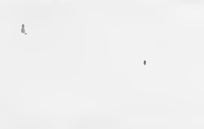


WE GAVE PRETTY GOOD SERVICE

Except that we could not install telephones for all who applied, we gave reasonably good service. Almost nine out of ten long distance connections were completed while customers remained on the line. Most telephones were trouble-free all year and 95% of all cases of trouble were fixed the day reported.

—AND WE SCRAPED THE BARREL TO SERVE AS MANY AS POSSIBLE

In the 5 years since war broke out in Europe, we added as many telephones as in the previous 18 years. This used up virtually all our spare facilities. Because of war shortages, we could not begin to get all the things we needed. Old switchboards, instruments and wire were pressed back into use to provide service for as many as possible.



—BUT WE DIDN'T HAVE ENOUGH TO GO AROUND

Despite our best efforts, 7 out of every 100 long distance calls were delayed in 1944 by shortage of lines. And at the end of the year, nearly 98,000 applications for service were held for facilities. All essential orders were filled promptly. The other orders we could fill were installed under a government priority plan, as present users gave up service. It takes more than telephones to remedy the situation. We need buildings, wire, cable, switchboards, and time to install them.

—SO WE'RE GOING TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT

The only relief from our present situation is a general enlargement of our telephone system. Assuming good business conditions will prevail for several years following the reconversion period, we foresee a construction program costing as much as $120,000,000 in the first five years after the war.

Such a program would enable us to clear up our backlog of orders . . . to keep pace with increasing needs . . . to resume conversion of manually operated offices to dial operation . . . to resume the extension of rural service . . . and to assure the people of Michigan the benefits of the latest technical developments in communication. This program will mean jobs for our returning veterans and for many others as well.

—AND WE'LL NEED MONEY FROM INVESTORS

In obtaining the large amounts of money needed for expansion, we rely on the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to sell its securities to investors country-wide. Attractiveness of A. T. & T. securities depends on Bell System earnings, so in the public interest Michigan Bell must do its part to maintain satisfactory System earnings. Currently the System's earning rate is one-third lower than the average of other industries; and Michigan Bell's is still less—about half that of other industries.

The furnishing of good telephone service depends on earnings sufficient to pay a fair return on the money invested in the business. Any whittling of already inadequate earnings would further weaken our ability to meet expected postwar needs of Michigan.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"That's news to me, Judge. From the way some people talk you would think it was at least 50%."

"No, Clem, there's the statement right here in the paper... from authorities who have made an exhaustive study of the subject. Only about 5% of the people who drink occasionally abuse the privilege... 95% drink sensibly."

"No wonder you say it wouldn't be fair to take the privilege away from the other 95%, Judge. I agree with you."

"I can't see it any other way, Clem. No more than I could see taking automobiles away from everybody because a few drive recklessly and have accidents. Or preventing the making or sale of cake or doughnuts because some folks eat too much and get indigestion."

"In the case of spirit beverages, the answer is one of education and better control."

"As a matter of fact, the responsible members of that industry are working constantly toward that end. They don't want folks to abuse the use of their product any more than we do."

To Start Clothing Collections

Needy Victims of War All in Dire Need of Used Shoes and Clothing

In and between its lines lies a grim and poignant story — a story which applies not only to Belgrade women, but to men, women and children in the war-ravaged lands of the world.

Charles Hamlin, local chairman of the United National Clothing Collection Cummittee, of which Charlevoix is a part, informs us that of hundreds of millions of pounds of clothing is available, and Charlevoix has its share — snugly reposing, forgotten, in the attics and other storage places.

Dates for collection by local committees will be announced in next week's issue.

Brake Check Held Here Tomorrow

Chief of Police Clarence Heise Will Cooperate with State Police

To help make cars last longer and to reduce accidents, Charlevoix police will cuoperate in the Nation-wide Brake Check program, it was announced today by Chief Clarence Heise. The check will be held tomorrow afternoon, (Thursday), 2 p. m. on State St., between Antrim and Clinton.

During a six week period, from April 15 until June 1, the police of the nation will check the brakes of all cars involved in moving traffic violations and in accidents, according to Chief Heise. He added that cars also would be checked which are operated in a manner indicating that the brakes are not safe.

"The brake check will be timely," he said, "because, usually accidents increase sharply in the spring. Since cars on the average are twice as old today as before the war, they are more likely to suffer breakdowns. The brake check should be an invaluable aid in holding the line against the certain threat," Chief Heise said.

The program, sponsored by the International Association of Chiefs of Police, is supported by nearly 100 national organizations, including the Office of Defense Transportation and the U. S. Army Service Forces. Police throughout Michigan are cooperating in the national program.

"A simple brake check has been devised," explained Chief Heise, "which will take a police officer only a minute to make. It is hoped that all motorists will cooperate in this war-time program by having their brakes checked voluntarily at repair shops and by making sure the entire car is in safe operating condition.

"As was declared by Gen. Somerville, Chief of the U. S. Army Service Forces when he endorsed this program, "Every automobile in America must be regarded as a weapon in our all-out war effort."

"No new cars will be made until after the war—yet, last year, a quarter million were damaged so badly in accidents, they went to the scrap heap. We've got to stop such fearful losses." Chief Heise said.

Fire Razes Upper Story of Argonne

Swift Action of Fire Dept. Saves Entire First Floor

The Argonne, owned and operated by W. J. (Doc) Kerns was badly damaged by fire, which last Wednesday noon, gutted the entire upper story. The establishment is located on M-31, un Petoskey Road, 2 miles east of this city.

The cause of the fire was undetermined, but it is thought an overheated oil burner on the second floor, which had apparently "exploded", started the blaze.

The quick response of Chief Charley Marshall and his firemen kept the flames from creeping through to the first floor. "Remarkable fire-fighting ability was shown in confining the damage to the upper story," said Mr. Kerns. The work of the fire chief and his crew is highly commendable in saving the entire ground floor, which is open for business. Entire contents of the second story was destroyed. No estimate of the damage has been made to date.

Ida Hibbard Fund Sponsored by O. E. S.

Next to winning the war, preparation of our returned veterans for normal useful livos—in short, rehabilitatinns—is by far the most important job facing us today.

As the present trickle of returning men becomes a steady stream, this subject will demand and get more attention. Life, as we are to know it, in the peace that lies ahead, will depend very largely on the thornughness of our rehaldilitation program.

For the past four years, Beaver Edwards, Detroit sculptor, has been making plastic restorations of hands, arms, and occasional facial members for persons disfigured by war, accident and disease. Lifelike not only in appearance, but also to the touch, these restorations, escaping notice at a casual glance, are hard to detect, even under close scrutiny.

The story of Edwards' entry into this work for wounded men is also the story of the Ida Hibbard Fund. Some months ago, Mrs. Hibbard, a member of the American Red Cross Motor Corps, was given charge of an assignment to convoy wounded soldiers from the Army's Percy Jones hospital, Battle Creek, Michigan, on morale-building, bond-selling tours of Michigan industrial plants.

Becoming interested in a young soldier who had lost his arm overseas, Mrs. Hibbard and other drivers contacted Mr. Edwards who readily accepted the idea of making artificial hands and arms for soldiers who wanted them.

So great was their enthusiasm, the drivers not only raised the required sum for the first restora-

Foster Boat Stag Enjoyable Affair

116 Business, Professional Men Attend Gathering

One hundred sixteen business and professional men sat down to dinner last Thursday evening in the dining room of the Argonne, as guests of the Foster Boat Co. Group singing "God Bless America," preceded the dinner.

Practically every business activity in the city was represented. The interesting and enthusiastic group did justice to a sumptuous chicken dinner sponsored by Foster Boat Co. and prepared by Argonne chefs.

After the dinner, which was set for 8 p. m., Charlevoix's merchants and public officials and others ruthlessly cast aside their duties and cares for the balance of the evening.

Clair Webster, m. c., called upon Zack White, noted pianist, who rendered several fine numbers after which the Saturday Nighters quartet, coiuposed of Dean Davenport, Bob Miles, Dr. D. C. Nettleton, Cam Rose, in perfect harmany, kept their audience tense with several selections. Bob Miles, Dal Henry, Dr. Saltonstall and Cam Rose made up the Chick Sales Specialty quartet of which several encores were also necessary before their audience would release them.

Kit Carson, famous narrator, and genial proprietor of the Lumber company which bears his name, in his own inimitable manner, told several stories appropriate for the occasion.

A drawing of names was held in which W. E. Goss was winner of a beautiful 16-foot rowboat, complete with oars, and ready for the water. The boat, of course, was a gift of the Foster Boat co.

Foster officials, from the president on down, did a marvelous job of checking clothes, seating

Michigan Mirror

As soon as they have made up their minds how the $20 to $25 million surplus on July 1 should be carved up, Michigan legislators are due to go home.

The 1945 legislative session is entering the wind-up phase with law-makers leaning toward a revision of the intangibles tax to produce approximately $7 millions and a hike in the state's profit from liquor sales to effect an increase of $10 millions in state revenues. The two items alone, if they survive the sharpshooters, would cover the one-sixth of the state sales tax originally proposed by municipalities.

There appears to be little likelihood that "poor man" taxes will be imposed on cigarettes and beer —two additional revenue possibilities suggested by Governor Kelly in a left-handed strategic move to put the cities on the defensive.

The governor has indicated that he will sign the anti-branch bank bill which weathered both houses of the legislature. The 25-mile zone for establishment of branch banks was in the old statute and hence is not new. The act will prevent the incorporation of a bank chain similar to the Michigan National banks. Upstate bankers have been apprehensive that Detroit institutions would sponsor state-wide branches.

Enactment of the bill is a feather in the hat of the Michigan Bankers' association. It is another reminder that the Carr-Zigler grand jury, which was created to conduct investigation into the bank bill of 1943, has yet to bring out its indictments — if any. Incidentally, the Hooper case is back in the headlines. It is known that Hooper was to testify in a number of other graft cases.

Liquor reform bills appear to be jammed in the house liquor committee, and chances aren't good that they will survive the final week legislative rush. Many legislators are cool to the idea of changing the rules, as was done during World War I, preferring to wait until the "boys" come back home. It has been the experience of the state liquor control commission that where local officials — municipal, county and township — are on their toes and clean up bad conditions, the state gets no complaints. In this respect the biggest problem in enforcement of liquor laws, now as ever, is "politics". Legislators still appear with many delinquent saloonkeepers before state commissioners at hearings — a subtle interference that an easy penalty would be greatly appreciated. We can't quote names, but these are the facts.

With the exception of one state, Iowa, Michigan liquor prices are lower than those existing in the Middle-West. Tavern-keepers are netting more profit today from number of drinks served than they did before prohibition, and still the consumer gets a "break" when he purchases bottled goods at state stores or distributors. In the open states of Illinois, New York, Indiana and Wisconsin the average retail cost per bottle is $4.54. In Michigan it is $3.87, or 67 cents below the four state average. Even with a hike in the state's profit, the consumer will benefit on a comparative basis. Here is one of the reasons why the pressure is so strong for abolition of the state monopoly. Profits which now go to the state treasury would go into pockets of a few people in the liquor business. And these profits run into the millions.

Michigan sales and use taxes provide 50 per cent of the total annual revenue. Little known is the fact that out of a total of 23 sales tax states Michigan is one of four states with a rate as high as 3 per cent. Illinois cut its tax from 3 to 2 per cent in 1941; California from 3 to 2½ per cent in 1943. Michigan and Washington are the only states which have a 3 per cent tax with no exemption of foods. Neither of these states has an income tax. North Carolina and Ohio, other 3 per cent states, exempt sales of foods for consumption off the premises. Verily, the Michigan sales tax is the goose that lays the golden dollar—$100 millions estimated for the current year!

More about Blaney Park in the Upper Peninsula:

"We have always looked for our ultimate return to the timber growing on the land rather than to the resort phase of the development," writes G. Harold Earle, president. "The things we did not realize about the resort phase include the fact that we didn't anticipate a most severe and prolonged depression during the major portion of the development of our project, to be followed by a world war, and more recently an attitude upon the part of Government generally unfavorable to business, and invasion of or threat of invasion of the field of private enterprise by government.

"It was these things that caused me to say we might not have started the resort phase, or at least have developed it as we have, if we had known about the coming depression the war, and all of those things."

The Earle brothers — Harold and Stewart — still retain faith in the "most promising future for both land use and resort and recreational development in the Upper Peninsula." Harold objects to reference to the Upper Peninsula as a "tough country", a description originated by John Martin, author of "This North Country," and quoted recently in this column.

Earle says his grandfather was not responsible for extension of the railroad to Hermansville. "The railroad was built as a branch from Powers to Quinnesec because of the opening of the iron mines there and happened to go through the location of Hermansville."

New Use For Spuds

Out of the earth and into the sky will go millions of bushels of potatoes in 1945! The mainstay of the American dinner table has grown wings for victory.

Starch from the U. S. family's favorite vegetable has taken on the important job of "slashing" or coating certain yarns used in manufacturing airplane fabric, parachute cloth and closely-woven balloon cloth. It's in other needed textiles, too.

About 400 million bushels of potatoes will be needed in 1945 for all uses, the production (with average yields) from a national goal of 3,137,000 acres. Total plantings sought this year are four per cent greater than the 1944 acreage. Last year's planting of 3,009,700 acres produced 379,436,000 bushels of potatoes.

Emphasis is being placed on late potatoes, since the early crop must be used while fresh and cannot be stored to supply markets next winter and in the early spring of 1946.

The price support program for potatoes produced this year will be at a level not less than 90 per cent of the parity price as of January 1, 1945, for early and intermediate varieties, and as of July 1, 1945, for late potatoes.

Veteran of Four Major Battles, T-Sgt. Raddle Visits Mother Here

"I'll see you in a few months" Edward S. Radle told his family and friends when he left in selective service for a year's military training on April 21, 1941. That few months stretched into nearly four years and he travelled half way around the world and fought in major campaigns of the Southwest Pacific with the 32nd Division before he returned to Charlevoix on March 19, 1945, after an absence of 47 months. After visiting his mother, Mrs. Esther Radle, he visited his sister, Miss Alma Radle, in Detroit, before reporting at Miami Beach, Fla., for re-assignment.

Tech. Sgt. Radle was inducted into the army at Detroit and was sent to Camp Livingston, La., for training. He'd sent his suitcase home and was about to come on a furlough when this country went to war on December 7, 1941. All furloughs were cancelled and soon after his outfit was on the move. First to Fort Devens, Mass., and then back across the country to San Francisco, where the 32nd Division embarked for Australia on April 21, 1942.

After six months at various camps in that country where they received extensive training in jungle war-fare, they were flown to Fort Moresby to stop the march of the Japs in that district.

There began one of the most famous treks of this war, the march over the Owen Stanley mountain range by Company E of the 126th Infantry of which T-Sgt. Radle was a member. The purpose of the march, which is still a military secret, was accomplished and after participating in the Papaun campaign Company E was flown back over the range in 35 minutes. The initial trip had taken 49 days. Sgt. Radle had weighed 218 lbs., at the start of the march and lost 58 pounds in the seven weeks it had taken them to cross the mountain.

Taken to Australia for a rest and treatment of illnesses, the company returned to the combat zone and participated in the New Guinea campaign.

When McArthur returned to the Philippines last fall, the 32nd Division was there for that show too. It was from there that Tech. Sgt. Radle was returned home on the rotation plan.

Asked what impressed him most in his travels, Sgt. Radle said the Australian slang, which had all the Yanks in a dither until someone came forth with an explanation; the jungles of New Guinea which are truly beautiful and the natives encountered in the months in the jungles. It seems in all the tropical lands he visited the women are required to do all the work. He thinks that a noteworthy custom that should be brought to this country.

Tech. Sgt. Radle has asked for this opportunity to thank the people of Charlevoix for all their kindnesses to him while he was overseas and also since he has returned here on furlough.

A Bake Sale will be held at Staley's Hardware, beginning at 10:30 next April 14. Benefit Catholic Convent.—15t1.

Health and Contentment In Your Victory Garden

In the turmoil of unrest we, the people of Charlevoix, must find ways and means of maintaining our mental stability so as to serve well and not hinder the war effort by avojdable ill health. Some of us engaged in the daily routine of work have acquired hobbies to meet our needs in the role of health. Many of us are struggling aimlessly in search of health and peace of mind.

What avenue of escape from worries nd fears is more wholesome and healthful than gardening? We frequently hear of "rest cures" for weary nerves. For the person who is on edge, anxious aml sleepless, and has a heavy heart, there is no more hope-inspiring, restful, healthful recreation than gardening. One might speak properly of gardening as a "work cure." Physical health and mental health go hand in hanl, with our physical prograol of gardening we should be in a better position to maintain or gain mental health.

Of all hobbies gardening is one of the simplest, most satisfying and most salutary. Nature has a way of beckoning us but its simplicity may fail to impress us in our hasty and superficial search for happiness. The very simplicity of gardening is one of its chief assets. The expert gardener can never explore the wonders of nature completely. The novice is rewarded speedily for his mundane efforts. With the growth that he fosters there develops within himself a mental growth, a feeling of power and satisfaction. Certainly we should hardly expect to discover that very fountain of health in our own backyard.

Gardening, like any constructive hobby, tends to grow and new interests are added rapidly. What was at first a mere means of occupying a few spare hours gradually unfolds into a world of new wonders.

Mrs. E. J. Edwards, president, or any member of the executive committee of the Garden club will be glad to assist anyone desiring information on better gardening.

Auto Tire Purchasers Classified

Three Separate Groups Are Listed; Number of Eligibles Not Reduced

A preferentisl list of occupations for use in selecting persons to receive passenger ear tires has been prepared by OPA in cooperation with the War Manpower Commission. Under the new plan the number of eligibles is not reduced, but they are classified into four preferenee groups for the nid of Local War Price and Rationing Boards in issuing tire certificates.

Group I is limited almost entirely to persons whose occupations are of an emergency nature, and to workers at establishments faced with production emergencies. Within this group are eligible physicians, public health nurses, police and employees at critical war industries such as those produring urgently needed aircraft, and ammunition that are experiencing a mnnpower emergency. The exact plants however, will he determined on the advice of local WMC officials.

Group II includes persons employed in other essential plants, and those whose occupations are highly important to the war effort. In this group are farmers, farm workers and representatives of management, labor and government who recruit for essential establishments.

Gronp III includes such occupations as buyers for essential establishments, and persons who travel to essential establishments on request to perform necessary technical services, such as those who advise these establishments on machinery mainteoance problems. In one letter you told me wbere Tip (Riley) was. Well, we're past and north of tbere. There are quite a few Japs bereabouts but they lead a very secluded life. We've been operating in Jap patrolled waters quite a lot lately but haven't made any contacts. The further we run, tbe more patrols too. Figure that out! But Uncle Sam really fixes his Amphibians up and we get good escort and air cover. I guess I told you in a previous letter that we know where we are going. If you consult the radio and paper about the time you get this letter, you will get an idea of the set-up. They have a pretty good show cooked up (Make a good scoop for the Courier.)

We listen to tbe radio reports on short wave and they really give you people a flowery line of flag waving stuff. They say the "enemy action was weak." You should see some of the ships around here that have been blown to pieces by "weak" enemy action. The Jap is inferior in almost everything but those boys have their guns and they can lay out just as neat a barrage as anyone. Here's one boy who has plenty of respect for the little "monkeys". We went through a lot of islands a while back that on a newspaper map shows a big American flag, "totally secured." I'd like to know why they had to bomb them twice a day to keep their aircraft grounded.

Anyway, the setting and the stage props are all lined up for the opening performance of this next show and we are playing the

After a search which lasted into the night failed to find her, Sheriff Ikens was called to assist. Friday morning she was found asleep in the woods by her sister, Dolores. She was taken to the Charlevoix hospital where she seems to be getting over the shock from exposure and will probably be released to her home soon.

Mr. Grant Furgeson called on her daughter, Mrs. Floyd Baker, Sunday afternoon.

On Wednesday evening, April 18, the 4-H Handicraft will hold a local achievement exhibit at the school house. The articles they have made will be on display and a short program is being prepared by the members and the other pupils. Karl Festerling the County Club Agent plans on being there and will show colored slides, which are always much enjoyed. The public is most cordially invited to come and spend the evening. Don't forget the date—April 18.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

Two of our Kindergarten children have moved away from town. Arlene Smith has gone to live in a lighthouse near Manistique and Ellen Towsley has gone to Grand Haven. We miss them both and we hope they will move back to Charlevoix soon.

We are studying birds. Clare Gibelyou surprised everyone on Friday. He knew the names of 35 birds. This week we are going to make bird books to take home.

Second Grade

A new girl entered our grade, Wanda Sutton from Van Dyke. We now have 19 boys and 21 girls.

The Red Class are reading very well in the "More Friends and Neighbors" book.

We made hyacinths in art work last week.

Faye Meggison brought some Japanese money and writing paper for us to see.

Third Grade

Gay Ann Donner had her tonsils removed last week. Howard Timmer was home with mumps. We hope they will both be well and back to school soon.

In geography we have been studying about different kinds of materials. We learned that silk used to come from Japan; now we have none. Cynthai Smith brought a kimona like the Japanese ladies wore.

We learned about temporary and permanent teeth. We are going to try to take good care of our teeth so they will look beautiful and work well for us.

Fourth Grade

Everyone enjoyed their Easter vacation. Perhaps Dean Davenport and Stuart Walker did not enjoy theirs so much because they had the mumps.

Nearly all the fourth grade attended the Junior play, "Sneak Date."

We have been studying Switzerland and are learning many things from the book "Rolo and Hanni in the Swiss Alps."

Fifth Grade

We are going to have a play.

We are going to have a magazine, and Betty Van Werien is typing a story.

The story we are reading is "Trooper, Army Dog".

Helen Moore.

Sixth Grade

We were glad to see everybody back from their vacation. We missed Mrs. Cooper, Thursday afternoon and were glad to see her Tuesday.

Thirty of the children in our room went to the play.

We are sorry we couldn't stay at the top of the list for the War Savings Stamps. But we'll try our best to get there again and stay there.

The Courtesy Club voted to give some money to get Donald Hardy and Colleen Reed cards to cheer them up.

Jim Buwman returned after a long trip with his father up north.

Jim Bowman.

Overflow 1, 2, 3

We are happy to have Deanne Boulton back with us again after several months absence.

The third grade has completed the "Ranch Book" which they enjoyed very much.

We made some pretty robin pictures fur Art last Thursday. We are going to write stories about "The Robin."

Study Shop

We went to the Junior Play matinee Thursday afternoon.

Richard Parsons came to be with us. He has reported a brok en plant for us already.

We are making a scrapbook of pictures about Germany. We find many news items about cities we study there.

Mathematics

In General Math, we are studying installment sales.

Geometry begins the sudy of proportions.

Algebra students are working with the binominal theorem.

Science

Physics is concerned with current electricity, stressing Ohm's Law.

Biology students are studying hygiene.

Artificial Insemination Subject of Four Maetings

Dairymen are invited and urged to attend a series of four Dairy Meetings to be held on Thursday and Friday, April 12 and 13. Following is the schedule:

Thursday, April 12 — Peninsula Grange Hall at 10:00 a. m.

Thursday, April 12 — Ironton church (basement) at 2:00 p. m.

Friday, April 13 — Boyne City Library at 10:00 a. m.

Friday, April 13 — East Jordan City Bldg. at 2:00 p. m.

We are interested in artificial insemination. Its advantages and disadvantages will be discussed in an informal manner. Already sixteen thousand cows are included in artificial breeding service. The college now has twenty-one sires being used in this program. They are the best that can be obtained.

Then, one of the biggest needs is a cow-test association to assist farmers in securing accurate information on the production of their cows. The production is far too low for maximum returns. Another topic of interest will be that of taking orders for young sires. This is the most logical way to improve the production of your herd and is relatively inexpensive considering the improvement that may result. It is hoped that dairymen will spare the necessary two hours to attend their nearest meeting and help in the development of a most profitable dairy program in Charlevoix county.

Farmer Crop Acreage Intensions for 1945 High

The crop report of March for Michigan just received indicates that farmers are intending to increase their acreage of general field crops. The total acreage devoted to grains, hay, potatoes, sugar beets, beans, soy beans and flax is expected to approximate eight million, one hundred thousand acres.

This would be one per cent larger than that of 1944 and more than four per cent above the 1934-1943 average.

Farmers plan on the following increase over 1944:

Wheat: two per cent, Corn: one per cent, Oats: eight per cent, tame hay: one per cent, sugar beets: forty-five per cent. The following decreases are forecast: Rye, eighteen per cent, barley: ten per cent, potatoes: eight per cent, dry beans: fifteen per cent and soy beans: four per cent.

Certainly this is an ambitious program and speaks highly of the response our farmers are showing to the increased goal. Just in passing, we do not feel that the frost has seriously injured our fruit crop. No doubt slight damage has suffered in some cases but with favorable weather, the apple crop looks splendid and the other tree fruits from fair to good.

Machinery and Equipment Meetings Last Week Attracted Fine Attendaoce

Thirty-two farm folks received some pertinent information relative to labor-saving devices from Richard Witz, Specialist. He displayed two types of grain and corn elevators, a milking machine and a gutter cleaner and others. In a highly informal manner, he discussed the advantages obtained from the use of these latest devices.

His discussions on the care of the milking machine and dairy equipment was particularly good. He highly recommended the use of the new wetting agents instead of using a soap solution. These new materials include a water softener besides the ingredients that remove the milk sediment. By using two water solutions; one at a 120 degrees and the other at 180 degrees as a rinse, the entire equipment can be easily cleaned without hand scrubbing. Further particulars will be gladly furnished in regard to these new methods of cleaning dairy utensils.

Heavy Insect Infestations Predicted

The entomologists predict that this season will see heavy infestations of insects. Already codling moth larvae have started to pupate, plant lice have hatched and pear psylla are depositing eggs. These fets together with the insecticide situation make it highly desirable that growers pay strict attention to whatever early season control measures are possible.

Victory Gardeners would do well to order their insecticides at once as the supply is not ample to take care of all demands. Don't wait for a rainy day. Do it now!

Get Weather Advice From Station WKAR

Latest Information Will Be Available

A new farm operation weather advice service has been inaugurated over WKAR, the Michigan State college radio station.

By direct wire hookup with the U. S. Weather Bureau office in East Lansing, advice broadcasts are going on the air at 12 noon and 21:15 p.m. daily. H. M. Wills, weather head, is broadcasting interpretations of weather forecasts in light of current farming operations. This service is expected to aid farmers in planning their work several days in advance.

Latest information on the farm labor situation and suggestions for securing available farm help are going on the air over WKAR each Monday morning at 10:30 a'clock. Presented by A. B. Love, state director of the Emergency Farm Labor program, this feature will continue throughout the growing and harvesting season.

Lud Denny Solves the Locust Problem

Lud Denny may not be much of a farmer, but most folks allow he's pretty smart at solving other people's problems. Like Alvin Blake's locusts.

For years Alvin has been trying to get rid of a grove of locusts. They aren't using up any good land, but they annoy Alvin. Every time he cuts them down, up they shoot again.

"What'll I do about them locusts?" Alvin asks Lud. "Well, if you can't get rid of 'em," says Lud, "I'd say you better get to like 'em."

From where I sit, that's sound philosophy—applied to people just as much as locust trees. You can't always change folks to your way of thinking—some may prefer beer to buttermilk, or a double harness to a single one—but you can get to like them (if you take the trouble).

And first thing you know, the little differences don't matter.

FOR THAT CAR OF YOURS!

SOUNDS FUNNY -- BUT IT'S TRUE! Cars that do a lot of "marking time" in garages actually need more care than cars that are used constantly. That's not just our idea. It's a scientific fact! When a car stands idle, water condenses in the crankcase -- greases tend to dry and harden -- there's a better chance for corrosion . . . to mention just a few of the evils that arise. So don't let the mileage fool you. In Wartime, your car needs regular attention no matter how much or how little you drive it. And that goes double in warm weather!

WARM WEATHER'S NO TIME TO RATION CAR CARE! Heat has always been tough on cars. This year, it's more than ever important to guard against it. Don't put it off. Have your car thoroughly conditioned for warm-weather driving today. With our fine products -- our tools and experience, we can not only help give your car more miles, more years in this emergency, we may even be able to save you up to one gallon of gas out of every ten you buy! And that's not idle talk! Here's our routine:

ENGINE . . Drain out worn lubricants -- replace with clean Summer Mobiloil.

GEARS . Check differential and transmission. Replace lubricants if necessary with the right grades of Summer Mobiloil Gear Oil.

CHASSIS . . Thoroughly Mobilubricate your car -- eliminate squeaks and rattles.

RADIATOR. Clean out your cooling system with Mobil Radiator Flush -- condition it against rust and scale with Mobil Hydrotone.

IGNITION. Check your battery, spark plugs. Clean or replace if necessary.

TIRES . . Give them a thorough inspection for cuts and bruises. See that they are properly inflated for Victory driving.

BE ON THE SAFE SIDE -- CHECK WITH US EVERY 30 DAYS

Aluminum Pressure Canners

New aluminum pressure canners will be appearing in retail markets during the coming sessons. Housewives who will need this equipment for their 1945 home canning will do well to keep an eye out for these canners as small supplies are delivered to their local stores.

Last fall the War Production Board allowed manufacturers enough aluminum to make 630,000 pressure canners between October '44 and July '45. The only restriction as to size was that none could be too small to hold 7 quart jars. However, most manufacturers are making the two familiar sizes — the small size holding 7 quart jars, and the large size holding 14 quart jars. All of the new canners are cast aluminum, streamlined and most have smooth wooden handles. Each is equipped not only with a rack to hold jars in canning but also with inset pans — two half pans and one full pan — to use for cooking different foods. This gives the new canners year round usefulness in the kitchen.

The small one particulary, is convenient for family cooking and can save considerable time and fuel especially with foods requiring long cooking — soups, stews, pot roasts, stewing chickens, beans cereals and steamed puddings. Another good use for these canners is sterilizing baby bottles.

German Settlement Group

I spent a very enjoyable afternoon with the German Settlement Extension ladies. A group of 12 women gathered at Mrs. William Behlings at 12:00 noon, each bringing baskets of good food.

Remember whipped cream, well —they had it in quantity.

Mrs. E. Weldy taught a good lesson "The Wonders of a Coat of Paint". The next meeting (May 15th) will be at Mrs. S. Eggersdorf.

Old-Fashioned Escalloped Potatoes

Place a layer of sliced potatoes in a baking dish, next a layer of browned hamburg and then a layer of peas. Each layer is salted and sprinkled with flour. Continue alternating the layers until the pan is full. Cover with warmed milk and bake for 1½ hours at 325 degrees farenheit.

Promise of Spring

With the promise of spring in the air, homemakers are renewing household activities. With meal-planning delightfully refreshed you will want to try this Cherry-Filled Coffee Cake.

Cherry-Filled Coffee Cake

Topping:
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup enriched flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup margarine or butter
1½ cups drained, canned cherries (1 No. 2 can)

Mix sugar, flour and cinnamon. Cut or rub in margarine or butter.

Batter:
1½ cups sifted enriched flour
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 egg
2-3 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Beat egg. Add milk and melted shortening. Add to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Into greased pan, 8x8 inches, spread half the batter. Cover with cherries. Sprinkle half the topping over cherries. Cover with remaining batter and finally with remaining topping. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.), for 25 minutes.

FIRE PREVENTION

The American Red Cross is preparing to assist the U. S. Forest Service in a nation-wide fire prevention program to combat a 10-year average throughout the United States of 226,000 forest fires annually. THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"When this war is all over, Judge, there will be some mighty interesting books written about it. Expect we'll learn a lot of things we didn't know before."

"Yes, Fred, when the record is finally written we'll realize what a gigantic operation this war really was and how important to final victory many factors really were."

"Take, for example, just one industry. Few people realize the importance of the great work done by the beverage distillers during the war. A high government official called it 'an almost unparalleled example of the overnight conversion of an entire industry from peace to war.' He also said not so many months ago, while speaking about synthetic rubber, 'it is fair to regard the rubber manufactured to date as being almost solely the product of the beverage distilling industry.' That's the type of thing I have in mind . . . the way great American industries at home cooperated to help our brave fighting men abroad."

"I see what you mean, Judge . . . a complete history of American teamwork."

ALTES LAGER

He proved he could "take it"!

One of the epic foot journeys of all time was the trek over the Oregon Trail in the '40s and '50s. Among the thousands who trudged it, was young Ezra Meeker, in 1852. Meeker made the trip again when 76 years old—this time from West to East to interest America in erecting suitable monuments to mark the famous old trail!

Ezra Meeker's foot journey was made for sentimental reasons. A lot of motor car owners are going on foot today—and there's no sentiment about it. Their cars are wearing out! If you don't want to join them, give your car the care it needs to keep it running right, running longer, and running farther on every gallon of gasoline. Right now it's time for your Standard Oil Dealer's 10 Star Spring Tune-up.

If veterans have been discharged from the service, and desire a restoration, they are urged to contact the fund directly.

C. S. O. ISSUES ANNUAL REPORT

Financial Statement Shows Valuable Services Rendered

The annual report of the Charlevoix Service Organization, released this week by Chairman Ralph Hamilton, gives a clear picture of the activities of that organization for the fiscal year, Apr. 1, 1944 to April 1, 1945.

Some highlights of the report show that:

The Memorial Fund was donated by the Service Class of 1942 to be used at the close of war.

Bonds purchased in 1943 in the amount of $325.00 will be used to provide a real Homecoming to the boys and girls of the Armed Forces.

Newspaper Fund free will donations amounted to $333.00 during the past year.

Tag days under direction of Stewart Coleman netted the organization $88.30.

Julius Gilbert conducted a drive last summer. The receipts of $627.50 came from North Side Resorters, Chicago Club and Belvedere Club.

Forty-five tons of paper were shipped from Charlevoix, thanks to the city for use of its truck and to Boy Scouts who helped in collection and loading. $537.46 was realized.

Expenditures Made

Records were purchased for Coast Guard recreation, sound pictures were shown, transportation was given inductees returning after pre-induction examinations, to reach their homes. Many times the CSO was reimbursed later by the recipients.

Stamp-Bond expense, consisting of advertising in newspaper and painting and repairs to booths were made.

Subscriptions to the Charlevoix Courier and expense for postage, etc., have been paid to August 1, 1945.

Small packages for the boys leaving local draft headquarters for service is a unique feature of the organization, 128 such packages have been given.

Other expenses listed include: Scrap Paper Drive, hospital box expense, Tag Day expenses, window display in Central Drug and other miscellaneous items too numerous to mention. All are contained in the financial statement on page 7.

Oh, For A Night In Paris . . .

Lieut. Lorita Matchett Writes of Experiences

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matchett, R. R. 1, recently received the following letter from their daughter, Lt. Lorita Matchett, of the Army Nurses Corps, now stationed in France. She was transferred there recently after nearly two years in Iran. She writes: I just returned last evening from a pass in Paris. Wonderful! Only 18 hours isn't long enough to see and do everything we'd like to do. Got up early Easter morning to attend Sun Rise Services in the park under the Eiffel Tower. I went with an infantry lieutenant who was commissioned on the battle field recently. The service was really beautiful for the trees and grass are so green now. Trees are in bloom. The altar was decorated with calla lilies. The MPs and Shore Patrol were on guard in dress uniform; white gloves, helmets, leggings, etc. Thousands of American military personell attended. It was rather a cloudy day and trying hard to rain so the sun didn't show up but nevertheless it

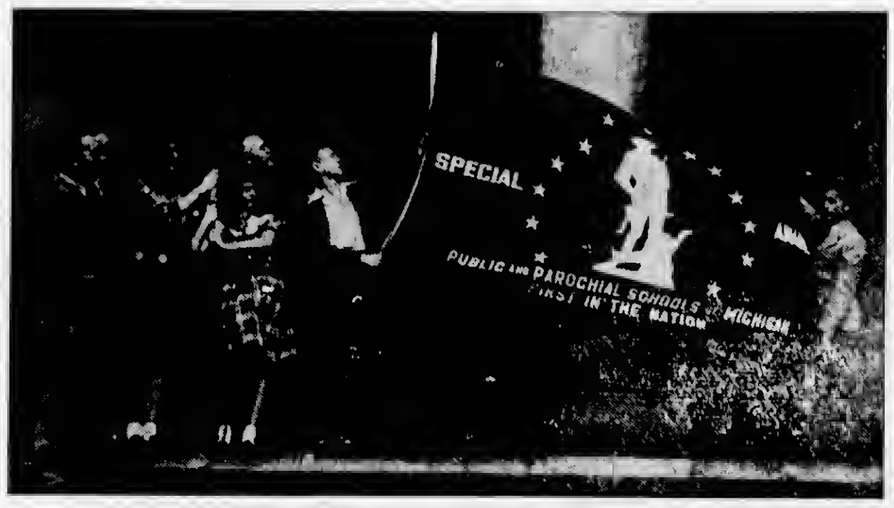
MICHIGAN SCHOOLS LEAD NATION IN WAR BOND SALES



Because they led the entire nation in the Sixth War Loan drive, Michigan public and parochial schools last week were awarded this special flag by the United States Treasury department. The ceremony took place at Lansing in the presence of Governor Harry F. Kelly.

In the above picture are Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction; Frank N. Isbey, state war finance chairman; Governor Kelly and two girls and two boys representing the public and parochial schools of Michigan.

The special award flag was hoisted over the Capitol to signify the opening of the Seventh War Loan Drive in Michigan schools. The schools have accepted a quota of $50,000,000 during the current drive. More than 1,000,000 school children will participate. Michigan schools were the first to participate in war bond drives, and according to Mr. Isbey they are led only by the industrial organizations where payroll deductions are in effect. Charlevoix high school's quota is $11,000 for the mighty 7th War Loan.

Returns to Action, Is Wounded Again

Pfc. Alvie Alexander Hospitalized In So. Pacific

A few days after he had returned to action with his infantry company, after hospitalization for wounds received earlier in the month, private first class Alvie Alexander, 29, was seriously wounded in action on Luzon according to word received Tuesday in a war department telegram by his brother, Charles Alexander. He has been serving with the 128th Infantry of the 32nd Division. Pfc. Alexander stated in a letter received here Friday, that he was ready for action after being treated for shrapnel wounds received early in April. The wire also contained his new address at a General Hospital somewhere in the South Pacific.

Pfc. Alexander has been in the service since November, 1943, and overseas since June, 1944. He saw action in New Guinea before going to the Philippines last fall.

Farm Bureau Met Tuesday

Directors Oppose "Planned Economy"

Creation of a government controlled "Planned Economy" was strongly opposed by the directors of the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau at its April meeting, held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. McGhan of Marion township. Action was taken to have the subject discussed by all of the community Farm Bureau groups in the county in order to record the attitude of the entire organization and submit a resolution of the opinion to the state Farm Bureau.

Sentiment was expressed by the directors that compulsory military training was indirectly tied to the planned economy program which is being strongly supported by some groups.

It was generally agreed by the directors that each of the community groups should thoroughly study the pros and cons of military training and take a definite stand on the question as a county organization.

The May meeting of the directors will be held the fourth Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Klooster of East Jordan.

Home Economics Ladies Hold Last Lesson

Extension leaders will meet in the Methodist church, here tomorrow, (Thursday) for their last lesson on "Time Savers in Home Sewing." This is the sixth lesson in this winter's project.

Plans are being made for the spring Achievement Day which will be held perhaps the middle of May. Miss Marjorie Eastman, Specialist in Clothing, will give the lesson. The fifteen local groups have participated in all of the lessons and from all indications will complete all requirements. Already the local groups are making recommendations as to the type of material for next winter.

Be sure to help get paper ready for paper drive, April 27 - 28.

Anglers are Ready to Go Saturday

Streams Should Be Loaded With Trout Say Authorities

Fishermen's luck should be good next Saturday, opening day of the trout season.

Conservation department authorities make the statement, and they offer some cogent reasons why:

More legal-size trout have been planted in recent weeks in Michigan streams and trout lakes than in any previous pre-season period.

More native trout should await the angler in streams and lakes than in any previous season, result of lightened fishing pressure during war years.

Record pre-season plantings have been made possible by the extremely early spring break-up; more legal-size trout have been planted out before the season opening because scarcity of food for trout in rearing ponds has prevented the holding back of many fish for later plantings.

Shortage of tackle likely will continue through the season. Kenneth C. Crowder of the War Production Board's regional office in Detroit has advised the department that quantity of tackle produced still is limited by the amount of materials, manpower, and facilities available.

Barring a bad weather break, fly fishermen should be able to compete with bait and spinner tossers this week-end. First insect hatches were reported during the last week in March.

Rainbow trout are reported spawning earlier than usual this spring because of the advanced season and some rainbows may be moving downstream by opening day.

Beverly Hooker Valedictorian

Anne Campbell Wins Salutatory Honors

Miss Beverly Hooker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hooker, receives valedictory honors with a point rating of 3.93 out of a possible four points, it was learned today from Principal Harry Bingham.

Miss Hooker has demonstrated her ability in a variety of ways. She has played in the band for six years. Work as a reporter on the school paper, the Crimson Flash, has added to her versatility. The Girl Scouts were an important organization during the earlier school years. Participation in the Junior and Senior plays in various capacities emphasized dramatic interests.

Miss Anne Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell, will present the class salutatory based on a point rating of 3.44 out of a possible four points, Mr. Bingham said.

Miss Campbell has been a class officer, participated as a cheer leader, presented declamations and orations, worked as co-editor on the school paper, and has been included in both the Junior and Senior plays. Membership in the school band indicates interest in music.

Others whose school work places them among the first ten are: Linda Bowman, Elaine Brow, Douglas Byers, Gordon Clement, Marion Craig, Ruth Essenberg, Eileen Hagle and Barbara Loutselle.

The school marking system consists of the following: A-Excellent, B-Good, C-Fair, D-Poor, and E-Failure. An A is equal to 4, B equals 3, C equals 2, D equals 1, and E equals 0 in determining the point rating.

Resolution Is Adopted

Power Squadron Votes Approval At April Meet

William C. (Bill) Bellinger, secretary of the Charlevoix Power Squadron, unit of the U. S. Power Squadron, informs the Courier today that at the April meeting of the governing board, the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, V-E Day appears to be imminent; and

WHEREAS, our joy for the coming peace in Europe must be tempered with a consciousness that thousands of our men gave their lives to achieve this V-E Day and cannot return, and that other thousands will return, but crippled for life and also that millions of others are still fighting and dying in the Pacific and elsewhere so that total permanent peace may yet be won, THEREFORE,

BE IT RESOLVED by the United States Power Squadrons, that V-E Day be noted and observed, not by thoughtless and boisterous celebrations which profance the memory of those who cannot return, or who return maimed for life, but by prayerful attendance at our respective churches and the giving of thanks to Almighty God for the termination of this cruel and barbarous carnage and also with prayers for the safe return of those still left abroad; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that we re-dedicate ourselves and our nation to the task of bringing about a speedy termination of the war in the Pacific and bringing about a peace that will be just and lasting so that our future and the future of our children and our children's children and those coming after them may be secure and that they and all others may enjoy a free and better world.

Wm. C. (Bill) Bellinger,
Secretary Charlevoix Power Squadron, Unit U. S. Power Squadron.

DEFICIT IN FATS MUST BE MET BY KITCHEN SALVAGE

OPA Administrator Chester Bowles Calls Attention of Women to Bonus in Red Points and Cash for Saving Grease

"American housewives have been cooperating splendidly in the Fat Salvage Program, but it is imperative that they have even more fats this year than in the past", says Chester Bowles, Administrator of Office of Price Administration.

Chester Bowles

"This is necessary because wartime requirements will exceed supplies unless the deficit is made up by saving used household fats. Despite the rapid advance of our forces in the Pacific it will probably be a year before oil shipments can be resumed from there", Mr. Bowles declared.

"So the 1945 goal for salvaged fats has been set at 250 million pounds as compared with the 170 million pounds saved last year.

"If all the 31,000,000 American housewives living in private dwellings saved even one tablespoon of used fat every day, this would add up to 353 million pounds in a year!

"For adding to the Nation's supply of fats by turning in used fat, housewives are being given two red points and up to 4 cents for every pound", Mr. Bowles stated. "The Nation needs this used fat!"

Looking Ahead — We Owe Us

By GEORGE S BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

ON THE morning of November 12, 1918, a dusky American soldier slept through two or three bugle calls and was waked at last by his sergeant gruffly ordering him to rise.

"Y'all ksn't boss me roun' no mo," came the protest, "dis wah am ovah, I jes sign up fer de duration."

"How right you is, boy!" the sergeant replied. "De wah am ovah, sho 'nuff, but de duration . . . it have jes begin."

There is a five-year-old epigram like this: "Who cares about the national debt? We only owe it to ourselves." It implies that we will be very easy with ourselves on collection day, but can we afford to be soft? We owe ourselves more money than we can ever collect the interest on, unless we work hard and pay our taxes. These debts to ourselves are genuine, and bigger than most of us realize.

Tinkling Cymbals

SOME people owe themselves new cars, or new tires for their old cars. Since they can't buy these useful items, they waste their money on silly pastimes. Easy money that rattles in our pockets because there is nothing to buy, is not prosperity. Actually it is bogus money. If a higher income does not help me live better, my prosperity is phoney. Prosperity is born of work.

America is bleeding in war and suffering in want this very day. Our needs are no less real because certain items are off the market. National income figures for the United States illustrate the point perfectly. On paper, our national income was 135 billion dollars in 1943, breaking all records, but actually we received 150 million dollars a day less take-home money in 1943 than in 1929.

Phoney Wealth

WE ARE going in debt. When 1943's debt was subtracted from what we called our national income, it was 20 billion under 1929. String nine 0's after all figures in the table below; they are billions:

Figures in billions	1929	1943
National Income	$ 81	$135
Government Deficit	none	56
Federal Taxes	3	21
Net	$ 78	$ 58

Difference—$20,000,000,000

The average war-time wage is more cents per hour; the average salary more dollars per month. Consequently our total national income is more billions of dollars per year than in any previous boom, but the debt changes the picture. It will have to be paid in money that represents constructive work, doing and making useful things for better living.

Official accounts of military gains rightly build up our hopes for peaceful years to come. The anecdote at the beginning of this article was told to suggest this: When the fighting stops, it will be no signal to commence sleeping late trying to subsist on wartime prosperity. Unless we increase our efforts and do our part to meet our national obligation, "the duration will have just begun."

"Boy, how we miss a telephone!"

"We've just moved into a new home, and have no telephone. We asked for one, but they say it may take a long time to fill our order.

"Of course, we know why we can't have one. The boys overseas need nearly every bit of telephone equipment that can be made, and they're mighty welcome to ours."

We in Michigan Bell can add that we're installing some telephones every day as present users give them up. These are few, indeed. But telephones alone wouldn't solve this problem. To give everyone service who wants it would mean erecting more buildings, making more switchboards, stringing more wire, and so on. And that's impossible now.

As soon as war permits, we plan to launch an expansion program costing $120,000,000 in the first five years, so we can fill waiting and new orders . . . extend rural service . . . and adopt wartime improvements developed by Bell Laboratories. But even with that big program, it may take two years or longer before service can be installed generally without delay.

We appreciate the patience of the 100,000 Michigan families that are waiting for telephones.

100,000,000 LB. RISE IN FAT SALVAGE ASKED BY KRUG

Chairman of War Production Board Urges American Women to Greater Effort in Saving Kitchen Grease

"The salvage of used household fats is vitally important to our program", says J. A. Krug Chairman of War Production Board.

J. A. Krug

"Fats are used in hundreds of industrial plants engaged in metal working, textile manufacturing, leather processing and synthetic rubber production. They are also required in certain mining operations and in the production of special lubricating oils and greases. Used household fats also help to assure us at home of supplies of medicines, soap and many other essential civilian items", Mr. Krug declared.

"Our requirements for 1945 are greater than ever before. We need a minimum of 100 million pounds more of used household fats than were obtained in 1944.

"I urge housewives to greater efforts," Mr. Krug said. "Every ounce of fat that is salvaged and turned in will help toward meeting our production requirements."

The Soldier's Prayer

Found on a scrap of paper fluttering over the desert, during the battle of El Agheila, on Dec. 14, 1942, writer unknown:

Stay with me, God. The night is dark,
The night is cold. My little spark
Of courage dies. The night is long.
Be with me, God, and make me strong.

I love a game, I love a fight,
I hate the dark, I love the light.
I love my child, I love my wife,
I am no coward, but I love life.

Life, with its change of mood and shade,
I want to live, I'm not afraid,
But me and mine are hard to part
Oh, unknown God, lift up my heart.

I know that death is but a door.
I know what we are fighting for:
Peace for the kids, our brothers freed,
A kinder world, a cleaner breed.

I'm but the son my mother bore.
A simple man and nothing more.
But, God of strength and gentleness,
Be pleased to make me nothing less.

Help me, God, when death is near.
To mock the haggard face of fear.
That when I fall—if fall I must—
My soul may triumph in the dust.

FOOD TALKS

By Emma J. Fero
War Food Ass't.

This week we were planning to talk about asparagus canning but when I saw snow this morning I decided to give you a few hints in answer to a very popular question—that of stretching the meat supply.

Some homemakers just do not appreciate the artistic display of sauerkraut, cheese and cold meat holding down the spot where their butcher used to keep the steaks and chops.

Two for One—or how to make one pound of meat taste like two. Here are some flavor-spreading possibilities with a pound of meat and—

And Seasonings—well seasoned stuffings are excellent extenders. Garden herbs, curry powder or spices can pep up flavor in dishes spurse in meat.

And Vegetables—To bring out out the full flavor of meat in a stew, cut it into small pieces, sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in flour and brown with or without onion. Browning the meat well before adding moisture is the flavor trick. Another way to add flavor is to brown the flour to be used for thickening the gravy in the oven or in a heavy skillet over low heat.

A little meat goes a long way also in stew scalloped with macaroni or spaghetti, stew with a border of riced potatoes or fluffy white rice.

And Cereals or Soya—A pound of ground meat makes enough hamburg steak or meat patties for four servings, when broiled "straight". But the meat goes further — and texture is better—combined with milk and bread crumbs, oatmeal or cereal flakes. Soya flour and grits, with their high quality protein, are especially good extenders.

Little Slices—How to make that small amount of leftover meat do for dinner? Make it into dumplings by topping a square of rolled biscuit dough with sliced onions and lefover meat. Fold in corners of dough, bake in 450 F. for 15 minutes and serve with a sauce of condensed mushroom soup.

Meat and fruit in a saucy combination are meat balls made from 2 cups ground beef, 2 eggs, 1 cup apple sauce, 1 cup bread crumbs, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper. Bake in 1 cup tomato juice.

Here's a quick casserold dish with ready prepared cold meat cuts:

Quick Meat and Noodle Casserole

2 cups diced, cold cooked meat or sausage
2 cups cooked noodles
1½ cups medium white sauce
¾ cup mushroom pieces
1 teaspoon chopped green pepper, sauted
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup buttered crumbs

Prepare sauce with 2 teaspoon fat, 3 teaspoon of flour and 1½ cups milk. Season. Or, substitute diluted canned mushroom soup for sauce. Arrange a layer of noodles meat, sauce, mushrooms and then green pepper. Top with a layer of buttered crumbs. Bake for 40 minutes in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. Yield—4 to 6 servings.

DIP NETTERS DROP FROM LAST YEAR'S RECORD

Dip netters took only 789 walleyed pike and 10 rainbow trout in the Muskegon river for transfer to the ponds above the Newaygo dam during recent nights. This month's operations were slowed by the early dry season and lack of flood water, the total of fish transferred falling far short of the 3,318 walleyes that were netted last spring. The conservation department supervises transfer operations which are carried on in cooperation with the Consumers Power company.

HOW YOUR WASTE PAPER CAN DO DOUBLE DUTY

Every scrap can aid the war effort and help wounded veterans

SAVE PAPER FOR WAR

If you have a friend or relative in the armed services, you have a personal stake in the Double-V Waste Paper Program. For every bit of waste paper you save can do a double job for him.

Waste paper is still a No. 1 war material shortage. It makes or packs thousands of essential war products. Ask any man in service how paper protects his rations, medicine and munitions!

While the amount of waste paper available for salvage becomes constantly less, war needs go up and up. No matter when Germany gives up, your waste paper will be needed for a long time to come!

SAVE PAPER FOR VETERANS

Now comes a new and powerful reason for saving waste paper. Organizations all over the country . . . churches, schools and civic groups . . . are channeling some or all of the money they get for their waste paper, to buy for wounded veterans extra comforts such as phone calls home, radios and games.

These boys are coming back at the rate of over 1,000 a day . . . 30,000 a month! As the casualty lists lengthen, this very human need grows.

ORGANIZE DOUBLE V PROGRAM

That is why local groups now collecting waste paper for war are being urged to recognize and meet this great new challenge to the sympathy and the understanding of us all.

There is a veterans hospital near you. Let's show those boys we appreciate what they've done for us. It's so easy to save waste paper, and to be sure that they benefit. Help to organize Double-V . . . then back it to the limit! You'll get a deep personal satisfaction . . . and that goes double!

MUST MEET NEED FOR FATS IN U. S. WFA HEAD SAYS

Marvin Jones Declares Kitchen Salvage Vital to Meet Military, Industrial and Civilian Production

"American women in their kitchens and on the farm are making a vitally important contribution to our wartime economy by salvaging and turning in used fats", says Marvin Jones, War Food Administrator.

Marvin Jones

"An adequate supply of fats and oils is essential to successful prosecution of the war. We must meet the necessary requirements of our military, industrial, and civilian production goals", Mr. Jones declared.

"Japanese seizure of Pacific areas from which the United States formerly imported large quantities of fats and oils required us to ask American farmers and American homemakers to replace these losses by increased production and through the salvaging of used household fats. Both have responded magnificently and deserve the thanks of their Government.

"Military demands have recently been greatly increased. It will be necessary in 1945 to salvage at least 100 million pounds more used fat than were recovered in 1944. To accomplish this, I ask every individual for the fullest cooperation in this important task. Every ounce of used fat that can be salvaged is urgently needed.

"American women, and the meat dealers who have loyally provided collection points for used fats during the past 2½ years, have made a major contribution," Mr. Jones stated. "Your help is needed now more than ever before."

Antrim Iron Co. Sawmill Closes

Was Last Big Mill In Lower Peninsula

The end of a colorful chapter of Michigan history is reached this week with the closing of the Antrim Iron Company's sawmill at Mancelona.

Its passing marks the end of an era of large-scale lumbering operations below the Straits. It was the last big sawmill in the lower peninsula.

Exhaustion of the company's timber holdings which once covered 30,000 acres of the so-called Cadillac highlands extending north to Petoskey forced its closing. The company closed down its other operations here, the smelting of Lake Superior iron ore with the charcoal by-product of its wood chemical plant, in October 1943.

Grand Rapids men organized the company in 1886 to operate a charcoal iron furnace for the smelting of northern peninsula ore that was ferried across the Straits. Similar furnaces were operated elsewhere in the southern peninsula, one at Cadillac having been closed down in 1926, and another at East Jordan in 1930.

Iron smelting below the Straits was practicable because of the seemingly inexhaustible supply of timber for the making of charcoal. The local company in later years put increasing emphasis on its lumbering operations, however, when demand grew for the hard maple that was cut on its holdings, maple that was declared to be the finest in the world.

At the peak of the company's operations, in the early 1900's from 300 to 350 men were employed in the company's local plants and another 200 in the woods. A general store, farms, and machine shop were operated also. Lumbering was carried on the year 'round, for the smelting furnace was seldom shut down. In fact, it was allowed to grow cold on only a few occasions during its 59-year history, during depression times.

The company produced methanol (wood alcohol), acetate of lime, acetic acid, wood tars, and wood oils in its wood chemical plant.

Eight thousand-odd acres of the company's former holdings have been purchased by the conservation department for inclusion in state forests.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

The Kindergarten children are coopernting in the 7th Wnr Loun Drive. Each child hus taken home u letter and un applicution to his parents, und if each one sells a bond, we will make our quota.

On Friday the children took a walk. They especinlly enjoyed the flowers they saw. There were jonquils, daffodils, myrtle, violets, narcissus and tulips.

First Grade

The First Graders agreed to work as hard on the War Bond Drive as they did for the Stamp program. The boys and girls are having a contest to see which can sell the most bonds. Kit Carson is buying the first bond.

We finished our "good citizen" poster last week.

Second Grade

"Be Kind to Animals Week" was April 15-21. We wrote stories about our pets and what was the correct way to care for pets. Each person had a turn to tell about his pets, and we have many pet pictures in our room.

We are working hard on the 7th War Loan Drive. Some of us are trying to fill our Defense Stamp books to help meet our room quota, which is $450.00.

We are glad Harriet Hooker and David Juilleret are back after being ill so long.

Third Grade

We are trying to fill our quota for the Bond Drive. Sue Ann Beaudoin and Ritchie Davis were first to buy a bond.

We have been studying logging and lumbering in geography. We made very nice pictures about it and some wrote fine stories to go with their pictures. The best stories were written by Bonnie Brown, Karen Smith, Bob Miles, Joyce Hardy and Cynthia Smith.

Friday we visited the library and took our books to read.

Fourth Grade

The Fourth Grade brought in many souvenirs which have been placed in the exhibit case. We talked about these things and the many places from which they came. Howard Pearl found many places on the globe where his brother has been while in the Navy. The pictures we made featured slogans about buying war bonds and stamps.

Our room is divided into two teams, John Nordrum and Clara Miles were chosen captains. The quota for the Fourth Grade was set at $600. We wonder which team will sell the most bonds.

Fifth Grade

Donna Summerville just came back to school Tuesday, April 17.

As you know, the school is selling Bonds. The captains in our room are: Norman Ketchman for one side, and Marilyn Bulow for the other side. Norman Ketchman's side has a $100 bond sold by Betty Van Wieren.

We have made flowers posters. The book Miss Little is reading is "The Mystery of Yoga Creek."

Gloria Jon Henry

1, 2, 3 Overflow

Nearly all the pupils in our room are present again. Several have been absent with the mumps.

We have learned the poem, "The Swing". We drew pictures to illustrate the scenes we saw as we talked about the swing.

Buy a Bond! Help win the war! We are doing our best to sell bonds. Five pupils expect to finish their stamp books and buy a bond.

Study Shop
Why People Should Buy War Bonds

People should buy war bonds to buy parts of jeeps, tanks, guns, and many other things. Then our boys can go on fighting for your liberty and mine. You are fighting here at the home front when you buy a war bond. Just a $25 bond helps our cause. You can never have too many bonds — SO BUY WAR BONDS FOR VICTORY.

Mathematics

Geometry continued with proportions and similar polygons.

Algebra dealt with division of quadratic equations by binominals.

General Math pupils found out how taxes are levied and collected.

Science

Biology was concerned with reproduction in microscopic plants and animals; physics with effects of electric currents.

News of Our Servicemen

Clifford W. McKibbin Jr., former Charlevoix city manager, has been promoted to lieutenant, junior grade, from ensign, as of Mar. 1, according to a letter received from him by Jerry Scudder, former editor of the Courier. Lt. (jg) McKibbon, who enlisted in the Navy in August, 1943, is now serving in the Pacific. He also writes: Arrived about a week ago but my tools and materials haven't arrived yet so am not as busy as I expected to be. The climate here is not bad—the NAD is up on high part of the island and nights are cool. Rain descends much and often but only for a few minutes at a time; much different from Michigan's all-day rains.

Took 37 days to get out here—week stops at Pearl Harbor and Eniwetok, as well as two stops in the States after I got aboard. Not a bad trip save for the length of time.

From David Coulter, BM2c, of Camp Bradford, Va., comes the following: As I had assumed while home on leave, my trip to Camp Bradford was for reassignment. This came a little over a week ago and the assigned duty is again LCTs. This did not come as a surprise as I expected to again wind up on this type craft. So far my crew is incomplete but six of the men are veterans, two of them having served on LCTs and the others on LSTs. The four new fellows are just out of boot camp and we are scheduled for a three-day turn on an LCT based here on the Chesapeake. After that I guess we'll soon be off to the wars again.

In closing I'd like to thank the CSO for sending the paper and for their contribution to my good time while home. Also, I'd like to wish you of the Courier every good wish for success and say that I like your policies very much. My present address is ATB Camp Bradford, Norfolk, 11, Va.

Franklin A. Noonan, CMoMM, USCG, who has been serving aboard an LST in the European theatre of operations, arrived on Monday from the east coast to spend a 30-day leave with his wife and family here. Mr. Noonan was overseas for a year and was stationed at an English port until the invasion of the continent after which his ship carried supplies to France.

Pvt. Albert L. Russell has arrived here from Camp Atterbury, Ind., to spend a 30-day furloogh with his wife and family and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Russell. Pvt. Russell returned to the States early in January and until recently was confined to the DeWitt General Hospital, Auburn, Calif., for treatment of frozen feet suffered while serving with the army in Germany.

Private first class Frank Gengle, who was wounded in action in Germany in November while serving with the First Army, has been returned to this country for further treatment and is now a patient at the Percy Jones hospital, Battle Creek. He has been in the service since March, 1943, and had been overseas since August, 1944. He arrived Saturday to spend a 14 day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gengle.

Lt. (jg) Howard Griffin, arrived Thursday from the west coast to visit his mother, Mrs. Mary Griffin. He will leave here on May 5 to report at San Francisco. Lt. (jg) Griffin has been gone from Charlevoix since December, 1941. Since then he has served with the navy in the Atlantic for two years and in the Pacific for 16 months.

C. Clair Stevens, M1c, left Saturday to return to duty on the west coast after spending a leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens.

Burr Blanchard, MM1c, who has been on duty in the Pacific with the Navy, has arrived here from the west coast to spend a leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Blanchard.

ARMY SUPPLY HEAD SEES 1945 FAT NEED BIGGER THAN EVER

Maj. Gen. E. B. Gregory, Quartermaster General Asks Every Housewife to Save Kitchen Grease

"The salvaging of used fats by American women is a vitally important home-front task", says Maj. Gen. E. B. Gregory, Quartermaster General.

Maj. Gen. E. B. Gregory

"Thousands of items of the equipment of the United States Army require fats and oils or their byproducts to manufacture, service, and maintain them. Among these are practically all forms of military weapons, many military medicines, synthetic rubber, special airplane lubricants, parachutes, powder bags, soap, uniforms, blankets", Mr. Gregory declared.

"It is essential to maintain an adequate supply of fats and oils. Tremendously increased military demands combined with the cutting off of former imports from Pacific areas made it necessary to ask American women to help meet our requirements by salvaging their used cooking fats. They and the meat dealers to whom these salvaged fats were turned in have done a splendid job for which all of us concerned with military and domestic production are most grateful.

"Our requirements for fats and oils in 1945 will be greater than ever before", Mr. Gregory stated. "To meet these requirements it will be necessary to increase materially the salvaging of used fats in the cities and on farms. I ask every American homemaker to make every effort to save and turn in the maximum possible quantity."

TUESDAY STUDY CLUB HAS REGULAR MEET

Mrs. Rosa Nettleton Is Hostess To Twelve Members and One Guest

The Tuesday Study Club met for the last regular meeting of the year, April 17, at the home of Mrs. Rosa Nettleton. Twelve members and one guest were present. Each one present responded to Roll Call with a quotation from her favorite author. Committees were chosen for the coming year, and all appointments were graciously accepted. Then followed the reading of the "Year Book" a resume of the lessons prepared and presented during the year. These were most interesting and were received with much enthusiasm.

The real treat of the evening was the reading of an original story, interspersed with twelve large and beautiful water color paintings. All this was conceived and worked out by the talented hostess. The title for the story was chosen by the listeners. It was very clever and most interesting.

After delving into the horoscope of those present, all were invited to partake of delicious refreshments and left the home of Mrs. Nettleton feeling the year of study had been well and profitably spent — and expressing deep gratitude to the hostess for all her efforts during the year, and for a pleasant and happy evening.

Charlevoix Businessmen Entertained by Farmers

One of the most enjoyable and constructive meetings ever held was the get-together arranged by farmers and the Charlevoix area. It rates tops in any estimation as it permits people to know each other better. Over one hundred folks sat down to a banquet that couldn't be excelled in these war times. The ladies from the Barnard and Marion Center communities are certainly to be commended service.

LaVerne McGhan acted as the general chairman of the program. Features of the program were a short play put on by eight students of the Boyne Falls school, brief remarks by C. V. Ballard and Paul Barrett of Michigan State College, numbers rendered by the quartet of Charlevoix. This get-together was so favorably received by both city and farmer folks that doubtless it may become an annual event.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, remember that place up in the mountains where we went trout fishing last year?"

"I sure do, George. We had a great time up there, didn't we?"

"I'll never forget it. But this will interest you, Judge. I heard just yesterday that the revenue men raided a big still right near there. Guess that's where all that high-priced moonshine we heard about has been coming from."

"Wouldn't be a bit surprised. I saw in the paper the other day where the Government has raided thousands of such stills during the past year."

"Sounds sort of reminiscent, doesn't it, Judge?"

"Exactly and it's not hard to figure out. As soon as the distillers stopped making whiskey and devoted their entire facilities to the production of industrial alcohol for the Government... the racketeers muscled in again."

"I hate to think of how that might have spread, Judge, if the Government hadn't found it possible, without interfering with our war effort in any way, to permit a short resumption of legal whiskey production recently."

Canning Sugar Issued May 1st

Not More Than 20 Lbs. Per Person Will Be Issued

Housewives may apply for canning sugar next Tuesday, May 1, at the local board.

The total amount of canning sugar allowed for each person will not be more than 20 pounds this year. No more than 160 pounds a family can be allowed even if there are more than eight persons in it.

For canning fruits or fruit juices, the allowance will be on the basis of one pound of sugar for each four quarts to be canned. Within the 20 pound maximum allowance, five pounds of sugar for each person will be allowed for canning vegetables and for making jams, jellies, relishes, catsup, etc.

"In this situation OPA simply had to tighten up. We cannot afford an over-issuance of home canning sugar such as occurred last year, said the board chairman.

"Nevertheless, if only those people who actually will use sugar for home canning apply for it, there will be enough to preserve as much fruit as was prepared in homes last year."

Housewives are urged to make one application covering their entire year's need of canning sugar. Applications must be made before October 31.

The housewife must attach to the application "Spare Stamp 13" from War Ration Book Four for each member of the family covered. The form with the attached stamps may be returned to the Board in person or by mail.

was very impressive.

We also visited the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the Arch. Everyone passing near there stops and military personnel never pass without saluting as they pass. There is a fire at the head of the tomb which has never been allowed to go out and it was decorated with flowers.

Altho' neither of us were Catholic we visited the Cathedral of Notre Dame later in the morning. The morning services were being held and thousands of people were coming and going. I wanted to see the altar but the crowd was too dense. We just pushed our way in and out.

Paris is a beautiful city but none of these places have anything the States don't have. While there I also had my first experience with the subway.

The attitude of the boys toward the nurses here and in Iran is so different. Those boys appreciate every little thing that is done for them. They stop us on the street and talk for a few minutes, especially the boys who are just back from the front and who haven't seen an American girl for some time. After a few minutes they go on their way after telling you they just want to talk to someone who speaks English and understands them. All of them, especially the infantry boys, treat the nurses with far more respect than they did in Iran.

I had quite a discussion with the lieutenant on the tactics of war. They sure lead a rough life and it's amazing how high their morale is. Even the seriously wounded are cheerful, appreciative and think of their buddies before themselves. These are the boys you'd do anything for.

In my Paris travels I learned one thing: never try to keep up with an infantryman. I just can't take it. My feet and muscles really ached after that trip.

Here's a gesture that really is touching. Easter afternoon two of the other girls went for a walk when they got off duty and stopped at a Red Cross snack bar for donuts and coffee. While there an enlisted men came up to them with two bouquets of daffodils. He had been liberated a few days before when his own outfit took a German prison camp where he had been held for two years. He said that he and his wife both liked flowers and that he always saw that she had some for all occasions. Said he had bought the flowers with her in mind and intended giving them to the first two American girls he met. He gave them the flowers, talked to them awhile and was on his way again. Such things make us feel that maybe we are worth something over here after all.

I hope this ends soon so we, that is, the majority of us, can return home.

Lt. Matchett, who graduated from the Butterworth Hospital, Grand Rapids, in 1942, enlisted in the army nurses corps, in December, 1942. After receiving training at Percy Jones hospital, Battle Creek, she went overseas in February, 1943. She was stationed in Iran until January, 1945, when she was transferred to the European theatre of operations. While in Iran she had an opportunity to visit Teheran and the Holy Land.

Two other members of the Matchett family are also in uniform. S-Sgt. David Matchett is an instructor at Fort McClellan, Ala., after serving in the South Pacific with the 32nd Division and Pvt. Hazel Matchett of the WACs is stationed at Wakeman General hospital, Camp Atterbury, Ind.

Inclination of the Michigan state legislature to accept Governor Kelly's recommendation that additional state aid for local governments be financed in part, by a substantial hike in the state liquor profits may be regarded as a complimentary recognition of the basic merits of Michigan's liquor monopoly system.

The legislators' action is not being taken in any mood of sentiment.

Eighteen months ago a wave of criticism began to rise against the state set-up. Consumers were complaining of a lack of supplies under the rationing system; drys were decrying lack of adequate enforcement. Frank McKay, former Republican national committeeman, began a personal crusade to abolish the monopoly system.

Public criticism was growing. One year ago, a two-fisted "no man", General L. A. Kunzig, was hired as business manager. Last December William F. Edmonson, former city manager of Pontiac, was replaced by John P. Aaron, the governor's personal secretary, as chairman of the commission. These moves were frank admissions that Michigan's monopoly plan was on trial. Critics were predicting dire things would happen by the time the legislature met at Lansing.

What happened to cause a reverse of public opinion?

Nothing else than the power of information as gathered by Clarence W. Lock, state deputy revenue commissioner and Charles A. Parrish, chief of the liquor commission enforcement division, in a fact-finding survey of six nearby states.

Whether the reversal is permanent or temporary remains to be seen. Michigan travelers who visit New York City and Chicago in wartime years invariably return home with glowing accounts of the abundance of liquor iln those cities. But for the most part they say little, if anything, about how much consumers were paying for liquor in those cities.

It was the Lock-Parrish report that emphasized such facts as these: Michigan bottle prices average 67 cents less than Illinois bottle prices and 70 cents less than New York prices. Michigan is a monopoly state whereby government functions as both wholesaler and retailer; Illinois and New York are open states whereby private dealers pocket the profit.

"Even with the wartime 10 per cent increase in liquor prices, as proposed by the state legislature, Michigan bottle prices will average less than those in open states," reports Chairman Aaron.

"Basically, Michigan's system is sound. Our problem is one of control, rather than of revenue. The public must insist upon law enforcement by local governments which receive 85 per cent of the liquor license fee revenue just for that specific purpose. We have nothing to hide under the rug, and we welcome the public's cooperation."

Aaron indicated that the state commission had a responsibility in imposing stiffer penalties on law offenders whose licenses are subject to revocation.

The special survey report, written by Lock, contains a wealth of comparative information about how liquor is handled in the open states of New York, New Jersey, Illinois and Indiana and in the monopoly states of Pennsylvania and Ohio. Listen to Lock as he reports:

"I undertook this survey without bias as to any particular system of control and I returned with two convictions: (1) If the primary motive is to make a larger supply of liquor available to the public more conveniently than the open system is preferable, and (2) If control and regulation is the primary motive then the monopoly system is the more desirable.

"It has been alleged by some critics of the monopoly system that politics plays too important a part. However, in this survey the two states where politics was most obvious and its influence most openly admitted were both open states.

"Enforcement does not necessarily depend upon either system. Stanley Baar of the Allied Liquor Institute, a national organization, in a recent speech discussing the two systems stated as follows: 'Both systems are at a disadvantage because of the high and increasing basic tax structure for legal spirits and both systems are niggardly in their enforcement expenditures.'

"Either system can be policed satisfactorily, however it has been true in certain areas in open states that individuals of very undesirable background have practically taken over the wholesale liquor business and when this has been true frequently serious repercussions have followed.

"Under present conditions with the existing shortage, which is definitely a very real one and one which will continue to be progressively worse before any material change for the better can be expected, it would seem very dangerous for any state to seriously consider a change either from the monopoly to the open system or from the open to the monopoly plan. It is impossible in a few paragraphs to cover the many aspects of this many sided question. In brief, however, it may be stated that in the open states greater supplies to a minor degree are available at greater convenience to the public in more attractive retail establishments.

"In the monopoly states the citizens enjoy lower prices, greater revenues to the state and greater control over the industry from distiller to consumer."

It is Lock's belief that the legislature should not over-emphasize the importance of revenue. Rather the legislature should "keep in mind that the first necessity is to make it possible for the liquor traffic to be adequately and completely policed so that abuses may not develop with the resultant social evils. Profits should be secondary to this aim."

It is likely that law enforcement will be strengthened in Michigan simultaneously with a continuation of the monopoly system which enjoys more public acceptance than it did six to eighteen months ago.

The reversal of thinking illustrates the power of information. We have discovered we're better off than we though we were.

ITALY—If you've been wondering why many canned products are rationed here's one reason. Stacks of food in cans are at the fronts and therefore, you may find them in substitute packages in your grocery store. GI's and natives (above) are sorting from broken boxes for re-packing and shipping to fighting fronts somewhere in Italy. The boxes broke—but the cans are okay.

Lud Denny Lends a Helping Hand

Lud Denny got home early from the plant the other day, and found his missus in the middle of housecleaning, with the furniture moved around, and the place a shambles.

Some men might have grumbled about getting precious little time off, and finding their home upset. But not Lud. He just took his coat off, and pitched in and helped.

And when he got the last curtain in place, and stepped down off the ladder, there was his missus with a tray of cold beer and cheese blintzes she'd made for Lud. And blintzes are Lud's favorite dish.

From where I sit, it's little things like this that will help to ease our troubled lives today—see us through difficulties—keep alive the spirit of good fellowship and mutual respect. Try trading a helping hand for ice-cold beer and blintzes. See if it doesn't make life seem a little brighter!

FOR THAT CAR OF YOURS!

SOUNDS FUNNY -- BUT IT'S TRUE! Cars that do a lot of "marking time" in garages actually need more care than cars that are used constantly. That's not just our idea. It's a scientific fact! When a car stands idle, water condenses in the crankcase -- greases tend to dry and harden -- there's a better chance for corrosion . . . to mention just a few of the evils that arise. So don't let the mileage fool you. In Wartime, your car needs regular attention no matter how much or how little you drive it. And that goes double in warm weather!

Clothing Collection Underway

Auto Electric Garage Utilized for Storage Of Apparel and Shoes

Charles Hamlin, local chairman of the National Clothing Collection organization gives the following information on local collections, what to contribute and where to take it. First he says one might ask:

"Why are we having this clothing collection?" The answer is our manufacturers are busy with war and civilian needs at home. So, it remains for the American people to help the men, women and children from whom the war has taken everything.

If you have clothing that no longer fits, is out of style or clothing you don't need or are tired of, take it to the Auto Electric Garage on Antrim street.

This rhyme gives an idea of what's needed.

Knitted caps, woolen wraps,
Shawls and smocks and heavy socks,
Low-heeled shoes, if you have spares,
Have them mated, tied in pairs;
Dresses, work-clothes, coveralls,
Underwear and overalls,
Robes, pajamas, sweaters, skirts,
Top-coats, jackets, suits and shirts
Infants' garments, bedding, piece-goods;
All of these are your "lend-lense" goods.
So start collecting-make your rounds
For One Hundred Fifty Million Pounds!

All materials should be wrapped securely in heavy paper or cardboard box. Clothing, shoes, etc., should be separated according to age groups, i. e., type 1—infants (up to 3 yrs.,) type 2, children's, (3 yrs. to 8 yrs.); type 3, men's and boy's, (9 yrs. and over); boys and girls same; also pair all shoes; type, bedding (and miscellaneous)

For those who are unable to take their contribution to the Auto Electric Garage, a truck will call for them Saturday, April 21, so have your contribution ready. Have it wrapped and set on front porch if possible.

Storm Boats on Rhine

Constructed by Foater; Flown Overseas

Working twenty-four hours a day, utilizing air express for the movement of materials to ship the completed product to port, American manufacturers were able to produce 669 plywood storm boats for delivery during February instead of a former quota of 200 which appeared doubtful of delivery. At the present time these boats are operating on the Rhine front in Germany and may be responsible for the Geran report "the Yanks are crossing in great numbers in 'storm rafts' " as they term the boats.

Back in December, 1944, before the pressure was on, the Procurement Division, Corps of Engineers, contracted with the Foster Boat Company, here for the manufacture of storm boats, specifying delivery of 200 during February. On February 3, of this year, a rush request for 669 boats, to be delivered at port by the end of February, was placed with the Engineers, with the problem placed squarely before them.

Air and railway express were used to deliver materials and parts between sub-contractors and prime contractors and some relaxations of specifications were made in order that available materials might be substituted. Special repair repair jobs on some damaged boats stored in depots were made and the complete boats were flown to port. The Engineers delivered the 669 requested boats on time.

These boats are sturdy, flat-bottomed craft, propelled by a single outboard motor. They are capable of carrying from twelve to eighten Infantrymen with equipment, the number varying with the style of equipment. The Storm Boat is used in the initial storming of enemy-held river banks when Engineer boat crews transport the Infantry who clear the area for the building of bridges.

Foster Boat Co. officials and employees have, by their efforts, helped the Yanks "On To Berlin."

Dairymen Indicate Interest in Artificial Inseminatioo:

This past week, four meetings have been held by the Extension Agent to discuss and outline the advantages of artificial insemination as a means of improving milk production. Dairymen are greatly interested in this program. Something like twenty definitely indicated a desire to see our county organize for this purpose. It was brought out that over sixteen thousand cows now are being served in thirty two local artificial insemination groups. There are twenty-one bulls owned by the membership. Already there are many calves that have been born and that are strong, healthy and vigorous.

Likewise, the desirability of organizing a Dairy Herd Improvement Association was discussed. Dairymen agree that if we are to make progress, we must make it possible to have production records kept and this is the only method in which it can be accomplished in a practical way. There are approximately fifteen dairymen who will join an association just as soon as one can be started.

Army Pays Training Expense

High School Boys Should Contact School Principal At Once

H. E. Bingham, principal, Charlevoix high school, today warned young men 17 years old that applications for the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program, to be given here soon and must be filed with him.

The test is being given in high schools and colleges to select qualified young men for college training at the expense of the Army before they go on active Army duty.

Those who qualify in the examination may join the Enlisted Reserve Corps and, depending on their age, complete two, three or four twelve-week terms of college training. They are not called to active duty until the end of the term in which they become 18 years old.

Mr. Bingham has complete information on the ASTRP test, which is open to qualified young men born after September 30, 1927, and before September 1, 1928.

Those who successfully complete the examination will be assigned to a college for the term beginning in July, August or September: If possible they will be sent to a college university near their homes. The men wear Army uniforms with ASTRP insignia.

For especially qualified young men, Mr. Bingham said this plan may lend to advanced college work, also at the expense of the Army. After they are called to active duty, all former ASTRP students receive basic training, but later that who desire and are qualified may be selected for the Army Specialized Training advanced program for soldiers on active duty and may be returned to college for additional instruction.

On April 8, 1887, the steamer Champlain came in to the Norwood dock, her first trip of the season, which was the earliest it had ever came in, I remember this as it was my 18th birthday and we were having a real party at our house, it was along towards midnight when we heard the whistle, William Cowen was there and when he heard it he jumped and said come on Bill, hear the Champlain, it had always been his and my job to attend the night boats, of course the whole party went down, the boat was in for a good long hour unloading freight, no railroad nearer than Petoskey and everything was getting real low at the store. In those days the last trips of the Champlain and Lawrence they brought in the winter supplies and was there a lot of it.

There was twenty-eight families in Norwood and the company had two to three camps with 15 to 25 men in each camp cutting logs, wood and shingle timber and the farmers came there for their groceries for miles around as Charlevoix and Torch Lake was the next nearest trading point, the company bought anything and everything the farmers had to sell, they never turned one away, took it all regardless, our worst problem was butter, I remember one Saturday night Fred LaDue, a cook in one of the camps came in on his way home to spend Sunday, he had an empty butter jar, he sit it on the counter and said Willie I don't want you to send any more butter like this to our camp, he reached in the jar and pulled out a dish cloth and said this was in the bottom of the jar and it isn't very dam clean either, after that we shipped that grade of butter to the Johnson Cracker Co., Milwaukee.

That night E. R. Harris, done me a very good turn, there was a young lady at the party that lived out in the country about three miles, I don't know how Mr. Harris happened to think that I wanted to take her home, anyhow he called me out in the other room and said if you want to use my horse and buggy you are welcome to, I thanked him very much and I did use the rig. We were living then in the house that Henry Wagner owns and lives in now.

The "little red school house", traditional recipient of rural affection and a target of modern educators, is rapidly becoming one of the Michigan casualties of World War II.

The reason is economic. Teachers are being lured to other occupations where compensation is more attractive.

"The shortage of teachers in Michigan this year is estimated to be 3,500", said Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction. "Next year it will increase, we estimate, to around 5,000. The average salary of a teacher in Michigan is $1,641 a year. This means that many teachers receive less than the medium sum.

"Approximately 100 communities in Michigan are now reorganizing their school districts. Parents are demanding better programs for their children, and only the larger schools can afford such courses as music, art, domestic science, and manual training, and can pay salaries adequate for skilled teachers."

The house of representatives has approved a bill which would permit school districts to create a study commission to investigate the advisability of school consolidations. The bill, if enacted by the legislature, would legalize a voluntary procedure and would not compel a school consolidation where taxpayers did not want it.

Dr. Elliott said the bill was patterned closely after a measure enacted by Washington state where school districts have been widely reorganized.

"We do not advocate the closing of all one-room schools in Michigan," he added. "Consolidation is not practical in all cases, and it should be effected only where benefits can be realized by the taxpayers in behalf of their children. It is our hope that the one-room school, even if abandoned, may continue to serve as a rural community center in meet the social needs of the rural community."

Modern transport whereby a bus has replaced the horse and buggy in rural school districts is one of the economic changes which has favored consolidation of school districts.

The state public education commission submitted recommendations two years ago for reorganization of Michigan 6,000-plus school districts. Summary: That no elementary school child shall walk more than one and one-half miles; that no secondary school student shall walk more than two miles; that districts if reorganized shall permit bus transportation whereby an elementary school child would not be on a bus more than 30 minutes and a secondary school student more than 45 minutes.

The commission recommended that each consolidated district should have at least $3 millions in equalized state property valuation "except in those cases where the population density is relatively low and the percentage of first class land for general agriculture is less than 20 per cent."

Nearly eclipsed by the rush of European war news are the 1945 war protective activities of the Michigan Office of Civilian Defense. Did you know:

That plans of the Michigan civil air patrol, whose paid personnel is financed directly by the Michigan OCD, recently flew critically-needed tank parts to Newfoundland for immediate rush shipment by air to the American military front in Germany? (The big push into Germany was held up by order of General Dwight G. Eisenhower until these Michigan-made parts were available.)

That the training of 300 civil air patrol cadets at Selfridge Field last year was one of the indirect benefits realized by the OCD program in Michigan?

That 110 auxiliary firemen, policemen and air raid wardens, all covered by federal insurance in the event of mishap, were summoned by the OCD in Muskegon to combat a series of seven fires that broke out the same day in March? (Because auxiliary members function under the OCD, the federal government extends protection of insurance which otherwise would be denied to them.)

That the Victory Garden program of the Michigan OCD has received a Washington priority for 1945 because of the current shortage of foodstuffs.

That in areas of coal shortage, such as Detroit, the OCD serves as a clearing house for dealers to certify necessity of fuel? This action was taken at the request of Washington.

The OCD is strictly a war function, and under the state law it will cease at the conclusion of the war. The activities just enumerated are only a few out of many. The legislature gave it an appropriation of $447,500 in 1943! yet the OCD turned back an unspent balance of $161,000. This "saving", plus the 1944 appropriation of $100,000, gave a total budget of $261,000.

Did the OCD spend this $261,000? No, it did not. The unexpended balance on July 1, 1945 is estimated at $126,645; the expended sum at $134,500.

These savings have been effected by reduction of the state personnel from 104 persons on Jan. 1, 1944 to 28 persons on Feb. 1, 1945. Interesting enough, the OCS budget for 1945-6 is $2,600 less than the $126,000 which the OCD "saved" last year! We know of no other state agency which can equal this record.

That some legislators at Lansing have been complaining because of the "lack of leadership" by Governor Harry F. Kelly was a topic recently covered by this column.

James Gallery, editor, Tuscola County Advertisers at Caro, comments editorially as follows:

"If Governor Kelly had prepared a bunch of bills and presented them for passage, most of these same politicians would have howled 'dictator' until the skies rang. When he didn't do that, they howl 'lack of leadership' until the same skies do the same thing. It seems to us as if the Governor has presented many problems to the legislature. He has made suggestions for laws which he considers desirable, but he has issued no orders.

The legislators have, therefore, been put on a spot where they must use their own judgment — and how some of them do hate to do it."

Farm Machinery Industry Has Major Role in War

GEORGE L. GILLETTE

Agriculture is as essential to the war effort as our fighting men on the fronts and the backbone of agriculture is the farm machinery industry. Napoleon said that an army travels on its stomach, so that without food our armies could not function. Without the farm machinery industry, agriculture could not function.

The part that the farm machinery industry has played in the development of American agriculture and in its present role in the war effort is given tribute by George L. Gillette, president of the Farm Equipment Institute and vice president and general sales manager of the Minneapolis-Moline Power Implement company.

"If it were not for farm machinery, most of us would have to spend our days eking out a meager existence from the soil," Gilletto says.

"Once it required 57 man-hours to grow and harvest an acre of wheat yielding 20 bushels. Today we can produce an acre of 20-bushel wheat with less than four man-hours of labor.

"Once there were vast stretches of eroded land that defied the farmer. Today much of this land has been reworked to produce food. All this has been possible only through advanced farm equipment.

"Much progress had been made by agriculture before 1941, but when the war came, the farmers were called upon to produce even more. Although the farm equipment manufacturers were too busy making the tools of war to manufacture any new types of farm machinery, we have continued to turn out repairs for machines already on the farm and as many complete units as government limitation orders permitted; and the American farm has demonstrated the blessing of mechanized agriculture by achieving astounding increases in food production.

"These dealers believe in the future of the American farm and equipment industry," Mr. Gilletta says. "They, like the manufacturers, believe in our country's future, an American in which there will be food for all, and—with progressive agriculture as a foundation — an ever-advancing standard of living for a world at peace."

Mr. Gillette feels that all people, particularly those living in cities and towns, should realize that practically all food, clothing and other essentials come from the farms that produce these things at low cost because of the miracles accomplished by modern farm machinery.

Last of the French Foreign Legion

Wherever the flag of France decreed that brave and reckless men should lead the charge, there the "Legion of the Damned" fought and fell. Now it is disbanded — outmoded by tanks, buzz bombs and jet-propelled planes. Inez Robb writes about it in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (April 22) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

Pfc. Julius Shocks Volunteers Assistance

Charlevoix Lad Risks Life for Wounded Comrade

With the 100th Division of Seventh Army in France—Armed with only a litter, aid supplies, a Red Cross flag and a smattering of the German language, three 100th Division Medical Corpsmen the other night strode into enemy machine gun territory — where others were repeatedly prevented from moving — to attempt a recovery of a rifleman who had been wounded while on patrol.

In this blood-chilling walk into the enemy's lines on completely bare ground, the two officers and aid men on the Third Battalion, 397th Infantry, passed directly before the automatic weapon which had downed the rifleman and prevented both his comrades and aid men from reaching him.

Capt. James F. X. O'Rourke, 12711 Edgehill Ave.) Bronx, N. Y., and Lt. Leonard E. Coplen, 24 Nickerson Road, Newton, Mass., instituted the hair-raising, unprotected walk into the enemy's sights, refusing to ask aid men to risk their lives again.

They did, however, accept the volunteer assistance of one of the aid men — Pfc. Julius Shocko, 25-year-old veteran of the Italian campaign, of Charlevoix, Mich.

These three, with their medical identification, and Lt. Coplen's scanty knowledge of German, stepped out in the light of early morning into the 300 yards of open terrain. Although friendly artillery was ordered to hold fire, the stretch ahead was under constant German observation. Moving without deviation toward the Nazi-held woods, Shocko nudged Capt. O'Rourke.

"Machine gunner got us spotted 100 yards on the left" he whispered.

Capt. O'Rourke waved the Red Cross flag in the direction.

A few paces farther, a German burp gunner stepped out into the open, covering their approach. Lt. Coplen stepped forward.

"We are from the Medical Corps," he said in German, "and have come for the wounded American."

The German studied them a moment. Shocko eyed the area of the German machinegun position. Shortly, the burpgunner ordered the Medical men to "wait here," and he withdrew into the woods.

For 10 minutes — no shorter than that number of eternities — the exposed medical men waited. Capt. O'Rourke drew forth cigarettes and Shocko and he lit up. Lt. Coplen filled his pipe. No one spoke.

At last, three Germans appeared carrying an American in a blanket. One of them handed Capt. O'Rourke the rifleman's signet ring, his fountain pen, a wallet, and a watch. When Shocko bent to move the American onto his stretcher, he saw the wounded rifleman was dead.

As the Germans turned to leave, one of them addressed the American Medical men.

"You have great courage," he said.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"When you think of the sacrifices our fighting men are making in this war, it's hard to figure out how we'll ever repay them, isn't it, Judge?"

"Yes, it really is, Tom. There are only certain things we can do. Such as... write them cheerful letters often. Send them favorite gifts from time to time. Work harder than ever to provide them with everything they need to finish their job quickly. Buy more and more War Bonds... especially during the current drive... to pay for the ammunition and fighting equipment they must have."

"All that still seems kind of small compared with what they're doing for us, Judge."

"True, but it's about all we older folks back home can do, Tom. Except one more thing. And that is to be sure our fighting men come home to the same kind of country they left behind. The kind of country their letters tell us they want. Nothing changed that they don't want changed while they're away and unable to express their wishes."

Not long ago a man came into this uffice and stopped his paper because he said it was always printing a lot of things about the same people and he was sick of it. Now when something goes wrong with the country the government appoints a commission to investigate and find out what is the matter, and the first thing the commission investigates is the man who made the holler to see if the holler was a reasonable holler. So we appointed a commission consisting of ourselves to investigate this man. We just followed the man's career ever since we knew him. The first thing that happened to that man was that he was born, but he had nothing to do with it. However, he was mentioned, although his parents were entitled to the credit. When he was in his early twenties he got married. We mentioned that, including the name of the bride, preacher, etc.; in fact we mentioned everything but the preacher's fee, which was not worth meationing. We never mentioned the fact that he never won any premiums at the county fair, because he never exhibited anything. We never mentioned his name in the list of committees, because he never attended anything. We never mentioned his name in the list of donors, because

Pfc. Richard Norton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Norton, former residents now living in Detroit, is in France according to a letter received recently by his parnents. In the letter he also writes: "Today I received the Charlevoix Courier. It is the first paper I've gotten since I came overseas. It seemed so good to receive it. Especially when you know so many people that it concerns."

From somewhere in New Guinea comes a letter from Pfc. Isaac F. Norton. He writes: I have been getting the Charlevoix paper and I want to thank you and the CSO for sending it to me. Each time I look to see if there is anyone from Charlevoix here that I might know. I haven't met a guy from home since I left the States.

The only thing I have against this place is the heat and the mud. It rains one minute and the sun comes out the next and it really gets hot. Boy, what I wouldn't give to be back in good old Charlevoix and get a job fishing again. And speaking of fish, we don't get fresh fish in this army, just canned salmon.

We would like to acknowledge the set of interesting pictures of the Little Creek Amphibious Training Base, Little Creek, Va., sent by Eugene A. Stinson, S3c, who is stationed there. Thanks a lot.

Bell Telephone Adopts New Plan

Adoption of a new employees' suggestion plan with awards ranging from $10 to $500 was annuunced today by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

The new plan, drafted in cooperation with union leaders, replaces earlier departmental plans and provides that all suggestions previously adopted are to be reviewed for rewards, retroactive to April, 1942, date of the adoption of the first deparmental plans.

A cash award of $10 is to be made for each idea accepted by the company's approval committee comprised of management representatives. An award committee, a joint union-management group, will meet twice a year to consider adopted suggestions for special merit awards. They are: One of $500, two of $250 each, five of $100 each, and ten of $50 apiece. Additional awards may be made on the recommendation of the committee and approval of the president.

"Improving the art is fundamental to progress in our business," George M. Welch, president said in announcing the suggestion plan to employees. "If the best interests of the public, the employees, and the owners are to be served, it is essential that the job be done as efficiently as possible at all times. In making use of the plan you will be participating in the progress of a business which is providing a service so vital to the public."

Since the passing of our president last Wednesday, many people in Charlevoix seem to be wondering, not so much what President Truman will do, but who will lead the conference of the Big Three in San Francisco. The reason Stalin insists on leading the band is because he has been facing the music for so long.

She went to the butcher's for spare ribs and suet, but found that some others had beaten her tuet. She said she would settle for sausage and liver; the butcher insisted he had none to give 'er. Floyd A. Wagner gives us a clipping from the Stars and Stripes, official army newspaper, which his son, Cpl. Forrest Wagner, who is in the 9th Air Corps, sent him recently. It is another boost for Charlevoix industry. Here it is:

"Workers at Foster Boat co., Charlevoix, could feel especially proud today for the part they played in the Third Army's crossing of the Rhine. They built the hundreds of storm boats used in the crossing.

Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of Army engineers, has sent a letter of commendation for what he calls "a production miracle" to the Foster Boat co., Charlevoix, Mich.

A pleasant visitor to this department recently was Mrs. J. F. Mason, who recalled many interesting news bits of long long ago. Pioneer Life lo Charlevoix

The following song was composed and sung at a school exhibition at Pine River over forty years ago. Words by Robert Miller, melody by M. J. Stockman. Published at the request of the members of Baxter Post G.A.R.:

"Sucker-Time"

As I walked out by Round Lake
among the kinnikiniek,
That lovely shrub with bright red bark that grows so mighty thick.
I heard a man complaining in a sort of sing-song hum,
And this was the burden of his song, "I wish sucker-time would come."
A. Fox & Co. are out of pork, and
I expect each hour
To heur the sad intelligence they're also out of flour;
And should this happen to be so,
what would become of some Whu are depending there to get their grub till sucker-time doth come?
I have a little corn-meal left, and blue merinoes, tou,
And by practicing economy will be able to pull thrnugh.
And so for pnrk and flour we will try tn harrow some,
And somehow we will get along
'till sucker-time doth come.
I'll go down to Uncle Robert's shop and have him make a spear;
But they say he's a poor wnrkman,
and he charges mighty denr.
Should he usk me for the money,
I will tell him I'll have some,
And that I'll puy him by-and-by,
when sucker-time has come.
In a few more sunny days the ice will leave the creeks,
And in the shudy forests will spring up lots of leeks,
Which, on account of odor, are much despised by some;
While others think they're the thing when sucker-time has come.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

Deanna Left came back to school after being absent for a long time. The children were very glad to see her again.

Kathleen Fessenden, Donna Ann Durrance, Vera Towsley, David Arnold and Terry Davis had the mumps last week.

First Grade

We have a new boy, Richard Sutton, from Detroit. He has joined our group.

Kay Potter has gone to Flint to finish the school year.

Last Wednesday we went for a walk to the auto camp and along the beach. We saw many interesting things.

We are making a poster for good citizenship.

Second Grade

We are enjoying the book Donna Ikens brought us from Chicago, "Make Way for Ducklings", by Robert McCloskey.

Thursday morning we visited the ice crusher "Sundew." We wrote a story and made a picture of what we had seen.

Janice Arbuckle is a new girl in our room.

Friday morning our grade joined the rest of the school in a memorial service for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

We have learned two poems this month "The Robin" and "Rain in the Night."

Third Grade

Our most interesting happening this week was our trip to the "Sundew." We went all over the ship and different members of the crew explained things to us. The boys liked the big gun best; the Captain said it was a three-inch 50 caliber. We looked through the gun and some of the boys turned a wheel that raised and lowered it, and another that made it swing around.

We have been discussing our hobbies. Karen Smith is collecting Chinese dolls. Dick Smith likes to build cars; maybe he'll be a second Henry Ford!

Fourth Grade

Last week we made bird pictures. Our room looks very gay with several beautiful blue jays, brilliant cardinals and our familiar robin.

We had four pupils with birthdays this week: John Nordrum, Marjorie Bennett, Marilyn Wells and Donald O'Brien.

Lois Dykstra returned to school this week after her trip to Holland with her parents.

Fifth Grade

On April 12, our Fifth Grade went on the boat named "Sundew."

We have lots of pretty flowers in our room.

We have finished reading the story of "Trooper: U. S. Army Dog." It was a very interesting book.

We are almost through with our Health books.

Margaret Kay Poole.

Sixth Grade

Last Thursday we got out of school to visit the Coast Guard ship "Sundew." All the boys were interested in the guns and other interesting things. We got on the big 3-in. gun and were looking at it. The gunner's mate told us all about it. He said that there were some more guns on the upper deck. The teachers were taken to the radio room to learn about the radar, an instrument used to detect submarines. We went all through the hull and saw many things.

Alvin Ranger.

Study Shop

Seven of the boys have organized themselves into a summer 4-H club. Elmer Reed will lead them in the study of wildflowers.

Spring flowers brighten our room these days. We have watched some paper white narcissus grow from bulbs to beautiful flowers.

Industrial Arts Department

A useful and practical jig saw was completed by Robert Rickerd. Using walnut and oak wood, Andy Essenberg made a beautiful checker board. The Mechanical Drawing unit drafted the plans for the Jig Saw.

The 4-H boys are still busy finishing toy trucks, stools, tables, and lamps for their exhibit.

4-H Club

Now is the time to organize those summer clubs. A popular project right at the time is the Wild Flower Preservation Club. Victory garden, flower garden, food preparation, and canning clubs may interest the city boys and girls. Livestock in dairying, feeder cattle, chickens, ducks, rabbits or pony projects may also be chosen.

Any group of boys or girls between the ages of 10 and 20 with an adult leader may organize themselves into a club to carry on one or more projects. Those interested may contact Mrs. Warner in Room 213, for information and help.

Mathematics

General Math deals with method of determining tax rates.

Algebra students continue with factoring.

Geometry class is working with proportions.

Science

Biology deals with reproduction in simple plants and animals.

Physics treats of resistances in electrical circuits.

Small Boat Owners Must Give Information

Blanks May Be Obtained At Any Coast Guard Station

With the opening of the boating season approaching, the United States Coast Guard reminds motor boat owners in the Cleveland, Ninth Naval (Great Lakes) District, that notification of purchase loss, abandonment or destruction of an undocumented motor boat type vessel must be given the District Coast Guard Officer, Cleveland, Ohio, within 10 days.

Failure to file such notification with the Coast Guard subjects the purchaser or owner to a penalty of ten dollars, pursuant to the Act of June 7, 1918, as amended. Procedure in cases of change of ownership is outlined on the back of "Certificate of Award of Number to an Undocumented Vessel" (Form NAVCG 1513), issued to boat owners by the Coast Guard.

Notifications should be mailed to the District Coast Guard Officer, Keith Building, Cleveland 15, Ohio.

Information concerning the necessary lifesaving, fire-fighting and other required equipment for undocumented motor vessels may be obtained at any Coast Guard station.

Western Union In Readiness

Press Message Traffic Expected from Conference

Arrangements have been completed by the Western Union Telegraph Company to handle an anticipated volume of press and other message traffic from the United Nations Conference at San Francisco, greater than from any other conference ever held in this country, it was stated today by M. E. Wakefield, local telegraph manager.

With approximately 1000 newspaper correspondents sending stories from the conference for a month or more, the volume of press alone is expected to exceed the record set by the Democratic National Convention at New York in 1924 when 9,576,000 words of press were telegraphed. Western Union is shifting about 250 operators and other personnel to San Francisco to assist its local people in handling the telegraph traffic from the conference.

The Cuppers Have a Dream Come True

Dee and Jane Cuppers used to say that as soon as the children had flown the roost, they were going off together on a second honeymoon... take a trip... or rent an apartment in the city.

So after little Sue got married, I stopped in to say goodbye. Dee was sitting in his favorite chair before the fire, sipping a mellow glass of beer. And Jane was busy with her knitting, just as always. They looked about as restless as the tabby cat on the hearth.

"Jane and I figured," Dee explained, "that you couldn't beat being at home alone together, with our own things—talking and reading—enjoying my glass of beer, and Jane her buttermilk—living and letting live. I guess you can't beat home!"

From where I sit, Dee's had a better dream come true—the dream of peace and tolerance and understanding that we all are fighting for, and praying for, today.

An 18-inch brook trout, found dead on the shore of Lake Charlevoix near Parmelee's warehouse with deep net marks plainly visible upon it, has aroused Charlevoix sportsmen.

It is possible that the fish may have floated in from Lake Michigan where many trout find their way into small mesh nets when entering streams from the lake, but the general opinion is that the netting is being done in Lake Charlevoix.

It has been proposed that Charlevoix sportsmen petition the conservation department for a small power boat to be used by the local warden to drag the lake, and action will probably be taken on the matter at once.

Save Your Sugar

How to bake without sugar is one of the questions that you ladies ask me most often. This week we will talk about a few of the sugar substitutes and how to use them. I know many of you are using sugarless recipes with great success. Remember — I still want you to send me recipes.

Best General rules in shifting recipes from refined white sugar to other sweetening when you bake cakes and cookies:

Honey: Replace sugar with honey, cup for cup, but use one-half the quantity of other liquid called for. That is, if the original recipe calls for one cup of sugar and one cup of milk, use one cup honey and ½ cup milk. Other ingredients remain the same.

Lower the baking temperature, keeping the oven moderate. Mixtures made with honey not only brown very easily but high temperatures tend to change the flavor of the honey.

Corn, Cane or Maple Syrups: Replace sugar with syrup, measure for measure and reduce liquid only one-third. Cookies made with corn and cane syrup are not as sweet as sugar cookies.

Apple Cake

1½ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 tenspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup fat
2 cups chopped apples
¼ cup milk
½ cup molasses

Cut fat into flour and dry ingredients. Add milk to molasses; add this to dry ingredients. Add apples last.

Choclate Frosted Feather Cake

1¾ cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup Karo (red label)
2 egg yolks, unbeaten
1-3 cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites
1¾ teaspoon baking powder
1-3 cup shortening

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, sift together 3 times, cream shortening with orange rind; add Karo gradually; beating well after each addition. Add ¼ of flour and beat until smooth and well blended. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each. Add remaining flour in thirds, alternately with milk in halves, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla. Beat egg whites, stir quickly into batter. Bake in two 8-in. layer pans in moderate oven (375'F) 20 minutes. Cover with chocolate chip frosting.

Chocolate Chip Frosting

Place layers on baking sheet, cover tops of layers with chocolate chips. Heat in moderate oven (350'F) 6 minutes or until chips are just softened. Remove from oven, spread over sides.

Ice Box Cookies

¾ cup melted shortening
¾ cup honey
1 egg, beaten
3 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup chopped nuts

Add eggs and stir until blended. Sift together dry ingredients and add. Stir until smooth. Add chopped nuts. Form into roll and wrap in waxed paper. Chill in refrigerator 2 to 3 hours, or until firm. Slice thin and bake on a greased baking sheet in moderate oven (375'F.) 10 to 15 minutes. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

Combine honey and shortening.

If you are interested in more sugar saving recipes just drop me a line. Next week we will talk about aspuragus canning.

Death rides on the car with poor brakes. 23,093 casualties on Michigan highways in our fourth war year. Poor brakes caused 35% due to car defects. Worn out cars make war-time driving hazardous. Brake inspections will cut down these Michigan casualties—will save Michigan lives. Safe driving demands good brakes.

AND NOW BEAVERS!

"Please tell me how to get a permit to dynamite a dam," wrote a hospitalized soldier to his Red Cross chapter recently.

It sounded like a gag — but Red Cross chapters are accustomed to strange requests. This chapter found that beavers had built a dam across a section of the soldier's farm, blocking drainage of melting snow. The land was rapidly becoming a lake.

The soldier didn't want his farm ruined, but he knew his game laws—it was illegal to kill beavers. The logical answer was to blow up the dam, he decided.

The Red Cross collected information from the State College of Agriculture — all about getting rid of beavers legally and how to reclaim the flooded land. With this to go on, the soldier directed the reclamation of his farm from his hospital bed and now has his land ready for use as soon as he returns from military service.

TAILOR and CLEANER

So the city folks have done it!
Well, WATCH OUR SPEED!

WORD comes from Washington that the fat-salvage problem has got to be licked in the small cities, the towns and on the farms.

We women have to save enough used fats in our kitchens to help make munitions, medicines, fabrics, soap for military and civilian use, and many other essentials.

The job, to date, has been done largely by city people, because arrangements for collecting the fats were made in the cities first. And these city folks are turning in more than twelve million pounds a month!

Now we're called on. And will the women on the farms and in the towns and small cities break that record?

Don't worry—just watch our speed!

HOW TO DO IT: Save all used fats in a tin can. Keep it handy to the stove. Scrape your broilers and roasting pans, skim soups and gravies, for every drop counts. Keep solid pieces of fat, as meat trimmings and table scraps, in a bowl.

Melt down once a week when your oven's going, add the liquid fat to the salvage can.

Take the can to your butcher as soon as it's full. He will give you two red points and up to four cents for every pound. If you have any difficulty, call your County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent. This message is approved by WFA and OPA, and paid for by Industry.

Trout Catch In Lakes Limited

Opening of the trnut season April 28 on Michigan's 134 designated trout lnkes will find nnglers limited to a cutch of 10 trout or 10 pounds ond one trout. Previous regulation permitted 15 trout or 10 pounds and one trout, a limit which is still effective on streams.

The conservation commission last September acted to reduce the allowed take on all designnted trout lakes for a three-year period when it was shown that the larger limit was seriously reducing trout populations in many of the lakes. Most trout fishing in these lakes is afforded by the department's trout planting operotions.

During hese war-time stresses there is nothing else that will boost your morale 500%, like getting mixed up in o lorge group of Old Timers from Charlevoix, some of whom have not seen eoch other in more than 25 years; and there is one thing on which they all agree, that Chorlevoix is the cleanest and most beautiful spot in the middle west, one to which we all like to cling to; and the way Charlevoix is backing up the boys and girls in Uncle Sam's Uniforms makes us all proud to lay claims to former citizenship.

HEALTH SPOTLIGHT IS UPON CHILDREN

Store Window Display Arranged for by County Nurse

This year, above all others, the Child Health Day spotlight swings to infants and children, emphasizing the importunce of a birth certificate for every baby in the United Stutes.

May Day is traditionally children's day. The time has passed when its significance is measured only in the beauty of Maypoles and graceful dancing on the green.

With the passing of years, increasing concern for the health of children who danced,—and for those who weren't able to dance —brought about the celebration of May Day as Child Health Day.

Ever since Congress passed a joint resolution in 1928, the President has issued a proclamation designating May 1 as a day in which all groups should reunite and rededicate themselves to help build "better children for our nation; a better nation for our children".

During later years, state health officers spread the May Day message over the land and with the assistance of the State and Provincial Health Authorities of North America, have had the responsibility for health education. Many May Day programs, in the past, have emphasized the importance of better child health thru immunization ugainst diphtheria, smallpox and whooping cough.

This year attention has been turned back tu infants and to stress the importance of a birth certificate for every baby. A birth certificate is a mighty important document. It makes known who you are, when and where you were born. It is your protection and symbol of personnl rights within our national boundaries. It is also a convenient way of proving the right to work, travel, go to school, marry or hold office. In other words a birth certificate is a "first citizenship paper".

When a child is born, prompt registration is essential. Long delayed information is likely tu be inaccurate und at the same time prevent locnl nnd state health departments to dispatch a registered nurse to the new mother who may need assistnnco and advice. Many mothers do not need public health assistance, but a tremendous nunmber do.

With this thought in mind, your county nurse has arranged many displays throughout this district, and you are invited to watch "store windows all over the country" for material which may be ot great value tu both young and old.

Assistance of infinite value may be secured by cuntacting your locnl District Department of Health No. 3, Charlevoix, Michigan.

Increased Subsidies For Cream Producers

Charlevoix Farmers Will Benefit From It

Announcement by the War Food Administration that a feed subsidy of 17 cents a pound will be paid to farmers for butterfat produced in April is good news to cream producers of Charlevoix county and is expected to stimulate creum production. A subsidy of 10 cents a pound was paid for butterfat produced in the first three months of this year.

The payment of the April subsidy is in accordance with the provisions of an amendment to Senate Bill No. 298 extending the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation for two years. This bill, which is intended to stimulate butter production, was the last one signed by President Roosevelt and was subscribed by him a few moments before he died.

Under the provisions of the amendment, the subsidy paid to producers of butterfat will now be based on the weighted averuge national subsidy on whole milk for each month. That is, the per pound subsidy on butterfat paid to creum producers will be one-fourth of the production payments on 100 pounds of whole milk produced in the various regions throughout the nation.

Officials of the National Cream Quality Program estimate that Few Nibbles Opening Day

No Large Catches Are Reported

Fishing for brook trout last Saturday morning was not exactly the keen pleasure anticipated by local unglers. The chilly morning air perhaps had much to do with scarcity of catches.

But C. Y. Marshall and Ernest Kibbee certainly got themselves a nice mess of German Browns at the Pond, over Boyne Falls way. Most of them were 18 and 19 inches in length. Can anyone top that?

Publisher Cooper, who made the rounds on some fine creeks, reported only meugre catches. A few good catches were reported at Horton and Stover Creeks and mostly poor in Monroe, McGeach and Inwook Creeks.

Cold, clear weather, low water line, because of the dry spell, were given as reasons why the trout haven't come up from the lakes yet.

Those creeks having a good growth of underbrush along the side, seemed to lure anglers more so than so-called open edges.

For the most part anglers returned the opening day with wet and cold feet but nut too many trout.

Clothing Drive Success Here

Estimated 1½ Tons Clothing Collected

An estimated 3,000 pounds (1½ tons) of used clothing, shoes and miscellaneous items were collected or taken to the Auto Electric garage on Antrim street, according to Charles Hamlin, chairman of the local clothing collection drive, which is part of a nation-wide program.

Herbert Wilson of the Auto Electric garage took a leading part in the drive by donating space for the storage of the various articles and otherwise rendering valuable assistance.

Ladies of the various churches in the city combined their efforts Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the sorting and packaging of all goods collected, prepartory to sending it to a central depot for overseas shipping.

Boy Scouts completed their good deeds for the day by helping with loading and unloading of packages. City trucks were used in the pickup.

Mr. Hamlin said this morning that he was highly pleased with the success of the drive, and would like to thank all those who so willingly cooperated in making the drive a success.

Old Timer Celebrates 95th Birthday

William E. Gregory, resident of northern Michigan for the past 78 years, will celebrate his 95th birthday anniversary on Friday, May 4. Mr. Gregory, who still enjoys good health, expects to celebrate the day with a family gathering at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gregory, at Harbor Springs, where he has been spending the winter months.

Mr. Gregory was born near Chatham, Ont., Can., and at the age of 14 came to Michigan and was employed by the Michigan Central railroad at Detroit. Two years later he came to Charlevoix aboard a steamship. He worked at the iron works at Elk Rapids and at Ironton and Mancelona when the company moved to those places.

In 1874 he married Ella Baker in a ceremony performed by Justice of the Peace William John McGeagh in his shingle mill on the stream now known as McGeagh's creek, three miles south of Charlevoix.

That year the couple took up a homestead in Redmond township, Emmet county, in the community now known as Cross Village. They were among the first white settlers in that region and cleared the land on which they built their home.

About 38 years ago the family came to a farm in Hayes township to make their home. Mrs. Gregory died in 1927. He continued to live

Death came as a relief to Chancey Howe, an old resident of Hayes township, Monday forenoon at 10 o'clock, after an illness covering a period of over a year.

Chancey Howe was 59 years of age at the time of his death, and had lived in Charlevoix county for the past 46 years. He is survived by a wife and seven children. Funeral services were held from the Maple Grove school house, Wednesday forenoon at 10 o'clock, interment in the Undine cemetery.

Shipping [illegible] way and being married unknown to friends and relatives seems to be growing quite popular in Charlevoix. The young couple pulling off the latest stunt along this line were Clarence Withers, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Withers of Marion township, and Miss Nellie Shearer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. San-

Michigan Mirror

Michigan's sales tax, the goose that lays the golden egg, was responsible for most of the 1945 legislature's deliberations.

How to spend a war-time surplus occupied a good three-fourths of the law-makers' time. If the finance committees of the senate and house could have brought in their recommmendations last Jan. 15, chances are nine to one that legislators would have voted promptly to adjourn in ten days and go home. The Carr-Ziegler grand jury was in session less than a block away. Examination of the 1945 record discloses few bills of major import were enacted.

That is not any criticism of a state legislature, as we see it. It is the job of the legislator to meet the changing needs of his constituents, and the truth of the matter is that the big majority of voters have shown little interest in the 1945 session and the laws enacted to date affect only a few.

Trying to appraise each bill on its merit and to segregate the obvious pressure group bills from those of broad public interest, all takes time. Legislators don't like to be pushed around; they want to weigh the facts and come to their own conclusions. The governor must bide his time, too, or else risk wrath of law-makers for trying to be a dictator and to strong-arm measures through.

Patience and an abiding faith in the virtues of democracy are necessary traits if one is to bless the state legislature as a deliberative governmental body.

Confronted with the prospect of a $20-to-25 million melon to slice, each legislator had his own idea as to how it should be done.

Mayors of large municipalities created a pressure group, which is inevitable under the democratic system of government, and lobbied for a share. Educators asked for a substantial boost in state aid, pointing to mounting costs and static incomes. Local governments—townships and counties—viewed with suspicion the efforts of other units to get a larger part of the sales tax dollar.

The result was weeks of confusion as pressure groups put the legislators on the spot, each sincerely trying to get more money from the bulging coffers at Lansing. You can't blame the legislator for going slow. If he incurs the displeasure of many voters back home, he may not return two years from now. A four-year term would tend to remove the legislator still more from the public's pulse.

To safeguard the $50 million reserve fund, previously created by the state legislature out of current war-time surplus revenue, the legislature voted to ear-mark this amount for postwar use of veterans.

This decision increased the pressure on the current surplus, estimated by Auditor General Morrison to be in the neighborhood of $20 to $25 millions by July 1, 1945. Governor Kelly announced that the ceiling for state appropriations would be $162 millions. Any spending beyond that point would automatically bring a stern veto, and a special session of the legislature would follow immediately.

Lawmakers found a solution in creating $16 millions in new revenues through an increase in the state's profit on liquor sales and a revision of the state intangible tax and then segregating these funds for aid of local governments—municipalities and counties.

They granted increased state aid to public schools by $6,800,000; granted $500,000 a year to Wayne University and several junior colleges for veterans' education; $240,000 for additional state payments for hospitalization of old age recipients; reimbursements, estimated at $800,000 in the first year, for taxes lost thru veterans' homestead exemptions, and other local aids approximating $25 millions.

The effect of the productive sales tax and its resultant annual surplus may be summed up in the following: The budget for the current year is $137 millions; the budget for next year will be $162 millions.

Forestry Experts Assist 4-H Club Members in Setting Out Trees

The re-forestation program in Charlevoix County received a big boost last week when ten thousand trees were set out by our three School Forestry Clubs. We were honored to have Mr. Duthie from Washington office of the U. S. Forestry Service and Specialist W. Ira Bull, Extension Forester from Michigan State College present at all locations.

Mr. Duthie was particularly pleased with the interest shown by these 4-H boys and girls and the manner in which they set out the trees. Specialist Bull told us that in no district in the state was there a better job done than in this group of three counties. At Boyne Falls, some seventy boys and girls participated in the tree planting program. Before the job was tackled, the entire group were shown how to set out trees by Specialist Bull. Some forty-nine students at East Jordan and thirty two at Walloon Lake assisted.

In fact, we can be justly proud of the reforestation projects that have been developed in this county. A person can go on no road very far until one sees evidence of reforestation. This interest should continue as we have many areas of land that are best adapted to grow timber. The use of young pines as wind-breaks and snow-breaks is also worthy of attention.

Household Words

The time-consuming part of pumpkin pie making is the peeling task. To simplify the job and reduce waste, put the pumpkin in a shallow pan and bake until tender. If you have an electric range, set the temperature control at "moderate" (300 to 400°). It then peels easily. Cut it up, remove seeds and force through sieve.

When using your electric waffle baker, shut off the current shortly before the last waffle is ready for serving. When the serving has been completed, leave the cover raised until the iron cools, to prevent hot fat burning on the grids. While still warm, to clean the excess fat off the grids, whisk lightly with a paper towel or pastry brush. Don't wash the grids. A little film of fat left on them prevents the waffles from sticking next time the baker is used. If batter burns on or sticks to the grids, remove with a soft wire brush.

For more delicious coffee, air your coffee maker between brews. Leave the cover off, or if convenient, store the appliance completely disassembled. After each brew, wash inside with fresh suds, not greasy dish suds. The electric element should never be dipped in water.

A penny's worth of electricity (at average household rates) will perform any of these jobs: Brew 20 cups of coffee; vacuum-clean 10 large rugs; extract the juice from 240 oranges; make 40 slices of toast; run a sewing machine all afternoon; light a 50-watt lamp for 6 hours; cook a meal for one person; run the washer for 6 tubs of clothes; iron 20 table napkins; run a clock for a week; keep the refrigerator cold for 4 hours; warm a heating pad for 11 hours; operate the radio for 3 hours; run a fan for 6 hours.

"BEAVER DAMNS"

By
"Steve" Stephenson

Ben Jenkins, and "Cash" Wonser, of the Game Division of the Michigan State Conservation Department, spent the past week on Beaver Island. Their assignment is to secure data from which to complete a "cover-soil" map, and report on game conditions. After observing the pinochle, and checker games in the lobby of the King Strang, they declared the game conditions to be under control. The failure to receive clean laundry via the S. S. Mary Margaret, likewise made the soil cover conditions above par, and greatly relieved by the use of dark colored blankets.

Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Warrick, Mr. Vernon Stockberger (With storm and strife) and Wilma Stoekberger—five dumb Hoosiers from Osceola, Indiana, proved that even a Hoosier has his good points. They hold the Island honors on perch fisbing at the present writing—Twelve perch weighing 15 lbs. the first morning. (One hour angling time), and 80 fish tipping the scales at 104 lbs. in two hours, the following day. "Wilmey" caught the winner, 2 lbs, 4 oz.

The Island Airport is a choice bit of terra firma, insofar as aviators are concerned. Four planes of anglers, arrived in one day, and each pilot commented on the fine condition of the recently enlarged Port. Their catches were of such size that it was necessary to ship them by express, and further they refused to have them called flying fish, as suggested by Vesty McDonough, Republican Committeeman of the fifth precinct in the Fourth Ward. The perch are getting larger each day, and do they stink up a wicked skillet, You tell 'em, Big Boy.

Bob Malloy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malloy, is home on a furlough, and when you see Tom Gatliff, and Lawrence Malloy proudly parading Fifth Ave., with their sons, you know happiness is complete.

The pangs of sorrow burn deeply into the hearts of folks, living as a large family, in a small community. Eddie Wojan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Wojan lost bis life in Service. He was injured some time ago, and whether he had recovered and returned to duty as a tail gunner on a bomber, or whether he passed the last pilon as the result of bis first injuries, is not known. The entire community feel the loss keenly, and his name will be a monument erected in memory of a fine lad who gave his all for the benefit of those who are spared.

"Eddie Rickenbacker" Hoekstra and another renegade from Kalamazou flew to the Island for the pause which refreshes. As a guest of "Little James" Gallagher he made an astounding catch in a matter of a mere noon hour—six beautiful whitefish, and several lake trout. Mr. Hoekstra, a roofer, was on one of his weekly inspections for future roofing jobs, when Beaver Island flashed into his mind, and thus he made the round trip without the wife, sheriff, or creditors even being worried about his absence.

I'll be seeing you,
Steve.

News of Our Servicemen

The following is a letter received by Jerry Scudder from an old harmony pal "Tip" Riley:

April 8, 1945

Dear Jerry,

It has been a long time since I last wrote to you and a great many things have happened since then I should like you to know about. I'm not much of a writer but will try my best to tell you about them as well as I can recall them.

We left the States on December 30th and with four of our sister ships were on our way across to no one knew where. We had nice sailing and our first stop was, of course, at Pearl Harbor. We were pretty busy during our stay there getting our cargo all set for the rest of the trip, but I did manage to get around and see the Naval base and one of the little villages inland. The weather there was ideal and the island itself was beautiful with all its color. Everything was green (as many as six different shades) and it was a direct contract to the red volcanic soil. We saw sugar cane fields and pineapple plantations and even climbed up a cocoanut tree and got one for a souvenir, which I still have with me. by the way. Don't let the travel pamphlets with the pictures by those "Petty type" native girls fool you. They are all short and stocky and look like Chinese or Japanese. We left Hawaii on our way again with a bunch of sailors for replacements out here and some DUKW's or "ducks" as you know them.

Our next stop was at a small flat, sandy barren island that will always be remembered. Few of the people back home will ever realize the price we paid for Eniwetak, but those who served there will never for get it. Our stay there was brief and uneventful. The main reason for stopping there was supplies, but while there we did get ashore for a game of baseball and a chance to go for a swim. We left there with the same load as I pdeviously mentioned.

After an uneventful trip of six days and some odd hours, we came in sight of a high cliff that has since become known as "Suicide Bluff" due to the thousands of civilians who allegedly walked to their death over that tip of Saipan rather than face capture and internment by the Americans. We only stayed there a couple of days then pulled out and went across to Tinian, a distanc of about twenty miles, where I got my first real glimpse of the war. That little island never made the headlnes bnt there sure had been plenty of action there and still was while we were there. There were about 500 armed snipers there at one end of the island nnd they were causing plenty of excitement. About 75 yards from where we were beached was a cave in which a good number of Tojo's flunkies spent their last hours (in darkness). Some of the fellows crawled into it in aearch of souvenirs, but the stench was too much for me so I stood by and looked at what they dragged out. The big airfield on there was being fixed up for the Super-forts and there were a lot of Jap prisoners doing the work. They were plenty peaceful once they had the starch taken out of them.

We looked this island all over good and went through the ruins of the little town there in search of some keepsake and they were pretty easy to find. I got a pair of chop-sticks and a little book with Jap writing in it. If I'd had more locker space I'd probably have gotten more than I did.

From Tinian we went to the island of Ulithi where we were up practically all night loading supplies aboard then next day we moved on to Kassel Roads in the Palau group, another over-night stop.

We left Palau on the last leg of our trip and arrived at (censored) where our destination was reached and the trip completed. It seems like a long time ago but in reality it was only a very short time.

I'd like to tell you about the present but you've no donbt been hearing all about it the past week. I will close this for now as we are pretty husy around here. I'll try and write again soon and tell you all about my stay in the (censored). Tell all the gang "hello" for me and hope the day will soon be here when we can all be together again. So long for now and all the good Inck in the world.

Harmoniously yours,
"Tip"

Harold H. (Bud) Potter, F1-c, serving with the Navy in the Pacific sends the following letter: I have been receiving the paper regularly but haven't had time to write to you so would like to take this opportunity to thank you and the CSO for sending it. It is really a joy and privilege to receive a paper that brings us closer to home and friends. I have had and seen pleaty of action since my induction a year ago. We were in every operation in the Philippines and I hope to see Japan fall. To Harry Goldstick: if you read this how's about writing and giving me your address?

From the South Pacific comes this letter from Horold Blain, S2-c, of the Navy: I have been fortunato tn receive the paper since I've been in the service. Mony thanks to all who ore concerned. It meons a lot to read of our friends in the news and to know where they ore stationed. We assnciato with men from every state in the Union on bonrd shlp and many rend my paper. They nll tolk of eoming to Charlevoix nfter the war. I hope they do for I know they won't be disappointed.

There is o wonderful climate here the year around. There are also many interesting placea to see but when you're here a while you want to move on or go home.

About noon today we received word that our Commander-in-chief passed on. All flags are at half mast and there is a deep feeling of the loss. But the spirit is high and we feel sure the man who fills his place will not let us down. If the people at home will show the same spirit as the boys here it will be easier for everyone. The men feel as though they ahould try n little harder to finish the job in his honor.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone in Charlevoix who has been so kind to my family during the hard and trying winter.

I have seen a lot of the Foster Boat company's craft out here and have driven some of them. When I was furnishiag logs for the dock for the company I never thought they'd be making boats that I would be using out here.

We would like to acknowledge the clipping "San Francisco Requiem" sent by Robert N. Pearl, USNavy who is stotioned in San Froncisco. He also writes: Our little Courier is more interesting ond is becoming the greatest little aper in the country—nnd tho world.

A quarter for the Porter

Most people don't mind paying for service received. (For instance, it's worth a quarter to have a porter carry a heavy bag.) But nearly everyone wants to be sure he isn't paying too much for what he gets.

Take loans, for example. More and more people are getting Personal Bank Loans because bank charges are so moderate. People who shop around for a loan usually end up by borrowing at the bank.

Come in and ask us about low cost personal bank loans for people with regular income.

The urge to clean up around Charlevoix homes and property seems to be growing upon the residents of our fair city. Every day one notices worthwhile improvements. Yards are being raked, shrubbery and trees trimmed, old buildings being repaired and the paint brush is being used extensively. PUBLICITY PARTY VISITS CHARLEVOIX

Cal Johnson, nationally known outdoor writer, author and lecturer, is in Charlevoix for a few days as a guest of the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. On a recent trip to Grand Rapids Stewart Coleman made arrangements to have Mr. Johnson and his party try out the fishing in this region.

With Mr. Johnson is Earle DuMonte, President of the Champion Outboard Motor Co. of Minneapolis, William Palmer, Secretary-Manager of the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association and Ed Dreier, the tourist publicity director.

Mr. Johnson, who is outdoor editor of Sports Afield Magazine, Fishing Editor of th Minneapolis Times and Publicity Director of Champion Outboard Motor Co., is here seeking pictures and information on Michigan fishing for a series of articles in his various publications. He and Mr. DuMonte are laying plans for the making of a sports movie in color and most of the settings will be in West Michigan. This movie will be used by Mr. Johnson in his lectures to help people get more pleasure out of their vacations and from the out-of-doors in general.

While here, the party will visit various sections of the territory around Charlevoix to select settings for the movies . . . and to get a little fishing. On Thursday they will make a float trip down the Jordan River as guests of Barney Millstein and the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce.

Head Lettuce Easy to Grow

Good soil, proper care, and a few planting precautions are the requirements for success in growing head lettuce in the garden. The results in the form of an excellent salad vegetable are well worth the effort.

Head lettuce requires cool growing conditions, so must be started early in the spring. Early May is about the latest date for planting.

Great Lakes, Imperial 44 or Imperial 847 are good heading varieties recommended for Michigan. Plants set in the garden the first part of May should grow rapidly, because they make their best growth at a temperature below 70 degrees F. If gradually accustomed to cold, lettuce will stand considerable freezing without injury. High temperatures cause production of seed stems, bitter taste in the leaves, loose heads, and a more rapid development of leaf disease.

Some well rotted manure at the rate of 500 pounds per 500 square feet, and 10 to 15 pounds of 4-12-4 garden fertilizer should be worked into the soil previous to planting.

Since the root system of the lettuce plant is shallow, it must have an adequate supply of moisture throughout the growing season. Some type of irrigation is needed in most sections of Michigan if the crop is to be successful. However, too much water is not desirable.

Increased Subsidies For Cream Producers

the anticipated average monthly subsidy to be paid to cream producers in 1945 will average about 12 cents per pound on the butterfat that they produce. Figuring conservatively that the average annual butterfat production of cows is 175 pounds, this means that the cream producer will receive a subsidy payment of about $21.00 per cow. A producer with a herd of six cows will receive about $126.00. This sum is increased, of course, when the cows produce more than 175 pounds of butterfat per year.

Government reports indicate that 1,810,000,000 pounds of butter were produced in the United States last year. It took 1,448,000,000 pounds of butterfat to produce this amount of butter. To produce this amount of butterfat, 38,200,000,000 pounds of 4 per cent milk was required. This was equivalent to 31 2-3 per cent of the 120 billion pounds of milk produced in the United States during 1944.

GARDEN TIP

A small stand of young garden transplants can be protected from cutworms by using paper collars.

To work efficiently they should extend from 1 to 3 inches beneath the surface of the ground and from 3 to 4 inches above the surface. The soil should be banked around the base to hold the collar in position, and the edges should lap enough to prevent the worms from crawling inside to reach the plant.

The collars are usually made of stiff paper, generally from 2 to 4 inches across, depending on the size of the transplant.

Fat Salvage At Pawling!

Cpl. Vernon Nelson, meat cutter at the AAF Convalescent Center, Pawling, N. Y., starts raw fat on its way to reuse. After the raw fat is cut, ground, rendered about three hours, and strained through cheesecloth, it is ready for reuse in cooking, and finally salvage.

Wartime Champion

Attention was sharply focused upon a changed post-war hog production by the selection of this 230 pound lightweight Hampshire barrow as the Grand Champion over all breeds at the recent Chicago Market Fat Stock Show, wartime version of the International Livestock Exposition. Clean-cut and firm fleshed, carrying a high proportion of meat cuts in ham, loin, and bacon, and with a minimum of lard, he exemplifies the meat type hog advocated to meet the post-war problem of excess lard production.

Champions of this top-ranking show were judged by R. L. Pemberton of Des Moines, Iowa, field secretary of the Iowa Swine Producers' Association and executive secretary of the Wartime Swine Industry Council. He stated that a meat type hog with a higher yield of ham, loin, and bacon, which could be readily finished at around 225 pounds or which could be carried on to heavier weights when the market situation justified, would best meet the production needs of the future.

This Hampshire Grand Champion, Purdue Model 9th, was bred and exhibited by Purdue University, LaFayette, Indiana. He came in a husky litter of 10 pigs raised. Farrowed on June 4th, he weighed 230 pounds at the show when just 180 days old. In exactly 6 months from birth to market, that is making market topping pork at the rate of more than 1¼ pounds for every day he lived.

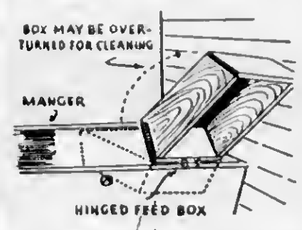
Fixing Up the Farm
by BURTON WILLIAMS

Manger Feed Box

EVEN such a simple job as cleaning a manger feed box can take a lot of valuable time. Here's a labor-saving tip: attach the feed box in the manger with a hinge, as shown in the drawing below. It is then the work of a few seconds to tip up the box and remove cobs, chaff and hay stems.



Another feeding short cut which will save steps as well as time is a silage cart, which can be made by mounting a box on a pair of low wheels. The box should be sloped at one end to accommodate a scoop.

The silage cart can be pushed under the silo chute for loading, then wheeled along the feed alley in front of the cows. A cart of this kind will cut many miles of walking from the year's work.

Re-Siding Old Barns

WHY not give that old, weather-beaten barn a new lease on life? A few repairs and new sidings may be all that are needed to turn an apparent wreck into an attractive, serviceable building.

A new trend which is becoming increasingly popular is toward the re-siding of battered structures with large asbestos cement boards. Each sheet covers an area of 32 square feet and this speeds the work of application. The material is fireproof, which adds a valuable safety factor. It also is weatherproof, ratproof and termite-proof.

Another reason for the popularity of this new siding treatment is the fact that asbestos boards need no painting or other preservative treatment. This practically eliminates maintenance costs.

Before a re-siding job is begun, the farmer should make sure that foundations are in good repair, that rotted timbers are removed and that the structure is properly braced.

How to Paint a Door

WHERE do you begin when you're painting a door? For a good, professional job, there is a definite order of sequence which should be followed if streaks, runs and overlapping are to be avoided in the finished job. The same is true of painting window framing.

Here is the proper order, according to Practical Builder, which knows all about such things:

As indicated, the door panels should be coated in first, next the horizontal members, and finally, the vertical parts. When painting windows, the top sash should be pulled down and the inside face of the check rail carefully painted. The edges and undersides of both doors and sash should be carefully covered, for there is where dry rot starts.

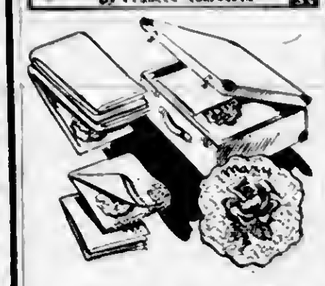
Your Home

By Frances Ainsworth SG



When you're a week-end guest you notice a lot of little things that make your visit a memorable and pleasant one. It's those little "extra touches" that make you remember your hostess as charming and gracious.

I'm sure you'll find, as I did, that for providing that "extra touch" perfumed sachets in the new tuck away packages are wonderful in their appealing fragrance. By the use of one of the lovely floral fragrances, in the drawers of the dressing table, among the linens and guest towels, the guest room will present a delightful "perfume ensemble."

Among your own personal things, too, tuck aways, delicately perfumed to suit your taste and personality, add a distinctive touch of femininity so essential to gracious living.

My hostess showed me the colorfully decorated little packets with gay flowers matching the fragrances of the sachet—rose, carnation, gardenia, and lilac. They're so attractive that she used the tuck aways as place cards at the luncheon, choosing fragrances that blended perfectly with the center piece of flowers. It was such a lovely effect that the guests are still talking about it.

When tuck aways are slipped into gifts, even an inexpensive one carries an expensive air. And imagine my very pleasant surprise when I discovered my hostess had tucked away several of these dainty sachets in my luggage!

I am told they are available at drug, department and syndicate stores and gift shops. I know I am going to look for some at the first opportunity.

SCHOOL NOTES

Kindergarten

The children have been busy making bird books. They have completed the pictures of the Robin, Bluebird, Kingfisher and Cardinal. This week they are making pictures of the Purple Martin, Crow, and the Red Headed Woodpecker.

The following children sold bonds the first week of the 7th War Loan Drive: Jack Arvilla, Edwin Belfy, Patricia Bulow, Ardis Cross, Dee Ann Geneit, Glenroy Ikens, Angela Schroeder, Maxine Smith and Philip Timmer.

First Grade

What a lot of workers we have. Our Bond Drive quota was reached last Thursday afternoon with the girls leading in the contest.

The children brought their toy animals Friday, and we had a toy zoo. The Kindergarten and Second Grade came in to see our animals.

Class B has finished the "Think and Do" workbooks.

Second Grade

We made May baskets Tuesday. We all had someone in mind to give a basket to.

We had a good laugh over a new story book about "The Horse Who Lived Upstairs." We also learned that it is better to be happy day by day, than to be always wishing things to be different.

Friday afternoon the First Grade invited us to their animal show. Everyone liked the musical dog the best.

Third Grade

Marcus White brought some honey-combed rocks to school. He told us it was the rock in which trout lay their eggs.

We are sorry James Elzinga has the mumps. Get well soon, James.

Group III have finished their Mickey Mouse books. Now they are reading "Friends in Town and Country."

Everyone is working hard for the bond drive. The boys have sold more than the girls. Come on, girls!

Fourth Grade

The big news of the week was the wonderful success our room had in selling bonds. We couldn't begin to put down the names of everyone who has sold bonds, but we all are working hard. I think that Donald Vratinina deserves special mention for the work he did among the farm people at the Grange. We wish to thank everyone in Charlevoix who has helped us. Our goal is not yet reached, but we are still working.

Leola Scott and Kenneth Burns had the mumps. Lois Sherwood received her glasses and looks well in them.

Fifth Grade

Billy Francisco has made a picture on the back board.

We have finished North America in our Geography. We are going to study about South America next.

We are gaining in the Bond Drive. We have $3,000 maturity value.

Miss Little has finished reading "The Mystery of Yogo Creek." We are going to get a new book.

Barbara Joan Bice

1, 2, 3 Overflow

Gordon Gier taught us a new game last week. We enjoyed playing it. Gordon recently moved here from Flint.

Our bond sales are $2,175. Wanda Ward has sold the largest amount in our room.

Robert Hilton, Larry Swanson, and Gimmy Novotny had perfect lessons in spelling this week.

We learned the poem, "The Clock." We try to keep our hands like the clock's hands, "Ever ready to do what is right."

Study Shop

The boys and girls of the Sixth grade had a spell-down Thursday. The girls won so the boys gave the room a party. First, we watched the reading class dramatize "The King of the Golden River" by John Ruskin. The boys led us in playing enjoyable games and then served a delicious lunch.

Our room was one of the first to reach its quota, $700, in the bond sales. Our quota was then raised to $4,000, of which we have sold $1,100.

Mrs. Fay Davis and little Billy Morrow visited our room last week.

Mathematics

The following material was studied in the Math classes: Algebra, the addition of fractions; General Math, the time belts of the U. S. and how Standard Time is determined; Geometry, proofs by the theorems of proportion.

Science

Reproduction of the higher plants and animals was studied in Biology, and instruments of electrical measurements in Physics.

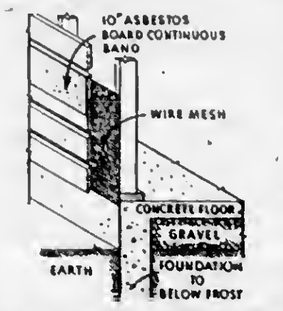
Fixing Up the Farm
by BURTON WILLIAMS

Rat-Proof Corn Crib

IT PAYS to keep rats out of the corn crib. Losses to stored corn in farm cribs sometimes amount to as much as one-third of the winter carry-over.

An economical method of protecting the common slat type of crib is to line the interior walls to a height of two feet with wire, woven to two or three meshes to the inch (15-gage material galvanized after weaving is generally used). Then place a 10-inch band of asbestos cement board around the exterior of the building, as shown below.



Rats are unable to gain a footing on its hard, smooth surfaces, so the asbestos board strip protects the portion of the building above it. Care should be taken to butt the strips closely together at joints and carry the material aroud both sides of doors and door jambs.

"JOIN THE NAVY IN FAT SALVAGE," SAYS ADMIRAL

Real Need For Fats and Oils to Help Make Indispensable Products Seen By Rear Admiral W. J. Carter of U.S.A. Supply Corps

"It is the policy of the Navy to salvage used fats from its cooking operations whenever this can possibly be done", Rear Admiral W. J. Carter, Supply Corps, U. S. N. declares.

Rear Admiral W. J. Carter

"Last year the Navy salvaged millions of pounds of otherwise unusable fats for war manufacturing purposes. From these fats are made such important items as soap, protective coatings, indispensable rubber products, explosives, pharmaceuticals and many other things. There is a very real need for the fats with which to manufacture these products—and the Navy is glad to do its part in collecting all it can. We invite you to join the Navy in salvaging all of the used fats you can in your own home. The need is great and the task is small, though very important".

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Black Market Versus Brighter Meals

I guess our town doesn't like rationing any better than other folks. But when a fellow went from door to door the other day, peddling butter, cheese, and bacon without points, he didn't find a single taker.

Ed Carey's missus, Sarah, summed it up. "I'd just be ashamed to have that butter on my table," Sarah says. "I'd a heap rather have my family and guests put up with what I can serve honestly, than give 'em a treat from the Black Market."

These days, most people are agreed that a simple menu of unrationed foods and substitutes is a badge of honor ... no apologies required!

And from where I sit, housewives can brighten limited meals with cheerful table decorations, sparkling cider or tangy ice-cold beer, or side dishes of home-made preserves and fruits and nuts. Those little touches can be mighty helpful to the appetite.

Both of the contracting parties are well and favorably known in the city and vicinity, and have the best wishes of their host of friends for a long and prosperous life.

More Electric Ranges Coming

Eligibility for certificates permitting purchaso of oil cooking stoves is being tightened to make sure that the increasingly scarce supplies go to consumers who need them most, OPA has announced. Under the new provisions, Local War Price and Rationing Boards in the Emergency Oil Shortage Area (all states except Arizona, Louisiana, New Mexico, Texas and parts of California and Florida) will issuo certificatea for oil cooking stoves only if consumers need to replace oil cooking stovea that they have been using for at least six months before making application, or if a coal or wood atove can not be used. Coal and wood stoves are not rationed. The new requirement is being made an eligibility test for oil heating stoves also. Its purpose is to prevent persons from acquiring an old unusuable oil stove and establishing elibility for a new oil heating or cooking stove, OPA said.

Assignment of authorizations for production of 57,816 additional domestic ranges during the second, third and fourth quarters of 1945 has been announced by WPB. Standard size four-burner ranges are authorized to the amount of 44,816, aad the remaining 13,000 will be three-burner apartment-typo ranges. About two-thirds of the range production authorized is expected to be available to certified institutions and individual consumer. The remaiader is intended for the military services and for housing projects approved by the National Housing Agency, WPB said.

Fixing Up the Farm
by BURTON WILLIAMS

Milk House Interiors

WAR Food Administration officials declare that milk is probably the most important food going to war overseas. Because the need for clean, high quality milk is so great, the milk house has become one of the most essential buildings on the farm.

A principal requirement of modern milk ordinances is that the walls and ceilings of milk houses shall be of such construction as to permit easy cleaning. Many farmers are finding the answer to this by constructing the interiors of asbestos cement board.

Asbestos board walls and ceilings can be cleaned with a hose, as shown above, or they may be scrubbed or scraped without damage or deterioration. They also have the advantage of being rodent-proof and fireproof.

USO DEBUT

Whipped Cream

China — American Red Cross girls here have discovered a way to whip canned milk, so the men visiting Red Cross clubs staffed by them can have whipped cream in cocoa or on cake.

Cans of milk are placed in boiling water for 10 minutes, after which they are plunged into a pail of cold water to chill them. The contents are then poured into a cold bowl and beaten with a wire fluffer. Often orange or lemon sauce is whipped into the fluffy cream to add variety to topping for cake.

War Vets Neglected, Abused; Deaths High, Prober Asserts

Shocking charges of inefficiency, neglect, racketeering and downright carelessness and callousness that are causing an unconscionably high death rate among our war veterans in government hospitals are made in the March issue of Cosmopolitan magazine following an exhaustive investigation of the Veterans Administration by Albert Q. Maisel.

In a thoroughly documented exposé of the pitiful conditions under which our war veterans are dying in our government hospitals at an alarming rate, Maisel charges that despite the astronomical sums of money appropriated for the treatment of these veterans, only one patient in six leaves our government hospitals cured.

"Only three out of five complete their hospitalization and win even the label of 'improved,'" Maisel declares. "The rest die or are discharged as 'unimproved' or run away to enter other hospitals or to suffer and die quietly at home."

Investigation of the hospitalization given veterans consumed six months and covered hospitals throughout the eastern half of the United States.

Asserting that the statistics used in the article are based on the public figures issued by the Veterans Administration itself, Maisel declares that "In many of the Veterans' Hospitals I have visited, the death rates are actually far higher, the 'cure' rates far lower and conditions far, far worse than any cold statistics can ever indicate.'

In a bitter indictment of Veterans Administrator, Brig.-General Frank T. Hines and his underlings in the central office in Washington, Maisel declares:

"I have found doctors so overloaded that they could give the average patient only seven minutes attention a week. Not seven minutes a day—but seven minutes a week.

"I have found nurses so negligent that they did not even bother to wash their hands after examining one patient with a contagious disease and before turning to another.

"I have found some doctors who could hold no position in any well-run hospital; cynical men who joked to me about their patients' miseries; incompetent men who rejected offhand every modern advance in medicine.

"I have seen desperately sick veterans served food so cold that it would be indignantly rejected in the worst Bowery flophouse. And I have seen these same veterans charged unconscionably high prices by racketeering concessionaires, permitted to operate within hospitals by complacent superintendents.

"I have seen men denied surgery they needed, denied modern treatments that could have cured them—and even sneered at by officials for presuming to ask for these things."

After comparing conditions in government hospitals with those in state and county hospitals which glaringly highlight the official neglect of our veterans, Maisel urges a thorough housecleaning of the Veterans' Administration.

"The root of this cancer is in the Central Office in Washington, among men who have long been aware of the situation, who have seen it grow worse and worse for two decades, who have failed miserably to clean up the growing mess," he declares. "The cure, too, must start at the fountainhead—in the Central Office — with drastic changes in both personnel and policies. Wartime 'emergencies' cannot serve as an excuse."

MIGHTY 7th STARTS MONDAY

V-E Day Announced by President

Radio Address Tells of Cessation of Hostilities In the Third Reich

ALL INDUSTRY STEPS UP PRODUCTION AS ARMED FORCES PREPARE TO CARRY FIGHT TO JAPAN

Bells tolled and sirens shrieked as citizens all over the world Tuesday at 8:00 A. M. heard President Truman for the U. S. and Winston Churchill for England announce that German military machine had laid down its arms and slavery in Europe was once more free.

For the most part, people here accepted the formal announcement as just another communique, outwardly they showed little emotion, but their hearts beat when they remembered how the president of the United States said—"The war is only half over. Japan must feel the might of our power."

Churches held V-E day services last night, so, the people might give public thanks for the war's termination.

Stores closed from 12 noon for the balance of the day, but War Industry kept up the pace. Over at Foster Boat Co., its employees were bearing down with a grim determination to keep up with their already famous achievement that of getting the goods to the battle fronts, so ALL the boys can come home.

"Our company will maintain production on the critical war job we have been entrusted with," said Mr. Foster. "Storm Boats for the Pacific, together with Personnel Boats for that area and tank covers, will keep all three plants at peak production." Mr. Foster concluded.

R. E. A. Now 10 Years Old

Will Expand Soon After V-E Day Is Announced

The Rural Electrification Administration, authorized by an act of Congress on May 11, 1935, will celebrate its 10th Anniversary this week. More than 420,000 miles of lines have been built by 347 REA projects throughout the country, serving almost 1,500,000 farms.

The Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Company is the project which operates thoughout this area, with main offices located at Boyne City. According to Harold S. Lees, Manager, the local project has now more than 1,000 miles of main lines in operation and serves more than 3,000 farms. The Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Company started active operations in October, 1936, and tentative plans are now in the making for doubling the present number of members and miles of line, during the three-year period immediately following V-E day.

J-Hop Is Annual Event

To Be Held In High School Gym

The annual semi-formal J-Hop will be held Saturday evening, May 12, from 8:30 'til 12:00 in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium.

The large floor will be transformed into a scenic outdoor garden complete with a wishing well, rock garden, pool, trellises and arbors which will be covered with artificial red and yellow roses. The center decoration will be a glittering mirrored ball suspended from the ceiling upon which lights will be focused. At some point during the evening, the always impressive grand march will take place.

Dancing will be from 8:30 to 11:45 to the rhythms of the Traverse City High School orchestra under the baton of Mr. Dieke.

The patrons and patronesses for the evening will be Superintendent and Mrs. E. D. Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Withers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heisy, Mr. and Mrs. John Mol, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Totten, Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Ward.

Petoskey Man Speaks Here

Arne Wolgast Spoke on "Physical Education"

Harry Ringham presented Arne Wolgast, president of the Petoskey Kiwanis, who spoke on "Physical Education", and told of the manner in which it was presented in countries such as Germany and Japan, before the war.

He told how war in our United States affected the health program and stressed the importance of more physical education for our youth.

Secretary Dean Davenport read a letter congratulating the members for their sportsmanship in paying a bet they had lost through a recent attendance contest. The bet—a check for $17.50—was returned from the Dexter Kiwanis Club, sponsor of the contest. It represented savings on a recent meal, when the menu was reduced to beans only.

A full representation is expected to go to Petoskey Thursday night for the District Governor's meet; Starting place will be at Central Drug store at 6:00 o'clock.

Rev. Wood has a song fest in store for next Monday night's meeting.

MOTHERS' DAY

(Dedicated to My Mother)

We know today is Mother's Day
We would to her a tribute pay,
In our weak and feeble way,
We do not know just what to say.

A Mother's smiles and her tears,
A Mother's heartaches and her fears,
A Mother's prayer rings in our ears,

In our childhood's early teens,
When to us we were the queens,
It was hard to understand
A Mother's firm restraining hand.

But now that we have older grown,
From our minds and hearts have flown,
All the resentment we have shown,
We would try in some smallway
All her troubles to repay.

All she wants, this much I know,
Is for us affection to show,
And tell her what she longs to hear,
That we do love her more each year.

And so today is Mother's Day,
And due respect I've had,
But I prefer to honor both
My Mother and My Dad!

'Forest Prince' at High School Gym May 16

Cast of 50 Will Include Combined Efforts of High School Band, Glee Club

"The Forest Prince", an operetta in three acts, will be presented by the combined Charlevoix high school Band and Glee Club at the high school gymnasium at 8:15, Wednesday evening, May 16, under the direction of J. Justin Gray, musical director. The operetta with music arranged from, from the works of Tschaikowski will have a cast of 50.

The story of "the Forest Prince" opens with Tsar Mikhail of Russia sending his soldiers to defeat the Cossacks who are holding Princess Tatiann, played by Eileen Hagle, for ransom. The Cossacks, however, defeat the soldiers of the Tsar, (David Hamilton), and capture them.

Vaslav, the young handsome chief of the Cossacks, (Dean Fiedler), goes to confer with the Tsar. While they are talking, the news comes that the Tartars are invading Russia. When the cowardly Russian general, Prince Dmitri, prospective husband of the princess, (Gordon Clement) refuses to lead the armies against the invaders, Vaslav makes peace with

Board of Commerce Host to Visitors

Dignitaries View Our Natural Resources

Cal Johnson, editor of Sports Afield, popular magazine for sportsmen; Earl Dumont, president of Champion Motors, Racine, Wis.; William Palmer, Sec. of West Michigan Tourist Assn., and Ed. Drier, publicity agent for WMTA, were honored at a 6:00 dinner last Wednesday night at the Bartlett Hotel. It was an informal affair.

Through the efforts of S. E. Coleman, director of the Board of Commerce, the honored guests were taken by guides, to some of our fine fishing spots during the day, where these anglers, all of them, had the time of their lives.

So impressive was the scenery, and so thorough the fishing trip that Mr. Johnson already has plans for returning in June, together with Mr. Drier, to take several thousand feet of colored motion pictures for use in National Advertising and Western Michigan resort publicity.

Thirty members, representing business and civic enterprises, were present to take part in general discussions of our natural resources here as seen through the eyes of famous national figures. More such meetings will be planned in an effort to advertise nationally this natural beautiful country.

Scout Court of Honor At Petoskey

Troops of Northern Dist. of Scenic Trail Will Attend

Troops of the Northern District of the Scenic Trail Scouts will attend a Court of Honor next Monday evening at 8 p. m.

The affair will be held at the high school auditorium, and will be held in conjunction with a special Mother's Day program.

"Mike" Hamlin, who is in charge of scouting here, urges all to be present. Especially does he appeal to parents, as these boys will be proud to have a home town representation present.

Other troops are expected from Gaylord, East Jordan, Central Lake, Petoskey, Boyne City, Mackinac and Ellsworth.

Mr. Hamlin wishes to extend thanks to all who helped in the recent paper drive, and announces proudly that a carload of paper was collected. (Total weight not yet known.)

"Mike" has named the following scouts eligible to receive the Eisenhower medal. Each has collected at least 1000 pounds of waste paper:

Nick Hamilton, Jim Bowman, Don Gill, Tom Hamlin, Billy Barber, George Haggard, William Wallace, Sam Hamilton, Alvin Ranger and Jack Klein.

Large Crowd At V-E Services

Church Beautifully Decorated for Occasion

The Church of God V-E Day services were attended by a large crowd at 8 p. m. Tuesday evening. The call to worship was read by the pastor, Rev. W. D. Wood, from Psalm 100, verses 4 and 5. Response, God Bless America, by the choir.

This was followed by scripture, Psalm 144 and prayer by Rev. C. L. Austin, pastor of Congregational church.

An expression of love and sympathy was extended by an offering of $26 to be given to the Red Cross.

America the Beautiful was softly played as offertory by the organist, Mrs. Bernice Pearl.

The congregation songs were carried out in a christian and patriotic message. The national anthem was sung as a special number by the choir. An impressive dedication service, in memory of the boys who gave their lives, was commemorated by the lighting of a candle by a Gold Star Mother, Mrs. Ernest Warner, whose son, Lloyd (Dale) Warner was killed in action on August 7, 1944.

The sermon, The Broken Wire, was delivered by Rev. Wood. The aim in the conclusion, is to keep the wire of hate and prejudice broken by Christian ideals. Benediction by Rev. H. Hammond.

The front of the church was beautifully decorated with flags loaned by the American Legion and Roy Ranger.

Seven Billion Dollars Set As Quota for the Nation

CHARLEVOIX'S SHARE IS $148,000 IN ALL TYPES OF BONDS, ACCORDING TO BOND DRIVE CHAIRMAN

The national E-bond quota which begins next Monday is $4 billion dollars. This is an increase of 60 per cent over that of previous drive. A $7 billion quota in all kinds of bonds is given for the nation.

Charlevox's quota in the E-Bond drive is set at $70,000 which has been taken over entirely by the high school.

To date they have sold $26,000

Quota for Charlevoix in all bonds is $78,000, making a total of $148,000.

The coming drive challenges our industry and all citizens to help America meet—and beat—the largest indivdual War Bond quota of this war, at a time when there may be a tendency toward a letdown at home. There can be no letdown on the battlefields, and there will be none at home when Americans are made to realize the tremendous task that remains to be done in the Pacific. And that's our job now that the war with Germany is over.

For the duration of this mighty seventh drive, advertisements will appear in the Courier appealing to all to get into the scrap and buy more bonds. This advertising is sponsored by your local merchants and professional men. They are designed to carry our quota in the headlines and to carry the names of the volunteer workers in our community. We must do our part to keep up the morale of the boys who are fighting their way into Japan.

We, of Charlevoix, know this is the critical inning—with two enemies out but the bases still loaded, and we'll be in there pitching until the last one is out.

Detroiters Open D-X Service

Lease Tower on State and Antrim; Grand Opening Next Monday

"Pat" Ramsey and Roy Melms, both of Detroit, have lensed the D-X Tower Super Service and announce they will be open for business next Monday, May 14. The new firm is known as Melms and Ramsey.

Both young men were born and reared in Pontiac, Mich., having attended school together. After graduation, Ramsey joined the Interlake Steamship lines and later was an engineer for the company. After five years as an engineer, he gave up sailing and turned to toolmaking, recently being employed at the Briggs Aircraft plant, Detroit.

Mr. Melms became associated with Shephard Welding Co. in Port Huron, upon completion of his school work, and after six years with that firm, opened his own Welding and Body Shop there. When the war came, however, Mr. Melms went into war work in Detroit factories and he has been connected more recently with Chrysler and Continental Motors. At the latter plant he was maintenance welder for three years.

Both young men have families and are already moved to Charlevoix. Mr. and Mrs. Melms have a Marine son in Iwo Jima; a daughter, Margaret, 14, and son, Gordon nine years old. Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey have two daughters, Kathleen, six years, and Patsy, one and one half years of age. Both families reside at 105 West Lincoln.

The Island lost a friend, the past week, when Nels La Franiere passed over the last Portage. The many folks who visit the Island during the summer will miss his smile, his jovial disposition, and his many stories. His snow white hair was the light in any crowd, young or old. A powerhouse of ideas, and aggressiveness led him to the "Top" in St. James. The morning romp with his pet St. Bernard, "Skippy", took place in front of his General Store, each morning before even the fishboats were cutting the morning mist. "Bon Voyage, Nels", is the wish of every Islander.

The score stood tied at a snappy 43 to 43 at the end of the ninth inning, but eleven runs in the tenth, brought home the bacon, with no ration points attached. Final score Champions 54, East Jordan 43. Batteries for East Jordan—a Military Secret, for the Islanders—Lawrence Malloy and Donald McDonough. (Swedish). STANDING STILL IS TOUGH GOING
FOR THAT CAR OF YOURS!

SOUNDS FUNNY -- BUT IT'S TRUE! Cars that do a lot of "marking time" in garages actually need more care than cars that are used constantly. That's not just our idea. It's a scientific fact! When a car stands idle, water condenses in the crankcase -- greases tend to dry and harden -- there's a better chance for corrosion . . . to mention just a few of the evils that arise. So don't let the mileage fool you. In Wartime, your car needs regular attention no matter how much or how little you drive it. And that goes double in warm weather!

WARM WEATHER'S NO TIME TO RATION CAR CARE! Heat has always been tough on cars. This year, it's more than ever important to guard against it. Don't put it off. Have your car thoroughly conditioned for warm-weather driving today. With our fine products -- our tools and experience, we can not only help give your car more miles, more years in this emergency, we may even be able to save you up to one gallon of gas out of every ten you buy! And that's not idle talk! Here's our routine:

ENGINE . . Drain out worn lubricants -- replace with clean Summer Mobiloil.

GEARS . Check differential and transmission. Replace lubricants if necessary with the right grades of Summer Mobiloil Gear Oil.

CHASSIS . . Thoroughly Mobilubricate your car -- eliminate squeaks and rattles.

RADIATOR. Clean out your cooling system with Mobil Radiator Flush -- condition it against rust and scale with Mobil Hydrotone.

IGNITION. Check your battery, spark plugs. Clean or replace if necessary.

TIRES . . Give them a thorough inspection for cuts and bruises. See that they are properly inflated for Victory driving.

Feres Home On Furlough

Sgt. "Jim" Will Spend 21 Days With Family

Staff Sergeant James Feres Jr. arrived last Wednesday from Fort Sheridan, Ill., to spend a 21-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Feres Sr., after nine months overseas duty with the XV Air Force in Central Italy. As a tail gunner on a Flying Fortress he flew 35 sorties totaling 257 combat hours. He will report at the Santa Ana, Calif., Redistribution Center for re-assignment.

S-Sgt. Feres, whose experiences behind the Russian lines after his plane made a forced landing in Hungary after being hit by flak, were related in the March 21 issue of the Courier, hasn't much to say about those 16 days. After their plane landed behind Russian lines, they spent nine days with the army in the field, later they were taken by truck to a city in Rumania and rested a few days before being flown to Buchrest. It was here they were wined and dined and treated royally and where they spent Christmas. It was while with the Russians that Sgt. Feres says he became acquainted with that famous Russian drink, vodka, which, he explains, is liquid dynamite. On December 27, the crew returned by plane to their base in Italy.

S-Sgt. Feres says the most impressive thing he saw while overseas was Rome from the air. Unable to visit the city on leave, he was able to make the trip by plane and view the wonders of the ancient city from the air.

Completing his missions and coming home were the most thrilling things that happened to him, he states.

He tells, too, of meeting another Charlevoixan at the air base. When returning to the barracks one day after a mission, he saw a familiar face and recognizing the soldier as someone from home called to him. It turned out to be Staff Sgt. Elmer Poole, Jr., who is also a gunner on a B-17. After that they saw each other almost everyday. Sgt. Poole, by the way, had completed 18 missions when Sgt. Feres left for the States.

Asked about the Italian people, he said they all seemed to be very poor, hangry and very dirty. The black market is about the only place such commodities as soap can be purchased and the price is exorbitant.

Along with his European theatre ribbon, S-Sgt. Feres wears the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters.

Mrs. Charles Ilyers returned home Tuesday after spending a month in Chicago with relatives.

NELS LA FRANIERE IS DEAD AT 59

McDonough, Patrick La Franiere, Vernon La Franiere, Mrs. John David Pike, Mrs. James Elma, and Mary Margaret La Franiero of St. James; Joseph La Franiere, enroute to his home on a furlough, after serving three years with the army, in overseas duty, and Archie La Franiere, who has been serving in the Navy for more than two years. Also surviving are 22 grandchildren, two brothers and two sisters. Archie J. La Franiere, Detroit, Michigan, Henry La Franiere, Point Betsy Light, Frankfort, Michigan, Mrs. Nelson Berstrome, Iron Mountain, and Mrs. Marshall Griffin of East Jordan, Michigan.

Mr. La Franiere married Sophia Boyle, September 6, 1907, she preceeding him in death, having passed away in 1923. He married Miss Irene Boyle, August 30, 1927.

Mr. La Franiere accompanied by his brother, Archie, arrived on Beaver Island 41 years ago, and at that time they were known as "Sawdust Kickers". Where logs were being cut, boomed, or run through the mill, the two brothers were there to do their part. Hardwork and thrift enabled Mr. La Franiere to save a few dollars, and he enjoyed relating the story of his first business adventure, when he opened a candy, cigar, and soda stand.

The entire stock of merchandise was transported to the new business location in two wheelbarrow loads. From that meager start, while raising his large family, his ambition and ability, led him to greater success. For a number of years Mr. La Franiere has owned the General store, Shamrock Tavern. He sold the King Strang Hotel, the past year.

The deceased acted as Treasurer of the Township Board of St. James, for many years, of which he was a member at the time of his death. Mr. La Franiere was a member of the Holycross Church, The Knights of Columbus, and the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks.

Mr. La Franiere possessed a great deal of civic pride, and he not only had plans for a greater St. James, but was responsible for a great share of the progress made on the Island in the past 30 years.

Funeral services were held in the Holycross Church, Tuesday of this week, at 9:00 a. m. Solemn High Mass was celebrated by Father Boyl, assisted by Father Fabian M. Keenan and Father Donahue. Pallbearers were Frank Skopp, Bert McDonough, Edward Green, Mike Cull, William Belfy, and Green. Glen See had charge of funeral.

Those attending the funeral from out of town were: Mrs. Cecilia La Franiere, Ann Arbor, Mr. Archie La Franiere, Detroit, Mr. Frank Skopp, Chicago, Mrs. Mary O'Donnell, Mrs. Peter Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Belfy, Charlevoix, Mr. Henry La Franiere, Frankfort, Mrs. Nels Bergstrom, Iron Mountain, Mr. Charles Allers, Traverse City, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cuddington, Grand Rapids, and the Rev. Father Robert Boyle, and Rev. Father Paul Donohue of Chicago.

Spring Festival At East Jordan

Annual Northern Mich. Band Fest Begins Mon.

On Friday, May 11, the boys and girls from the following schools in northern Michigan are journeying to East Jordan for the annual Spring Festival: Harbor Springs, Alanson, Boyne City, Petoskey, Bellaire, Kalkaska, Gaylord, Mancelonn, and Charlevoix. All will be sending bands for this festival.

John Ter Wee, well-known school band director in this part of the country is to be the guest conductor for the Mass Band performance. Mr. Ter Wee was chosen for this particular directorship as a means of honoring him in his last year as a band director. Mr. Ter Wee will retire from the educational profession at the conclusion of the school year, and will be missed very much by all who have asociated with him.

Joseph Dieke of the Traverse City Music Department has been selected as the critic for the afternoon performance. During the afternoon performance each band will present two numbers which will then be followed by the much-looked-for parade. The Mass Band Concert will start promptly at 8:15 P. M., after which there will be a dance given for the participating members of this festival.

Extensive plans have been made by the festival chairman, Mr. Don Winkle, of the East Jordan High School Band. Mr. Winkle has made arrangements for the boys and girls participating in this festival to have eating facilities, so that those who come as spectators will not have any trouble finding a place to eat at the regular restaurant.

The evening performance will be a well diversified program which will be enjoyed by all as a wide variety of music will be presented. Old time favorites as well as well known marches will be played in this concert. It is hoped that as many as possible will be able to come to East Jordan to hear these splendid musicians.

"FOREST PRINCE" AT HIGH SCHOOL GYM, MAY 16

the Tsar so the Russians and Cossacks may fight a common enemy.

After the victory of the combined forces the young Cossack leader and the Princess find themselves in love; but Vaslav, believing Tatiana would not be happy with a Cossack, refuses to marry her. However, Mother Vanya, an old woman of the Cossack tribe and later Vaslav's foster mother, (Linda Bowman) reveals that Vaslav is the true heir to the throne of Russia, kidnapped 20 years before. Vaslav can thus meet Tatinna on an equal footing and the play ends with general rejoicing.

Other feature roles in the operetta are Sonia, a bluff, hearty, but friendly Cossack girl, played by Marion Craig; Ivan, a Cossack, friend of Sonia and Vaslav and a great joker, William Poole; Tatiana's lady-in-waiting, Virginia Ranger; Hytch, a Cossack, next in rank under Vaslav, Eldean Chew; Jester at the Tsar's court, Clarke Bergeon; Cossack men, Cossack girls, Russian soldiers, Russian Courtiers and Ladies of the Court complete the cast.

This is an operetta which combines brilliant action, colorful costumes and a wealth of beautiful music into enicing and fascinning entertainment.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

The Hoskins are a One-Family USO

Saturday night is open house for service men at Dad and Ma Hoskins'. They spread out sliced turkey and chicken, hotbreads and cake, sweet cider and ice-cold beer—and let any service man who wants to, come and help himself.

Some townsfolk thought the fellows might get obstreperous or take advantage of the Hoskins' hospitality. But the men are quick to recognize that here's a real American home, where friendliness and moderation are just naturally observed.

And do they appreciate it! A touch of home life, hospitality, good food, a pleasant glass of beer or cider—and, afterwards, maybe a sing around the piano, or a chat before the fire.

From where I sit, a lot more families could take a tip from the Hoskins', and give our service men a chance to spend off hours in homelike surroundings, in an atmosphere of moderation and good fellowship.

T-5 Gay John arrived Saturday from Camp Lockett, Calif., to spend a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter John, and other relatives.

Pfc. Charles R. Mitchell writes from somewhere in Germany: I am writing to give you a change of address and to tell you that I am getting the paper again and enjoy every line of it.

I found an item in a recent issue of the army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, about the Foster Boat company receiving a commendation. I am sending it to you.

The clipping reads in part: Hundreds of small storm boats used by the Americans in their Rhine crossings were only stacks of plywood in the U. S. less than two months ago. The order to construct 609 boats was received on February 1. Workers rushed production and some of the craft were flown directly to the battle zone.

Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of the army engineers, has sent letters of commendation for what he called "a production miracle" to companies which included the Foster Boat company, Charlevoix.

From Cpl. Louis McKenzie now stationed in the Marianas in the Pacific comes a new address and the following: Just a few lines to let you know I have arrived at my destination. I haven't received the paper for some time but it ought to catch up with me soon.

I am stationed with a B-29 group in the Marianas Islands. It is pretty here. Our camp is along the edge of a jangle. Since we arrived we have eaten our fill of cocoanuts and now we are waiting for the bananas to ripen.

The days here are hot and the nights cool which makes it ideal for working. I hope if there are any fellows from home out here they will look me up. I am in the 315 Wing. I'll sign off now. Thanks for the Courier. I hope to see you all in a couple years.

Lt. Harold Chew is now stationed in Hawaii with the Army Air Force. On his first evening in the island he met Capt. Leslie Shapton, of the Army Transport Command, also of Charlevoix, and they spent a very enjoyable few hours together. The boys, close friends back home, hadn't seen each other in three and a half years, so no doubt had many things to talk over.

Dinner was served at noon, with 12 members present. Twe lessons were given, one on "wendors of a coat of paint" and "time savers on sewing". Officers for the coming year were voted on and also the County officers. May 15th has been set for Achievement Day. Meet at the East Jordan Park at 7:00 o'clock for supper, Bring a dish to pass and something else and own dishes. All members and families are urged to be present.

That final home-coming day! That's what we're all hoping for . . . praying for . . . earnestly! But there's a tough road ahead, that road to Tokyo. Don't think it won't be tough. It will take a lot more ships, more B-29's. More tanks, half-tracks, jeeps, and trucks! More rockets, mortars, air-borne radar! More of everything will be needed. And more bonds . . . we'll have to buy more bonds than ever before. Our mighty armed forces have taken us a long way. To buy more bonds is the least we can do in return.

Local Tailor Gains Fame As Reporter

Fred E. Cartier Was Also Noted Political Figure In Early Days

In Charlevoix Fred E. Cartier has operated a tailor shop many years, hut he is more widely known for his Press activities than as a tailor. For Charlevoix hails the gray-haired correspondent as "The Press" as he walks down the city streets or attends meetings.

In the early 1920's the then state editor of the Grand Rapids Press was encountering trouble in keeping a Charlevoix correspondent. He appealed to Cartier for help. The candidate, however, failed to last, and when G. Douglas Stengel took over the state desk he, too, sent out an SOS.

Several persons having been tried and found wanting, Cartier was persuaded to take over the job and he has been turning out copy—in longhand—ever since, "doing very well for a guy that doesn't know a noun from a pronoun or a verb from an adverb."

BECAUSE it tells guys like me that the people we know back home will not forget us when we become civilians again.

This Buddy Poppy is a symbol of the American spirit of fair play. It stands for all those things in America that are worth fighting for.

It makes fellows like myself feel that you folks really appreciate what we've tried to do—and that you'll never let us down when the bands stop playing and the victory parades are forgotten.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS OF U. S.

American Prisoners say:

"WE WANT TO GET BACK AT THE JAPS!"

MATCH THEIR SPIRIT in the MIGHTY

7TH WAR LOAN DRIVE

YES, despite their long months and years of privation and suffering, those gallant men, just released from filthy Jap Prison Camps, still have their good old fighting spirit. They're itching to get back into the fight and give the Nips a taste of their own medicine.

Let's show them that we're not quitting either! Let's match their spirit with our dollars! Let's make this MIGHTY 7th War Loan the mightiest of them all!

But to come even close to matching their sacrifices, everyone here at home must buy War Bonds until it hurts. Buy double or treble the extra War Bonds you've bought in any previous drive. Remember, this is really two drives in one. In the same period last year, you were asked to subscribe to two War Loans.

So let's go, Americans. Our hard-fighting Soldiers, Sailors and Marines are giving their ALL. The least we can do is to lend our dollars.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Dick Newcomb Goes Fishing by Proxy

Bob Newcomb used to be the best fly caster in the county. Never missed a Saturday at Seward's Creek. But come the war, and Bob's son going off in uniform, he just lost interest in things like fishing.

But the other day Bob got a letter from the South Pacific . . . kind of a homesick letter: "I'm thinking of you, Dad, fishing in Seward's Creek; cooking trout over an open fire; and keeping the beer cool in the stream. Keep an extra bottle cool for me."

So Bob spent his next day off exactly as Dick dreamed of his doing—fished Seward's Creek again, and cooked the trout, and kept the beer cool in the stream. And you knew he was doing it for Dick.

From where I sit, it's what the men overseas would have us do—keep alive the little customs, the small pleasures, they remember—keep them alive till they come home to share them.

Let's raise the money in the MIGHTY SEVENTH

OUR FLAG flies once again over Corregidor. The cost was great in blood and pain, but our fighting men did not turn back. And on Iwo Jima, four thousand men—more and more—died to take the long step forward to Victory. Twenty thousand others suffered wounds. Yes, we're on the way to Tokyo!

At home, your contribution to Victory is measured in dollars. The Seventh War Loan is the biggest in America's history because seven billion dollars must be raised from individuals alone. That means you must buy more and bigger War Bonds.

This is really two great loans in one: for this time last year you had been called upon twice to subscribe in War Loans. As our fighting men raise Old Glory all over the world—let's raise the money back home!

Will you hold a FAT-SALVAGE BEE for your country?

HERE IN AMERICA, when a neighbor needs help, it has always been the custom for all the folks to pitch in and give him a hand. Many a harvest would have been lost without the help of a husking bee.

YOUR COUNTRY NEEDS a fat-salvage bee right now! Millions of tons of fat have been used up to supply the thousands of battlefield and home-front needs in this war. And there's still a lot of war ahead!

A PLEA TO EVERY WOMAN! Our country is calling on you, the women in small cities and towns and on the farms, to save every drop of used fat. Your used fats are desperately needed to meet our country's requirements.

So scrape all pans and roasters. Skim soups and gravies. Keep your used fats in a tin can—any kind will do. Save meat trimmings and plate scrapings in a bowl; melt them down and add the liquid fat to your can.

When the salvage can is full, take it to your butcher. He'll give you 2 red points and up to four cents for every pound. If you have any difficulty turning in your used fats, call your Home Demonstration or County Agent.

Needed this year: 100,000,000 more pounds of used fats

(We rather doubt that remark). Cartier's contact with The Press begins early every morning. He opens the local Press bundles counts out the papers for the six boys and n girl who carry them on their routes.

Like his writing job this work fell to him quite by accident and because he naturally wanted to be helpful. One morning he noticed the bundles had been tossed alongside a building and were being soaked by rain. He hauled them into his store and they have been delivered from there ever since.

Cartier lists two narrow escapes in his reporting career some years ago while in court, a prisoner sitting four feet away from him slashed his throat with a large knife hidden in his cap. Cartier since has wondered what might have happened had the prisoner run amok or had a gun instead of a knife.

In 1937, intending to take photographs, he missed the mailboat Marold II by about 10 minutes and thereby saved his life. For the Marold, while salvaging a gasoline cargo from the abandoned tanker J. Oswald Boyd, in Lake Michigan, blew up, killing several persons.

Detailed stories by the hundreds have come out of Charlevoix on golf, tennis and fishing in the resort area. Yet Cartier declares he never has had a golf club, tennis racquet or fishpole in his hands.

At Christmas time Cartier remembers "loyal friends of The Press" with presents, contending such acts help "to keep close contacts."

Born at Chatham, Ont., in 1872, Cartier had as his schoolmate the late Senator James Couzens.

Incidentally, Cartier's other activities have been politics and civic affairs, being alderman, supervisor, park commissioner and on the hospital board at various times He is at present a director on the Board of Commerce. His family consists of his wife, three sons, Harold, of New York, Dr. Claire of Grand Rapids, Stanley of Chicago, and a daughter, Mrs. Willis Cross Jr., of this city.

The boys' quartette of Charlevoix gave several well-rendered numbers. Then the audience greatly enjoyed a little playette, "Henry's Mail-Order Wife", given by students of the Boyne Falls School. Just to keep folks on their toes, the Walloon Lake members gave several cheers. All in all, it was a nicely arranged program in which both young and old had their opportunity of participation.

THE UNCOLORED TRUTH

What's happened to all the butter?

Who's getting it?

Where has it gone?

The truth is this: LESS butter is being made . . . instead of MORE butter!

The truth is this: America easily . . . and gladly . . . can supply all the butter necessary for its armed forces and still have MORE on its own table!

The truth is this: Actually the loss of butter production is greater than all the butter taken by the armed forces and lend-lease put together!

Today, the government controls food production. You may not know it—but all dairy farmers know—the government's program has been discouraging butter production.

The way to get more butter is for the government to adjust the food production program to encourage the making of more butter.

This can be done without interfering with the production of other essential dairy foods or in fulfilling the butter requirements of our armed forces.

You have the facts. You can have more butter—simply by the government taking prompt and necessary action to encourage butter production as it has done with other essential foods from time to time. It should be done immediately!

Speigl, son of Wolf Speigl, Bay Shore, a litter bearer serving with this division, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action. A member of the 4th Medical Battalion, Pvt. Speigl distinguished himself by bravery in the vicinity of Grosshau, Germany, November 23, 1944. He received the following citation:

"Pvt. Speigl went forward as a member of a litter squad in answer to a call for medical assistance for a soldier lying wounded in enemey-held territory. Intense hostile artillery and small arms fire deterred the other members of the squad but Pvt. Speigl pushed on until he reached an outpost line.

"Here, he was advised that previous attempts to rescue the wounded man had been unsuccessful because of hostile action. Fully aware of the hazards he faced, Pvt. Speigl continued into enemy territory under enemy observation. Harrassed by small arms fire, he administered treatment to the casualty, then carried him more than 500 yards to friendly lines. Pt. Speil's courage, forthright determination and consideration for others undoubtedly saved the wounded man's life and is in accord with the finest traditions of the medical service."

LEND A HAND, NEIGHBOR, IN THE biggest clearing job in the world!

The "tonk-dozer," one of America's mighty new weapons that has cleared the way for our fighting men from the hedgerows of Normandy to the jungles of Luzon

Let's talk turkey.

Today your country is asking you to buy War Bonds—twice as many as you did last time—in the biggest and most urgent War Loan of all . . . the Seventh.

Why so much more than you bought before?

Here's why: Up to this time last year there had been two war loans. This time, the Seventh War Loan must do the job of two.

And because the cost of the war is just as great, the money you put into War Bonds in one loan now must equal what you put into two last year.

Sure, a lot of optimistic people are saying, "Look at what's happened in Europe!"

They don't stop to think that regardless of Germany's condition, we at home must keep sending our millions of men in Europe tons and tons of supplies daily.

They don't realize how much money it takes to pay for the care of our wounded . . . for medicines, for hospital ships, for months of careful nursing and rehabilitation in hundreds of convalescent hospitals.

And in the Pacific—well, we've at last got into position where we can really start harvesting the seeds of victory our fighting men have planted.

We've got to back those men up, right now, by loading more ships with more supplies, more guns, more tanks, more shells, more food than ever went across that broad ocean before.

That's why your country is asking that you back up our soldiers and sailors, among them millions of farm boys, who are fighting and dying far from their homes and fields . . . back them up by buying twice as many bonds as you did before.

THE MIGHTY 7th WAR LOAN

WAR BONDS PAY OFF IN THESE 7 WAYS:

1. The same Government security backs your War Bonds as backs the actual dollars you put into them.
2. You get $100 at maturity for every $75 loaned now.
3. You can get your money back any time you need it . . . in the meantime you get safety and steady growth.
4. You have a backlog to renew farm buildings and equipment after the war.
5. Bonds will insure your children's schooling, or provide for your own security, travel, retirement.
6. Bonds go into a national nest egg that will help to assure post-war prosperity.
7. Bonds transform your love of home and country into action . . . you join personally in the biggest, most urgent War Loan of all—The Seventh!

"BEAVER DAMNS"

By
"Steve" Stephenson

Dan "Krinky" Boyle, when asked nbout the weather, he being a kid of four score yeurs replied, "I wrote my Grandpuppy last week, nbout his opinion on the matter, and he sent back word that he never "see the like," on Beaver Isle before".

* * *

My favorite candidate for Chief of the Indian Tribe, the Hon. Johnny Smith, came tothe top this week, thank gosh. While towing a boom of logs, the skiff dunked an overdose of H2O, and the crafty candidate hung on until removed from lake. On top now—on top election day.

Dr. Gerald Gibbons, accompanied by his brother, Dr. Charles Gibbons, nnd son "Jerry" Jr. arrived on the Island the Island the past week. Dr. Gerald, being the proud futher of eight fine boys, might adopt twin boys, to complete his baseball team, even to the bat boy.

He is the Doctor, "Two-tooth McGinnis has been looking for tn pull those two bicuspids. I suggested to "Mac" he let each Doctor apply the block and tackle at the same time, nnd thus make it a single operation. "No soap" said McGinnis, "They won't extract them until I receive the highest bid from some brother Elk."

Captain Jnhn C. Gallagher, known only as "Salty" to his friends, passed nway the past week. He sailed the waters of the Great Lakes for many years, nnd lost n son on n Freighter.

As "Salty" departed from the Island Inte last fall, he remarked to his friend "Turner" Boyle, and Ye Scribe, "I have a feeling this will be my last year on earth, and I wnnt the two of you to attend my funeral." We gave our word, nnd so we did. He was buried on the Island, and Turner and Steve kept their promise. Nary nn enemy did he leave in his wake.

Corneil Gatliff, son of Tom nnd Mrs. Gatliff, who has been on a furlough, nfter serving in Burmn, suffered another attack of Malarin, nbout the fourth time up, nnd was tnken to the hospital in Charlevoix, Sunday last. The services of Dr. and Mrs. Palmer, due to their being away on a vncation are missed in many ways.

Who took him to the mainland? Who do you think? The Coast Guard are always there when needed, and they render their services free of charge, and with a smile. A fireman may while away hours, in the station—but Boy Oh Boy, what a friend, when the clerk calls and tells you the hotel is on fire. So tiz with the Coast Guards, lest we forget. Were it not for the C-G, many a summer tourist would not be a guest on the Island, for many are fearful of not being able to reach the mninland in case of emergency.

The Coast Guard Bnseball park is being improved for the benefit of the Studebaker Champion Softball team of Beaver Isle. They'll cop the title of "Fighting Irish" yet, if Notre Dame docsn't watch their step.

* * *

Scandal is rampant nbout the village. Recently a party, honored the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Gillespie. Some twenty-five couples received their liberty, in other words, their parents consented to "Let them off the hook" to attend the celebration. They celebrated, but not at the hnll where the party took place. Pops and Moms are licking off their fingernail shellac attempting to find out where little Nell whiled away her time that eventful eve, while the boys nbout town nre using strong cleaning compounds to remove lipstick. Tsh. Tsh. Tsh.—such n younger generation. You don't know a good looking little number, with a million bucks, and a full ration book, who would be interested in the Lug who edits "Beaver Damns"? Do yuh?

I'll be seeing you,

Steve.

To the People of this Community

You have a D-Day this week. You won't die, lose limbs, sight or mental faculties in battle. Your assignment is to buy extra War Bonds. There have been many D-Days in this war. D-Day on the Normandy beaches. D-Day on Tarawa, D-Day on Guadalcanal. D-Day on Iwo Jima, D-Day on Okinawa.

What is it like for your sons, brothers, husbands, friends facing a D-Day in the battle zones? It's prayer and nervousness, nightmarish tension and thoughts of home.

What's it like for you facing another home front D-Day? You are the only person who can answer this question. No matter what the final story is in this community, you will not have met your responsibility unless you have bought more bonds than ever before in a war loan.

The opening of the mighty 7th War Loan is an opportunity to rededicate yourself to the task of nailing down the victory

Pfc. Frank Gengle Tells of Experiences In Germany

"Crucifix Hill near Aachen, the Hurtgen Forest and the 'dragon's teeth' (tank obstacles) of the Siegfried Line seen at a distance are things I'll never forget about my few months in France and Germany," said Pfc. Frank Gengle, who has returned from overseas duty with an infantry division of the First Army and who returned to Percy Jones Hospital recently after spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gengle.

"It was plenty rugged at Aachen. We inched up Crucifix Hill and at one time stayed in our foxholes for 16 days. We were using the defenses previously used by the Germans and since they knew exactly where they were they pinned us down with artillery fire most of the time. We took a lot of punishment but we eventually took the hill.

"And you've heard of the Germans holding out in the cellars of their homes. It's hard for you back here to realize how they do it but once you've seen the cellars you know why it's possible. Those cellars like everything else over there were built for a purpose and that purpose was defense. The walls are sometimes several feet thick and reinforced with steel. They

CONVALESCING

A. J. Usher, former publisher of the Courier, is convalescing after an operation at an Ann Arbor hospital. He expects to leave the hospital next Wednesday and will be back in Charlevoix about June 5.

CRITICAL EYE!

Former Editor Gives His Blessing

The Courier has received the following communication fronr Will E. Hampton, former resident now living in Ann Arbor:

I have been watching how the new owner and editor made out and have decided that you are OK.

I have noticed some references in the paper as to others being "old readers" and while they have made a good showing, I have been a constant reader since May, 1890! You see it was then that my brother, Charles S. Hampton, purchased the paper, then known as the Journal, from Charles J. Strang, son of "King" Strang and I went to Charlevoix to run the shop. I read all the proof each week, you see. Later I bought the outfit and for many years was editor, publisher, foreman and general all round utility man. In the "50 years ago" items I frequently recognize items that I covered when running the paper.

When I took it over 55 years ago, Main street was a mud hole in the Spring; cows ran the streets and left their cards on the sidewalks; there were no paving; no street lights; no water works, no electric light plant. While there I started a campaign to keep cows off the streets, for water works, for electric lights, for paving and lived there long enough to see them all come true.

Best of luck to the new owner!

Michigan Mirror

Editor's note: The following news letter, personally approved by Dr. DeKleine, promises to be the most talked-about Michigan Mirror of 1945.—G. A.

If Michigan consumption of brewer's yeast, rich in vitamin B, becomes a national phenomenon, don't be too surprised.

The health vogue has spread at Lansing to numerous state officials and state legislators, all with apparent beneficial results. One prominent official, formerly plagued by a "weak" heart and high blood pressure, insists he can walk up the capitol stairs at a brisk gait, thanks to downing a teaspoon of brewer's yeast daily for several months.

Here's the story which begins in Washington, D. C.

When Dr. William DeKleine became national medical director of the American Red Cross at Washington some years ago, he was given a chore of combatting a rising curve of pellagra deaths in the South. A serious regional menace, pellagra was due solely to lack of vitamin B in the diet of some whites and Negroes who preferred, by long custom and family tradition, a combination of sowbelly pork—locally known as "white meat" and corn bread.

These products are all right as part of a diversified diet, but a steady fare of them results in a chronic disease characterized by skin lesions gastro-intestinal disturbance and nervous symptons.

Dr. DeKleine knew he couldn't persuade by educational methods the Southerners to abandon their diet. So upon the recommendation of Dr. Joseph Goldberger, he chose brewer's yeast as a supplementary food.

Result: The American Red Cross purchased brewer's yeast literally by the ton, and distributed it free to low-income dwellers in the sowbelly-corn bread belt. Pellagra decreased promptly as a regional disease, and is now almost at the vanishing point. Perhaps you remember now reading about it in your good magazines.

In 1941 when Governor Kelly was confronted with the necessity of choosing a new commissioner of the state department of health, he invited Dr. DeKleine, a native of Grand Haven, to accept the position. Public health work was not new to Dr. DeKleine. He had served as health officer in Flint and Saginaw and thus knew the health problems of Michigan residents.

For some years the present state health commissioner has had private ideas of his own, due to private observation and studies, about the value of living on a "nutritional basis", as he calls it. And like many other medical men, fearful lest the public might jump to erroneous conclusions, he had hesitated to publicize them.

Then came World War II, and the astonishing discovery that approximately one-third of all the young men called up for the draft in the United States were unfit for military service, much of which was the result of faulty nutrition. The medical division of Selective Service pointed out that in one state where people ate fairly well only three men out of ten were rejected for physical dificiencies. In another state where standards of nourishment were very low, the proportion of rejections was seven out of ten.

All of this in a country where a government had paid farmers not to produce corn, wheat and cotton and had even killed pigs!

Undernourishment is a land that had resorted to an economy of scarcity was obviously an indictment not to be easily set aside.

Hence the advent of the "basic seven" program of modern nutrition, blessed by the federal government, enthusiastically pushed by extension divisions of educational institutions like Michigan State College, and generally acknowledged by the medical profession. And here it is on a daily minimum.

Milk—Adults: Two or three cups daily. Children: Three or four cups daily.

Fruits and vegetables — Five servings daily including a green or yellow vegetable and potatoes, tomatoes, citrus or other fresh fruit or raw cabbage.

Protein foods — Two servings daily selected from products such as lean meat, fish, eggs, cheese, beans, nuts.

Whole grain—One or more servings daily of whole grain cereal such as oat meal, and also whole grain bread. Use enriched flour in place of plain white flour.

Butter or margarine—Two or more pats daily.

Fish Liver oil—One teaspoon for children each day.

Water—Drink six to eight glasses daily.

"Now what has all this got to do with brewer's yeast," you inquire.

It is the private belief of Dr. DeKleine, and hence not officially preached by the state department of health, that brewer's yeast possesses qualities that are effective in reduction of high blood pressure and in aiding the digestive system. Brewer's yeast, PLUS the above nutrition diet, would greatly improve the health of the average citizen, especially an individual 30 years or more of age, in the opinion of Dr. DeKleine. The state commissioner hopes manufacturers will reduce the price of this product, which is available in powder form and in tablets, to permit its wide use by the public. And incidentally, the name "brewer's yeast" has nothing to do with a brewery; it has become a standard name for a products generally sold by drug stores everywhere.

Where people consume a high amount of energy foods—milk, meat, cheese, whole grains, butter, fruits—and—vegetables—the land resources are improved. Governor Thomas Dewey recently declared this to be a paradox.

"Where there is a good diet, that means there is a large livestock population eating grain, contributing eggs, milk and meat," he said May 15. "The fertility of soil is not only preserved by livestock, but animals increase it. The fact is that good food for the people and good farming go hand in hand."

You will notice that the adult food diet, other than brewer's yeast, does not include the drug-store vitamin pills. Dr. DeKleine believes this is nature's way of building health—a sufficiency of the right kind of food.

Stymie Looking Ahead

By GEORGE S BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

AERIAL bombs and floating mines are going to seem pretty cheap on V-Day. Their values will appear again as minus quantities. Then slow, cautious men will set to work getting rid of them. But there are other instruments of war more ruinous than any block-buster ever devised, and we have one; trained on American industry now, ready to start doing serious damage on Armistice Day.

It is a law against progress. The bill was not passed to stop scientific and industrial development, but if it's on the statute books in peace time it will be a government freeze of creative work. I am not criticizing the purposes of the act. It was passed in 1940 to raise money for national defense and to keep warmongers from profiteering on the misfortunes of others.

Law of Hunger THE SENSE of the law is this: Add up all the profits a firm made in four pre-war years, 1936-1939 inclusive; figure 25% of the total and call it a sample pre-war year's profit. If a corporation earns more than that amount in any year of war, it must pay the government 85% of the difference in a special tax. It was effective for war ends, but how will it work in peace time?

The 1940 tax law has provisions that are ruinous to any people at peace. Small business concerns can't grow if the law stands. Huge corporations will fare better. They can stay big and avoid being wrecked by it because the profits of giant corporations (however big) grow slowly. But the law will paralyze small business unless a new act is passed, to take effect at the war's end, repealing the mischievous provisions.

Stops Work THRIFTY little enterprises can't expand because their dollars of increased profit will be split two ways, 15¢ to keep and 85¢ for the government. Many will die as losses on development of new products wipe out their meager capital. Huge firms, which have no need for substantial growth, can develop new products with no danger at all to their strong financial position.

A big company's losses on new developments can be used to reduce taxes on profits from old business. In this way, government bears most of such losses for big concerns. It must be remembered however, that big corporations are too few to solve the nation's post-war employment problem. Small firms, companies that could double twice and still not be large, are the backbone of America's prosperity.

Small companies employ four-fifths of the nation's workers. They handle the lion's share of our national income. What their employees eat makes farm prosperity. If these little firms see a chance to earn a profit, they will expand for peace . . . new business and new jobs in large numbers. But if until V-Day they remain scared to expand, America is stymied and so is the world.

A Ninth Air Defense Command Unit, France: Staff Sgt. Dale E. McCann, is now serving in an Anti-Aircraft Unit, it was announced here by Headquarters, IX Air Defense Command.

He is a member of an Anti-Aircraft unit charged with the Defense of a Ninth Air Force Fighter Strip against attack by the German Air Force. The Ninth Air Defense Command is charged with the protection of all Ninth Air fields excluding those installations in Germany. Through this protection the Ninth Air Force can keep up their ceaseless tactical bombings that have brought Germany to its knees without fear of retaliation raids by the once powerful Luftwaffe.

INCREASED DAMAGE TO APPLE GROWERS

Increased damage to Michigan apple and other fruit trees by red mite last season sounds a warning to orchard men of this area to be on the alert for the pest this summer so that effective control measures can be employed if necessary before severe damage occurs.

Spread of the pest, horticulturists say, has been furthered by the fact that many fruit growers do not realize their trees are infested, attributing the bronzing of leaves caused by mites to weather conditions. This is a natural misconception, they explain, because the mites, which are so small as to be hardly visible to the naked eye, flourish best in hot, dry weather. Another false belief, they say, is that dormant oil sprays insure season-long protection against the mites.

Since the insect overwinters in the egg stage, they explain, dormant oil sprays do kill most of the eggs and thus reduce the mite population, but a 100% egg kill is virtually impossible and under favorable weather conditions an infestation of dangerous proportions may build up by midsummer.

Trees should be inspected at frequent intervals, beginning about two weeks after petal fall and specific control measures employed as soon as mites appear since the pest multiples with startling rapidity, several overlapping generations frequently maturing in a single growing season.

Of a number of materials tested in red mite control research, two preparations, DN-111 and DN-Dust-D4, are said to have been particularly effective. In field tests conducted last year in commercial apple orchards applications of DN-111 are reported to have kept the average mite population on treated trees down to less than one mite per leaf, while on adjacent untreated trees the infestation ranged from 50 to 85 mites per leaf. In another test orchard the DN spray effected a 99.7% reduction in the mite population. The DN dust employs the same basic toxicant as the spray, a derivative of dinitro ortho cyclohexyl phenol, but is preferred by those who find it more convenient to dust than to spray.

The mite, a tiny, spider-like insect, is become a major orchard pest in nearly all fruit rowing sections of the country during the past few years, attacking several types of trees but becoming particularly troublesome to apple growers. It works on the under side of the leaf, feeding on the sap and thus retarding or completely destroying the activity of the foliage in supplying nutriment to the fruit. Small and poorly colored fruit is the usual result of severe mite attack.

AAA NEWS

Walter H. Healey, Chairmen Charlevoix County AAA Committee

June 1st, is the final date for the signing of 1945 Farm Plans. All farmers who did not attend the local sign-up meetings recently held throughout the county, should call at the county AAA office in Boyne City, if they desire to participate in the Farm Program for this year. Inasmuch as many farmers attend the auction sale in Boyne City every Tuesday, the dates of May 22nd, and May 29th, have been set aside as special sign-up days. The County Committee will arrange to be in the county office on these days to personally assist farmers in the preparation of their farm plans. Therefore, if possible those who have not signed, please arrange to call on either of these days.

Farmers—the AAA Program will pay you for carrying out approved soil-building practices on your farm, also supply you with lime and fertilizer. Do not miss the opportunity of participating in your Farm Program. The majority of farmers in the county have already signed, those who have not, remember to stop in the AAA office before June 1st.

The AAA will continue to make Dairy Feed Payments for the paying period of January, February and March until June 1st. After this date, no further payments can be made for this period. Therefore, those who have not as yet presented their evidence of sale of milk and cream to the AAA office should do so at once. Payments covering the period of April, May and June will be paid during the month of July.

FOOD TALKS

By Emma J. Fero
War Food Ass't.

I have been asked for recipes for quick breads. What is the matter—are you getting tired of baker's bread? You will really make a big hit with the family by making some quick bread or a batch of rolls.

But back to the rolls—Try this Foundation Sweet Dough and mix and shape with many variations.

2 cakes Fleischmann's Yeast
1 T. sugar
1 cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
6 T. shortening
½ cup sugar
1 t. salt
7 cups sifted flour
3 eggs, beaten

Dissolve yeast and 1 T. sugar in lukewarm water. Scald milk, add shortening, sugar and salt; cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour to make a batter. Add yeast and beaten eggs; beat well. Add remaining flour or enough to make a soft dough. Knead lightly and place in greased bowl. Cover and set in warm place, free from draft. Let rise until doubled in bulk, about two hours. When light, punch dough down and shape into plain rolls, braids, swedish tea ring, Filled Coffee ring or Cinnamon Buns.

Swedish Tea Ring

1 recipe Foundation Sweet Dough
½ cup melted Butter
1½ cups brown sugar
1 cup currants
1 t. cinnamon

When sweet dough is light, punch down and divide into three equal portions. Roll out into oblong pieces ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with brown sugar, currants and cinnamon. Roll each piece as for jelly roll and place in a circle on a shallow greased pan. With scissors cut one inch slices almost thru. Turn each slice partly on its side, pointing away from center. Cover and let rise in warm place, until light, about one hour. Bake in moderate oven at 350° F, about 30 minutes.

After you try those Swedish Rolls you will certainly want to continue with your quick breads, so here is another good idea—

Applesauce Rolls

1 cake compressed yeast
1 cup lukewarm applesauce
2 T. sugar
1 t. salt
⅛ t. soda
¼ t. cinnamon
½ t. allspice
2-¾ to 3½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 T. shortening

Soften yeast in small amount of lukewarm applesauce. Add sugar, salt, soda, cinnamon, and allspice to the remaining applesauce. Beat in two cups flour. Add yeast and mix well. Add shortening. Add remaining flour to form moderately stiff dough. Turn out on floured board and knead until smooth. Place in lightly greased bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk. Punch down. Shape into small rolls. Brush with melted fat. Place on greased baking sheet ½ inch apart. Let rise. Bake in moderate oven (375°F). 20 minutes.

4 Types of Automatic Pilots

There are four kinds of electrically-driven pilots in use in American-made planes: hard, soft, relief and maneuvering. The hard pilot holds a given course rigidly, come wind or weather; the soft pilot holds the general course, but goes easy on the bumps; the relief pilot takes the strain off the human pilot during straight, level flight; the maneuvering pilot is a complex robot for difficult flying.

Friends and Enemies in the Victory Garden

During the winter the chickadees, nuthatches, downy woodpeckers and similar birds must draw on nature's store house for food; so they hunt every crack and crevice for insect eggs and larvae. Naturalists estimate that a single one of these birds will eat at least one hundred thousand such tidbits per month and often more. When you see one of these little fellows working head downward in the winter on a tree trunk you know he is making things easier for the Victory gardener next year.

War Against Insects

In the summer the good work continues. These birds eat spiders, beetles, bugs, caterpillars, moths and other insects and help keep the bug population down. The gardener will still have his troubles with bugs, especially with aphids which should be sprayed with black leaf 40; and with chewing insects that call for lead arsenate or similar sprays, but without the birds he would be overrun.

MARY: "Jim, didn't you say you wanted to ask the Judge something about grain, the next time you saw him?"

JIM: "That's right, I did, Mary. Is it true, Judge, that distillers recover part of the grain they use in making war-alcohol?"

OLD JUDGE: "That's absolutely true, Jim. Wherever the government has permitted distillers to purchase the equipment ... sary to reprocess the used grain, at least 50% of the feed value (25% by weight) of the whole grain is recovered. It comes back to farms like yours in the form of premium-quality livestock feed . . . rich in vitamins B_1 and B_2."

JIM: "Is the same thing true when distillers are permitted to make whiskey, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Yes, every bit as true, Jim."

even had a top or roof over each one that was as thick as the wall. Each one was a little fortress in itself and often we found them well stocked with food and other necessities, so we knew they had planned to use them for that purpose.

"One of the most impressive things I saw were the dragon's teeth of the Seigfried Line. We were on a high hill a few miles away when I first saw it. The white line ran for miles through the hilly countryside and it might have been like something out of a fairy story if the circumstances had been different.

"The Hurtgen Forest? That's where I finally got it. Even that was planted as a defensive measure. At the place where we entered the woods, the forest was about 8 miles through. Imagine, if you can, miles of trees of every kind especially hard wood, planted row on row. It was a beautiful sight to see. But many of the men who entered it that bleak November day never lived to tell about it. We spread out and entered the forest and our first troops were probably in a mile or so when all Hell broke loose. The Germans opened up with everything they had and believe me, they had plenty hidden in the most unexpected places. The few roads through the forest were heavily mined and when our tanks and heavy artillery tried to get in to help us huge trees were felled across the road to hinder their advance. Guns hidden until now opened up on them and held them back.

"It wasn't long before I got it in the arm and after I was given first aid by the medical aid men with us, my C.O. told me to make for the rear if I thought I could. I had a choice of going through the road or through the woods. I took the road. Shells were falling all around me and that's about all I remember. I woke up in a hospital in Belgium a few days later. After being treated at hospitals in France and England, I was brought back here. I guess I was just lucky."

Heart Attack Claims Pastor of 30 Years Ago

Word has been received here of the death of the Rev. John G. C. Irvine, 79, pastor of the local Baptist church about 30 years ago, on Wednesday, May 9, following a heart attack.

The Rev. Irvine has made his home at Almont after returning to Michigan seven years ago following his retirement from the ministry.

Sgt. Matchett on Bond Drive

Sergeant of a rifle platoon with the 32nd (Red Arrow) Infantry Division in New Guinea, Staff Sergeant David C. Matchett, of this city, is touring the country with a jungle assault team of "Here's Your Infantry" during the 7th War Loan.

Twenty-five teams, each consisting of 37 enlisted men and two officers, were trained at The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia, for the joint War Bond presentation by Army Ground Forces and the Treasury Department. "Here's Your Infantry" presents a sham battle which realistically depicts the way an enemy pillbox is destroyed. Riflemen, machinegunners, mortarmen, a bazooka team and flamethrowers cooperate in the Doughboy attack upon the enemy strongpoint.

Inducted into the Army, April 23, 1941, Sergeant Matchett has served 23 months overseas. He wears the Distinguished Unit Badge for his unit's fighting at Sanauanda, New Guinea, and the Combat Infantryman Badge for his own exemplary conduct against the enemy in action. Also, he has the Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbon with two battle stars and the American Defense Ribbon.

In addition to his physical contribution to the war effort, Sergeant Matchett has purchased $250 worth of War Bonds.

A farmer in civilian life, he showed cattled at county fairs as a hobby. Sergeant Matchett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matchett, R.R.1.

Planes Wired for Safety

To insure greater safety and efficiency on A.A.F. planes, including the B-29, electric power is conveyed to the most vital controls by two or more wires connected in parallel but separately fused and located apart. Thus, if one wire is cut by gunfire, service is not affected.

Brooklyn Navy Yard is now in its 145th year of existence, the 144th anniversary being marked by a gathering which featured the General Electric Hour of Charm all-girl orchestra. Marie Mackenzie Weds Lieut. Webb

Mrs. Charles Novak announces the marriage of her daughter, Marie MacKenzie, to Lieutenant Jones F. Webb, United States Army Air Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Webb, of San Angelo, Tex., on Friday, May 11, at Los Angeles, Calif. The double ring service was performed at the Washington Blvd. Congregational church by the Rev. Reynold Baden.

The bride chose a street length dress of white crepe with white accessories and a white orchid for her wedding.

Mrs. Robert Emrey of Glendale, Calif., was her only attendant. She wore a rose crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mr. Emrey assisted the bridegroom as best man.

The bride is a graduate of the Charlevoix High School and attended Michigan State College and Davenport McLaughlin Business College. For the past six months she has been employed in the Chemistry Department of the University of California.

Lt. Webb attended Texas A. and M.

The couple will make their home at Kingman, Ariz., where Lt. Webb is stationed as a B-17 pilot.

Well Placed!

This is a copy of a letter sent to chief clerk of the office of price administration:

Since I am a descendant of George Washington's grandfather and therefore cannot tell a lie, I am returning the application form for canning sugar, thinking it better to do without altogether than to ruin my chances with the Almigbty in having to misrepresent the truth to obtain the sugar we thought necessary.

Last year, I was unable, to do any canning at all because it took all the "canning sugar" we had for our daily needs and wrestling with ration points caused a mental breakdown so that I had to spend the canning season in a sanitarium. Yes, I am an intelligent woman with superior educational advantages, but no college ever taught how to cope with the idiosyncracies of the OPA—at least, not in my college days—nor did the Lord intend I should use my brain for such purposes.

At present, I have no idea how much sugar I shall need for canning purposes this year. (What difference does it make how much we need, since we'll get only so much, anyway?) I was applying for this sugar to supplement our regular rations. Since I cannot honestly estimate just how much canning I shall be able to do this year, not knowing what shall be our lot during canning time, you may keep your canning sugar and give it to those who are willing to be dishonest about it! I am sure the Lord will provide for us adequately without it. When I had my father apply for the form, because I thought it would be necessary to have this canning sugar for our daily needs, I forgot that "Faith is the substance" and that the same Power that fed the five thousand with one small boy's lunch would be able to supply the needs of our household, in spite of all apparent limitations which certain war lords would put upon it.

May God bless you with wisdom and justice.

William Edwards In Okinawa Battle

IS RADIOMAN ON VETERAN BATTLESHIP

Aboard a U. S. battleship off Okinawa (delayed)—William P. Edwards, radioman, second class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Edwards, 1002 May st., Charlevoix, is fighting aboard this veteran battleship which poured 1,500-pound shells onto Okinawa for six days to clear the way for troops taking part in the greatest amphibious landing of the Pacific war.

His ship, which saw service in World War I and has blasted the Japs through five previous campaigns of this war, underwent numerous air attacks during the last few days before the landings. Two torpedoes launched against her never reached their mark.

Before dawn of "Love Day" she was brought into position to give the beaches a final working over. The men were up at 2:30 a. m. and at their battle stations soon afterward, undaunted by three Jap suicide planes which made futile runs against the ship.

At 6:30 a. m., along with other ships of the task force, the battleship began her final bombardment on pillboxes, airplane revetments, observation posts and caves. Scores of Navy planes struck at inland targets at the same time, while to seaward landing craft were moving in.

By 7:30, smoke from the intense barrages screened the island. In a lull that came an hour later, some of his mates were able to watch through the smoke with binoculars as the first waves of Marines hit the beach.

Anxiously awaiting reports of the Marines' progress over the ship's loud speakers, he and the crew sent up a cheer at the news that strategic Yontan airstrip had been taken. The ship's bombardment had paid off.

The veteran of World War II is coming back to us. But our obligation does not end with placing him back on the payroll. We must help him forget! Some may want to talk of their experiences, but many will bring back memories they would rather have left in Sicily, Normandy, on Tarawa, Saipan or Guam. Let no morbid curiosity, no probing questions, bring back the silent fears, the suffering, the grief left in those far-off places. Let them again take up life where they left it. Not on a pedestal—just one of the gang. Yes, help them to forget, and prove we are back of them and the buddies they left over there.

A tramp printer blew into a small town and got a job on the weekly paper. The next week he got drunk, and the day after the paper was printed, he left town. Among other interesting items, he was responsible for the following:

"William Smith, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Smith, and Miss Lucy Anderson were disposed of at public auction at my farm, one mile east, in the presence of 75 guests, including two mules and twelve head of cattle.

"The Rev. Jackson tied the nuptial knot for the parties, averaging 1,250 lbs. on the hoof. PLEASURE CRAFT ENTERS HARBOR

The first pleasure craft to enter the Charlevoix harbor for the 1945 season was the sloop, Baccarat, formerly owned by Stanley Dashaw, of Grand Rapids, which has been sold to J. F. Ryan, of Yonkers, N. Y., and was enroute to the east coast. The boat was in the harbor on May 10. The cruiser, Beverly Ann IV, which was purchased recently in Detroit by Paul Williams, of Muskegon, was here on Monday.

Lt. Comdr. Edward K. Shanahan, who has been on leave here after serving in the Pacific, and Mrs. Shanahan, left today (Wednesday) to spend some time in Chicago before he reports to the west coast for re-assignment.

Pvt. Richard F. Hallett, who is stationed somewhere in the Philippines with the Army Air Forces sends the following letter: Sometimes, out here in the Pacific, home seems more than a half a world away and lonesomeness creeps up on a fellow in some of the most unexpected places.

Then comes mail call and a letter from home chases away this unwelcome feeling. Also a hopeful glance at the pile of newspapers and Yes! the Charlevoix Courier which makes our happiness complete.

Here's my new address and if you have room would you publish it? Maybe another Charlevoixan is near enough so we could get together. Sgt. Fay Bradley Liberated By Russians

Daughters Receive News In Air Mail Letter

A V-mail letter written May 7 and an airmail letter written on May 8 by Sgt. Fay Bradley brought good news this week to his two daughters, Barbara, cadet nurse at St. Mary's Hospital, Grand Rapids, who is on vacation here and Shirley, who resides here. They said in part: I hasten to write to you and tell you that I have been liberated from a German prison camp by the Russians and have been brought to this part of Germany by the American army. We are awaiting planes to take us to France and then we will either take another plane or a boat back to the good old U.S.A. —I sure will kiss the soil on the first occasion.

Our battalion was captured December 19 and until now we have been through some terrible deals but hope that a little convalescing will bring us back to normal again. This is the first hip of the journey —I don't know where we will be taken but probably to some General Hospital.

We haven't had any word from you since late in November. Nearly seven months is such a long time to be away from all contacts with home. I can never tell you what my freedom means but tonight I'm happier than I ever was in my life. And when I'm back, the world will truly be sunshine.

When I say "we" I mean Mac (John Patrick McNamarah. We are the only two who remained together.

Sgt. Bradley has been a prisoner of war since the Ardennes drive in December.

Adams-Reamer Nuptials Are Held at Plymouth Saturday

Miss Wanda M. Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Adams of San Marcos, Texas, formerly of Charlevoix, became the bride of Mr. Richard D. Reamer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Reamer, of Plymouth, Michigan, Saturday, May 12th, at 3:00 P. M., in the home of the bride's parents, No. One Fishery Drive.

Reverend J. Kelly Neal of the First Presbyterian Church solemnized the double ring ceremony. The mantel in the living room was banked with white gladiolas, lilies and tapered candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore the traditional wedding gown with finger-tip veil which fell from a crown of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and tulle.

Miss Marjorie Ellison, of Marshalltown, Texas, assisted the bride as maid of honor, wearing light blue and carrying a bouquet of pink roses. Pfc. William C. Gilbert of Savannah, Georgia, assisted the groom as best man.

Mrs. Adams, mother of the bride, chose a black and white dress and on her shoulder was a corsage of red roses and sweetpeas.

Immediately after the ceremony the reception was held in the Adams home. In the center of the table was placed a large wedding cake with miniature bride and groom. Pink rosebuds forming heart-shaped designs encircled the cake. Tapers were used to produce lighting effect which gave a soft romantic touch to the scene. 45 guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Reamer left for Mexico City, and upon returning will fulfill plans to return to Michigan where they will make their home.

Maj. Bartholomew Tells of Sightseeing

Says He Saw Most Beautiful Scenery In Germany

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bartholomew received the following letter recently from their son, Major Clair Bartholomew who is in France with the transportation corps:

"Capt. Alexander, whom I had known in Hawaii, and I, took a two day trip into Germany. We left Friday morning and returned last nite. We drove 425 miles using the depot commander's car. We had a pretty good ride and saw some of the most beautiful scenery I have ever seen.

"We drove for miles right along the edge of the Rhine River. This river is swift, about a quarter of a mile wide and flows right thru the mountains. On the sunny slopes of the mountains are vineyards. The slopes are very steep and to make the soil workable, stone wall terraces have been built. I never dreamed that so many grapes were used in the world. Europeans must take baths in the stuff.

"We also drove along the Moselle River and again there were mountains and vineyards on both sides of the river. These grapes grow in a very stony soil which looks much like shale. There seems to be very little soil between the stones and one wonders how such a soil would support any kind of vegetation, but the grapes seem to thrive on it. Grapes from the Rhine valley are used for making the world famous Rhine Wine.

"We visited Saarbrucken, Mainz, Weisbaden, Bingen, Koblentz, Trier and Luxembourg City. Koblentz is almost completely in ruins. It is even worse then Aachen. Bulldozers and cranes have cleared part of the streets so that cars can be driven down them. This town, if ever rebuilt, will have to be started from the ground up.

"We crossed the Rhine on pontoon bridges that the U. S. Engineers had built. There was a bridge for each direction of travel. The engineers surely do a marvelous job of building bridges in a short time.

"The portion of Germany which we saw on this trip was mostly a rolling country consisting of excellent farms and woods. There were many orchards of apple and cherry trees. These were all in bloom adding to the beauty of the landscape. The woods were just acquiring their coating of leaves. As one rides through the country it is difficult to believe there is a war until one comes to the towns and there is plenty of evidence of war left in all the larger towns and cities.

"Will continue the description of this trip soon."

FARM TOPICS

By B. C. Mellencamp
Agricultural Agent for Charlevoix County

This past week has been pretty well filled with several interesting meetings. In fact, two Achievement programs were conducted which marks the end of two different activities. We are always pleased when certain seasonal activities can be completed and led to one side until new projects are developed. Brief reports covering these activities are presented.

Home Economics Achievement Program Held at East Jordan:

The County Home Economics project for 1944-1945 was completed with the Achievement program held at the Tourist Park at East Jordan last Tuesday night. Due to the extreme cold weather the entire program including the Pot-luck banquet was handled in the small dining room where heat was availble. Never have as many folks been crowded in as small a space as took place. Some seventy-five folks ate together in a room that could only seat fifty comfortable. However, everyone enjoyed the eats and everyone had plenty.

Following this it was voted to hold the program in the same small space which necessitated moving all tables and utilizing all the available space with benches. Close to one hundred people were packed so closely together that it was almost necessary to suspend the last two or three on nails. Anyway, the program was greatly enjoyed and everyone pleased with their participation. Mrs. Ida Burns acted as Chairman. She has been one of our most loyal and faithful extension leaders ever since 1925. Miss Emma Fero appeared on the program briefly, followed by Miss Markwell, State Home Economics Extension Leaders. Jay Oliver, Charlevoix, a returned veteran gave a wonderful talk on his experiences in Asia and other foreign places. He has the ability to observe points of interest that have meant so much in the lives of humanity. The audience couldn't believe that time passed as rapidly as they would have been glad to hear more about his travels. The entertainment feature was the three-act play, "Henry's Mail-Order Wife" put on by seven students from Boyne Falls under the direction of Mr. Packer, their instructor. These young folks did a splendid job under adverse conditions. It really shows that facilities and conveniences are not really as important as the interest and enthusiasm of folks. Plans are already being made for next year's activity.

4-H Club Girls Exhibit on Beaver Island:

The eleven girls who had completed their clothing requirements staged a nice program in the St. James Town Hall on Thursday night. Those in charge of the activities put on a wonderful program in which the various grades participated. It was beautifully done in every detail and is worthy of special comment. I was informed that only three or four days of preparation was dedicated to this activity and yet every person performed without any hesitation.

The eleven members in the 4-H club project were introduced and then styled the dress or garment completed on the platform. Following several 4-H club songs, as each member walked from the stage, certificates of Achievement and pins were given by your county agent. This was a very impressive ceremony and everyone on the Island is greatly pleased to have this little additional program which makes life a little bit more interesting.

Leo Close, County School Commissioner attended this meeting and made many suggestions for the welfare and improvement of the school facilities for Beaver Island. In common with other communities they were interested in making rather definite plans for the future.

Barnard Grange Discusses Frozen Food Lockers:

Last Friday night the Barnard Grange had a fine attendance of grange members and others to analyze the advantages of utilizing frozen food lockers. We were sorry not to have had someone capable of giving expert advice present. But it could not be arranged. However, informally Howard Brumm and your county agent discussed the various features in a limited way. Everyone is interested in the opportunity and no doubt will use considerable space as the facilities are available. Complete information on Preserving Meats and Vegetables will be gladly sent to all interested folks. The information will give you everything necessary to have your food properly stored.

Following this, Ralph Hamilton of, Charlevoix showed four films of war pictures. These were greatly enjoyed by the farm folks. Ralph has always been interested in helping folks in their community activities and we greatly appreciate his help in making this program instructive.

O. I. Gregg Assists East Jordan in Landscaping Projects:

Mr. O. I. Gregg, Specialist in Landscape Gardening assisted the efforts of East Jordan folks in developing plans for beautifying the city. He spoke at the Rotary Club at noon on City Improvement. Following this a committee met and discussed plans for their water front improvement and in landscaping in front of the Post Office building. The next day, he visited several local cooperators in completing their landscape outlines that were made last year. Mr. Gregg has been a great help in this county in increasing local interest and in beautifying home surroundings.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Dan Culpin Gets His Second Wind

Dan Culpin got his plowing done in record time this year. He was sitting on his porch, enjoying a well-deserved glass of beer, while Bob Wirts, his neighbor, still had over an acre to go.

It burned Bob up, seeing Dan relaxed while he worked. So he'd stop and have a glass of cider—and make out that he was in no hurry anyway.

"And that was the trouble," Dan explained to me. "I kept on going till I got my second wind; and saved my rest until the job was done. He stopped to rest—and he never got his second wind."

From where I sit, there's a moral there for all of us. We've been working hard to win this war. A little rest may look awfully tempting. But by keeping going, by never letting up, we can count on getting our second wind that will overcome weariness and see us through to Victory.

SURPLUS SALE HELD THIS WEEK

Tractor and Seed Drill Parts Offered

At the "Spot Sale" of surplus construction equipment and farm machinery to be held Wednesday, May 23, at Fort Custer, Michigan, the Department of Commerce, Office of Surplus Property, will release 164 piecea of scarce equipment for civilian use.

Equipment dealers from all over the country are expected to attend the sale, which is being conducted by the Chicago Office of Surplus Property, a disposal agency for conaumer goods designated by the Surplus Property Board.

Crawler tractors, cement finishing machines, law levelors, tractor parts, snow plows, gasoline engines, graders, gang plows, seeders and seed drill parts aro among the items being offered.

Since the equipment is scattered over twenty-three locations in the middle west, dealers are being sent itemized lists of the pieces at each storage spot and have an opportunity to visit these locations to determine how much they wish to bid, prior to the sale.

The sale will begin at Fort Custer, near Battle Creek, Michigan, promptly at 10 a. m. on Wednesday morning, May 23, awards being made immediately to the high bidders. Sales will he consummated upon award and dealers will obtain possession upon payment.

These "Sychronized Spot Sales" being conducted throughout the country by the Office of Surplus Property are meeting with the approval of dealers, who prefer the method to that of mailing in sealed bids.

BABIES FOR SALE

Wartime conditions, and an increasing demand for children for adoption, have set up a black market so brazen that it advertises. Genevieve Parkhurst, nationally known research authority, presents a frank revelation of this shocking social problem, in The American Weekly with this Sunday's issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

700,000 in Line an Inch Long

A particle of carbon black so tiny that 700,000 of them in a line would measure only an inch can be inspected by scientists through use of the electron microscope, which is capable of magnifying an object 100,000 times.

Charlevoix-Detroit Annual Party Report

Floyd Bettes Is New President of Organization

The Secretary-treas. report of the Fourteenth Annual Charlevoix Detroit Party held recently in Detroit with approximately one hundred attending. With fair weather prevailing, the committee was looking for a larger turn out this year, but we were somewhat disapointed, however, there was a lively interest and the whole evening was spent by just shaking hands and visiting. This party did not have any entertainment features except for a half hour of singing, after which the party was called to order for a brief business session.

After the secretary's report was read covering the 1944 party, the nominating committee presented a slate for the 1945-46 officers, which were accepted by unanimous approval, as follows: president, Mr. Floyd Bettes, vice-president, Miss Grace M. Papineau, sec.-treas., Wm. A. Carey.

The retiring president publicly thanked all of those who had assisted in making this party a success and at this time asked all who were first-timers at our party to stand up and call out their name. Quite a number of new-comers were present at this party like there always is every year to gladden the hearts of the old-standbyers, who are always present regardless of the weather or anything else. Special mention must be made of the folks who came from outside the city and suburban boundry lines, and herewith given:

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bennett, Flint; Toni Bacot, Charlevoix; Miss Alice Chew, Rochester; Mrs. Agatha Dreyfuss, Lake Orion; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hanshew, Rochester; Mrs. Joe Stover, Lake Orion; Mr. and Mrs. Forest Wallace, Toledo, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Warren, Rochester, Mich., and in order to complete the list of all who attended this pary to make it real worthwhile we must mention:

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Burney, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burns, Sylvia and Robert Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Brow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnhart, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bettes, Mr. and Mrs. Arba Cameron, Mrs. Olive Cheney, Mrs. Josie Cromp, Mrs. Dan Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Cohen, Miss Mary Dunlap, Mrs. Maude Eagleton, Mrs. Fanny Fischer and son, David, Mrs. Roy Gardner, Mrs. Bessie Gaskin, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton J. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Irving J. Hallett, Miss Jane Olive Hartsig, Mr. John Harsha, Mr. Carl Hines, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Jessup, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Harker W. Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. Him Leenhouts,

Also, Mr. Wm. Lennox, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamphear and son, Jack, Mrs. Eva MacDonald, Mrs. John McCann, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nixon and Margie, Ernestine, Dorothy and baby sister, Mr. and Mrs. Vern M. Nortou, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Purdy, Miss Grace Papineau, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Papineau and Miss Heller, Mrs. Minnie Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stafford, Miss June Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley L. Smith, Mrs. Grace Brock, Mrs. Alice Symons, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Stokes, Mrs. Elsie Van Allsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vandermade, Mrs. Quinton Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Whitley, Mr. and Mrs. James McGeagh, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Withers of Wyandotte.

After a few remarks by the newly elected president, the business portion of the party was closed and every one was asked to form a line and pass cafeteria style around a table well loaded with assorted sandwiches and cup cakes with plenty of good coffee to sip while seated around small tables and a merry time was had by all. But who threw the overalls into Mrs. Murphy's chowder and Tye Papineau being one of the last men to leave the party had to take a hat which some one else had worn, which the well-known owner can have, if he will return the other hat in good condition, no questions asked. Our next party will be a victory day party and we'll be see'in you.

We're ready to make MORE BUTTER

Many of our friends and neighbors ask us:

"Why can't we have more butter?"

The answer is: "You can have more butter!" Not as much as pre-war, but certainly far more than the "pat" a day you are getting now.

Today, the government controls food production. You may not know it—but all dairy farmers know—the government's program has been discouraging butter production. From an average annual output of 1,800,000,000 pounds butter production declined to 1,478,000,000 this last year —a loss of 322,000,000 pounds.

The time has come to encourage the making of butter. This can be done without interfering with the production of other essential dairy foods.

America easily . . . and gladly . . . can supply all the butter necessary for its armed forces . . . and still have MORE on its own table. Really, for war purposes, the government takes less than one fifth of the present low supply of butter.

ACTUALLY, the loss of butter production last year was greater than ALL the butter taken by the armed forces and lend-lease put together!

More butter can and will be made if the government takes the necessary steps in adjusting its program to encourage butter production. This, should be done immediately!

"BEAVER DAMNS"

By
"Steve" Stephenson

Just a mere 87 years ago, a darling little girl was born on the shores of Lake Genesareth, located on Beaver Island. She was christened Mary Ann. Ah - - the stork had dropped a precious lambie in Canada, two years prior to the arrival of the infant Mary Ann, 89 years ago, to be exact, and the shipping tag was marked "Fred". The lad had the spirit of the pioneer, and migrated to Elk Rapids, Michigan. An Elk with a good spread of horns could have spanned the village from the "Welcome sign" to the "Thank you, call again".

Dan Cupid must have been on a fishing trip, or in search of a deer, when he discovered Fred and Mary Ann. Cupid stalked his game and harpuoned two lovely hearts with but a single arrow. In 1881, they became man and wife, truthfully, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nackerman have spent a marvelous, happy life, and celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary May 18th. They had one child, Frank Nackerman, the present Postmaster in St. James, and the proud father of five children, which furnish a thrill for Grandad Fred and Grandmother Mary Ann. Congratulations and best wishes flowed freely through the doors of the Narkerman home the day of the anniversary.

Sighting a fox in the hush, and having a hunch it was in distress, the captain with rope, and a bit of nerve, tied up the animal, and delivered it to Conservation Offirer Karl Kubler.

Merle Robar, Orville Robar, Fred Galloway, Dick Van Camp and George Moore had the hooks into 80 perch which weighed more than 100 lbs. Sunday of this week. The largest scaled about 2½ lbs. They hail from Otsego county, and will be hard to get along with when they get that bundle of beauties unpacked in the presence of their neighbors. There was a sixth member of the party named Guy Foot, but he crashed on the Shamrock reef, Saturday night, and sank rapidly. When the early morning anglers departed, the body was located, snugly tucked in the arms of Morpheus.

Joe Bowery Gallagher fishtugged and "Fish Boo-Yawed" a scoop of dumb Hoosiers to Garden Island on the Sabbath day. The trilliums, and spring flowers, which were responsible for the name of the Island, were just starting to blusson. The old Indian church, and domiciles of the past are in ruins, and the Indian cemetery is fading from the picture rapidly. Such trips will be repeated throughout the summer.

Word was received the past week announcing the death of Frank Neer Jr., who was killed in action while serving in the Navy. A mere lad of 18 years of age. He was the nephew of William, Benjamin, Frank, and James O'Donnell, of Beaver Island, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neer of Detroit, Michigan. The deceased had visited the Island on many occasions, and left a host of friends, both young and old.

Briefs: Two Tooth McGinnis is still holding on to both bicuspids. Candidate Smith, running for chief of the Java and Mocha tribe, is holding his own against no competition. Lawrence Malloy refused to sell Ye Protestant scribe, meat on Friday. Tough life for all three of us over here, the Protestant cemetery will have to be made two feet longer for my carcass. I tried to sell my Shrine pin, and never received an offer.

An Irishman from the Island recently saw his first stop light in Charlevoix. He said he liked the idea of the red light to stop the cars, and the Green light to give the sons of Erin a break, but they didn't allow the Protestant Orangemen a heck of a lot of time to cross the street.

The suckers have been running up the creeks in great numbers, and the suckers from the Hostlery King Strang have been chasing them. A burlap sack full is a matter of a few minutes, when taken by hand. Suckering until midnight last night, and "perching" in the rain at five a. m. last Monday, brought forth a yawn, and casual comment which follows. Sleepy soak—I mean folks? I'm in for a little "shut-eye" and.

I'll be seeing you,

Steve.

E. H. Barnard, who lives about two miles south of the city, was the victim of a peculiar accident last Tuesday forenoon, that will confine him to his bed for a long time and possibly result in serious trouble on account of his advanced age.

Mr. Barnard was moving his house when the accident occured. A cellar about ten feet in depth had been dug, walls built, and while helping move the house, in some manner he slipped and fell into the cellar, striking on his left side, breaking his leg a few inches below the hip.

Dr. R. B. Armstrong was called and reduced the fracture, and the patient is doing as well as could be expected. The break is a bad one, and owing to his advanced age, it will be a long time before he recovers from the shock and confinement.

The largest Mackinac trout caught so far this season in the waters of Pine Lake was landed this afternoon by Severens Balch, son of J. B. Balch of Kalamazoo, prominent Belvedere resorter, who with his father and Ray Ashdon were trolling off the bar at Ironton. It weighed fourteen and a half pounds.

Young Balch made his catch with a light steel casting rod, equipped with a big Delnvan spinner and a medium sized hook. It was an hour before he could get his fish near enough to the boat to see what he looked like and a little over two hours in all was consumed in landing the big fellow. Besides the record breaker, the party caught three other trout averaging three pounds.

The entire village of Eastport was threatened by fire, when the F. P. Hooper restaurant burned to the ground last Monday night, causing a loss of approximately $3,000 with insurance of $1,000. The fire is believed to have caught from a defective chimney.

The fire spread rapidly across the street to a barn owned by the Mrs. Gates estate and this also was destroyed. The flames ran through the grass, burning over several lots, before it was finally extinguished by conservation officer Andrew J. Dunsmore and a crew of men.

The Central Lake fire department was called, but on account of motor trouble, failed to get on the scene until it was too late to do good. Had the wind been in the west, the entire village would probably have been destroyed.

Douglas Bird Arrives Home

With Two Years' Overseas Service, He Has 4 Stars

T-5 Douglas Bird arrived here recently from Fort Sheridan, Ill., to spend a 45-day temporary duty leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bird. He returned recently from two years overseas duty.

T-5 Bird entered the service in October, 1942, and after training at Fort Riley, Kans., went overseas in May, 1943. For the next ten months he was with the First Replacement Depot in Oran, Algeria, as a typist-clerk. In May, 1944, he went to Corsica to join an outfit and await the invasion of the Island of Elba in June, 1944.

On Elba, famous in history as the island to which Napoleon was exiled from France in 1814, the Allied headquarters were set up in the estate built for Napoleon by the people of Elba. While here T-5 Bird was attached to an Allied Liaison Unit and met, for the first time, the Senegalese troops from Africa, the most ruthless fighters in this war. T-5 Bird said the thing that impressed him most about these soldiers was their extreme courtesy not only to their own officers but to the American officers and enlisted men with whom they worked.

From there T-5 Bird's travels took him to southern France a short time after the invasion. Going north they passed through many cities named in news reports last summer and at one time were a few miles from the Swiss border. Last fall he was assigned to an armored unit and with them went into Germany. At the time he left his outfit to return to the States he was within ten miles of the Rhine river.

A month from the time he left his outfit he was home after a trip through northern France and England.

Along with the Good Conduct medal, T-5 Bird wears the European Theatre of Operations ribbon with four campaign stars.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

GEORGE: "Yes, I certainly would like to hear why you call that an old fashioned idea, Judge."

OLD JUDGE: "Glad to tell you, George. Until recently, a person known as an alcoholic was generally treated as a social outcast. Little if anything was done to understand him or help him. But, during the past few years, medical research and study has developed that alcoholics are really sick people . . . that there is usually a deep rooted physical, social or emotional reason behind their behavior. That's why today so much is being done to help them by finding out and correcting the condition that leads them to excess."

GEORGE: "How many folks are there like that, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Well, according to scientific research, 95% of the people who drink, drink sensibly. 5% do so unwisely, at times. Included in that 5% is the small percentage of the sick people I'm talking about."

GEORGE: "That certainly gives me a clearer picture. It's the most sensible approach I've ever heard on the subject."

HOW MUCH TO MOVE A WAR?

AS SOON as we can, we'll bring to bear on the Japs all the additional might we've been using against Germany.

What will it cost, this Moving Day of War?

Estimate it in these terms: The job of moving millions of men from one front to another. Thousands of ships to carry the supplies of battle. Swarms of new-type aircraft to blast the path into enemy territory.

You can get an idea of the cost from the fact that Uncle Sam needs 7 billions from us in the mighty Seventh War Loan—now!

The Seventh War Loan will call for the greatest bond-buying we have ever done.

If you have an income—whether from work, land or capital—you have a quota in the 7th War Loan.

STANDING STILL IS TOUGH GOING
FOR THAT CAR OF YOURS!

SOUNDS FUNNY -- BUT IT'S TRUE! Cars that do a lot of "marking time" in garages actually need more care than cars that are used constantly. That's not just our idea. It's a scientific fact! When a car stands idle, water condenses in the crankcase -- greases tend to dry and harden -- there's a better chance for corrosion . . . to mention just a few of the evils that arise. So don't let the mileage fool you. In Wartime, your car needs regular attention no matter how much or how little you drive it. And that goes double in warm weather!

Michigan Mirror

A city-wise man recently quipped. The farmer and the city man differ in only one respect. They are ignorant about different things.

For example: Did you know that the Brookings Institution, a research agency at Washington, D. C., compiled figures in 1929 showing the working capital of agriculture to be $67.8 billion and of industry $53 billion?

Or that the National Resources Committee, for a later year (1935) arrived at pretty much the same relation?

All of this serves to emphasize, as we see it, the progressive step taken by the Michigan state legislature in its 1945 session to put the state department of agriculture on a business-like basis as to continuity of policies. In the past ten years, prior to the election of Governor Harry F. Kelly, Michigan had five different commissioners. No modern business could prosper with such a haphazard shift of administrators.

Supported by both the Michigan State Grange and the Michigan State Farm Bureau, the bi-partisan commission plan, as approved by the legislature and certain to be signed by the governor, would give policy-making power to a board of five men.

The commissioners, each serving a term of six years, are to be named by Governor Kelly. Two will serve two years, two for four years, and one for six years. Succeeding terms would be all six years in length, thus providing for a long-range continuity of program and in effect removing the department almost entirely from shifts in Michigan politics.

Amendments by the legislature provide that one of the five commissioners must reside in the Upper Peninsula and that the present commissioner, Charles Figy, well-liked and highly efficient, must remain as director until Jan. 1, 1947.

Figy was appointed director in January, 1943, and is serving his second "term" by appointment of the governor. Until the new law, the director will be appointed by the commission and hence removed from the governor's office. This is the system which has been so successful in the state department of conservation where politics were virtually unknown even before the civil service amendment was adopted by the electorate.

The agricultural commissioners attendance at commission meetings, and the legislature put a limit of $225 for their compensation in any 12 months' period. The director's salary was fixed by the legislature to be $7,000.

* * *

A city man's viewpoint on the importance of Michigan agriculture w recently expressed before members of the Detroit Board of Commerce by Roger M. Kyes, president of Harry Ferguson Inc.

Kyes' warnings are significant, for he maintains that the prosperity of this nation is directly dependent upon for the prosperity of agriculture. Here's his reasoning:

Look to history and you will find, even in the Roman times, that "a concentration of the population through urbanization accompanied by additions to the functions of government" was followed by high taxes on agriculture

High taxes forced the farmer to lose ownership of the land.

"No national economy or government has ever survived the destruction of its agriculture, and the United States cannot survive the destruction of its agriculture."

Industry must look to agriculture, says Kyes, for a large part of its future labor supply.

"All over the country, on an average, approximately 40 per cent of those entering urban occupations have come from agriculture in the past. Since city populations are not reproducing themselves, it is inevitable that an increasing proportion of future urban populations must come from rural America."

Kyes pointed out a fact that will surprise many programs. "In 1944—about which people talk as a year of prosperity—if we take the gross income of the United States and subtract the deficit that we created in 1944, the net income of the country was no greater than in the depression year of 1930.

"The cost of performing all sorts of functions has risen in this country so that the cost of production is actually running over us."

It is Kyes' belief that the land must furnish more and more substitutes for the natural resources which we have so generously exploited and used up. Since 65 per cent of our raw materials come from the land, "every individual in this country is dependent upon three and one-half acres of land . . . You had better take care of your three and one-half acres!"

Cities like Detroit "will die on the vine unless we go back and apply the nutrition to the roots of our economy"—the farms and small towns of Michigan.

And so when the legislature takes a progressive and advance step to put its state department of agriculture, like Michigan State college and the agricultural experiment stations, on a long-range program of public service, the philosophy of the Detroit speaker takes on new importance and appreciation.

Printers' Ink, an advertising trade journal, recently observed: "81% of the counties of this country are controlled politically by the rural population. 61% of the house of representatives (Washington) and 72% of the senate are elected by people on farms or in cities under 2,500 population, according to Dr. Franklin Cawl. Principal committees in Congress have a higher per cent of members from rural rather than from urban areas."

How to write a check

1 Date and number each check (to make it easier to balance your checkbook).

2 Fill in payee line with name of person or firm you wish to pay.

3 Write the amount clearly in figures.

4 Write the amount clearly in words, beginning at the extreme left so that no one can insert an extra word that would alter the check.

5 Sign each check with the signature [illegible] you opened your account.

6 Use ink — write plainly — don't erase or alter. If you make an error, draw a new check and destroy the old.

A CHECKING ACCOUNT IS A "PRECISION INSTRUMENT." FOR BEST RESULTS, USE WITH CARE.

Private first class Oliver L. Duplessis, 25, who is stationed in India with a medical unit of the Army Air Forces, hs been awarded the Purple Heart medal for wounds received in action late in March, he has notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duplessis.

Pfc. Duplessis said he was wounded when the Japs bombed their air field. He was hit by shrapnel. He has been in the service since January, 1942, and overseas since July, 1943.

Mrs. E. Josephine Madill left Thursday to spend a week in Flint with her niece, Miss Mary Margaret Orlowski.

WELL, GOD, here we are.

You up there. Me down here, with a burning sun, a mess of insects, too much ocean, and other buddies just as lonely as me.

Oh, God, how nice it must be back home, with Germany licked, and the folks humming, and some of the boys all finished with the fighting.

But I guess that wasn't meant for me, was it? And tomorrow and tomorrow I'll still be dodging bullets, still feeling lost in the middle of the night.

Well, no hard feelings.

I'll go wherever You say, and do whatever You want me to. For You know what's best for me.

But say, if You can only get the people back home to remember me, maybe they'll still bear down. Maybe they'll still send us their blood, still stay on the job, still keep making the stuff we need.

You see, God, I'd like to get home, too.

Chaplain Collins Sends Report of Service Activities

Gives Vivid Account of Country and Peoples In War-Torn Lands

Dear Folks:

Sunday night: back on the job; a small days work done. You want details of my sojourn. But first I must give you what I consider the most important. Two weeks ago I urged the men to gather in the chapel each day of May and say the Rosary. I returned to find that twenty-five and more have been coming faithfully every day so far. A comical note to that. A Sgt. led all the time. This evening I said Mass and came into the hut here to do some business with one of the men. I stood around. Twenty minutes to six, and the Rosary scheduled for a quarter to six. All of a sudden I hear the Sgt. launch forth into the Rosary. I had better be careful or I will lose my job.

Trouble with the lights tonight. Am at present typing with a flashlight hanging from the open neck of my shirt. They are working on the power plant just outside of my tent.

Well, I returned home last nite

Pvt. Elzinga Returns Home

Was Prisoner of Germans Since December 21, Last

Private Martin Elzinga, 36, first Charlevoix man to return home from a German prison camp, summed up his experiences by saying, "I was treated just as I expected to be." "And that," he added, "wasn't too good."

Elzinga arrived home this week, to the complete surprise of his family, who had been notified by the war department that he was safe but didn't know he was already in this country when they received that message. After 60 days at home, he will report at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Mortar gunner with the 106th division, Elzinga was captured December 21 in Germany during the "battle of the bulge," when the Nazi army made a last desperate drive.

Cigarettes, rations and other possessions were taken from the Americans, and in spite of temperature of 10 below zero, their overcoats were also appropriated.

Silver Star Awarded Sergeant Albert Gill

Wounded Three Times, He Finally Gives Up

Albert G. Gill, 27, who was discharged from the army recently after recovering from wounds received in action in France, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action. The citation reads in part.

"Sgt. Albert G. Gill for gallantry in action on November 22, 1944, in France. Sgt. Gill's squad was leading the 3d platoon in an attack when the enemy suddenly opened fire with rifles and machine guns well-emplaced on the crest of a hill. As Sgt Gill skillfully maneuvered his automatic rifle team into an advantageous firing position, the hostile troops launched a savage counter-attack Although painfully wounded in the shoulder, he disdained evacuation and remained to direct his men in helping to repel the assault. The enemy withdrew for reorganization, and, almost immediately, launched a second attack. When his squad's ammunition was almost exhausted, Sgt. Gill, acting on his own initiative, moved across 75 yards of fire-swept terrain to his platoon command post and secured a resupply. While working his way back to the automatic rifle position, he suffered a second severe wound. Litter bearers arrived to evacuate him, but Sgt. Gill, aware that others were in equally urgent need of evacuation, insisted on making his own way to the aid station. Although he was wounded for a third time, he finally succeeded in reaching his destination. His selflessness and intrepidity were a source of

Friends and Enemies... in the VICTORY GARDEN
Mrs. LADY BUG
("Lady Bird")
One of the great destroyers of aphids is the Lady Beetle. Her larvae are especially active in this help for the gardener. Her name comes from the Middle Ages when this beneficial insect was dedicated to the Virgin and called "Beetle of our Lady."
Aphids
Aphids are found on almost all plants, shrubs and trees. Only constant vigilance keeps them down. Lady Bugs eat them, hard rains and dry weather both destroy them but even so a contact spray like black leaf 40 must be used to keep them in check or they may destroy the Victory Garden. Frequent spraying is sometimes necessary..
"Lady Bird, Lady Bird, Fly away home!"
The "fly away home" poem comes from the practice in England of burning hop vines after harvest to kill the aphids. "Little Nan who sits in a pan, weaving laces as fast as she can" is the yellow pupa of the Lady Bird Beetle.

FOOD TALKS

War Food Ass't.

Did you try the Apple sauce rolls last week? Good, were they not? Hope you are well rested from Tuesday night's Women's Achievement at East Jordan Tourist Park. If, according to Mr. Mellencamp, being in crowded quarters makes people better acquainted—all of us who attended Tuesday night's dinner and program should consider one another as very close friends.

Thursday I ate the best canned meat I have ever tasted. Mrs. Vera McGann, how do you do it? Thursday, that was the day some ladies met at the home of Mrs. Charles Withera and we did some "figurin". While we are on the "good food" subject—you should have been with me Friday over in German Settlement—what a dinner! The ladies met with Mrs. Eggersdorf to have their last extension lesson, "Timesavers In Home Sewing." After sewing for twelve children, Mrs. Harry Behling has practiced more time savers than we could mention in one lesson.

When are you homemakers going to send me a recipe?

Monkey Sense

Three monkeys once dining in a cocoanut tree,
Were discussing some things they had heard true to be,
What do you think, now listen you two,
Here Monkeys, is something that cannot be true,
That humans descended from our pure race,
Why it's simply shocking—a terrible disgrace.

Who ever heard of a monkey deserting his wife,
Leave a baby to starve and ruin its life?
And have you ever known of a mother monk
To leave her darling, with strangers to punk?

Their babies are handed from one to another
And scarce ever know the love of a mother,
And I've never known a monkey so selfish to be,
As to build a big fence around a cocoanut tree
So any other monkey can't get a wee taste,
But would let all the cocoanuts there go to waste.

Why, if I'd put a fence around this cocoanut tree,
Starvation would force you to steal from me.

And here is another thing a monkey won't do:
Seek a bootlegger's shanty and get on a stew,
Carouse and make whoopee; disgracing his life,
Then reel madly home and beat up his wife.

They call this all pleasure and make a big fuss—
They've descended from something but not from us.

Canning Gauges

There are women in Charlevoix County who own pressure cookers and have not yet had their gauges tested this year. Much spoilage last year was due to non-checked gauges.

Checking the gauge each year before canning season is a form of insurance. Because a dial type gauge is a delicate instrument, it may in time get out of adjustment. An inaccurate gauge may cause underprocessing, with possible spoilage later; or over-processing with loss of food and flavor.

It is not necessary to have a weighted type gauge tested,—it will just need a good cleaning.

To have your gauge checked, unscrew it from the cover and bring it in to the County Agent's office. If I am not in you can leave the gauge and I will send it to you. Or drop me a card telling me where you live and perhaps I would be able to come to your home and check your complete cooker. (Ed. note—Lack of space presents more canning news. However, it will be resumed in next issue.

He can't ask you now!

• • • He's an American hero. After fighting bloody battles in the Pacific, he was home on leave two years ago.

• • • You may remember seeing his picture. His name is John Basilone, Marine Gunnery Sergeant. He traveled all over America, urging every American to buy more bonds.

• • • He said: "You don't know—you can't know—how much it means to the boys out there when they hear the folks back home have just put another War Bond Drive over the top."

• • • They gave him the Congressional Medal of Honor and offered him a commission. He didn't want it. "I'm a plain soldier," he said. "I want to stay one."

• • • Well, he stayed a plain Marine—like Joe and Bill and the fellows down the street. He can't ask you to buy bigger bonds during the Seventh. He was killed a few weeks ago on Iwo, just after he had led his assault team to the edge of an airfield we needed desperately.

• • • We can't let him and all our other fighting heroes down. Remember, last year we had two War Loan Drives by this time.

The Seventh is our personal call to arms—two drives in one. That's why our quota is large.

• • • We must meet it—we will meet it—for the hero of Iwo—for Victory—for pride in America.

Memorial Day has come again,
Has chased away a year;
Brought us to this place again,
The place of memories, dear.

On land or sea or in the air,
Martyr's, Martyr's, everywhere;
The challenge comes to you and me
To stand right by 'till Victory.

Some mothers gave their only son,
Sweethearts gave their beau;
To make a safer place to live
Here in this world below.

Some fought high in the air,
Some sailed the foaming sea;
Every man must fight somewhere
If we would now be free.

Heroes are not born — they're made,
They come from office, bench or trade;
Doners, Docter's or Nurses be,
What we need for Victory.

Let's remember human weakness
And all our failures too;
We must have the Great Commander
Or we never can go through.

Shall we not bow our heads in grief?
Shall we not think of them
Who stood on yonder battlefield
And died out there like men?

PVT. ELZINGA RETURNS HOME

Elzinga went first to Stalag IV B, at Muhlberg, remained there four days and then was moved to Stalag IV F, 40 miles southwest.

The prison was an abandoned, unheated theater building with barred windows. Here they slept on sawdust, with one thin blanket apiece. Many nights, Elzinga said, he heard men crying with the pain of their freezing feet. The prison menu was simple: breakfast, one cup of coffee brewed from scorched barley; lunch, soup made of watered turnips; dinner, one loaf of bread to be divided among nine men. Should any prisoner do anything to earn the guards' displeasure, all prisoners were deprived of even these meager rations for a day. Elzinga's weight dropped from about 150 to 110 pounds.

When liberated by American troops on April 17, the prisoners had one desire — food, and as much of it as quickly as possible. They butchered cattle and pigs, and cooked and ate all night and all the next day. Sick? Of course, but they went right on eating. They billeted themselves in civilian homes and lived like human beings for the first time in months.

Elzinga went by plane from Berlin to Paris, they came to New York on an American ship. During the eight-day voyage home, he began to regain his lost weight so that by the time he arrived in Charlevoix, he had reached his normal weight and now shows little effect of his four months' imprisonment.

great inspiration to all who witnesed his deeds. His gallant action reflects great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States."

Sgt. Gill, who entered the service in September, 1942, went overseas in March, 1944. He was serving an infantry of the Seventh Army when the aforementioned action took place. He was returned to the United States late in January and was discharged this month.

After visiting his mother, Mrs. Fred Gill, here, he and his wife plan to make their home in Wisconsin.

CHAPLAIN COLLINS SENDS REPORT

at midnight. And the most remarkable feature of that ride was that part of the trip made in a C54. Remember my telling you about the beautiful ship and how much I admired those I have seen? Little did I think that the privilege of riding in one would come my way. Just a wonderful trip, and a fast trip. I was sure that we would not get here for Sunday when we stopped part way down in the afternoon. But they shoved me onto this ship when I told them that if all possible I had to make it for today or lose my job. It was nearly two before a man came for me and I got to bed.

Left here May 1st. Had a beautiful and delightful plane ride up. Went by a circuitous route. Stopped into a Casual Camp in the Palau Islands. The pilots told me coming in: The finest Casual Camp this side of San Francisco. And they were not exaggerating. Run by the Marines, it really is a spot. Why, the plane propellers had hardly stopped and the Sgt. just opened the door. An officer was right there with a truck. "Hurry, gentlemen; hot coffee and doughnuts waiting for you at the club." A wonderful set-up and they were just grand to us. Had my first glimpse of a Jap pill-box. Boy, what an affair; oval top, thick steel; on top of that all over concrete reinforced, poured, at least a foot thick.

Out of there the next morning and finally hit Mindoro. Was fortunate to get a B25 immediately for Clark Field. That is, of course, a large field. I did not get to see much of it, awful hot and dusty. I just got under cover when a heavy rain came down. Nice and cool after the rain. I called an Ack Ack outfit and the Colonel sent his jeep after me. Stayed in his nice camp over night. Next morning the priest sent his driver and jeep to take me into the big City. A very interesting trip along a highway which was good most of the way. Some bridges out, but pontoon bridges in now. The most interesting thing to me was the seemingly endless stream of Filipino vehicles, a carriage like our old buggies. The cart pulled by horses just a little larger than ponies. One horse to a carriage. And the whole family in each carriage; hanging all over the place. Hundreds of them on the highway. That made travelling slow. Some of the carriages were drawn by carribou. The country looked nice and green, but the homes and villages were abject squalor. Some of the vistages of war having passed, but not many. In the villages most of the native huts had a little tiny shop of some kind or other on the ground floor, in what might be termed the living room of our houses.

Passed along a narrow gauge railroad which skirts the highway. The rolling stock that we saw was ruined. First railroad that I had seen in a long time! What amazed me was the great number of nice shiny cars we saw on the road: looked like brand new Fords, Chevvies, Oldsmohiles. Of course, some of old vintage too. One Model T Ford looked strange. I understand that they could not get gas during the occupation or else the Japs were using the cars, when they left people grabbed them. Most were being used by the Filipino government people. On the way had to stop into an Army Office in San Fabian. The office was in an old mansion, a large and beautiful house. Occupied by the Japs and not much damaged. Quite an interesting piece. Very high ceilings. The first floor first story outer wall of cement; the second of wood. A large square house. I sat in the office on the second floor. Had to come up the wide wooden stairs, the ceiling very high (everywhere that is true, because of the heat).

On to the big City. Friends, you and I read magazine descriptions. We heard news casts. But no one of us could possibly realize the awful destruction wrecked upon Manila. It is appalling. Ruin, wanton ruin, everywhere. Very few buildings left standing and most of them partially wrecked or at least burned. I saw a good deal of the City, the sight of it makes your heart bleed; such useless destruction. Many streets are still impassable; filled with debris. Your heart sinks when you go down what must have been a residential section for the middle class people. As far as your eyes can reach in any direction, flat, just rubble; everything burned or blown up. Most of the home, of course were burned. You heard and read about down town Manila. The pictures that you saw do not do justice to the havoc there. Every single building in that spacious section gutted. Here you see a roofless pile of debris in the hollow shell of a building; one thick concrete wall hanging periously at an angle, two walls completely blown out. Building after building. I tell you it is horrible. And the old walled city you have read so much of it and heard about it. Our artillery did a good job on the walls and the building inside, but the dirty Japs made it necessary. Seven churches including the old cathedral, completely destroyed.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

GEORGE: "Yes, I certainly would like to hear why you call that an old fashioned idea, Judge."

OLD JUDGE: "Glad to tell you, George. Until recently, a person known as an alcoholic was generally treated as a social outcast. Little if anything was done to understand him or help him. But, during the past few years, medical research and study has developed that alcoholics are really sick people . . . that there is usually a deep-rooted physical, social or emotional reason behind their behavior. That's why today so much is being done to help them by finding out and correcting the condition that leads them to excess."

GEORGE: "How many folks are there like that, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Well, according to scientific research, 95% of the people who drink, drink sensibly. 5% do so unwisely, at times. Included in that 5% is the small percentage of the sick people I'm talking about."

GEORGE: "That certainly gives me a clearer picture. It's the most sensible approach I've ever heard on the subject."

Lee Mapes Sticks His Neck Out

We had a meeting at the Town Hall Friday night, and when Homer Bently spoke up for a new roof for the schoolhouse, Lee Mapes interrupts him.

"How long you been in this town?" Lee demands.

"Fourteen years," says Homer proudly.

"Then you keep quiet," says Lee. "We can't have transients running things in our town."

I'm glad to report that all of us voted Lee down and let Homer have his say. I'm glad not just because the school did need a new roof, but because it doesn't do to let intolerance and prejudice creep into a community.

Whether a man's stayed "put" a lifetime or a year, whether he works with his head or his hands, drinks beer or buttermilk—so long as he's a good American he has a right to speak his mind, and have his opinions (however different they may be) respected.

Charlie Fox, another old timer, called on me, he came to Norwood in 1887, and lived for sometime with Tim Pearl, just south of Norwood. He said that he was in the Coast Guard Station in Charlevoix some time ago. This was the first I hnd seen him since 1898. He is now living in Norwood.

Charlie Wells has been in this territory doing a lot of plowing with his tractor.

My neighbors very often bring me in a special dish so thnt I won't get tired of my own cooking. The other day it was a dish of baked beans and were they good! It pat me in mind of the days when the peddlers were going from house to house all through the country. This was way back in the 70's. I think it happened in Antrim City territory near the Rex Beach farm, anyhow this peddler happened along just before supper and asked if he could put up for the night. The farmer said they had very little room in the log house and just did not have a place for him to sleep. Being right in haying time Mr. Peddler said he had a blanket and could sleep on the hay which fixed that out O. K. For supper, the farmer's wife had baked beans and they were so good that the farmer had to tell the peddler he would just have to quit eating beans as that was all they had for breakfast, which he did. (Editor's Note: The balance of this story is censored, according to the ethics of the publishing profession. To those who have not heard the "bean" story, no doubt "Bill" will be glad to tell you orally.

THE 7TH WAR LOAN IS ON!

Yes, the Seventh War Loan is on right now!

There are new planes to be built . . . new tanks . . . new ships. All to bring the war to an earlier close.

Our fighting men will do their job. But we must do ours!

And right now, the most important job we have is to meet our personal quotas in the Seventh War Loan drive!

Those quotas are big. Uncle Sam needs $7,000,000,000 from individuals. For this loan is really 2 in 1—there had been 2 drives in 1944, by this time. So now—we've got to do a two-loan job in one.

But Americans have never failed to meet a War Bond quota yet—and we won't fail now! So find out what your quota is—and meet it!

FIND YOUR QUOTA . . . AND MAKE IT!
